The case was gone into pretty thoroughly and the evidence was so entirely damaging to the prisoner that Judge Reynolds hardly hesitated a minute in making up his decision which was that the prisoner be remanded to jail without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

The second step has been taken now in this awful tragedy and from the evidence so far introduced it appears that the first reports of the killing were fairly accurate and that Mr. Beardon was done to death without cause and that the slayer planned with deliberate intent the killing of this peaceable husband and father.

SUNDAYSCHOOL CONVENTION AT SARDIS

One of the largest crowds that has assembled at any recent convention met at Sardis church last Sunday to take part n the services there that day. The order was perfect all day and everybody had an enjoyable time. Not least among the pleasures of the occasion was the sumptious dinner spread by these good people and in such quantity that everybody had plenty.

The services were opened by Rev. J. D. Deason with a most spiritual devotional exercise.

"The Sundayschool and its Relation to the Social Problem" was the first number on the program and was discussed in many of its details by Professor H. A. Harris and Mr. J. L. Johnson.

"Selling the Sundayschool" was the second number and was most interestingly discussed by Mr. J. J Pickens.

After partaking of the elegant dinner served by the good ladies of the Sardis community and others, Rev. C. A. Taylor opened the exercises by a short and impressive devotional exercise, after which he discussed ably the subject of "The Importance and How to Secure Good Teachers for the Sundayschool."

The next subject was "The Contact of the Teacher with the Pupil." Rev. P. G. Carter was on the program for this address, but he being absent Mr. J. J. Pickens was requested to fill the place, which he did most efficiently.

After a short business session the convention adjourned with everybody happy and greatly pleased by this splendid and instructive meeting. The good people of Sardis are certainly to be congratulated on the excellent entertainment they tendered the large crowd.

Mrs. Collins Dies

Mrs. Mollie Thacker Collins, of Siluria, died in Clanton Friday morning and was buried the following morning at Collins Chapel, Rev. W. P. Lowery officiating at the grave.

Mrs. Collins was 52 years of age and her death was caused by a violent attack of double pneumonia. She leaves a husband, ten children and seventeen grandchildren, besides numerous other relatives who all are sadly bereaved by her death.

ISABELLA NEWS

Dear Editor and Readers:

Will you please give me space in your much appreciated paper to express a thought, which is moral uplift?

In our Sunday school lessons for the past few months we notice under the leadership of Godly kings, the kingdom prospered in every way, they grew in wealth and they grew in wisdom, and the strength of the nations were increased, but on the other hand where the leader or king left God and God's worship out disaster came. So we see the morals of a county, state or country never exceed the morals of its leadership. It should therefore, be a part of the program of Christain people to put into position of political power men and women who seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness. This does not even squint at the union of church and state, it means elevation of moral and political life to the highest level. The main problems are all moral problems, and this is true in national affairs as in others. Let us put men at the head of the county and state who are christain men, and let every true citizen realize he or she has a perfect right to see that the laws of our county are enforced. We can come together with the right sort of officers and put down the evils of the county to a minimum. Just a blind tiger and lawlessness caused the tragedy at Maplesville last Sunday. Mr. John Ed Bearden killed and a youth in jail, and this is the out come of imorality and lawlessness.

Mrs. Maud DeShazo has returned home much improved, after an operation at a hospital in Birmingham. Her aunt, Mrs. Emma Allen from Florida, will spend a month with her. Mrs. Allen was reared in this community and her friends and relatives are glad to have her with them.

Miss Eleanor Summers and Mrs. Kirby L. Summers spent last week at Vincent, Ala., with their grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Summers.

Mr. R. L. Davenport and family from Thorsby spent Saturday and Sunday in this community.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Peters the past week and brought a boy.

A number of our folks from this community attended the convention at Sardis.

LOCAL and PERSONAL

Mr. C. B. Cox, who is engaged in an immense road building project in Marshall County, was home to see the family and his many friends here this week.

There must be something wrong with the Clanton boys. As many pretty girls as there are here ought to insure at least thirty June weddings—one per day.

Social circles are in a whirl this week. Commencement is on at the High School.

Rev. W. S. Cox, of the Mulberry district spent a day or so in town this week.

Dr. Sam Johnson, who is attached to the medical department of the Navy and has been stationed for two years at Memphis, has been transferred by the department to Raleigh, N. C. He came by home and spent a day or so with relatives and friends here this week. Dr. Sam is making a fine record and stands way up in the service.

This is commencement week at Chilton High and the city his many visitors attending the exercises.

Mr. Leonard Williams is having his house on West 2nd Avenue transformed into a beautiful bungalow. He will have a lovely home when he gets it completed.

Work on the Stanfield home, recently purchased by Mrs. Guy Higgins, is going forward nicely and when finally finished no home in the city will be more convenient and attractive.

The city dads are having quite a lot of splendid street improvements carried forward now.

Mr. J. F. Williams, a prominent business man and leading citizen of Verbena, was in town the latter part of last week.

Joe Calloway attended the Sunday School Convention at Sardis last Sunday.

H. A. Harris, J. J. Pickens, J. L. Johnson and Mr. Andy Wilson were among the large number of people who went to Sardis last Sunday to attend the Sunday School Convention.

A large number of the prominent citizens of beat 7 were here Monday attending the preliminary trial of Milton McCormick charged with delibertely killing Mr. John Ed Bearden.

Mr. Walter Lenoir and wife, of Jemison, were among those who attended the seventh grade exercises at the county high school last Saturday.

Mrs. M. A. Plier has gone to Indianapolis, Ind., to visit her daughter, Mrs. Frank Leonard.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hosey, Mrs Gordon Jones and her son, Hubert, were at the Sunday School Convention last Sunday held at Sardis church.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin visited Mrs. Martin's father and mother at Ensley last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Georgia Wilbanks.

Editor W. M. Wyatt and the business manager of the News, went down to Montgomery last week to be present at the meeting of the Alabama Press Association.

J. L. Williams, of Route 4, was here Saturday on a business mission.

Mr. Henry Robinson, of Beat 9, was in town Saturday looking after business matters. Mr. Robinson is one of the true type of citizens on which the future of our "American Republic" depends.

DON'T FORGET the DATES. The Redpath Chautauqua will be in Clanton June 13, 14, and 15. As you know it is the best Chautauqua in the United States.

What's the matter with our Clanton folks? Looks like we ought to have a raido concert arrangement here. Are we going to Thorsby to get our ideas of modern up-to-dateness?

HOSPITAL NOTES

All patients at the Hospital are doing remarkably well and while they have some extremely serious cases up there to handle the present prospect is that all have a splendid chance to recover. They have one very malignant typhoid fever case to cope with but the latest report from this case was that the symptoms were more favorable and that ultimate recovery was highly probable.

Mr. W. F. Childers who was operated on for appendicitis some ten days since, is sitting up now and will be able to go home the last of the week.

Mrs. Morris Gray who underwent a very serious operation last Saturday is convalescing splendidly now and will soon be all right again.

The smiles on the faces of the farmers we meet on the streets is a sure indication of how much they appreciate the fine weather of the past few days.

Growing Old Too Soon?

Are you one of those unfortunate folks who finds yourself feeling older than you should? Do you feel lame and stiff mornings; drag through the day with a constantly aching back? Evening find you utterly worn-out? Then look to your kidneys. Present day life puts a heavy burden on the kidneys. They slow up and poisons accumulate and upset blood and nerves. Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

An Alabama Case

P. M. Petrel, 408 Pittsburgh Ave., Sheffield, Ala., says: "My kidneys were sluggish in action and the secretions highly colored. There was a soreness and a dull heavy ache through the small of my back. I felt miserable until I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I at once became cured of all the trouble and have never been bothered since."

COUNTIES MUST PROVIDE FUNDS

SUPREME COURT RULES APPROPRIATIONS FOR ERADICATION OF TICKS MUST BE PROVIDED.

TEST CASE IS AFFIRMED

Decision Based On Legislature Making Appropriations Mandatory Duty of Various Counties.

Montgomery—When the Legislature passed the law in 1919 providing for the eradication of margaropus annulatus (better known as cattle tick) it put upon the various counties the mandatory duty of providing revenue for the anti-tick campaign and no county can refuse to appropriate the funds, according to a decision of the Supreme Court.

The Mobile County Board of Revenue voted to discontinue the tick eradication work for the winter and decided not to make further appropriations. Mr. Batchelor, a citizen, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus requiring the board to continue the work and to make the appropriations. The board attacked the State law, contending that it was unconstitutional. It insisted that the caption contained two subjects. The lower court granted the writ of mandamus to Batchelor.

The Supreme Court affirmed the lower court in all particulars, held the law to be valid and decided that the board of revenue cannot use its discretion about making the appropriations. As long as the law is on the statute books and ticks are on the cows, the board must continue its part.

Plan Relief For Convict Families.

Montgomery—Mrs. L. B. Bush, director of the state child welfare department in a letter to all circuit judges and sheriffs in Alabama, has requested them to advise her concerning all needly families of convicts now serving terms in the penitentiary and their location. It is her purpose to have agents of the department visit these families and assist in providing some means for their support and comfort until the husband, father or other relative who has heretofore supported them, is released from custody. Through this plan, it is believed much want and possible suffering can be prevented.

Grant Petition.

Montomery—Permisison was granted to the Arkansas-Alabama Lumber Company in a decision rendered by the Alabama Public Service Commission to begin proceedings for condemnation of a right of way over the tracks of the Birmingham and Southeastern Railroad. The commission was divided in the decision, however. B. H. Cooper dissented from the decision of President A. G. Patterson and S. P. Gaillard, granting the lumber company's petition. During the session the Arkansas-Alabama Company filed a petition seeking to condemn another right of way in Elmore County. The property over which the right of way is desired is a 40-acre tract belonging to Dr. E. R. Lett.

Foundry Resumes Operation.

Tuscaloosa—After being closed for a long while, No. 3 foundry at Holt resumed operations and between 100 and 125 men were put to work. No definite time was given when the two other foundries will be put into operation, but it is presumed just as soon as sufficient orders are received to warrant it. Holt is beginning to appear like old times when all of the big plants were running on full time with hundreds of employes.

To Operate Night and Day.

Gadsden—The wire mill of the Gulf States Steel Company will begin night operations this week for the first time since the war. The department will go on double turn because of the improvement of business, orders coming in now at a fairly rapid rate. Other departments will continue as they have for some time.

To Hold Trade Day.

Anniston—Plans were laid by the advertising club for the June Trade Day. At the luncheon meeting of the club it was decided to distribute $150 among those who do their trading on the June bargain day, June 6, and to add to the bargain offerings until the June event will be the greatest yet held.

Official Test Successful.

Mobile—The government $4,000,000 coal terminal, completed after a delay of several weeks, performed its functions properly during official tests. Col. G. M. Hoffman, member of the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, accompanied by Maj. Earl North, United States District engineer in Mobile, inspected the terminal and Major North explained the various features of the giant plant. Colonel Hoffman came from Washington to be present during the official test.

STATE LOSES SUIT AGAINST WESTERN UNION

Arguments were made before the supreme court in the two cases brought by the state against the Western Union Telegraph company in an effort to collect penalties totaling $914,000 and to require the telegraph company to restore service to 21 towns on the branch lines of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, which was abandoned nearly two years ago. The state lost both cases in the Montgomery Circuit Court. It contends that the company is due the state a penalty for every day it failed to maintain service and that the Public Service Commission had the right to require it to continue to give the people of the 21 towns a telegraph service. The company insisted that it was necessary to abandon service after it was ordered to vacate the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad and it was not physically possible to move the poles and wires to another right of way.

Case of Unusual Facts.

Montgomery—Mrs. Mary W. Aldridge will be able to collect $2.500 from the Dye-Washburn Hotel Company, under the decision of the Supreme Court in a case involving unusual facts. Mrs. Aldridge was a guest of the hotel. Another guest became disturbed by flies and began chasing them. He struck at them with a towel which dislocated a screen in a window. The screen fell on a skylight and the skylight fell on Mrs. Aldridge. She was wounded and brought suit for $100,000. The jury gave a judgment for $2,500. The Supreme Court affirmed the judgment and overruled an application for rehearing.

Great Paper Growing Greater.

Birmingham—Tremendous increase in the net paid circulation of the Birmingham News in the past six months have crowded the cicrulation department until, even with the use of the News garage, on the adjoining lot, the erection of an addition has become necessary. The circulation department of the News four and a half years ago, when the present building was erected, was given room for the 35,000 circulation of the News and expansion room of about 50 per cent. With the present circulation of more than 66,000 daily and more than 72,000 Sunday, the quarters have become too cramped to permit efficient operation. Consequently this addition was made necessary.

State School Shows Progress.

Jacksonville—According to the report of Dr. C. W. Daugette, president of the State Normal School here, the enrollment for the regular session 1921-22 is 451 and for the summer session 610; total resident attendance, preparing for teaching, 852; non-resident students, 713; number of children in the training school 714, making a total of 1,565 teachers; a grand total of 1,730 receiving instruction. The counties represented in the resident enrollment are 43. Of this enrollment 443 are of high school education or more.

Seek Immediate Road Repair.

Hartselle—A large delegation from here attended a session of the county board of revenue in session at Decatur. The delegation went before the board seeking some relief from alleged bad conditions which prevail at this time on the Wes Pike between here and Danville. They made a strong representation to the board that work begin on resurfacing this stretch. A large travel comes daily over this stretch of road and it is imperative that something be done to make it passable, it is declared.

Strawberry Crops Ruined

Hartselle — Hundreds of dollars worth of strawberries have rotted in the fields here during the past 10 days on account of the continued and excessive rainfall. Two heavy rains were exceedingly disastrous. The wind did some damage here blowing some of the nice shade trees down on Main Street near the Christian Church.

Raise Funds With Bonds.

Jasper—The special election held in Jasper to determine whether the city should authorize the issuance of $50,000 of bonds for funding the floating debt of the city of Jasper, resulted in a "win" for the issuance of bonds—the result of the vote being 251 for the bond issue and 65 against. Part of this sum will be used for payment of debts incurred by the city of Jasper for the paving of the principal streets of the city and around the government building.

School Bonds Win.

Sulligent—Sulligent voted 134 to 6 in favor of issuing $10,000 in school bonds. The $10,000 building Sulligent already has is inadequate to accommodate the increasing population. The plan is to build another $10,000 building additional.

Elect Delegates

Gadaden—At a meeting of the League of Women Voters delegates were elected to represent Etowah County at the state convention in Montgomery.

Child Training at Home

HABIT FORMATION

By OLIVE ROBERTS
University of Montana.

MOTHERS are often heard to say, "My children have such untidy habits, and I don't seem to be able to break them. I talk all day long, but it doesn't do any good."

No mother needs to endure her children's untidy habits, or any other undesirable habits, if she goes about training in the right way, and is willing to take a little trouble to carry it out. Four simple rules based on psychology, may serve to give such mothers an insight into the means of forming right habits. If carried out faithfully, these rules cannot fail to produce results.

First decide for yourself what habit you wish to form. Then start enthusiastically and determinedly to break the old and launch the new one. Say to your children, "Beginning today, we are all going to hang up our wraps, and put our books and rubbers in the proper places when we come home from school. Let's see who remembers every time, and doesn't have to have mother tell her once about it." Arouse as much enthusiasm as you can about the matter. Be careful that you do not start to break and form anew too many habits at one time. Select one or two habits to work out, and keep at them until you are reasonably sure that they are well fixed. Then start on another.

May Be Hard Task.

Second, permit no exceptions to occur after you have once started. No matter how good the intentions of the children are, they will lapse into the old ways after a few days. That is when you will have to work. You will find that eternal vigilance on your part will be the price of your children's good habits. When Mary comes home in a hurry to go out to play, she will throw her books on the nearest chair. Don't say, "Oh, well, she is little, and it is hard to remember all the time. I'll let it go this time." That is where you will fail. Even though Mary has already gone away to play, she should be called back immediately and told in a kind manner, "You forgot your books today. Put them away, and then you may go to play." One or two experiences of that kind will soon make Mary more careful.

Third, repeat the desirable action as often as possible. We all know that the habit is most firmly fixed which we have been practicing longest. Seize every occasion to perform the act which you wish to become a habit, and its acquisition will come all the sooner.

Do Not Depend on Talking.

Last of all, act, don't talk. Professor James says, in his Talks to Teachers: "Don't preach too much or abound in good talk in the abstract." When Mary throws her coat on the floor and her rubbers in the middle of the hall, don't tell her that nice little girls don't do those things, or that she is a careless girl and should know better, and a great deal more to that effect. Simply call her as soon as you discover what she has done, and tell her quietly and good-naturedly to put her things away immediately, and then see that she does it. Such treatment as this is far more effective than mere talking.

THE KINDERGARTEN A NECESSITY; NOT A LUXURY

P. P. Claxton, federal commissioner of education, has said that during the year 1920, the American people spent more for luxuries than they have spent on education in the entire history of the country.

This nation, with its vast resources can well afford to provide all of its children with every educational advantage, beginning with the kindergarten, and when we come to recognize in prevalent waves of crime, anarchy and unrest, the tragic results of neglecting the impressionable years of childhood, the kindergarten will be considered a necessity, not a luxury.

GETTING STARTED RIGHT, IS ADVICE OF HENRY C. WALLACE.

Every farmer knows that success in producing fine stock depends upon getting the young animals started right.

The number of drafted men rejected for physical disability during the war shows that we need to pay more attention to building up our children physically. The kindergarten, with its admirable system of physical culture, and its sunny, airy rooms, where the children spend three happy hours each school day, furnishes the best possible environment, and physical as well as intellectual and social training.

It is too bad that kindergartens are not available for a far larger percentage of our children. Early training such as is given in the kindergarten should make healthier children, and better children in every way.—Henry C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Omaha Citizen Says He is Now Rid of Troubles That Had Kept Him Miserable for Years.

"I was almost out of commission when I began taking Tanlac, but it has made me feel like a new man in a short time," said W. S. Meadville, 7604 North Twenty-ninth St., Omaha, Neb.

"My liver and kidneys were out of order and I had terrible pains in my back and sides and was so bad off I often had to stay in bed for two weeks at a time.

"The results I got from Tanlac were a very glad surprise to me. It benefited me in every way and I believe the improvement I received will prove lasting and I feel stronger and better than in many a day."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

MRS. HATFIELD SABINA, OHIO

In Pitiable Condition when she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and irregularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. I was this way for about a year and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but to no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my housework without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish."—Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 8, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial. It surely helped Mrs. Hatfield, just as it has many, many other women.

HILKIAH'S GREAT DISCOVERY

LESSON TEXT.—II Chron. 34:14-33.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path. —Ps. 119:105.

REFERENCE MATERIAL.—Deut. 6:6-9; Josh. 1:8; Col. 3:16; II Tim. 2:15; 3:14-16.

PRIMARY TOPIC.—How the Lost Bible Was Found.

JUNIOR TOPIC.—Hilkiah Discovers the Lost Bible.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC. —How to Make the Bible Our Own.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC. —The Authority and Influence of the Bible.

About a hundred years elapsed between the reformation under Hezekiah and that of Josiah. Some time during this time the book of God's law had been lost. Two wicked kings had reigned in this interval. The Lord had given Hezekiah much wealth. His son Manasseh, coming into possession of his father's property, and being ungodly, would naturally neglect the Bible, if not purposely try to put it from sight. Those who do not obey the law of God, are usually interested in putting it out of sight.

I. The Book of the Law Found (vv. 14-17).

1. The Occasion (v. 14). It was while repairing the temple during Josiah's reformation that the law was discovered.

2. The Book Delivered to the King (vv. 15-17). Upon making a report to the king of work done, the king was told of the finding of the book of the law by Hilkiah, and the book delivered to him.

II. The Effect of the Reading of the Law (vv. 18-28).

Shaphan the Scribe read the law before the king.

1. The King Rent His Clothes (v. 19). As the law was read before him he was led to realize more seriously the awful extent of the nation's departure from God. He knew that sin merited punishment. The function of the law is to reveal sin. The man who will honestly hear the demands of God's law will fall upon his knees before God and cry for mercy. The rending of the royal robes indicated that the king was penitently sorrowful.

2. The King Sent a Deputation to Make Inquiry of the Lord (vv. 20, 21). The king included himself in the guilt before God. "Go inquire for me and for them that are left, for great is the wrath of the Lord that is poured out upon us." His sense of sin was so keen that he sent them to inquire as to whether there was any means of averting the judgments of the Lord. Instinctively the human heart turns from God's threatening judgments to a means of escape. The soul that sorrows for sin inquires for a way of escape. The law prepares for the gospel. The law is our schoolmaster to bring us to Christ. The soul under condemnation inquires, "What must I do to be saved?"

3. The Message of Huldah, the Prophetess (vv. 22-28). (1) Confirmation of what the law said (vv. 22-25). She said that all the curses written in the law must fall, for the sins had been so flagrant that God's wrath could not be restrained. Destruction was hanging over Jerusalem and it was too late to avert it. It was not too late to repent to obtain mercy from God, but the outward consequence of sin must be realized. This finds fulfillment on every hand today. The murderer must hang. His soul may go directly to heaven, provided he has accepted Jesus Christ. (2) Acceptance of Josiah's repentance (vv. 26-28). Because of his tenderness of heart and deep penitence, the Lord said he should be gathered to his grave in peace, and should not see all the evil to be brought on Jerusalem and its people. What Huldah said was true even though Josiah died in battle (35: 23-25). When God accepts a man and forgives him, his death is a peaceful one even though it may be on the battlefield. God's presence is with him and he thus will go straight to the heavenly home.

III. The Law Obeyed (vv. 29-33).

1. The King Read the Law (vv. 29, 30). He gathered together the inhabitants of Jerusalem, including the priests, Levites and elders, and read unto them the law.

2. The King Made a Covenant Before the Lord to Keep His Commandments and Testimonies (vv. 31, 32). This was done sincerely—with all his heart and soul. He caused all that were present to stand to it.

3. The king took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to Israel (v. 33). All the days of the king they departed not from following after the Lord.

He Will Save You.

When you feel as if things were dragging you down into the depths will you remember that the Lord Jesus Christ is at your side? All human help may seem very far away; but He is not far away. Even through the noise of the storm He can hear the faintest cry, "Lord save me, I perish," and He will save you to the uttermost.

Adversity.

Adversity is the first path to truth.—Byron.

BEET NEMATODES SPREAD BY DIRT

Refuse From Dumps Apparently Is Most Common Means of Spreading Parasites.

CROP ROTATION IS FAVORED

When Pests Are Found in Locality, Action Should Be Taken by Whole Community to Prevent Spread—Some Good Rules.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dirt from the beet dumps apparently is the most common means of spreading the sugar-beet nematode and should be the first to receive attention in planning control measures, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1248, The Sugar Beet Nematode in the Western States, prepared by Gerald Thorne and L. A. Giddings and now ready for distribution by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Prevent Scattering Soil.

Since the removal of dirt from the dumps seems to be the only practical method of disposing of the thousands of tons of soil annually screened from the beets, says the bulletin, precautions must be taken to prevent scattering the soil containing nematodes. Wagon boxes should be tight enough to prevent soil jarring out along the roads and in the fields. Dump dirt should be disposed of in holes, swamps, or waste corners where there is the least danger of its being scattered.

The practice of growing beets year after year on the same field gives the nematodes an excellent opportunity of becoming established if they are once introduced. A definite system of crop rotation is said to be advisable with not more than two years of beets in succession. The fertility of the soil will thus be maintained, and much of the danger from insect pests and plant diseases will be avoided at the same time.

Make It Community Affair.

When nematodes are found in a locality, action should immediately be taken to prevent their spread, the bulletin advises. This should be made a community affair, and the following measures are being adopted by some of the farm bureaus:

One of the Many Widely Varying Types of Sugar Beets Found in Commercial Fields.

The sugar company operating in the district is requested to refuse contracts for beets grown on soil that is known to be infested with the sugar-beet nematodes.

When infested soil happens to be planted the owner and the sugar company are to make arrangements for handling the beets from the infested areas separately and not allow the infested beets to go through the dumps while other beets are being handled.

The practice of throwing dump dirt along public highways should be prohibited, by law if necessary.

Copies of the bulletin may be had free by making a request to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FRESHENING TIME IMPORTANT

Has Considerable to Do With Amount of Profit Cow Returns—Fall Is Favored.

The time of the year that a cow freshens has considerable to do with the profit she returns. An analysis of the figures obtained from many cow-testing associations shows that in most sections the cows that freshen during the fall and early winter produce the most milk and butter fat, and bring in the greatest profit over cost of feed.

BUY ONLY BEST DAIRY COWS

Selection of Most Profitable Producers at Start Determines Success of Herd.

The profit to be made from a dairy herd depends largely upon the selection of good dairy cows to start with. It requires from 50 to 75 per cent of the feed a cow is capable of consuming to maintain her body, it is therefore much cheaper to produce, say, 80 gallons of milk with ten cows than with 15 cows.

LAST-MINUTE HINTS FOR CHICK SUCCESS

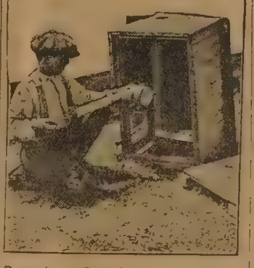
Let Hen Remain on Nest for 24 Hours After Hatching.

Use Good Insect Powder or Sodium Fluorid Two Days Before Little Fellows Are Due to Arrive—Use Grease Carefully.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When the hen is hatching she should not be disturbed except to remove the shells, unless she becomes uneasy and steps on or picks the chicks. In such cases the chicks should be removed as soon as dry. Place them in a basket or box lined with flannel or some other soft material and cover the top, keeping the basket or box in a warm place until the eggs left under the hen are hatched.

Hens should be fed as soon as possible after the eggs are hatched, as feeding tends to keep them quiet; otherwise, many hens will leave the nest. In most cases it is best that the hen remain on the nest and brood the chicks for at least 24 hours after the hatching is over. Hens will successfully brood ten to fifteen chicks early in the breeding season and eighteen to twenty-five in warm weather, depending upon the size of the hen, so that often two broods of chicks which hatch at the same time can be put together and raised under one hen.



Preparing a Coop for Hen and Chicks.

Powder the hen with a good insect powder or with sodium fluorid two days before the chicks are due to hatch. If lice appear on the chicks, or if they are troubled with "head lice," a very little grease, such as lard or vaseline, may be applied with the fingers on the head, neck, under the wings, and around the vent. Great care should be taken, however, not to get too much grease on the chicks, as it will stop their growth and in some cases prove fatal, say poultry experts of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Toe punch" or mark each chick before transferring to the brood coop, so that the age can be readily determined after maturity.

EGG PRODUCTION INCREASED

Animal Feed of Some Kind, High in Protein, Is Essential for Laying Flock.

Meat scrap or some other animal feed high in protein is the one essential constituent of the mash which cannot well be omitted. The United States Department of Agriculture found that a pen of pullets, on free range, which did not get meat scrap or any other animal-protein feed laid only 90 eggs each in a year, compared with yields of from 125 to 150 eggs from pens fed rations containing meat scrap. The eggs from the pen where no meat scrap was fed cost 2.2 cents more a dozen for feed than when the meat scrap was included in the ration. Fish meal or fish scrap can be used to replace the meat scrap and compares favorably with a good grade of meat scrap containing the same per cent of protein.

Skim milk or buttermilk, either sweet or sour, is excellent for replacing part or all of the meat scrap. The milk may be used in mixing the mash if a moist mash is fed, or it can be kept before the fowls as a drink. If clabbered and fed thick or like cheese, hens will eat enough of it to replace all of the meat scrap needed. A little bone meal makes an excellent addition to the mash or it can be used to replace a part of the meat scrap. Green cut bone, if fresh and sweet, will also take the place of meat scrap if fed at the rate of one-third to one-half ounce daily per hen.

MUST PRODUCE FEEDER HOGS

Test to Be Made of Economically Raising Animals in South to Supply Corn Belt.

The possibility of economically producing feeder hogs in the South for supplying the corn belt with the extra hogs needed for consuming the corn crop will be investigated by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with some of the Southern states. This spring, work on the problem was begun at McNeill, Miss., 65 miles north of New Orleans. The Mississippi experiment station will assist in the work. The idea is to test out the growing and marketing of hogs at a weight of about 100 pounds, using both the lard and bacon types.

The growing of feeder hogs is an industry which should be developed, as the corn belt is in need of more shoats than are usually produced there. Similar experiments to those being made in the South will be tried later in the Northwest and Southwest.

More Quality for Less Money

There never was a time when Goodyear Tires were so good as now.

They are bigger, heavier and stronger today than any earlier Goodyears ever were.

Yet Goodyear prices are lower now than ever.

Not even in those remembered days before the war did Goodyear Tires sell at such low prices as today.

Look at the figures listed below.

They represent an average decrease of more than 60% from Goodyear prices of 1910.

When you can get these better Goodyears at such prices, there is no question of the tire value at your command.

Your Goodyear Service Station Dealer will tell you that never in his experience as a tire dealer has he known the equal of this value. See him today.

The past week has been just what the farmers wanted—dry and warm.

"The full dinner pail" will hardly be an appropriate campaign slogan for the g. o. p. this time.

Wages coming down and values going up seems to be the road back to normalcy blazed by the Harding administration

The Bible says: "When the wicked rule, the people mourn." There is a superabundance of mourning going on these days as wages crash and values soar and perhaps the Bible is right.

The airplane as an adjunct of civilization has about demonstrated its inadequacy. As as engine of war it may still shine but as a social favorite it has failed to arrive.

The fat salaries paid the so called Labor Board should be diverted into the soldier bonus fund. The only thing the Labor Board can do now is to draw their salaries.

A letter from Mr. G. W. Hodgens is printed in another column this week. We invite you to read it and ponder what he says. Pick your man and not your party is his doctrine and if everybody would do that our country would be better off.

The skirt abbreviated at both ends is getting to be an old thing and doesn't attract the attention it once did. If it were not for a law against public indecency some of the fashion makers would slash them a little higher and lower, we guess.

David Lawrence, the famous newspaper correspondent who predicted the downfall of the Democratic party in the last election, is out now with a similar prediction concerning the Republican party in the next election. He says the pendulum has swung back all over the country.

More crude oil and its products in stock than ever before in the history of the world. New wells coming in daily and the output increasing by leaps and bounds and still gasoline is marked up twice in less than two weeks. That is government for the people with a vengeance.

The daily papers teem with fatal automobile accidents every day. There is no blame can attach to the auto as a means of transportation in these sad occurrences. The person at the steering wheel is always the guilty party. The absence of ability to drive, the lack of common judgment or a woeful deficiency in gray matter in their noggins is what brings about these deplorable accidents.

During the hot weather when large crowds like the one of last Friday night assemble at the auditorium, if some plan can be arranged to induce the people to NOT sit in the windows it will be much more pleasant to those in the audience. Every window was almost hermetically sealed last Friday night by scrouging humanity, all air was thus excluded and the people in the inside almost suffocated. A row of sharp spikes in the window sills or a high powered electric wire on each sill might help some.

It Pays to be In a Trust

The oil and gasoline business, is, if any difference, a more efficient and airtight trust now since the government ordered them to dissolve their syndicate than they were before.

An order that became effective all over the country last Monday morning puts the price of gasoline up 2 cents a gallon. If there is no trust or combine between the big oil companies how comes this concerted action in raising prices? Big business pays no attention to law and order.

Effective Monday gasoline advanced in Clanton to 28 cents and the boys who sell it here are not to blame. It goes up by the arbitrary rule of the oil trust

Just two weeks ago the Agricultural Department at Washington issued a bulletin to the effect that there was a greater surplus of oil and gasoline on hand than ever before in the history of the industry. The greater the supply under the trust management the higher the price. The old law of supply and demand does not affect them in the least. They have a monopoly, they rule the government and they violate all laws of nature and legislation and do as they darn please and the people pay the freight.

What About Sanitation?

Whose duty is it in Clanton to see about sanitation, or is it anybodys? Open closets, especially without proper attention and disinfection, are universally considered a menace to health. The same is true in regard to open pig pens. You all know whether we have any of these conditions existing here and it is needless for us to specialize. If we have any we are taking the risk of a typhoid epidemic according to recognized health authorities. If we have none then we are better off than odor and appearances would indicate.

The News is not knocking anyone and can put up with whatever conditions we have as well as anyone else. We do not know that anyone is to blame for such conditions as may exist. Really we have been informed that neither the county nor the city has a regular health officer. Be that as it may, our duty as a public servant impells us to call attention to all matters pertaining to the public good. So there you are,

COURT LAST MONDAY

Judge Reynolds had rather a heavy and unusual docket before him when he called court to order last Monday morning at 10:30.

One case of more than usual interest was the State vs. W. T. Morris, a young white man, who attempted to put on a dime novel, wild west scene at Mitchell dam last Sunday. Among his other freak performances, actuated by the fumes of three bottles of white lightning, he attacked Mr. F. A. Gulledge, of Verbena, who chanced to be on the scene and was trying to pour oil on the troubled waters and keep the young tornado out of trouble. Monday, the elixir of potash and buckeye balls having exuded from his system by a good rest in jail, he plead guilty to two charges before His Honor and was handed a prize package of $25.00 and costs in one case and 30 days hard labor and costs in the other. He left Tuesday morning with deputy Will Culp for his summer home in the pen.

A negro named Henderson also was in court. He had been gambling with his happiness and liberty staked against the easy money made by peddling booze. He played one hand too many and lost, so he also has gone for a summer in the pen.

A white woman by the name of Franklin, who is, no doubt, mentally deficient, and who has left an unsavory trail all over this section in recent months was also caught in the toils of the law again Sunday and was before the Judge. Here was a case that puzzled His Honor, as well it might. She had just returned from a term in the pen Friday evening for the same offense, which, evidently, had worked no reformation. The State has no house of detention for such fallen characters and the judge either had to send her back to the pen with no hope for her improvement or else try her out again on her promise to reform He did the latter and Tuesday she was given her liberty under the promise that she would go and sin no more.

Lest We Forget.

In playing the game of politics among the professionals a great deal of strategy is employed and a great deal of time is consumed by those who are adept in directing the game, in calculating the exact phycological moment in which to play each card with the greatest degree of success.

This fact has never been more clearly demonstrated than by the present republican Congress. In some of the northern states the colored vote has grown in recent years to such proportions that the republican politicians take notice of it and play up, at the expense of the Sout, a strong bid for that support. At the same time, there are certain of their clan in Congress, especially from the west and northwest, who have to go back home and render an account of their stewardship to a constituency that is no more tolerant of race equality than are we of the South. Consequently the game becomes complicated. Quite a number of these same congressmen have to be reelected this fall or be retired to private life by a dissatisfied electorate at home.

The game then shapes itself automatically into a question of being able to hold the negro vote at the north and also not antagonize the white vote in the west and northwest, and the ground they have to travel over to do this is thinner than an egg shell. First, President Harding comes South and gives the northern negro voter a large and luscious dip of sop in his Birmingham speech. Right on the heel of the Harding play the lower house passes that monstroscity of wickedness, the Dyer anti-lynching bill. The northern negro voter was placated and jubilant with joy and his ballot bought with very little trouble.

But the west and northwest began to raise up on the strength of these pro-negro activities of the party and the outlook for all of those congressmen who have to go back before the people out there this fall assumed dismal hues. Well, something had to be done to save them, so the party officially closed up like a clam on both of these issues, and began an attempt to distract the minds of the people from these shameful features of their campaign game, by the awfulest talk fest on record about a "soldiers bonus," a new tariff, the Muscle Shoals matter and so on, trying to make the people forget these other things until after the fall elections. But let us beg you to remember one thing. The Harding speech is a matter of history and has never been denied nor qualified by him. The Dyer anti-lynching bill is on the calender of the Senate and is as live as it was when the lower house passed it by a vote almost two to one. The bill to give Federal aid to public schools, and thus force your child and mine to attend the same school with negro children, would have been passed before now had it not have been an election year and they want to hold what support they can in the west and northwest until after November.

This same Congress meets in December, after all the fall elections, and both of these inicquitous bills will be passed like a flash, unless the results of the election put the fear of the people in their hearts, and Mr. Harding will sign them promtly and there you are.

The republican party has nothing to loose in the South and they know it. They don't care the snap of their finger for any man south of the Mason and Dixon line so far as their political influence is worth, because they know he can't deliver the goods. They keep a few henchmen in the South and let them lick up the drippings from the party tit of Federal patronage, just to show the Southern people how they can "rub it in" when they have the power, but that is all.

They show the South no consideration whatever and you all know this is true when you stop to think. Then where on earth can any white man or woman in the South find an excuse for voting with them? It is one of the greatest mysteries we have ever been up against.

VOTING FOR THE MAN

Dear Friends, One and All, Both Democrats and Republicans:—I have been voting with the party about fifty years. It has run from the farmers' club to so-called lilly white republican. I have made many mistakes and help elect men I was sorrow of, and, no doubt, the same has been true of the other side, although both sides have elected some straight men that I am proud of. For instance, I helped elect H. A. Harris for sheriff, who proved to be an honorable man. The other side elected Mr. Bowen Jones, who also proved to be an honorable man. I have helped elect men who have proved dirty. So I think the time is now at hand when we should pick the best men to elect, let them be either democrats or republicans. Let us stop so much party prejudice, open our blinded eyes and look forward to the future to try to make our country better. By so doing we may probably bring about a better feeling and confidence among the people, which is very much needed. I have heard many say that they are going to split their ticket in this election on these grounds, and me for one of them.

This party business has caused much confusion among the people and many unjust acts to be committed. While our county shows that we are gaining ground our state statistics also show one third more convicts than twelve months ago. So according to that in twelve months more we will all be convicts. It is time to stop and think and make a change. As for myself, I am no longer a party man. I am a freeborn white man and stand for the rights of our county and state, but also stand for equal rights to all who deserve it and rule out those that do not deserve it. Politically I hold myself independent from now on.

With best wishes to the honest men and women of our country,

G. W. Hodgens.

CITY SCHOOL CLOSES

The final exercises of the City School took place last Friday night in the auditorium of the High School building. The pride that the good people of Clanton take in this school was abundantly illustrated by the vast audience that filled to overflowing the commodious auditorium. Even all the standing room was closely packed while quite a large number who were late in arriving had to return home for lack of a place to even look in.

The exercises consisted of charades, grand marches, character plays and so on and the action in each was splendidly carried out. The smaller children especially performed well, their efficiency testified to the many hours of patient and painstaking training devoted to them by their teachers.

Taken by and large the entire program was a conspicuous success in its every feature and reflects great credit on Prof Pegues and his splendid corps of assistants and we congratulate them on the good work they have done the past term and wish for every one of them a most joyous vacation rest for we realize that they need it.

Mt. Nebo Singing

The Singing Society met at this place Sunday afternoon with a small crowd, Directors for the afternoon were Messrs. Synopsis.

Place—New York, Home of Andrew Kinsley.

Act. I.—Andrew Kinsley, who is a wealthy gold miner, and his wife thinks there is nothing better than gold. Therefore they perfer and insist that their daughter, Alice, marry Prince Bavari, of the "Hapsburg."

Howard Carpenter, Sr., is also a wealthy gold miner and a partner of Kinsley.

Howard Carpenter, Jr., a philanthropic young man of truth and honor, who has found things better than gold, is also in love with Alice. He also knows how to make gold, for while building a beneficent institution in Georgia in memory of his mother he discovers gold.

Howard Carpenter, Sr., proposes to Kinsley a marriage between their son and daughter. Kinsley is insulted. Carpenter withdraws his partnership and turns his attention to his son.

Mrs. Andrew Kinsley works her designing scheme through Robert Woolsey, so she plots with him in order that Howard, Jr., may hear a marriage ceremony so that he may give up his idea of winning Alice. After hearing the ceremony Howard, Jr., leaves for Georgia.

In the meantime the Prince gets highly insulted at Alice's spurns, and talks of damage suits. Mr. and Mrs. Kinsley try to force Alice to marry the Prince but she concretely refuses, therefore resulting in her father disowning her.

Act. II.—Place, New York, Home of Howard Carpenter, Sr., study of Howard, Jr.

Miss Robinson takes care of Howard's business affairs.

Mrs. Howard Carpenter, Sr., is jealous of Howard's successes as compared to the son's failures, Robert Woolsey. Robert Woolsey finds signature of Howard, Jr., and plans a note to Alice Kinsley. He also plots to get Howard out of the way as he would then be sole heir of Carpenter's gold. Alice receives note, and demands an audience with Howard, Jr., but as he has already left she does not see him, but is wrongly accused by Woolsey, Prince and Carpenter, Sr.

Act III.—Place, woods of Northern Georgia.

Howard is living with the mountain people. Robert Woolsey, who wants to kill him, appears on trail but his plans are thwarted by the appearance of a mountaineer.

Tableau:

The tableau shows the victor in winning, the hand of Alice, hence honor is—

TRAVELING HAZARDS

"The deportment of the traveling public has a greater influence on railway safety than is generally known, and the Safety Section of the American Railway Association in an appeal for the conservation of human life and limb gives some illuminating facts on the subject.

"Of the 229 fatalities occurring in railway passenger travel during the year 1920, about two-thirds were cases in which the individual himself was in some way involved in the chain of circumstances. For example, 28 persons were killed by falling from coach steps, 18 by falling from moving trains, 64 by being struck or run over, and 10 met their death by deliberately jumping from trains while mentally deranged or to escape penal servitude. More starting still is the fact that 64 passengers were killed and 1,299 injured in getting on or off moving and stationary trains.

"Once seated inside a railway car the traveler is in about the safest place in the world, and it is generally his own acts in gaining or leaving such position that create any substantial hazard. Notwithstanding the wonderful safety of passengers on the railways of the country, it is in the power of each of the billion travelers carried annually to make himself still more safe by being careful."

ANOTHER SWIMMING POND

Mr. H. T. Gore was in Clanton Tuesday, and announced that he will open his swimming pond to the public on next Saturday afternoon, allowing all who wish to swim free of charge. The place is three miles from Clanton on the Lock 12 road, and is about a quarter of a mile from the road. To get to the pond you turn off from the road and go, out by the home of Mr. Gore. All who wish to go in are requested to come and bring their bathing suits. All the candidates are invited to come and clean themselves up for the race.

Church Notice.

The Pastor of the Temple Church, three miles east of Clanton, will preach Sunday at 11 o'clock on the 10th Chapter of Revelations. The public is invited.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK IS OBSERVED

May 1 Sees Inaugurated First General Campaign of Kind in Service.

Without the Postal Service, business would languish in a day, and be at a standstill in a week. Public opinion would die of dry rot. Sectional hatred or prejudice only would flourish, and narrow-mindedness thrive.

It is the biggest distinctive business in the world and it comes nearer to the innermost interests of a greater number of men and women than any other institution on earth. No private business, however widespread, touches so many lives so often or sharply; no church reaches into so many souls, stirs so many pulses, has so many human beings dependent on its ministrations.

"Postal Improvement Week" has been set for May 1, by the Postmaster General. This is the first general campaign of its kind in the Postal Service for several decades. Business men and their organizations, large users of the mail, newspapers, motion pictures, advertisers, and the entire organization of 326,000 postal workers are to be enlisted in this country-wide campaign of interest in postal improvements. Your help is vital. Address your letters plainly with pen or typewriter. Give street address. Spell out name of State, don't abbreviate. Put your return address in the upper left hand corner of envelope (not on the back) and always look at your letter before dropping in the mail to see if it is properly addressed. This care in the use of the mails is for your benefit and speeds up the dispatch and delivery of mail matter.

If you have any complaints of poor service make them to your postmaster. He has instructions to investigate them and report to the department.

COURTESY

It sticks in human relations like postage stamps on letters. The POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT expects it to be used by its postmasters and employees in dealing with the public.

Help them in its use beginning with POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK, May 1-6, 1922.

THANK YOU

WITHOUT STREET ADDRESS YOUR MAIL IS DELAYED AT OFFICE OF DELIVERY

The Dead Letter Office has been in existence ever since Ben Franklin started our postal service. Even then people addressed mail to Mr. Ezekiel Smithers, "Atlantic Coast," and expected Ben to know just where Zeke lived.

Perhaps they had Zeke's address in letters up in the garret, maybe a chest full of 'em, but then it was easier to let Ben hunt Zeke. Today people are addressing letters to John Smith, New York, N. Y., or Chicago, Ill., thinking Uncle Sam can locate him, which is just as incomplete as was Zeke's address of yore. The Postoffice Department asks you to put the number and street in the address. It helps you.

Trinidad Col.

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado?

ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

"MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT"

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat. Mr. Postmaster. Straighten up the rural letter box, Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you benefits. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-6.

HUMANIZING THE POSTAL SERVICE

"There is no unimportant person or part of our service. It is a total of human units and their co-operation is the key to its success. In its last analysis, postal duties are accommodations performed for our neighbors and friends and should be so regarded, rather than as a hired service performed for an absentee employer."—Postmaster General Hubert Work.

"Would you have believed him?" I asked, grinning across the table at Beasley.

"It 'd a-been a question of vee-racity, as the court says; with maybe you and Hi Twombly too dead to testify."

At this, Daddy, who had been eating like a man half-starved, put in his word.

"I reckon you can't get at them galoots higher up, Stannie, but if you don't shove Charley Bullerton just about as far as the law 'll allow, I'm goin' to call ye a quitter."

At that moment Jeanie had just brought in another heaping plate of the luscious corn cakes, and I was looking at her when I replied.

"We'll see about the shoving a bit later, Daddy. The first thing to do is to put the old Cinnabar in shape to shell us out some money. I'm broke, you know."

When I made this admission, Beasley, the last man in the world from whom help could come, I should have said, looked me squarely in the eyes.

"Stannie Broughton—if that's your name—you ain't so dad-blamed crazy as you look and act," he remarked. "Money's what talks. Are you aimin' to swing onto this thing with your own hands?—for keeps, I mean; not to sell it out to the first set o' minin' sharps that comes along?"

"Sure!—you said it; I'm going to keep it and work it—after I get out of the jail where you're going to land me for pinching that inspection car and getting it smashed. Why else did I start out blindfolded to hunt for a girl, a horse and a dog?"

He let the latter half of my reply go without comment; charging it up to some last lingering remains of the craziness, perhaps.

"Well, let's see about where you'd crack your whip first," he invited.

"That part of it is easy," I laughed. "What I don't know about the practical end of the mining job would load a wagon. I'll pitch out and hunt me up a real, for-sure miner, of course."

"Nothin' so awfully crazy about that," he granted. Then: "What's the matter with Hi Twombly, here, for your boss miner?"

"Not a thing in the wide world—except that he can't be because he is going to be my partner in the deal."

"Now you're talkin' a whole heap like a white man," said the desperadoish one. "Dog-goned if I don't b'lieve you are white! What do you say to givin' me a whack at the bossin' job?"

I took just one little glance at Daddy, and the mild blue eyes said "yes."

"But you've got me under arrest, Mr. Beasley," I pointed out, just to see what he'd say. "You can't very well close a business deal with your prisoner, can you?"

"Kill two 'r three birds with the one rock," he mumbled, cramming the siruped half of his breakfast-finishing corn cake into his capacious mouth. "I'll chase you down to Angels and turn you over to the majesty o' the law—the same bein' by name old Squire Dubbin. Then I'll jump my job o' sortin' out the bad angels from amongst the good angels and go out and rustle your bail. Time old Bill Dubbin's chewin' over the law in sich cases made and pervided—like he's bound to do—I'll scrape up a bunch o' men and start 'em up hereaways to begin on the repairs. How does all that strike you?"

I Was Looking at Jeanie When I Replied.

If my laugh was a bit grim there was a warrant for it.

"It strikes me fair in the empty pocket, my good friend," I told him. "Just at this present moment I couldn't finance one solitary, lonesome carpenter—to say nothing of a gang of them, with half a dozen steamfitters and boilermakers thrown in."

"Huh! workin' capital, you mean? That's about the easiest thing this side o' Hades—with a mine like the old Cinnabar—with no more water in it than what can be pumped out—to back you. I reckon your title to the property's all right, ain't it?"

"It is; I have a deed from my grandfather." So much I said, but I didn't go on to explain how the quick wit of a girl who now hated me had saved that deed from being a mere scrap of waste paper. Not that I knew how she had done it—but the tangible fact was safely in my pocket.

Fifteen minutes after this breakfast table talk I was bidding a temporary good-by to the wreck on the Cinnabar ledge, and was about to take the road to Atropia with Beasley; both of us intent upon catching a way-freight to Angels. Daddy had lent me the piebald pony for the ride to the railroad station—this either with or without Jeanie's consent; I didn't know and forbore to ask—and the harlequin-faced dog was ready to trot at the pony's heels. But the blue-eyed maiden had shut herself up in her room, and I thought she wasn't going to come out and see me off.

At the final moment, however, after Beasley had already steered his nag across the dump head, and I was about to climb into my saddle, she came to the cabin door, and was both curiously embarrassed and a bit breathless.

"Please!—one minute!" she begged; and as I took my foot out of the stirrup: "Do you know what they have done with—with—"

"With Bullerton?" I helped out. "No, I don't know; but I suppose they've taken him on to the county seat at Copah with the others."

"Then—then—please let him go! If you refuse to prosecute—"

"Make yourself entirely easy," I broke in, a bit sourly, maybe. "I'll agree not to play the part of the dog in the manger."

"Thank you—so much!" she murmured; and then she backed away quickly and went in and on through to the kitchen, leaving me to follow Beasley, which I did, with the sour humor telling me that of all the puzzling, unaccountable things in a world of enigmas, a woman's vagaries were the least understandable. For, after all was said and done, and after all that had happened and been made to happen, it seemed to be palpably apparent that Jeanie Twombly was still in love with the jeet.

CHAPTER XIX.

Angels, Desert and Urban.

Our stop-over in Angels, Friend Beasley's and mine, was of the shortest. Our business with Father William Dubbin was the merest travesty upon a trial at law, and was speedily concluded.

Since there would be no passenger train until afternoon, Beasley and I resumed our places in the freight's caboose, and in due time were set down in Brewster, the breezy little metropolis of Timanyoni Park.

Here my captor—and friend—appeared to be very much at home. He took me to the best hotel, where he was greeted with affectionate camaraderie by a clerk who wore a diamond big enough to serve for a locomotive headlight, shook hands with, and introduced me to, a number of gentlemen in the lobby, and presently gave me orders to go up to our rooms and "take a wash," preparatory to meeting a certain friend of his at luncheon; the meeting contingent upon his being able to "round up" the friend in time for the feast.

It still wanted a half-hour of the appointed luncheon time when I descended to the lobby. A little before one o'clock Beasley came in with a middle-aged man who looked as if he might have been the retired manager of a Wild West show; not long-haired, or anything like that, but with the cool eye and bronzed, weather-beaten face of one who lived under house roofs only when circumstances forced him to. A moment later I was shaking hands with Mr. William Starbuck, mine owner, ranchman, a director in the Brewster National bank, president of the Brewster Commercial club and the prime mover in a lot of other civic activities too numerous to mention.

I may pass lightly over the events of the three days following; days in which Mr. William Starbuck, who seemed to be known to all the old-timers in Brewster as "Billy," and to the younger generation as "Uncle Billy," labored untiringly in my behalf; procured me the necessary working credit at the Brewster National, helped me in the telegraphic ordering of new machinery, helped Beasley to rustle up a small army of mechanics to go ahead of us to the Cinnabar, and last, but not least, made my peace with the railroad company in the matter of the stolen and smashed inspection car; this being a thing which he was easily able to do because he was the brother-in-law, once removed, of the railroad company's vice president and general manager.

On our last day in Brewster, and as a parting favor, I asked Starbuck how I should proceed in regard to quashing the indictment against Bullerton, and when I did so, he gave me a shrewd look out of the cool gray eyes, with a gentle uplifting of the shaggy brows. "If you are determined to let Bullerton go, all you have to do is to do nothing. If you don't appear in Copah to prosecute him and his would-be mine jumpers, the case against them will be dismissed, as a matter of course. But really, you know, you ought to make an example of them."

"In the circumstances, I can't," I returned, so we let it go at that; and an hour later Beasley and I were on our way back to Atropia and Cinnabar mountain.

CHAPTER XX.

Cousin Percy Wires.

It was on the evening of the fourth day's absence that Beasley and I left the train at Atropia and took the mountain trail in reverse for a return to the high bench on Old Cinnabar, Beasley riding a borrowed horse, and I the calico pony, which Daddy Hiram had sent down to the station by one of the newly imported workmen.

"Now You're Talking Like a White Man."

Just as we were leaving the railroad station Buddy Fuller, the operator, ran out to hand me a telegram. Since it was too dark to see to read it, and I supposed, naturally, that it was nothing more important than a bid from some machinery firm anxious to supply our needs, I thought it might wait, stuck it into my pocket—and promptly forgot it.

Our talk, as we rode together up the now familiar trail, was chiefly of business; the business of reopening the mine; and it was not until we were nearing our destination that the ex-marshal said:

"Still stickin' in your craw that you ain't a-goin' to pop the whip at Charley Bullerton?"

"It is," I answered.

"Well, now, why not?"

"Principally because I have promised somebody that I wouldn't prosecute."

"Not Hi Twombly; he'd never ast you to do anything like that."

"No; not Daddy Hiram."

He didn't press the matter any further, and we rode on in silence. As we approached the neighborhood of the mine, evidences of the forthputting activities began to manifest themselves.

Daddy Hiram met us at the door of his newly repaired cabin across the dump head and insisted upon taking care of the horses. Beasley and I washed up at the outdoor, bench-and-basin lavatory; and when we went in, Jeanie had supper ready for us.

She didn't sit at table with us—from which I argued that she and her father had already eaten—and I thought she purposely avoided me; avoided meeting my eye, at least. I didn't wonder at it. Her position, as I had it figured out, was rather awkwardly anomalous. By this time, I had fully convinced myself that she was in love with Bullerton, and was probably engaged to be married to him; and that it was only her native honesty that had driven her to take sides against him in the struggle for the Cinnabar, prompting her to do the one thing which had knocked his nefarious scheme on the head—namely, the recording of my deed.

Knowing nothing but hard work, Daddy Hiram was running the deep-well pumps himself, or rather, taking the night shift on them; and about ten o'clock, just as I had made up my mind to go to bed and let the repairing activities take care of themselves, I saw Jeanie going over to the boiler shed with a pot of freshly made coffee for her father. Here was my chance, I thought; so I waited and cornered her as she came back.

"Let's have it out, Jeanie," I said; which, I confess, was a sort of brutal way to begin on the woman I loved, and yet the only way if I was to go on remembering that she belonged to another man. "We can at least be good friends, can't we?"

"No," she returned, with a queer little twist of her pretty lips and a flash of the blue eyes, "I'm afraid we can't even be that—or those—any more, Mr. Broughton."

It was awkward for both of us, standing there before the open cabin door, and I pointed to the bench where Daddy Hiram was wont to smoke his evening pipe in good weather.

"Won't you sit down until we can sort of flail it out?" I begged.

"It's no use, whatever," she objected; nevertheless, she did sit down and let me sit beside her.

"I know just how distressed you must be," I began, "and perhaps I can lift a bit of the load from your shoulders. There will be no legal steps taken against your—against Charles Bullerton."

"Thank you," she said; just as short as that.

"And that isn't all," I went on. "After we get into the ore and have some real money to show for it, I'm going to make over a share in the Cinnabar to your father and put him in a position to do the right thing by you when you marry. And he'll do it; you know he'll do it."

"How kind!" she murmured, looking straight out in front of her.

"It isn't kindness; its bare justice. Between you, you two have saved my legacy for me."

"I wish, now, it hadn't been saved!" she exclaimed, as vindictively as you please.

Truly, I thought, the ways of women are past finding out; or at least the way of a maid with a man is.

"Can't I say anything at all without putting my foot into it?" I asked in despair. "You break a man's back with a load of obligation one day, and toss him lightly out of your young life the next! I haven't done anything to earn your—to earn the back of your hand, Jeanie; or if I have, I don't know what it is."

"You have committed the unpardonable sin," she accused coolly. "I don't wonder that Miss Randle took your ring off."

I wasn't going to let the talk shift to Lisette; not if I knew it, and could help it.

"What is the unpardonable sin?" I asked.

"To misunderstand: to think a person capable of a thing when a person is not; to—just take it for granted that a person is guilty—oh"—with a little stamp of her foot—"I can't bear to talk about it!"

I guess it's a part of a man's equipment to be dense and sort of stupid—in his dealings with women, I mean. Slowly, so slowly that I thought the catch would never snap and hold, my fool mind crept back along the line, searching blindly for the point at which all this fiery indignation toward me had begun; back and still back to that moment of our deliverance—Daddy's and mine—at the shafthouse door, with this dear girl untwisting her arms from her father's neck, and with me saying, "I'm not hurt, either. Welcome home, Miss Twombly—or should I say, Mrs. Bullerton?"

"Jeanie!" I gasped; "do you mean that you're not going to marry Charles Bullerton?—that you never meant to?"

"Of course, I'm not!" she retorted, with a savage little out-thrust of the adorable chin. "But you thought so small of me that you simply took it for granted!"

I wagged my head in deepest humility.

"I'm as the dust under your pretty feet, Jeanie; please don't trample me too hard. Bullerton—that is—er—we had a scrap the next morning after you went away, you know, and I . . . well, he rather got the worst of it. And when I had him down and was trying to make him tell us where you were—even your father thought you'd gone off with him—he said you'd planned to go with him to get married, but that you had failed to show up at Atropia in time for the train."

"He told a lie, because that is the way he is made and he couldn't help it," she said simply, still as cool as a cucumber. "He said we were going to Angels to get married, and I—I didn't say we weren't; I just let him talk and didn't say anything at all."

"Won't you tell me a bit more?" I begged.

"You don't deserve it the least little bit, but I will. It began with the deed; your deed to the mine. One day, when you were over at the shafthouse, and had left your coat here in the cabin, I saw him take the deed from your pocket when he didn't know I was looking. He read it and put it back quickly when he heard me stirring in the other room. I knew it hadn't been recorded; you and Daddy had both spoken of that. I felt sure he'd take it again, and perhaps destroy it. At first, I thought I'd tell you or Daddy, or both of you. But I knew that would mean trouble."

"We were never very far from the fighting edge in those days," I admitted. "Bullerton had shown me the gun he always carried under his arm, and had told me what to expect in case I were foolish enough to lose my temper."

"I know," she nodded. "He killed a man once; it was when I was a little girl and we were living in Cripple Creek. He was acquitted on the plea of self-defense. So I didn't dare say anything to you or to Daddy. What I did was to steal your deed myself, when I had a chance. Daddy has some blank forms just like it, and I sat up one night in my room and made a copy. It wasn't a very good copy—your grandfather's handwriting was awfully hard to imitate. Besides, I didn't have any notarial seal. But I thought it might do for—for something to be stolen. Then I hid the real deed and put the copy back in the envelope in your pocket."

"And Bullerton finally stole it, just as you thought he would," I put in.

"He did. You are dreadfully careless with your things; you are always leaving your coat around, just where you happen to take it off. I knew then that the next thing to be done was to get your deed recorded quickly. He—he was urging me every day to run away with him, and I was afraid to tell him how much I despised him; afraid he'd take it out on you and Daddy. So I just let him go on and talk and believe what he pleased. Of course, he wanted to ride with me the morning we went away, but after we got down the road a piece, I made an excuse to go on ahead by another trail."

"That much of what he told your father and me—when we were having the scrap—was true. He said you went on ahead."

"I didn't go to Atropia, as he expected me to," she continued calmly. "I took the old Haversack trail across the mountain to Greaser siding. I knew that the Copah train would stop there on the side-track. When I got as far as the Haversack I thought I heard somebody following me. I was scared and didn't know what to do. I was afraid my copying of the deed had been discovered and that the original would be taken away from me, so I hurried to hide the real deed. The old Haversack tunnel seemed to be a good place, but while I was in there Barney began to bark, and I looked out and saw that the noise I had heard had been made by a stray cow from one of the foothill ranches. So I remounted and rode on to catch the train to Copah. At Greaser siding I tried to make Barney lead the pony home, and Barney tried his best to do it. But Winkie wanted to graze, and I had to go off and leave them when the train came. That's all, I think; except that I had to wait two days at my cousin's in Copah before I could get the deed back from the recorder's office. They were awfully slow about it."

"It isn't quite all," I amended. "You haven't told me how you happened to come back with Beasley and his posse."

"That was just a coincidence. I reached Atropia on the early morning train and met Mr. Beasley and his men just as they were starting up the mountain. Cousin Buddy Fuller had told me how he had telegraphed to Angels for Mr. Beasley, and I was scared to death, of course, because I knew what it meant. So I borrowed the Haggertys' pony and came along with the posse."

There was silence for a little time; such silence as the clattering and hammering of the carpenters and steam-fitters permitted. Then I said:

"And when you got here, the first thing I did was to call you 'Mrs. Bullerton'. I don't blame you for not being able to forgive me, Jeanie, girl; honestly, I don't."

"It was worse than a crime," she averred solemnly; "it was a blunder. What made you do it?"

"Partly because I was a jealous fool; but mostly because I was sore and sorry and disappointed. I thought Bullerton had beaten me to it."

"No," she said quite soberly; "it was Miss Randle who beat you to it."

I gasped. There were tremendous possibilities in that cool answer of hers; prodigious possibilities.

"But say!" I burst out; "didn't I tell you that Lisette had pushed me overboard long ago?"

"I know. She was sensible enough to see that you and she couldn't live on nothing a year. But now that you are rich, or are going to be . . . I'm sure you are not going to be less generous than she was. What if she did take your ring off in a moment of discouragement, and knowing that you couldn't buy her hats? You can be very sure she put it on again as soon as your back was turned."

There we were; no sooner over one hurdle before another and a higher one must jump up. I groaned and thrust my hands into my pockets. A paper rustled and I drew it out. It was the telegram Buddy Fuller had handed me, still unread. I opened it half absently, [illegible] the glow of the nearest flare [illegible] the writing. Then I gave a little [illegible] swallowed hard two or three [illegible] and nearly choked doing it, and re the thing again. After all of which said, as calmly as I could

"But, in spite of all that I had to you about Lisette, you asked me one to kiss you."

"Is—is it quite nice of you to r mind me of it?" she inquired reproach fully.

"It wouldn't be—in ordinary cir cumstances: it would be beastly. Bu listen, Jeanie; haven't you been ma clear through, sometimes, in readin a story, to have a coincidence rung o on you when you knew perfectly we that the thing couldn't possibly hav happened so pat in the nick of time?"

"I suppose I have; yes."

"Well, don't ever let it disturb yo again. Because the real thing is a lo more wonderful and unbelievable, yo know. Listen to this: it's a wire fro my cousin, Percy; the one who sen me out into the wide, wide world t look for a girl, a horse and a dog, an who is the only human being outsid of Colorado who knows where I a likely to be reached by telegraph. H is in Boston, and this is what he sa 'Recalled home when we reac Honolulu, out-bound. Lisette and were married today. Congratulat us.'"

For a minute there was a breathles sort of pause, and I broke it.

"Jeanie, dear, was it just comm honesty and good faith that made yo take all these chances, with the dee and with Bullerton?"

"Yes, I'm commonly honest," the small voice at my shoulder.

"Bullerton is a shrewd, smart low," I went on. "I'll venture to that he never made such a bonehe break as I did the morning you ca back. You must think something him or you wouldn't have asked not to prosecute him for trying murder your father and me."

She looked down at her pretty fe which were crossed.

"I think—a little something—of my self," she said, with small breat catchings between the words. "I myself that much, don't you think? I didn't deceive him outright, I' afraid I did let him deceive himsel So that made me responsible, in a wa and I couldn't let you send him to ja could I?"

"But what about me? Are you go ing to send me to a worse place tha any jail?—for that is what the whol wide world is going to be to me wit out you, Jeanie, dear."

Her answer was just like her: Sh turned and put up her face to me an said, "Kiss me again, Stannie." An

START BANK ACCOUNT FOR BAB

Recommended as the Surest Foundation That Can Be Laid for a Happy Future.

What are you doing for your baby's future happiness?

Have you thought of opening a bank account for your baby?

These are questions that should be given a thought by every parent, writes Cecelia Anthony in Thrift Magazine.

Many newly born babes are presented with gifts in the form of money. Why not start an account for the baby with this money and watch it grow by making regular weekly contributions, instead of using the money to buy clothes or some other articles?

The weekly deposit of $1 at cent interest for ten years will amo to $638.04; in fifteen years, $1,07 and in twenty years, $1,601.56. deposit of $3 is made regularly e week for ten years the child will h in its favor the sum of $1,924; teen years the amount will be $3, and in twenty years $5,378.75.

Of course, as the child grows he or she will save the pennies, ni and dimes, and help toward the reg weekly deposit, which will lessen drain on the parents' pocketbook time to come the child will be the depositor.

U.S. INVESTIGATION IN GASOLINE JUMP

ATTORNEY GENERAL PROMISES "IMMEDIATE ATTENTION" TO THE INCREASES

4 INCREASES IN SIX WEEKS

March Figures Will Show Reserve Of About Nine Hundred Million Gallons—Competition Off

Washington.—Recent increases in gasoline prices are being investigated by the department of justice, it is learned.

Attorney General Daugherty has promised to "give immediate attention" to the increase, amounting to four cents per gallon during the past six weeks in the face of the greatest gasoline reserve in the history of the United States.

Several congressmen are expected to aid in the investigation. They are in receipt of complaints from constituents against the increases, and a resolution may be introduced for a congressional investigation.

Inquiry at the bureau of mines shows that the reserve is mounting close to the nine hundred million gallon mark.

The reserve on February 28 stood at 807,379,261, compared with 680,-610,351 on the same date last year. Figures for March, to be issued soon, will show a reserve close to nine hundred million gallons.

Large and small oil companies are acting in concert, it is stated. A truce has been declared and the price cutting wars of the past have been suspended for the time being, reports indicate.

Four increases of one cent each were made effective in all parts of the country during the past two weeks. Prices of gasoline for export also have gone up.

No tangible reason for the increases have been advanced, officials state, and the department of justice is determined to discover whether a "gentleman's agreement" is in operation in the oil industry. One official at the department of interior expressed the belief that the oil producers are anticipating a shortage this fall. While production is increasing and the reserve is growing at an unprecedented rate, consumption during the summer is expected to increase proportionately, and may even eat into the normal reserve, this official states.

The use of increasing numbers of motor vehicles is responsible, he says. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimates that nearly twelve million motor vehicles of all descriptions will be in use this summer fall.

Last year 10,465,115 automobiles, or trucks and motorcycles were in compared with 9,211,295 in 1920. res for the first quarter of 1922 ate an increase over 1921 far in s of the latter year's increase over

WANTS U. S. TO CO-OPERATE

France Announces She Will Not Recognize Soviet Russia Except In Agreement With U. S.

Paris.—Premier Poincare is seeking closer co-operation with the United States in dealing with European problems, especially that involving soviet Russia.

This became apparent when it was authoritatively announced that France would not recognize the soviet government except after agreement with the United States.

French high officials are evincing greater respect for America's foreign policy, especially since the Genoa difficulties.

Whether they are looking ahead to a possible rupture with Great Britain, in which case the United States would be the only great power they could turn to, is not known. But high officials have left no doubt that they will endeavor to act in harmony with America's views whenever possible.

France, is is learned, concedes that the breaking up of the conference is inevitable, convinced that the soviet reply will be either negative or inconclusive. Every time the allies have proposed anything concrete, officials say, the soviets have sidestepped or countered with demands for loans and advances of credits.

France considers that the Genoa conference has changed nothing with regard to the allies' relations with Russia. In fact, the highest officials admit that America proved right in refusing to participate.

"It isn't the first time we've learned a good lesson from the policy of the United States," a high official laughingly told the press.

"We hope to learn others. Hereafter we will have a good understanding with the United States before arranging with the soviets."

This indicates that the Poincare government is seeking a closer and more intelligent co-operation with America than its predecessors desired and are trying to draw what benefit they can from the example of America's method of dealing with Europe's problems.

Meanwhile, officials point out that it is unnecessary to have formal treaties to enable individuals to trade with Russia so long as the soviets are in power. France, it was said, rather prefers to deal this way.

NEW CONFERENCE FORMED BY SOUTHERN METHODISTS IN GENERAL CONVENTION

Orders Formation Of New Annual Conference In The State Of Arizona

Hot Springs, Ark.—The formation of the Arizona annual conference was ordered in the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Dr. J. E. Harrison of Phoenix presented the following facts:

Methodism in Arizona has doubled in membership and in property owned and acquired the past quadrennium. The new conference created will embrace all the state of Arizona and territory will be equal to the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Tennessee. Arizona had the largest percentage of gain in population during the last decade of any state of the Union.

J. M. Rogers of Savannah presented Mr. and Mrs. Heizburo Nakamura of Kobe, Japan. Mr. Nakamura is the director of the forward movement of Japan Methodism.

Proposes Probe Of Steel Merger Firms

Washington.—Inquiry into reported plans for a merger of seven large steel corporations was recently proposed in a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin. The resolution referred to the reported merger of the Midvale, Republic, Lackawanna and Inland Steel corporations with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube companyfi the Steel and Tube company of America and the Brier Hill Steel company. It added that the Bethlehem Steel corporation would join.

May Delay Bonus To Next Session

Washington.—Some of the most powerful influences in the Republican party are at work now to effect a postponement of any bonus legislation at this session of congress. Parley lieutenants, occupying strategic listening posts out through the country, have been asked the question: "What would be the political effect of deferring action on the soldiers' compensation until the next congress?" It is stated that delay would win more votes for the Republican party. However, the matter is being sounded out

FOR U. S. CONTROL OF SHOALS PLANT

TO PROVIDE SEMI-GOVERNMENT CORPORATION TO RUN PROJECT

60 PER CENT PROFITS TO U. S.

Baltimore Engineer Asks Hearing When He Submits Tentative Proposal For The Lease Of Plant

Washington.—Four developments in congressional consideration of proposals for developing the Muscle Shoals, Ala., nitrate and power project occurred in the senate agriculture and house military committees and on the senate floor.

Chairman Norris, Nebraska, of the senate committee, introduced a bill providing for a semi-government corporation to take over and operate the nitrate and power projects for fifty years. The measure was drafted by James T. Lloyd, formed representative from Missouri, and submitted by J. H. Levering, a consulted engineer of Los Angeles, Cal., as a modification of the bill Senator Norris recently introduced.

The Nebraska senator also made public a tentative proposal received from L. Stern, a Baltimore, Md., consulting engineer, and manufacturer of chemical products. Mr. Stern's letter of transmission requested the committee to hear him at his convenience and said the formal tender would be made later, the committee deciding informally to accede to the request and grant Mr. Stern a hearing.

The tentative offer of Mr. Sterm provided for the operation of the nitrate and power projects for a period of 25 or 30 years or any suitable number of years that might be determined upon. It further stated that all expenses incurred by the government at Muscle Shoals would be paid to it at the rate of 2 per cent annually and contained a provision by which the government would receive 60 per cent of all net profit made during the operation, with the lessees retaining 40 per cent.

In the house committee an agreement was reached by which any lessee of the shoals properties would be compelled to manufacture finished fertilizers whether at a profit or loss throughout the term of his operations, whether it be fifty or one hundred years. An amendment to this effect was made to the bill the committee is formulating for the house in connection with its report on the various proposals it has investigated.

Wide differences of opinion are understood to prevail in the committee over the provisions of the offer made by Henry Ford which are being discussed as the basis for the measure under construction. It was believed possible that the committeemen would be divided into three faction when the discussions were ended and as many difference recommendations would be made to the house.

The senate agricultural body heard Benjamin C. Marsh, managing director of the farmers' national council, testify. He said the council was opposed to the Ford proposal or any other that deprived the government of control and operation of the projects at Muscle Shoals.

The bill introduced recently by Senator Norris, the witness believes, was fundamentally sound and he recommended that legislation of a similar sort be enacted.

The bill drafted by Mr. Lloyd followed the description which the agriculture committee heard recently in general language. It would create a $5,000,000 corporation, headed by seven directors to be appointed by the president, three being officials of the war, treasury and agriculture departments.

Orders U. S. Probe Of Gasoline Price

Memphis, Tenn.—A federal investigation of the simultaneous advances in the price of gasoline recently made by the large oil companies operating in this territory was ordered by W. J. Burns, head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice. Telegraphic orders from Washington to start the investigation were received by bureau officials here, who declined to discuss the method of prodecure which would be followed.

Wants Lady Astor Sent To England

Passaic, N. J.—The federal government has been asked to deport Lady Astor as an undesirable alien by the General A. S. Burt Camp of Spanish-American War Veterans, in a resolution adopted the other night. The action of the members followed a lively discussion over charges that the members of the Grand Army of the Republic had been insulted in speeches made by the only feminine member of the British commons during her visit to this country. The resolution has been forwarded to Washington.

Sufferers Given Food By Red Cross

Natchez, Miss.—Supplies suficient to last the flood-stricken people of the northern part of Concordia parish, Louisiana, for a week, have been distributed by the Red Cross, assisted by National Guardsmen, according to officials assigned to relief work on the Mississippi river front of Concordia and Tensas parishes. It is announced that 50,000 rations will be loaded on a barge at Natchez to be distributed at Deer Park and Black Hawk by the Red Cross and the National Guardsmen.

ROW OVER WAR FRAUD CASES

Daugherty Transmits Defense Of Justice Department's Handling Of Cases

Washington.—In a detailed statement concerning the prosecution of war fraud cases, prepared at the request of the president, and recently transmitted to the house, Attorney General Daugherty declared that examinations so far completed disclosed in each instance "sufficient indication that a crime has been committed to warrant submitting them to a grand jury.

Presented on the eve of a Republican caucus, called to consider a legislative program, including a Republican resolution for investigation of charges of alleged laxity in prosecution by the department of justice, the attorney general's letter provoked a partisan row in which Representative Garrett (the Democratic leader) broadly intimated that it was intended to smother the proposed investigation.

Taking issue with the attorney general, Representative Woodruff, Republican (of Michigan) declared the former was requested six months ago to appeal to congress for half a million dollars to clear up his war-time docket and that he never acted until Republicans had assailed the department in the house. Mr. Woodruff reiterated that unless the attorney general allowed the courts to decide the pending case against the Lincoln Motor company "on its merits, I will move his impeachment in the house of representatives." That Michigan representatives asserted that a Republican congress could "not face the country in an election unless it clears up war fraud cases which smell to high heaven."

It is a terrible thing, the attorney general wrote the president, to charge a citizen with robbing his government, and for that reason he had insisted upon a painstaking investigation of all cases involving charges of criminality. It was regrettable, too, he declared, that public attention "should have been so strongly focused on these cases on the eve of their prosecution."

Tracing the various stages of litigation, Mr. Daugherty said that after hearing counsel for the receiver and others interested he had concluded that the matter should be submitted to judicial determination "and, accordingly, the government's claim was filed within the time allowed."

In this connection the attorney general sent the president a letter from Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle of the eastern district of Michigan, referring to "the recent newspaper notoriety" and saying that Representative Woodruff was "entirely mistaken in making criticism" of the attorney general and the department of justice "in anything which has happened or failed to happen up to this time in protecting the government's interests."

Probe Of Convict Mutiny Is Begun

Columbia, S. C.—Investigation has been begun by prison officials of the mutiny of prisoners at the state penitentiary here the other day which resulted in the wounding of fourteen men and a guard. Two of the prisoners are in the city hospital and their condition is reported as serious. Apparently the prisoners had planned a general delivery, officials stated, adding that severe punishment would be meted out to the men responsible for the disorder.

Constance Talmadge Files Divorce Suit

Los Angeles, Calif.—Constance Talmadge, motion picture actress, has filed in the superior court here a suit for divorce from John J. Tialoglou, "a natice of Turkeyfi a subject of Greece, native of Turkey, a subject of Greece and a cigar manufacturer of New York," according to the complaint. She charges "cruel and inhuman treatment." They were married September 26, 1920, at Greenwich, Conn., and separated April 5, 1921, the complaint states.

8th U. S. Infantry To Quit Rhineland

Washington.—War department plans now contemplate the return from the Rhine of the Eighth United States infantry, the last combat unit of the A. E. F. to leave Europe, late in June, according to a letter from Secretary Weeks recently sent to Senator William J. Harris of Georgia. The regiment's headquarters will be at Fort Screven, near Savannah. "The exact date of the arrivals at Savannah," Secretary Weeks wrote, "cannot yet be determined." However, it will sail some time in June.

Is Fined Five Cents At Liquor Hearing

Newark, N. J.—A fine of 5 cents was levied against Steve Madura, charged with transporting a half-pint of liquor. "How long have you been in jail awaiting hearing?" asked Federal Judge Lynch. "Five weeks," replied Federal Judge Lynch. "Five weeks," Madura. "You've suffered enough, but I've got to fine you," the court said. "Pay a nickel." Madura didn't have that much money. So the judge paid the fine. Madura left the court room with a long smile beaming on his face.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce my candidacy for State Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District of Alabama, which is composed of the Counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held in August, 1922.

If elected to the Senate of Alabama, I shall support every measure, which proposes to reduce public expeses and thereby relieve the people of the State of some of the burdens of taxation. I shall support every measure, which will abolish useless and unnecessary offices, of which there are many. I shall oppose every measure which directly or indirectly exempts corporations from the payment of lawful taxes. I am not directly or indirectly connected with any corporation in Alabama, nor will I accept any place upon the pay roll of any corporation in this or any other state in the event of my nomination or election to the office of Senator. I am for Henry Ford first, last and all the time.

SOCIAL NEWS

Mrs. T. C. McSWAIN. Editor.

Round Dozen Picnic.

On last Wednesday the Round Dozen Sewing Club was to have a picnic out at Mahan's mill, but owing to the inclement weather, an indoor picnic was had at the residence of Mrs. Hugh Simpson. Those enjoying this occassion were Mesdames Hugh Jones, Watts Moore, Alverson, Luckie, Polk, McSwain, Pearson, Clyde Jones, Armstrong, White and B. M. Roberts.

Bridge Club.

On last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Horea Downs was the charming hostess to the Wednesday Bridge Club. The apartments were very lovely in sweet peas and ferns. Bridge being played at two tables. At the conclusion of the many interesting games it was found that Mrs. Grady Reynolds held the highest score of the Club members, who was presented with two crystal candle sticks and Mrs. Sam Johnson held the highest score of the visitors and was presented with a bunch of sweet peas. The hostess served a salad plate and ice tea. The visitors being Mesdames, Alex Richards, Ross Mullins, and Sam Johnson and Miss Bettie Mullins.

Sunday School Picnic.

On last Thursday Mrs. J. P. Hayes gave her S. S. Class a picnic out at Mims' pond. Each little girl had the pleasure of inviting one, so these little people enjoyed wading and boat riding. Those chaperoning these were Mesdames Hayes, Heard, Gerald, Hugh Jones, Grady Broadhead.

Mrs. J. O. Middleton of Mobile is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Littlejohn.

Messrs Raymond and Jim Roberts are visiting their sister, Mrs. W. T. Holmes at Dothan.

Mr. J. A. Maddox returned Tuesday after sevearl days visit in the northern part of the state.

Mrs. Jadie Maddox and little daughter of Birmingham are visiting the family of Mr. J. D. Maddox.

Mrs. Spencer McMorris of Wetumpka spent Friday with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Eric Hart spent Friday in Birmingham.

Miss Margaret Johnson of Montgomery spent Friday with Mrs. M. L. White.

Mr. and Mrs. Warrick of Birmingham spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White.

Mesdames, White, Crim and Miss Mary Henderson of Mountain Creek spent Tuesday with Mr . M. L. White.

Mrs. Anderson of Montgomery, spent week-end the guest of Mrs. John Browder.

Mrs. Hugh Jones and daughter, spent the week-end in Montgomery.

Mr. Renfro Mullins and son, Edwin, spent the week-end in Motgomery.

Dr. ad Mrs. Dennson of Mitchell Dam spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Browder.

BARN BURNED

We learn with deep regret that the spacious barn of Mr. Jasper Dennis was entirely burned to the ground last Monday night and it, with all its contents, was a total loss. We do not know whether any insurance was carried or not.

Mr. Dennis is one of the most progressive farmers of Chilton county and has learned the secret of how to make farming pay. One good feature about this deplorable fire is the fact that his immense oat crop had not been hauled in but was shocked up in the field and consequently was saved.

The News extends sympathy to Mr. Dennis in his loss.

A SERIES OF VERBENA ROBBERIES

Verbena seems to be running Birmingham a close second in the way of burglaries here recently.

Some two weeks ago some one stole a pick from the railroad tool house and that seems to have set them up in business, for they proceeded then to rob the depot one night, the post office the next and then, apparently feeling like Uncle Sam was able to stand another blow, they returned and robbed the post office again, the last time entirely demolishing the iron safe. They are probably through now as they left the pick on this last job. From all accounts they did not accumulate any great amount of loot out of all the raids.

Mr. J. A. Thacker, of Maplesville Route 1, spent several days last week in Clanton visiting his many friends.

Judge B. K. McMorris, Mrs. S. J. McMorris and Miss Margaret Johnson, of Wetumpka, were Clanton visitors the latter part of last week. Judge McMorris has many friends in Clanton and Chilton County who are always delighted to have him in our town and county.

MR. NEWTON A. KICKER PASSES AWAY

The entire city of Clanton was shocked and made sad last Friday morning when the news was flashed over the city that Mr. Newton A. Kicker was dead.

The deceased was a life time resident of Chilton county and for many years an active and valuable citizen of Clanton. In his career here he has been identified at various periods with the city's affairs in different capacities. As member of the city Council in days gone by he was always active and alert to the best interest of the citizens. He was a prominent mover in securing for Clanton our present excellent sewerage and also our city owned water supply. He was always an earnest advocate of better sanitation and better living conditions. In all matters of public weal he was consistently found battling for betterment. He was city clerk during the days when the deal was consumated that enabled us to secure the present high class sewerage and had much to do with shaping the policies and making the plans for that most important step made by the city towards better health and greater conveniences.

So far as we have ever heard Newton Kicker did not have an enemy. Everybody was his friend and he was the friend of everybody.

Mr. Kicker was for long years a devout and consistent member of the Methodist Church and lived his loyalty to his church and the cause of christianty in his daily life. He was always the unostentatious friend of his pastor and the Sunday School and did what he could to further the interests of the cause in every way.

Death came to him as a thief in the night. A few days previous to the end he had an attack of something like acute indigestion but it had passed away and he was apparently all right again.

Friday morning at his usual early hour, he arose from his bed and began dressing. Sitting down to put on his shoes, he suddenly fell from his chair and even in that brief instant the grim monster had claimed him for his own.

He was buried Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, funeral services being held at the Methodist Church, con ducted by his pastor, Rev .D. M. Pearson. The building was filled to overflowing and the floral offerings were too numorus and beautiful for description. The procession from the church to the city cemetery, where interment took place, was a visible testimony to the esteem held by his friends and neighbors of this [illegible] citizen. More than fifty automobile were in line.

Mr. Kicker leaves a wife, two brothers and two sisters, besides hundreds of friends who will mourn and miss him in their daily life.

Clanton will miss this quiet, peaceable citizen. His friends will feel the void left in their lives by his passing away. His pastor and his church will long sigh for his kindly face and his unostentatious aid and support. As a people we will all sorrow that he is no more.

BACK FROM THE OIL REGION

Mr. Hugh Foshee, who has been out in the oil fields looking after some property he owns out there, back home again for a week days.

He was there and saw that great gas well that blew in and caught fire, the one we read about in the papers. He says it was a wonderful sight.

He received some promising offer for a lease on all or part of his land, but decided to hold off awhile, as one well is going down in one mile of his place and another to be started in a quarter of a mile in a few days. If either of these come in Mr. Foshee can soon write six or seven figures in his bank account.

He intends to go back out there next Tuesday and watch the situation. Here is hoping that even brighter dreams than he has ever had may come true and that he may yet be a millionaire before he [illegible] in.

The new moving picture plant that has been installed in the old Baptist church building is a decided improvement on the old one. The patronage, we believe, will be beter there than at the former stand.

Misses Mary Upchurch and Margaret Hester came back recently from Marion, Ala., where they have both spent a profitable year in Judson College.

COOPER GETS IN STYLE

News reaches us that some light fingered artist or artists called at Cooper one night this week and brought them up-to-date in the way of burglaries.

The DeLoach store was broken open and quite a large amount of plunder spirited away.

No arrests have been made so far as we know and no trace of the rogues has been found.

A few ample doses of good hot lead properly applied will go a long way towards putting a stop to these depredations. If you get the chance shoot and shoot to hit. If they don't fear the law a few loads of buck shot will make them fear the man behind the gun

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT THORSBY

[illegible] Sunday a session of the Chilton County Sunday School Convention met at Thorsby and a most pleasant and profitable meetig resul[illegible]

The program as published was carried out in full and many good talks were listened to by the large audience present.

The special feature that deserves mention was the music for the occasion. It was simply elegant and, like everything else those good Thorsby folks do, it was jam up to the minute, not only in beautiful rendition, but also in being strikingly appreciated for the occassion.

LOCAL BRICK PLANT

It may not be generall known, but Mr. Lewis Thomas has put in operation a plant for brick making out five miles east of the city and is ready now to go in to the market with his first kiln.

Local builders should bear this in mind and see Mr. Thomas before placing their orders for brick. Always patronize home enterprises if you want your community to grow and prosper.

Mr. H. T. Pipes is in Gadsden at[illegible] session of the Commandery of the Knight Templars. He represents the large local lodge here.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the sewer assessments for 1922 are due and payable between May 2nd and June 2nd.

Quite a good many have allowed these assessments to go over unpaid and allowed interest to accumulate against property and some property changed ownership without arranging for payments on same.

It would be well for all who own property against which this charge stands to call and look over your assessment and if convenient, pay up all back charges. This will be the 8th annual assessment. I will be glad to give anyone information with regard to this matter.

J. MELL MARTIN,
Town Clerk.

FOR SALE—One Jersey Cow. Calf ten days old. Good milk and butter cow. See Mr. F. R. WOODYARD.

LOCAL and PERSONAL

Miss Ola Mae Parnell, an attractive young lady from the hustling little city of Stanton, Ala., was the guest of Miss Agnes Kemp last week.

Miss Eva Foshee Mrs. Mary Rollinson, John Ramsey, and W. H. Foshee, were in Clanton last Saturday.

Dick Hayes is at home now from the University of Ala. We predict that but few young men have more friends in the University than he has.

Cecil Smith, son of Col. A. C. Smith of Cooper, is now at home after completing his second year in the Law School in the University of Ala.

Miss Marie Thomas, who taught quite a successful school at Shoults, is now back in Clanton to the delight of her many friends.

Miss Beverly Hester, who was one of the music teachers at Judson College the past school year, returned home last Friday from Marion. Miss Hester is one of the most accomplished musicians in this part of Alabama.

Rother Harris, son of H. A. Harris, has returned from the University of Alabama. He has completed his second year there. He has made an enviable record as student in the University having pulled down "A" GRADES on all of his subjects.

C. Reese Mullins and the business manager of the News made a business trip to Mitchell Dam Tuesday.

Rev. J. T. Gilbert, Messrs G. W. Fox, W. M. Oden, L. L. Seals and Mrs. L. L Seals of Maplesville, were in Clanton Monday

Miss Gertrude Williams, of Verbena, was the guest of friends and relatives here last week.

Joe Mullins has returned from Gulf Port, Mississippi. Joe is now a full fledged graduate of the Gulf Cost Military school. He made quite an excellent record in that institution.

The many friends of Mr. Jasper Dennis regret to learn that his barn with the entire contents was destroyed by fire last Moday night. It was a total loss, there being no insurance.

If you want to hear some of the very best music, attend the church at Thorsby and you will in no wise be disappointed.

Mr. H. J. Foshee, of Maplesville, was in town yesterday looking after business matters.

Tom Crumpton, formerly of Maplesville but now of the Magic City, was a Clanton visitor yesterday. We are glad to note the success that he is making in life. The business manager of the News had the pleasure of teaching him several years ago.

MRS. STEWART DEAD

Mrs. Mary Eula Sartor Stewart, age 56 years, died in Birmingham Tuesday morning, May 23. Her [illegible] mains reached Clanton Tuesday [illegible] noon and was carried by Ma[illegible] the home of her brother, W. H [illegible] tor. Funeral services were condu[illegible] ted from the residence We[illegible] morning at 10:30, by Rev. [illegible] and Rev. Pearson. Burial in [illegible] Cemetery.

The floral offerings were [illegible] profusion and wonderfully [illegible] and expensive. Undertaker J [illegible] Martin was in charge of the funerel and the following prominent citi[illegible] acted as pall bearers:

ACTIVE

Messrs. J. E. Littlejohn, C. E. Bruce, W. H. Hayes, H. T. Pipes, W. A. Sartor, J. W. P. Murphy.

HONORARY

Messrs. W. H. Wright, P. D. Wilson, W. A. Kemp, J. Wiley Littlejohn, M. C. Brordhead, C. Fenn Jon[illegible] M. L. White, Leonard Williams, W[illegible] B. Vance, W. W. Fox, Dr. Neighbors, V. J. Heard, Wiley Ramsey, R. E Luckie, Lonza Williams.

Mr. J. P. Vandeveer ascted as marshal for the occasion.

LOOKS GOOD

A clean up campaign at the new Baptist church was put on th[illegible] the ladies attending to the [illegible] and the men to the grounds outsid[illegible] The work was well done and the im[illegible]provement made in the appearance of things was wonderful.

They also intend to put on an intensive drive to build up their Sunday School work. They are out after the old people as well [illegible] young and they certainly d[illegible] ces[illegible] for the Sunday school [illegible] one of the great[illegible] adjuncts civilization has.

Commencement is now over and a[illegible] of the teachers who do not live he[illegible] have gone home for vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Easterl[illegible] and Miss Jewel McDowell visited Mrs Ed Giles Saturday afternoon and repart a good time.

NOTICE

To the Pastors, Laymen and w[illegible] ers of the Chilton County Bapt[illegible] Association, and all who will co[illegible] are requested to meet with the Unity Association in joint session at Cl[illegible] ton, May 29th, 1922, at 10:00 a. m. This is a very important meeting [illegible] all who are interested in the prog[illegible] of our Association and the Mast[illegible] cause. We would like for the ladi[illegible] to be at this meeting.

ALABAMA LAWS NOT AFFECTED

STATUTES ON CHILD LABOR WILL CONTINUE IN FORCE IN STATE.

WAGE INCREASE ANNOUNCED

Recorder May Try Doctors—Railroad Shop Active—Cotton Mills To Resume.

So far as Alabama is concerned the decision of the supreme court of the United States, declaring the federal child labor act invalid, will have little or no effect, according to a statement issued by Mrs. L. B. Bush, director of the child welfare department of the state. The entire system for enforcement of child labor regulations in this state, she declared, has been based upon the state and not the federal law. The requirements of the child labor law now in force in Alabama, Mrs. Bush said, are fully as high as those of the federal law. She added that both laws have at all times been enforced vigorously and that even a greater effort to safeguard the children of Alabama will be made now that the federal act has been declared void.

CHILD WELFARE LAWS ASKED OF STATE

Montgomery—Legislation looking to the broadening and strengthening of the work of the State Child Welfare Department was recommended in a report submitted by a special committee also recommended legislation for the building up in every county of a modern juvenile court system and the working out of a plan whereby funds from the counties or the state or both can be used for giving specific aid to children and good mothers left destitute by death or desertion. Other recommendations for proposed legislation made by this committee, cover marriage laws, adoption, health laws, apprenticeship, compulsory education, child labor and child-caring institutions.

RECORDER MAY TRY DOCTORS.

Supreme Court Holds City Judge May Decide License Question.

Montgomery—The long fight over the right of the city recorder of of Birmingham to try persons for practising medicine in Birmingham without obtaining licenses from the state board of medical examiners ended when the supreme court held that such power is vested in the recorder.

James A. Edwards, practitioner, was arrested on a charge of practicing without a license. He was convicted and appealed to the circuit court. The circuit court held that the recorder had jurisdiction to try the case. Edwards appealed to the court of appeals, which sustained the lower court| The supreme court declined to interfere with the decision of the court of appeals.

Birmingham—Charges that President D. E. McLendon, president of the city commission, and Commissioner W. B. Cloe "shielded and protected" municipal employes in attempts to graft and that they made pre-election promises of jobs "with reckless abandon" in violation of the law, are contained in the special report of the Jefferson county grand jury, made public Friday. No indictments were returned.

Besides the two commissioners, the brunt of the grand jury's report falls on George Moore, superintendent of the street department, who is accused of attempting to extort $275 from an employe of his department. The jury recommends his immediate discharge, along with Jim Hughes and Barney Phillips, street department employes.

Other alleged deeds of the present city commission which are condemned by the grand jury are the expenditure of about $1,800 for a private toilet, the erection of garages with city labor and material on the property of Commissioner W. B. Dickson and the property of George Moore, and the use of city automobiles for private purposes.

The report also states that the lowest bid for the sale of five motor trucks to the city was disregarded for one $5,200 higher.

Daylight Saving Is Asked.

Mobile—A petition signed by about 75 clerks of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, asking that the city adopt the daylight saving plan for the summer, has been filed with the board of commissioners. A hearing will be given on the matter when arguments for and against the proposal will be heard.

State, county and city law enforcement officers are making war on Mobile gamblers.

35,000 CUBIC YARDS OF ROCK MOVED BY THE BLAST.

Verbena—One of the largest shots ever made in Alabama was touched off by the Alabama Power Company at Mitchell Dam, when a heavy charge of dynamite was set off at the company's quarry about a half mile below the dam, blasting more than 35,000 cubic yards of rock to be used in dam construction.

Preparations extending over a period of five months had been made for the blast. Four large electric well drills had been kept constantly busy at the quarry day and night drilling a total of 17 holes six inches in diameter and 160 feet through the hardest kind of stone, known as hornblend schist.

These holes were loaded with 18,000 pounds of explosives, attached to 3,000 feet of fuse. Everything was in readiness for the shot by 10 o'clock Thursday morning, when the blast was set off and the large mass of quarry rock was shot and shattered ready for use in the dam construction.

TUSCALOOSA RAILROAD SHOPS ACTIVE AGAIN

Tuscaloosa—Another indication of better times was shown this week when the Mobile and Ohio Railroad shops took on all former shop employes and added a number of new workers in all except the car department. They are working full time. It is stated by a Mobile and Ohio boilermaker who has been in the employ of the road about as long as any one connected with the shops here, that there are now more boilermakers in the shops at this point than have been at any time during the past 10 years.

All heavy work which has been heretofore sent to the huge shop at Whistler, near Mobile, is now being done in Tuscaloosa, resulting in the employment of many steel workers, mechanics and men skilled in similar crafts.

Bradford Unable To Collect.

Montgomery—Frank Tally Bradford of Jefferson County, who obtained a judgment for $1,000 against J. F. Dowis, former deputy sheriff, for false arrest, cannot force the National Surety Company, Dowis' bondsman, to pay the judgment under a decision of the supreme court

The company's bond was limited to $2,000. Agnes May Sims obtained a judgment for $2,000 against Dowis and the company and the judgment was paid by the company. The supreme court held that the payment of this amount relieved the National Surety Company of all obligation on the bond.

Stolen Safe Recovered.

Anniston—The iron safe containing between $400 and $500 in cash and checks, stolen from the office of the filling station of the Texas Oil Company here, was located in a field near the Morrisville Road about three miles from the city by some boys, who reported the find to the local manager of the company. The safe had been cut into through the bottom by means of a blacksmith's cleaver and sledge and all of the cash and checks removed except about 30 cents in small change.

Stills Are Captured.

Montgomery—State law enforcement officers as a result of raids carried out in the counties of Morgan and Mobile, captured two stills of 60 gallons capacity each and 1,290 gallons of beer. In Morgan County three men were arrested for alleged violation of the prohibition law and 14 gallons of liquor destroyed. Three men were arrested on charges of operating a still in Lawrence County.

Wage Increase Announced.

Birmingham—A wage adjustment has been effected by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company through which the ore miners will receive an advance in wages of 15 per cent and the coal miners in the employ of the company will receive approximately 10 per cent.

Savage Appointed.

Moulton—Cole Savage of Auburn has been appointed as county demonstration agent in Lawrence County to succeed John F. Yarbrough, recently transferred to Colbert County.

NEWS NOTES.

Dr. H. M. Dobbs of Anniston was one of the five bishops elected by the quadrennial Methodist Conference at Hot Springs, Ark.

Miss Bragie Oglesby died at the home of her parents near Tuscaloosa, after drinking sour milk that had been standing in a tin pail. Three other members of the family were made ill.

Prisoner Commits Suicide.

Mobile—Sidney Bennett, a prisoner in the county jail, awaiting trial for shooting and killing his wife on March 10, last, committed suicide by hanging himself in a cell in the county jail. He used his trousers' belt to commit the dead.

WANTS ABOLITION OF 12-HOUR DAY

LEADERS OF INDUSTRY APPROVE HARDING'S SUGGESTION ON LONG WORK HOURS

COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE

Resolution Adopted Provides Committee To Investigate Problem And Report Findings To Industry

Washington. — Steel manufacturers in conference at the white house with President Harding approved in principle the president's suggestion for the abolition of the 12-hour work day. The forty-one representative leaders of the industry who were present unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing the president of the American Steel and Iron institute to name a committee of five from the steel industry to make a scientific and careful investigation of the matter and to report their conclusions to the industry.

Judge Elbert H. Gray, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, and president of the institute, will name the committee which will make the investigation.

The steel manufacturers were invited to the white house, according to an official statement issued earlier in the evening, to discuss a suggestion of the president that the 12-hour day be abolished for the good of industrial America. Judge Gary, acting as spokesman for the guests when the party dispersed, said the sole purpose of the conference was to consider the question "whether or not it is practicable and desirable to abolish the 12-hour work day."

"The president stated," Judge Gary said, "that he did not desire to interfere with the natural and legitimate progress of business nor to do anything except to assist the industry to meet if possible what is apparently a strong public sentiment. He gave opportunity to all present to express their views of the subject under inquiry and advantage was freely taken of the invitation."

GOLD RESERVES SHOW SLIGHT DROP

Washington.—Total gold reserves as reported by the twelve federal reserve banks for the week ending May 17, were $3,005,143,000. For the last week they totaled $3,005,294,000. For the corresponding week in 1921 ending May 18, they were $2,378,906,000. The largest reserves were reported by New York of $1,164,323,000. Chicago was second, with $453,659,000; San Francisco was third, $256,414,000, and Cleveland fourth, $236,573,000. Remaining reserves were reported in the following order: Philadelphia, $216,500,000; Boston, $184,942,000; Atlanta, $133,905,000; Richmond, $87,341,000; St. Louis, $83,998,000; Kansas City, $79,735,000; Minneapolis, $65,568,000, and Dallas, $42,185,000. Shifting of gold reserves through the gold settlement fund affected chiefly the gold reserves of the New York bank, which show an increase of $34,300,000 for the week, and those of San Francisco and Cleveland, which show decreases of $16,800,000, and $12,000,000, respectively.

Father Charges Heiress With Bigamy

Houston, Texas—A warrant from Oklahoma, charging Ludie E. Kinney with bigamy was served recently by former Sheriff Buck Garrett, of Carter county, Okla. His wife, Mrs. Opal Delana Kinney, better known as Opal Roxroat, heiress, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in Ardmore last January, was unable to stand when the warrant was served. She was still suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident about two weeks ago.

To Reopen Mine On Coal Demands

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The Durham Coal and Iron company announces that the mines at Graysville, Tenn., which had been idle for the past year, will be placed in operation at once in order to meet demands for coal from northern and eastern points. It was at the same time announced that another mine near Soddy, Tenn., would be reopened as soon as sufficient miners could be secured.

Hard Coal Miners Refuse Wage Cut

New York.—Representatives of the anthracite coal operators recently proposed that the miners accept wage reductions averaging 21 per cent in settlement of the strike called last April 1. The offer was refused point blank by leaders of the miners' organization, headed by Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America. The hard coal diggers will remain on strike until they are granted the 20 per cent increase included in the 19 demands made nine weeks ago, Mr. Murray declared.

Urges U. S. Presence On Reparations

Washington.—Representation of the United States on the reparations commission was urged by the chamber of commerce of the United States in a resolution adopted the other day at its tenth annual meeting. The resolution declared "that all necessary measures, including approval by congress, should be taken speedily." The chamber also adopted a resolution urging "that our government promptly take its place with the other nations of the world in the international court of justice." The meeting then adjourned.

CHILD LABOR TAX INVALID

Anti-Child Labor Advocates See Only Hope In Constitutional Amendment

Washington.—Any federal ban on child labor appears to be impossible for years to come, as a result of the Supreme court's action in holding invalid the federal tax on child labor products that enter interstate commerce.

This tax constituted the second attempt of congress to outlaw child labor. Previously the court held unconstitutional a law which directly prohibited employment of minors in the manufacture of any products entering interstate commerce.

Advocates of anti-child labor legislation fear now that the only possible way of establishing any federal barrier against the employment of children in industry would be through amendment of the constitution. Such an amendment, it is agreed, could not be passed and ratified by three-fourths of the states for several years.

Nevertheless, advocates of such legislation are studying the decisions of the court in the hope of finding some loophole which will enable them to attempt again to establish an effective prohibitory law.

This last decision, as did the court's first decree several years ago, knocked out the anti-child labor law on the ground that it was an invasion of states' rights. Many of the states have effective laws of their own in this respect. The federal legislation was directed primarily at the cotton mill districts of the South and some mining regions.

These opinions were handed down on the question by the court. The first dodged the question of the validity of the law by declaring that it was a moot question whether or not the act was constitutional, because the children involved in this particular case had become of age due to the long pendency of the case in the Supreme court.

In the second case, the court said it had not been properly appealed.

Mumps Attack "Child Crusaders"

Washington.—Child crusaders seeking the ear of President Harding with a plea for their political prisoner fathers, are now confronted with an internal foe. Mumps has broken out in the crusaders' camp. The health department first learned that one of the children had become afflicted with the familiar ailment and Mrs. Kate R. O'Hare, leader of the juvenile expedition, called at the health department to report eight more cases in her ranks. It is stated that all the stricken children are to be cared for in a Washington hospital.

Flood Drives 5,000 More From Homes

New Orleans, La.—Probably 5,000 homeless refugees will be added to the 60,000 already made homeless, or otherwise seriously affected by the floods, as a result of the breaks in the levee on Bayou Des Glaises, near Hamburg, La., according to estimates by Red Cross refugee workers. The recent break increases the total area flooded to more than 5,500 square miles in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Narcotics Bill Waits On President

Washington.—Passed unanimously in the House and Senate, the narcotic bill, putting additional "teeth" in the Harrison act, recently awaited the signature of President Harding to become effective. A federal commission, comprising the Secretaries of State, Treasury and Commerce, and to be known as the Federal Narcotic Control Board, was created by the bill to carry into effect prohibitory provisions of the

Rulings Favor Foreign Oil Interest

Mexico City, Mex.—The fourth and fifth decisions against the retro-activity of article 27, were rendered recently, establishing a precedent and giving security to property rights acquired previous to the Constitution in 1917. As in two previous decisions this week, the vote was 9 to 1, Justice Sabido alone dissenting.

Self-Defense Will Be Plea Of Student

Stilwater, Okla.—Self defense will be the plea of Earl Gordon, Miami, Okla., who shot and killed Beckham Cobb, Birmingham, Ala., at the Oklahoma A. & M. college, where both were vocational students, according to announcement by the former's attorneys. Gordon's preliminary hearing on a charge of murder will be held May 13.

Lady Astor Scores Society Climbers

Chicago.—"The woman who attends prize fights, the woman who keeps her husband's nose to the grindstone because of her personal demands and vulgar ambitions to outshine and outdo her next-door neighbor are just as hampering to real civilization as the old-fashioned and now out-of-fashion barroom loafer and more so," Lady Astor said in an address to some society women here. The ears of the women burned and turned red when she told them some of them worked their husbands overtime.

U. S. Declines Invitation To Parley

Washington.—America has declined invitation to participate in The Hague conference on Russia. The note to the powers assembled at Genoa, by Secretary Hughes, declares: "This government is unable to conclude that it can helpfully participate in the meeting of The Hague as this would appear to be a continuance under a different nomenclature of the Genoa conference and destined to encounter the same difficulties if the attitude disclosed in the Russian memorandum of May 11 remains unchanged."

TRUCE AND SECOND PARLEY AGREED TO

NON-AGGRESSION TRUCE PACT UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED AT PLENARY MEETING

U. S. NOT TO ENTER HAGUE

Agenda Of Two Commissions Are Outlined In Agreement—Six Clauses Are In Agreement

Genoa.—The non-aggression truce pact at the plenary meeting of the political subcommission of the Genoa conference was not signed, but was adopted in the form of a resolution, each state pledging itself to respect it.

The agreement for a truce, or temporary pact of non-aggression, contains six clauses, summarized as follows:

Clause 1—Provides for the appointment of a commission by the powers to examine again the divergencies existing between the soviet and other governments, and with a view to meeting a Russian commission having the same mandate.

Clause 2—Not later than June 30, the names of the powers represented on the non-Russian commission, and the names of the members of this commission will be transmitted to the soviet government, and reciprocally, the names of the members of the Russian commission will be communicated to the other governments.

Clause 3—The questions to be treated by these commissions will comprise debts, private properties and credits.

Clause 4—The members of the two commissions must be at The Hague on June 26.

Clause 5—The two commissions will strive to reach joint resolutions on the questions mentioned in clause three.

Clause 6—To permit the commissions to work peacefully, and also to re-establish mutual confidence, the soviet government and its allied republics, on the one side, and the other governments ,on the other, pledge themselves to abstain from any act of aggression and subversive propaganda. The pledge for abstaining from any act of aggression will be based upon the present status quo and will remain in force for a period of four months after the conclusion of the work of the commissions.

The pledge concerning propaganda will oblige the governments not to interfere in any way in the internal affairs of other states, and not to assist financially or by any other means political organizations in other countries, and will oblige them to suppress in their territory "any attempt to commit acts of violence in other states or aiming to disturb the territorial of political status quo."

Sir Edward Grigg announced on behalf of the British delegation that further advices had been received from the United States government and that it did not seem likely the United States would participate in The Hague meeting, at least until the scope of the meeting was better understood.

UNIFICATION OF TWO CHURCHES IS VOTED

Commission Is Authorized "To Go All The Way" On Uniting With Northern Methodism

Hot Springs, Ark.—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in session here, recently, voted, after sharp debate, to "go all the way" in the matter of proposed unification with the Methodist Episcopal church, and authorized the appointment of a commission, with liberty of action, to negotiate with a similar commission of the northern branch. In authorizing previous commissions the church has always stipulated certain restrictions as to the limits of their powers.

Recent action came when the conference adopted a majority committee report providing for appointment of a negotiations commission, with the possibility of calling a special session of the southern branch's general conference in the event plans worked out by the joint commission should be ratified by the northern commission and conference.

Celebrated Confederate Woman Dead

Asbury Park, N. J.—Mrs. Jane Bowly, who serve the Confederacy during the Civil war as a dispatch bearer, died at her summer home here in her 93rd year the other day. Mrs. Bowly —who was the friend of Gen. R. E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Longstreet—formerly of Baltimore, was born in Charleston, S. C., and her body will be taken there and intered in Magnolia cemetery, where the remains of many celebrated historic characters repose. She is survived by three children.

Gifford Pinchot Wins Decisive Victory

Philadelphia.—Returns received on the vote cast at the recent primary for the Republican nomination for governor, gave Gifford Pinchot a lead of 9,456, with 285 district missing. Figures received from 7,649 out of 7,934 in the state gave: Pinchot 499,647 and George E. Alter 490,191. These figures include the complete vote of Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, which were carried by Alter. The new nominee is one of the best known characters in the whole country, and is of the Roosevelt type.

FIVE BISHOPS ARE ELECTED

Methodists Chose Hay, Beauchamp, Dickey, Dobbs And Boaz For Their New Prelates

Hot Springs, Ark.—After taking five ballots which resulted in the election of four of the five bishops to be named at the time, the nineteenth quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, here, recessed for a few hours, after which the next ballot of the Episcopal elections will take place.

These men were elected bishops at the recent session: Dr. J. E. Dickey Griffin, Ga.; Dr. W. H. Beachamp Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. Sam R. Hay Houston, Texas, and Dr. H. M. Dobbs Anniston, Ala.

Doctors Dickey and Beauchamp went over on the second ballot, receiving 194 and 209 votes, respectively. Dr. Hay was elected on the third ballot with 191 votes, while Dr. Dobbs won on the fourth with 256 votes.

The first and fifth ballots were declared "no elections" as none of the candidates received the required majority of 189 votes.

The fifth ballot was not completed until recently. Dr. H. A. Boaz, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Texas, was high with 143 votes and O. E. Goddard, of Nashville, was second with 140. Dr. Goddard is home mission secretary. The election of Dr. Dobbs was a surprise to the large number of workers who had been active in the support of others. His friends said they had made no active campaign in his behalf and the bishop-elect declared that his election was entirely a surprise to him. He is pastor of the First Methodist church of Anniston.

Dr. Dickey has been in church educational work many years and formerly was president of the Emory university at Atlanta. Dr. Beauchamp acted as director of the missionary centenary and has long been a figure in the church. Dr Hay also has been prominent in the work of the church many years and is pastor of the first church of Houston.

COTTON IS AGAIN AT A NEW HIGH RECORD

New York.—Longs again stepped on accelerator as the New York cotton exchange opened and boosted values, recently, to a new high level for 1922, sending May above 21 cents, and new crop months to a new crest for the movement, the net gain over the previous close being from 12 to 27 says a correspondent. The opening quotations were May 21.20; July 20.45; October 20.48, and Decemebr 20.43.

As the record figures were reached there was a general scramble to unload and some short selling. When the reaction had spent itself, a new buying movement set in with trade houses, outsiders, the South and European contests clamoring for cotton, and prices soon were moving back towards the high.

The new "high" showed an advance of more than $8 a bale over the previous close a week ago, and from $21 to $25 a bale over the low levels of last March.

Boaz Is Elected To Fifth Bishopric

Hot Springs.—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in session here, completed its Episcopal elections by naming Dr. Hiram A. Boaz, of Dallas, Texas, as the fifth bishop to be chosen at this session; revised the machinery of its board of missions and began the election of general board secretaries over which the conference has direct supervision.

Suzanne Lenglen Again Wins Easily

Brussels — Both Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California, and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the world's woman tennis champion, survived recent rounds of the international hard court championship tournament here, the French star sweeping through two love sets against her opponent, Mrs. Dupont. pont.

Chinese Warfare Breaks Out Again

Honolulu, Hawaii.—Hostilities between the Chinese armies of Gen. Wu Pei Fu and General Chang Tso Lin have begun all over again, according to a dispatch received at Tokio and forwarded to the Jiji, Japanese language newspaper here. The report declares that it is anticipated that fighting will continue with increasing vigor.

Four Were Killed As Bridge Fell

Marlin, Texas.—Four persons are known to have been drowned and four others were reported missing following the collapse, the other day, of the Marlin-Belton bridge, five miles west of here over the Brazos river. The structure gave way while under repair. Four bodies had been taken out of the river. Two persons were seen clinging to a raft several miles down stream, a report says. The high water three weeks ago cut into the approach on the west side of the bridge, and finally gave way.

Approves Additional Vets' Hospitals

Washington.—Director Forbes of the veterans' bureau announces that President Harding has approved bureau plans for construction of new hospitals for former service men at Northampton, Mass.; Livermore, Calif.; Camp Lewis, Wash.; in New York state one within fifty miles of New York City and another in the Adirondack section; Gulfport, Miss., and one in the tenth veterans' bureau district, which includes Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana. The director is much pleased.

BETTER CARE OF PIGS NECESSARY

Smaller Litters Are Reported in Many Parts and Crop Will Be Below Normal.

SOWS WERE IMPROPERLY FED

Besides Feeding Sanitation Is Big Problem for Grower—Young Animals Will Not Thrive if Permitted to Run Loose.

(Prepared by Information Service, Iowa State College, Ames.)

Small litters of pigs are reported in many parts this spring and indications are that the pig crop will be far below normal. This will mean that better care of the surviving pigs will be necessary if the nation's supply of animals is kept anywhere near the average.

The reason for the shortage of pigs is explained by the fact that, due to the cheapness of corn the past winter, it was fed in large amounts to brood sows, while tankage, or protein balancer for the ration, was comparatively high priced and was not given to the animals in large amounts. As a result many of the sows are farrowing pigs that are weak.

Sanitation Most Important.

In order to keep those pigs successfully farrowed, proper feeding is not the only problem of the farmer. Lack of sanitation carries off more pigs than does improper feeding. Dr. K. W. Stouder, veterinarian at Iowa State college, has found that where pigs are allowed to live "anywhere" they will often develop into runts with bull nose and snuffles and soon die due to unknown diseases. A streak of wet weather will start pigs going backward, especially where they are allowed muddy quarters. Soon infections break out in their gums or jaws and faces become distorted and "bull nose" is the result. When the infection causes the cutting off of the wind by pressing on the nostrils "snuffles" results. Often this infection gets down into the stomach and intestines and death is not far away.

The Number of Pigs Saved Will Pay for This House in a Single Year and You Have the Building Left.

Often a pig, although the sow is furnishing plenty of good milk, becomes thin and scrawny and soon dies. Although many names have been given this disease, Doctor Stouder says that it is the result of "filth infection." The germs which cause the trouble are frequent in old manure piles and wallows where bacteria thrive.

Experiments with pigs show that where the pigs are allowed to run on good blue grass pasture the majority of the litter survive, while pigs confined to yards where they have to run through mud and under sheds die in 50 per cent of the cases before they get their growth.

Movable Hog House Favored.

The farmer who has a large number of pigs can well afford to build a movable hog house. Such houses, designed by the Iowa experiment station at Ames, have been used for a number of years and have proven their worth. Recently requests for plans were received from Italy where some farmers had heard of the houses and wanted to try them. These houses are inexpensive, easily kept clean and can be pulled from one field to another. They can be turned so that sunlight is allowed to enter and are arranged so that plenty of ventilation is provided for. The feature of the house is the manner in which sunlight is allowed to enter through the top.

The movable hog house is also easily disinfected at any time and if several are used the hogs and pigs can be transferred from one to another while cleaning is being done.

Rotation of hog pastures prevents infestations by parasites, such as worms which get into the soil and affect the entire herd.

CHEAP SEED MOST EXPENSIVE

Poor Strain of Alaska Peas Sown in Maryland and Delaware Resulted in Loss.

It pays to know the parentage and quality of seed. In 1920 some 1,700 acres of a poor strain of Alaska peas were sown in Maryland and Delaware, resulting in loss to the canners as this strain when canned became dark and of course was not of much value for the market. Cheap seed is often most expensive.—LeRoy Cady, associate horticulturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

MANY GARDEN PLANTS ARE SOWN TOO THICK

To Produce Best Vegetables Thinning Out Is Necessary.

Many Gardeners Use More Seeds Than Needed Under Expectation of Securing Fuller Stand—Some Must Be Pulled.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Thin your garden crops to an even stand if you want to produce good vegetables.

Gardeners usually sow more seeds than are necessary, under the expectation of getting a fuller stand, or at least of having enough. This results in no particular harm except the waste of seeds, provided the plants are thinned before they begin to crowd each other.

Peas very seldom need any thinning, as they will thrive when planted quite close together. Beans planted five seeds to the hill and the hills 12 inches apart will not need to be thinned, but if six or seven seeds have been dropped it will be desirable to thin them, leaving only four or five in the hill. Corn should always be thinned to three or four stalks in the hill, the weaker stalks being pulled out, leaving only the best. Radishes, unless too thick, can be allowed to stand, thinning being accomplished by pulling up plants for table use as they reach edible size.

Lettuce is generally sown entirely too thickly and, to thin the bed, the small or medium-sized plants can be pulled out and used. Some of the plants may be lifted and transplanted, spacing them three or four inches in each direction, so that they will develop into distinct heads for use later. Beets are usually planted entirely too thickly, partly due to the fact that each seed ball contains two or three seeds and, as a rule, every one of these seeds grow. They should be thinned to stand not closer than two inches apart in the row. Still later every other beet should be pulled out. This last thinning, however, can be postponed until the beets are large enough to use.

Carrots and parsnips are generally sown too thickly and must be thinned. The thinning should be done just as soon as the plants are large enough to pull out, and as they are thinned a little loose soil should be worked in around the plants that are left. Two or two and one-half inches is about the right distance to leave the carrots, and three to five inches for parsnips.

The gardener may be reluctant to pull out nice, thrifty plants, but he should remember that if all are allowed to remain few, if any, will mature satisfactorily.

WINDBREAKS PROVE POPULAR

Undertaking Meeting With Favor in Minnesota—Conifers and Deciduous Trees Planted.

The planting of windbreaks, which was started in Minnesota as an extension project in co-operation with the state forest department, has proven, in a little over a year, to be a very popular undertaking wherever it has been taken up. Demonstrations of windbreaks have been established under the direction of forestry experts, and trees have been furnished by the forest experiment station at Cloquet. Inspections have been made by a representative of the forestry department. In 14 counties 72 demonstrations of windbreaks have been given. This work has been done through 1920 and 1921, and in some counties plans are already made for 1922 and 1923 plantings. A year's preparation of the soil is required before the windbreak is set out. Both conifers and deciduous trees are included.

TOOLS AND MACHINERY RUST

Best Plan to Prevent Depreciation Is Liberal Use of Paint and Grease in Spring.

Many farm tools and machines rust and rot out rather than wear out. The best way to prevent this depreciation, which, unlike wear, goes on both winter and summer if the tools are exposed, is to use paint and grease to save the cost of new tools or parts in the spring. A little paint on wooden parts prevents warping, checking, and rotting; oil on wearing surfaces of cultivator, mowing machine, or binder, and common axle grease smeared on the bright parts of plows, will cut winter depreciation in two.

WHERE THE HENS LAY ALL WINTER

Colony Poultry House Will Keep Flock Productive.

MORE EGGS FROM WARM HOME

Design Illustrated Here Will Keep Out the Winds and at Same Time Permit Plenty of Fresh Air and Light.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Owners of poultry flocks may gain some worth while ideas about flock housing and management from the professionals who are about the only ones who succeed in making poultry pay a profit. To the average person who owns chickens they are a source of pleasure and fresh eggs, with but little actual knowledge of whether or not they are an asset or a liability.

In the first place, it is a pretty well recognized fact that a flock of less than 100 birds cannot be made to pay their feed bills and have anything left for the labor of caring for them. Next, the average poultry owner pays little attention to the house the flock occupies in winter—any old building that has four walls and a roof is looked upon as sufficient. The wind and snow sweep through the cracks in the poultry house and the feed the birds consume is used up to keep them from freezing rather than to produce eggs. And this, too, when everyone knows that the time when eggs are worth gathering is the time when the hens, or a majority of them, are not laying.

The common, everyday hen of the American farm and backyard flocks are natives of tropical countries. True, she has been acclimated to the colder northern climate, but to do her best work she must be kept warm and comfortable in winter. That's why successful poultrymen pay a great deal of attention to the house for the flock in winter, and farm building architects have designed houses that will keep out the winds, and at the same time permit a supply of fresh air and plenty of light.

For convenience in handling good-size flocks, there has come into general use what is known as a colony poultry house. Almost invariably these houses are 20 feet wide and as long as the size of the flock requires. This size is gauged by providing four square feet of floor space for each bird. The colony house shown in the accompanying illustration is 20 feet wide and 64 feet long, giving a total of 1,280 square feet of floor space, or sufficient for 320 birds.

As will be seen by the floor plan of the house, the interior is divided into four sections, each 16 feet by 20 feet. In each of these sections 80 birds are kept, although doors permit the owner to throw the whole of the interior together. But, as success with poultry requires that the young pullets that are just beginning to lay should be kept separate from the older hens, or breeding stock, few poultrymen allow the whole flock to run together.

This house is what is known as the saw-tooth roof type. It is of frame construction, set on a concrete foundation. The open, or saw-tooth roof front faces the south so as to get advantage of the winter sun and the warmth it provides. The front of the lower half of the building is open to provide good ventilation, but inside are burlap curtains that are lowered at night and on extremely cold days. In the upright section of the roof are large windows, one over each section of the house. These allow light to get to the back part of the interior. How the nests and roosts are arranged is shown on the plan.

There is a great deal more to insure success with a flock of poultry than a house, of course. This includes feeding, which is most important. But with every care the poultryman may take, he will have little success in bringing on layers during the cold months unless a proper house is provided.

Experiments by poultry specialists at the state agricultural colleges with artificial lighting to promote egg production during the short days have been most interesting. It now has been proven that artificial lights, principally electric, that are turned on early in the morning, will double winter egg production, providing, of course, the hens do not utilize all their feed to promote warmth. After the hens have gone to roost at night, their morning feed is scattered in the litter. Then when the lights are turned on, usually about 4 a. m., they get off the perch, are forced to take exercise to get their breakfasts and are kept in an active, healthy condition, and produce a comparatively large number of eggs.

Handling a flock of poultry is interesting work and can be made very profitable now that poultry products are high and feed costs low. With the proper sort of a house and careful feeding and handling, the owner will find their flock a cash-producing asset.

HAD CRUDE IDEA OF WORLD

In the Thirteenth Century People Had Very Simple Notions Concerning Geographical Facts.

Geography in the Thirteenth century was a very simple affair, which could be completely mastered by a schoolboy with a few minutes' study. The most reliable map pictured a little flat world of three continents, Europe, Asia and Africa. On its face appears the various kinds of creatures, human, animal and semi-human, which were believed to inhabit the remote regions of the earth. The holy city of Jerusalem is placed in the exact center, and at the extreme east is the Garden of Paradise, represented by an apple tree, Adam and Eve and the serpent.

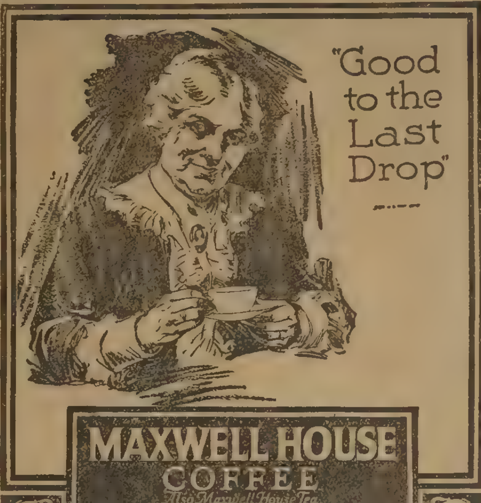
The earth itself is bounded on the four quarters by the "jumping-off place." In the southern part of Africa appears the figure of a strange man whose face appears to be on his chest. Elsewhere are griffins, unicorns and several creatures which completely defy classification. This map is interesting to contrast with that studied in ancient China, which represented the known world as resting on the back of a cow. Some of the old Chinese declared that, after an earthquake they had found some of the cow's hairs in the fissures of the earth.

Chestnuts.

An old writer says that horse-chestnuts are so called because "people in the East countries do with the fruit thereof cure their horses of the cough, shortness of breath, and such-like diseases." It is always a temptation to seek for an ingenious explanation when there is a simple one at hand, but the fact is that the horse-chestnut has no connection whatever with the horse. The word "horse," as used not only in horse-chestnut, but also in horse-laugh, horse-play, horse-radish, and horse-mint, is the same word as "goose," the common name of the rough, prickly shrub of our commons. The horse-chestnut deserves its prefix doubly, for when inclosed in its burr it is a prickly thing to handle, and its kernel is acid and unpleasant to the taste. Similarly, the horse-radish is a pungent tuber and the horse-mint a pungent mint. Horse-play is rough, uncouth play, and a horse-laugh is a vulgar, boisterous guffaw.

And It Is Called Food.

A Malayan diet includes, besides any amount of canned foods, an occasional fresh piece of tough goat meat or beef, oranges, always eaten green, bananas of all flavors and sizes, limes, and an unusual fruit called the durian, which is described as a huge, green, round, spikey fruit which smells worse than a combination of limberger cheese, the mephitis (our notorious musteline mammal) and a garbage and sewage plant, and tastes like a blend of strawberries, onions, chocolate creams, rotten eggs, and cheese. Whether you like it depends entirely upon yourself. Then there are some five thousand other fruits and an occasional fresh fish.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.



Potash for Side Dressing

For side dressing cotton, corn and other Southern crops.

200 pounds Kainit, or
125 pounds 20 per cent Manure Salt, or
50 pounds of Muriate of Potash, furnish the same amount of Actual Potash which is so profitable in preventing cotton rust and in increasing the yield of cotton, corn and general crops.

These are the three Standard German Potash Salts that have been used for generations to great advantage in the South.

Having planted the crop, one cannot afford to let it starve. A good side dressing may make all the difference between success and failure.

Talking about unfinished business, the present Congress has broken records. One thing a great many of them are doing most successfully and that is making a finish of their public career.

There may be some excuse for a real ugly old maid to mess up her face with a lot of grease paint, but it is an actual sin the way some lovely girls disfigure their winsome beauty with a mass of unhealthy cosmetics. Then just think how hard it is on "Dear Cholly" when he wants a real kiss and what a serious time he has cleaning up his coat front after some fair blushing face has hid its happiness there.

Is Birmingham Going Back?

Kidnapping parties have been quite frequent in Birmingham of late. The victims, up to last week, had principally belonged to a shady element of society and nothing much has been said or done about it. Last Wednesday night, however, these bold, bad knights of the gun and lash waited on Dr. Dowling, the efficient county and city health officer, carried him to a lonely spot some 15 miles from the city and lashed him unmercifully.

In consequence of the prominence of the victim, the whole city and county is aroused and indignant and righteously so, but the idea suggests itself that if they had become aroused and indignant when these other less prominent victims were beat up by this mob element and took proper steps to see that the perpetrators were summararily dealt with, that this invasion of the ranks of the more respectable citizanship might not have occurred.

The element that perpetrates such cowardly and sneaking villianies as these are not only a deadly menance in a community they bring disgrace and great moral as well as financial injury to that community in which they operate. They cannot be put behind the bars any too quick.

Birmingham seems to have made a a reversion in form and gone backward at least thirty years in her moral standards. She once had the reputation of being the most lawless and wicked city in Alabama, and, unless they spew out this element from their midst and see to it that the heavy hand of the law is invoked, and its most rigid penalties enforced, the fair name and fame of that splendid city they have builded with so much care in recent years, will suffer seriously in the estimate of the public at large. We hope they will apprenend every one of these miscreants and make an example of them that will do good for years to come.

Thorsby has a newspaper now—the Tribune. We infer from the initial copy that it is non-political. We predict for it a successful career, for those good people at Thorsby are progressive and wide awake and get behind every laudadable enterprise that comes among them. We wish the Tribune all the success in the world.

Just think how many hungry mouthes and naked backs the farmer has to keep up. He has to make all the whole world eats and wears. We should all remember in our prayers to ask for favorable seasons for him year in and year out.

The great organization of labor known as the United Mine Workers of America died quietly in the hands of the Harding administration. The railroad unions are slated to go next and we expect to see them as quietly disappear. Low wages, piece work and high rations will always do the trick. The tariff bill hit organized labor the final death blow.

If a man has a few thousand dollars he can commit murder, rape, arson or any and all of these crimes, go into court, be tried and convicted, take an appeal and then another appeal, and then another appeal and so on ad-infinitum, stay out of jail, go on with his crookedness and live out his life in security all because our laws and the people who enforce them are a farce. How can we expect people and criminals to respect a law that never does what it promises to do? Let's turn the wheel back.

Voting For the Man.

One of the most encouraging signs of the times for the moral social and financial improvement of our county is a widely growing disposition of the people to discard party lines and vote for the man whom they deem cleanest and best qualified for the office. For years and years the good people of Chilton county have lived along strict party lines and what has been the result? The Bible tells us that a "house divided against itself will fall," still we have been trying it out, year after year, and have been reaping our reward. We have one of the finest counties in the state, an ideal location for manufacturing industrios, the best place in the South today for a cotton mill, but capital turns a deaf ear to our calls because at home we are divided. We chill the blood in every enterprise that would come among us because we measure out our support on political party lines. Home enterprise is cramped because this party issue looms up and the enmities engendered by the past recurring campaigns have lasted out from year to year, and the necessary cooperation that writes success in any community or undertaking is lacking

It has been urged that we need two parties to insure good local government. When you come to think of it, that is the most absurd falacy ever used in a political argument. With our present system of primary elections what better opportunity could possibly be afforded for a united and independent people to always eliminate the bad and elect the good? In a primary election all the selection of a candidate is left absolutely in the hands of the people. Can that possibly be true when you have two distinct parties, each fighting to win and each offering candidates only acceptable to one element of the people and not at all satisfactory to the other? It is a physical impossibility to select the choice of a majority of all the people by a strictly party vote.

The idea of fighting in Chilton county a bitter, and at most times in the past, a dirty political battle, as between the republican and democratic parties, is the most ridiculous thing imaginable when you size it up. What can either side possibly gain by it? Chilton county can not appreciably affect the result in the State or Nation no matter how we vote. Our fights are strictly local and no one suffers but us. In all conscience, it looks like we had suffered long enough. Why immure ourselves into business isolation and stagnation, both at home and abroad, just to gratify the political whims of any particular person or persons for office, especially so, if they are afraid to go before the whole people and leavo their cause in the hands of all the voters?

When the day dawns in Chilton county and the people awake from this dream about "two parties," and go in to the primaries detirmined to select the very best available material for their public servants, prosperity, as never before will unfurl her banner here, industries will begin to hum and a happy and united people will mix and mingle freely together in their various social functions, while a rainbow of happiness and plenty will plant its bow on the banks of the Coosa and shed its raidiance across to our western borders.

Let us bury the unpleasant memories of the past, the bickerings and strife brought about by party politics, and go in to the fall elections unmindful of party lines, but as a reunited people, let us choose our public servants with an eye single to their honesty and fitness alone. Close the book on the past and write a new chapter in a new volumn with your votes this fall that will tell of unity and harmony to come.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

SOME INFLUENCES

IN THESE days of doing big things, which cannot be done properly without putting into them the hardest kind of work, accompanied with undeviating concentration of thought, there is a disposition among certain classes of employees to allow disturbing influences to belittle their efficiency.

Trifling as these retarding breaks may seem to the young man or woman who is inclined to entertain them, if not overcome, they soon become formidable barriers in blocking the way to progress.

The thoughts of last night's rollicking play or gay dances, as they come trooping before you in the morning when you take your place at your desk, may unfit you for the day's work.

Under their influence your mind wanders, eludes control and places you at a positive disadvantage with the man or woman who is able to think clearly and make every stroke count.

Columns of figures refuse to prove themselves; words are misspelled; hands tremble and nerves tingle. In your dismay you wonder what has come over your usual placidity.

At the next desk is a worker twice as much in earnest and not one-quarter so flurried. This timidity of yours is proof of the presence of disturbing influences, which are digging pitfalls about your feet and leading you blindfolded to the brink.

The very flexibility and ease with which this is done, fail to arouse your suspicion until in someway or another you sense that you are standing on a precarious base, in imminent danger of toppling over.

And thousands of others, like you, through disturbing influences, are standing helpless at the brink, disconcerted and miserable.

Yesterday you and they were certain of the future.

Today everything is in doubt, simply because of the lack of sufficient will-power to drive frivolous thoughts from the mind and to step down on the solid ground of common sense.

And these same disturbing influences have been fooling with mankind since the foundation of the world!

FAMILY DESSERTS

TAPIOCA is a dessert that may be used in many combinations and is always a wholesome dessert for children.

Peach Tapioca.

Drain a can of peaches from the liquor or juice, using a pint of the fruit if home canned; sprinkle the peaches with one-third of a cupful of powdered sugar and let stand an hour; soak one cupful of tapioca one hour in cold water to cover, add enough of the peach syrup to make three cupfuls, heat to the boiling point; add tapioca drained from the cold water, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar and one-half of a teaspoonful of salt; cook over hot water until the tapioca is clear. Line a pudding dish with the quartered peaches, turn in the tapioca and bake slowly in a moderate oven for 35 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream.

Cracker Custard Pudding.

Soak three-fourths of a cupful of cracker crumbs in one quart of scalded milk; cool, add one-third of a cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of butter, two eggs slightly beaten, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and the same of lemon, with salt to taste. Bake slowly one hour in a moderate oven, spread with a meringue, return to the oven and brown delicately; serve with vanilla sauce.

Coffee Jelly With Cream.

Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water one-half hour, dissolve in one cupful of boiling water, strain and add two cupfuls of clear coffee, one-third of a cupful of sugar and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Turn into a ring mould, chill, unmould on a serving dish, fill the center with sweetened

FAREWELL SERVICE SUNDAY NIGHT

The farewell service of the Rev. P. G. Carter, Pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, will be held next Sunday, May 28th, beginning at 8:00 p. m. At the morning service an account will be given of the Southern Baptist Convention recently held at Jacksonville, Fla. Following the morning service a call conference of the church will be held.

The services next Sunday will close a pastorate of two years and four months which is a longer pastorate than any of the previous ministers for the past twenty years.

During this time the magnificent church building has been erected at a total investment of $36000.00, the Sunday School doubled and the congregation trebled. Eighty-two members have been added to the roll. This is the best record in the history of the church. Regret among the citizens of Clanton and throughout the entire county is expressed at the resignation, and thereby the loss to the community of th splendid services rendered in behalf of the moral and civic interests of Clanton, the entire county, and the Chilton and Unity Baptist Association. It is anticipated that a large appreciative audience will be present at the evening service to which everybody is cordially invited.

Mr. H. T. Pipes, the efficient railroad supervisor on the Birmingham and Montgomery Division of the L. & N. and a splendid citizen of our city, left Saturday to visit his son and family in Atlanta, Ga. Says he just had to go to see those little grand children.

We don't register much annoyan at the bobbed hair fad because are too old to be in the game an more, but there is nothing more bea tiful on earth than a girl with pl of waving ringlets cutely fixed aro a piquant face. A real lover's ki with golden curls blowing arou your face is a memory to carry wi you through life.

The great fad of discarding all old time ideals and laughing to sco the methods and policies of our fat ers has about run its course, and w notice a tendency all over the cou try to turn back towards safety a sanity. It reminds us of how litt chicks fly back and hover under t mother hen when the hawk appea in the air.

One great cause for such outbreak as Birmingham is passing through the failure of our courts to properl function. We have too many ridic lous laws and we also have too man avenues of delay and too many mi carriages of justice on account of t quirks and tricks that put off an postpone and finally defeat the end of justice entirely. People are rapid ly loosing respect for the law becau it has ceased to function.

There is some little excitemen about mad dogs in the communit now. It is a good idea to giv strange dogs a wide berth now.

WHY—
ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The [illegible] partially dissolved, forms a very [illegible] film or skin over the air which, [illegible] deavoring to force its way [illegible] This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and [illegible] film out at an equal [illegible] center of the [illegible] forming a perfect sphere or ball [illegible] the moment the bubble is first [illegible]

However, after [illegible] floating for a few moments, [illegible] drips down toward the bottom [illegible] ball and collect there in drops [illegible] weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it bursts through the film and the bubble [illegible]

Virginia Lee

Many will recall that during the World war there appeared on navy [illegible] seeking recruits a very pretty [illegible]—that was Virginia Lee. "What's in a Name?"
MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ANGELICA

ANGELICA, a name of much more substance than the pallid Angelea, is one of the "angelic names" [illegible] fancy delights to bestow [illegible] its girl children. It means, [illegible] "angelic" and seems difficult [illegible] with the behavior of some [illegible] daughters whom one [illegible] bearing the name.

[illegible] was a Greek word meaning heavenly messenger," hence "angel," [illegible] became a name in the Byzantium empire when it was bestowed as an epithet upon persons of surpassing beauty. It was applied most often as a masculine name and there [illegible] Carmelite saint called Angelo, who established it as a baptismal name. In his honor, the feminine also became popular and Italian history records many instances of its use.

Angelica sprang to fame since it named the faithless lady of romance for whose sake Orlando lost his heart and his senses. Though she was the invention of Boiardo and Ariosto, the romantic flavor which the story gave her name brought Angelica to instant favor. England liked the name and adopted it. In France it became Angelique, and Italy produced the other forms of Angioletta and Anzilleta, though Angelica continued the reigning favorite.

Angelica's talismanic gem is the pearl. It guards the purity and sweetness of her, brings her friends, and much charm. Sunday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

TANLAC KEEPS HIM FIT, SAYS McGRAW

Has Used It for Years With Splendid Results—Fine for Run Down Condition.

"For four years Tanlac has kept me in the pink of condition as I take a few doses of it every time I feel a little run down and it always builds me up again," said Wm. A. McGraw, 207 Beach Place, Tampa, Fla.

"I began taking Tanlac first about four years ago when I was in a very bad state of health and had been run down for several years. I was always taking laxatives, too, but I believe they did me more harm than good.

"Tanlac made me feel like a brand new man in a very short time and I have never had a return of any of my old troubles. The reason of this I am firmly convinced is that I always have Tanlac handy and take a few doses every time I feel a bit under the weather."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Useless.

"Great men," said Chief Justice Taft at a dinner, "are usually taciturn men. Look at Edison, Henry Ford, Lincoln. All strong, silent fellows.

"Talkative men, after all—" and Mr. Taft chuckled—"Well you know the Mark Twain story:

"'Isn't Gabbell a splendid talker, though?' a friend said to Mark Twain.

"'Best I ever escaped from,' Mark answered."

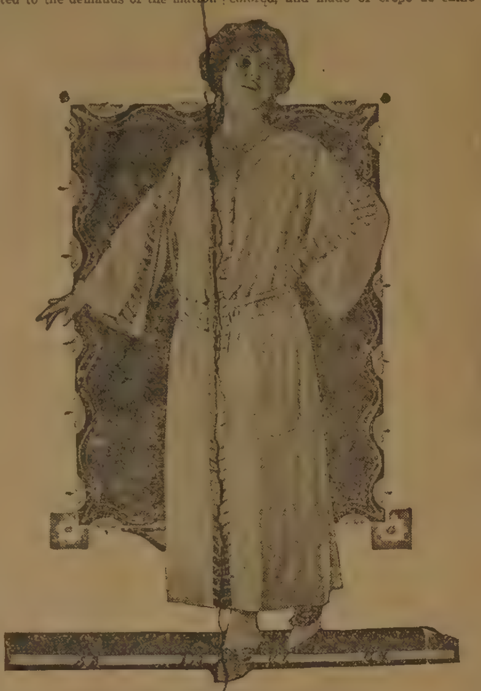
CREPE FOR MATRON'S GOWN; LINGERIE IS LESS TRIMMED

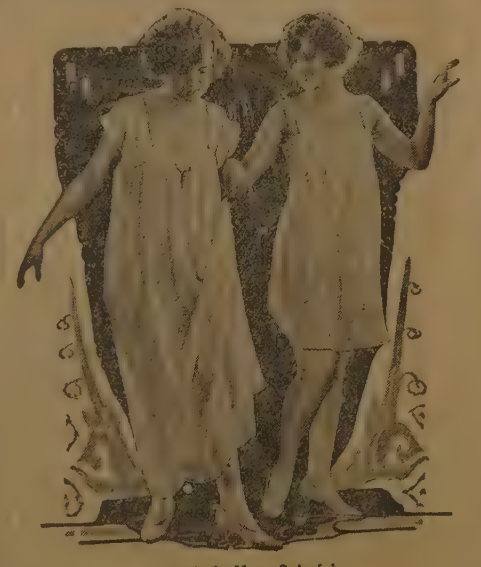
MERELY to think of a dress, for dress-up times, gives one a crepey feeling, it appears. For crepes, in their various weaves, remain unrivaled and so far, even unchallenged. Everywhere in afternoon and evening gatherings they predominate, making a pleasant color harmony in shades of blue, beige, gray, green, rust and brown, with black interspersed rather plentifully among them. No fabric is better adapted to the demands of the matron who looks for long and graceful lines and is devoted to clever and original ideas in designing.



Gown of French Gray Crepe.

A gown that will score a success on every one of these requirements appears in the handsome model pictured. It is made of French gray crepe and, except for gray beads, the material is sufficient unto itself in interpreting the present mode superbly. Narrow folds of the crepe, dotted with beads, are simple as can be, but they contrive an original and beautiful adornment. Set in between two wider folds they form the girdle. This gown may be worn over a sheer, lace-trimmed slip (shorter in length) in flesh color, or in white posed over a light pink underslip.

Beaded trimmings, used with fine restraint, fringes and trimmings made of the material, characterize these crepe gowns. They obey the dictates of fashion gracefully, with skirts ankle length and low waist lines. But the uneven hem line and such transparent devices as appear in the gown pictured, betray that the shorter skirt is held in fond remembrance. Sleeves are endlessly varied, neck lines fairly high, all conspiring to please the woman who has learned to value distinction.



Lingerie Is More Colorful.

There is considerable news in the realm of underwear. It concerns chiefly the adoption of many colors in place of white and consequent changes in the matter of decorations. Little by little white has given way before the encroachment of light tones of color, until colored underthings appear to outnumber the white garments. As the attention of designers is focused on color, it turns away from familiar types of trimmings, to new ones, introducing color contrasts, and we have lingerie that is less trimmed and more tailored in style, but nevertheless pretty and practical. Color will never usurp the place of fine hand made and hand decorated undergarments on which much expert needlework has been lavished; it is without peer in refinement and beauty.

The closest rival of this fine, white lingerie in sheer cottons, is flesh colored, and made of crepe de chine and the two pretty garments shown here vindicate its right to a place in the bride's trousseau. There is nothing unusual about them and the picture tells the story. For those who would like to add some up-to-the-minute pieces to their collection, tailored styles in pongee, trimmed with borders of colored silk or embroidered in large dots in different colors of silk are suggested. Envelope chemise in pongee, with a band an inch wide in lavender or other color of crepe de chine about the top, has shoulder straps to match made up of a fold of the crepe, and the step-in drawers are bordered in the same way.

Pretty and simple night dresses are made of cross bar dimity or batiste showing a bar in color on a white ground. They are cut with square neck and short sleeves and narrow, wash ribbon, in the color of the cross-bar, is applied in rows or lattice design about the neck and sleeves. Plisse crepe is shown in many colors, as pink, orchid, yellow, blue, light green, lavender, and is especially liked for night dresses and pajamas. Hemstitching and shirrings done in colored threads, make the simplest decorations for garments of colored batiste. Several colors are combined in this way, as in a lavender chemise shirred at the neck line with three rows of shirrings, using rose, blue, and pale green threads.

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

HAD HIGH SENSE OF HONOR

Mark Twain Punctilious to a Degree, in Order to Satisfy His "Presbyterian Conscience."

Mark Twain, it is well known, labored in his older years to repay the debts incurred by his publisher; but probably a great many persons, basing their opinions on Twain's own jests, supposed him to be rather happy-go-lucky in smaller affairs. But he was not, shows Gamaliel Bradford in his sketch of Twain in "American Portraits."

The most obvious instances of his rectitude, says Mr. Bradford, are in regard to money. In spite of his dreams and speculative vagaries, he was punctiliously scrupulous in financial relations, his strictness culminating in the vast effort of patience and self-denial necessary to pay off the debt of honor which fell upon him in his later years. But the niceness of his conscience was not limited to broad obligations of this kind.

"Mine was a trained Presbyterian conscience," Twain says, "and knew but the one duty—to hunt and harry its slave upon all pretexts and all occasions. I don't wish even to seem to do anything which can invite suspicion," he said, as to a matter so trivial as taking advantage in a game.

TOOK THREE ENEMY SCALPS

Exploit of Indian Girl Made Her Famous Among the Tribes of the Northwest.

One of the most warlike of Indian maidens was Hanging Cloud, a Chippewa girl, the daughter of Na-nong-ga-bee, chief of a branch of that tribe which occupied the territory around Rice lake in northern Wisconsin, some 75 years ago. In her hair Hanging Cloud wore three eagle plumes, signifying that she had slain that many braves in battle.

This exploit she performed when a party, including herself and her father, were ambushed by a force of Sioux, the Chippewas' traditional enemies. Her father was slain, and Hanging Cloud, feigning death, waited until the Sioux came to secure the scalps of the slain Chippewas, and then, seizing her father's rifle, killed one and, in the pursuit which followed, succeeded in killing two more. She scorned to marry one of her own tribe, for she could not espouse herself to a lesser warrior than she, and so she finally married a white man, with whom she lived for many years near Rice lake.

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

You've heard about the little girl who was given a woolly bear that she would name "Gladly," after the bear in the hymn—"Gladly, my cross-eyed bear."

Another little girl was asked if she knew who Nero was.

"He's the Good Man," she answered, in awed tones.

"The Good Man? What makes you think he's the Good Man?" said her teacher.

Then, in answer, the little girl, still in awed tones, quoted the hymn, "Nero My God to Thee!"

He Would Work Then.

Tired Tim knocked at the door of a cottage. It was a chilly day, and he was very hungry.

The old lady who opened the door was a good sort. She asked him into the kitchen and placed before him a nicely cooked meal, and asked him why he did not go to work.

"I would," replied Tim, "if I had the tools."

"What sort of tools do you want?" inquired the old lady.

"A knife and fork," said Tired Tim.

They Knew.

"Eggs are cheaper than they have been in years."

"Yes, I know it; my hens are laying."

Any pretty woman's tears are worth their salt.

When Hungry Little Muscles Say, "Please Help Me"

DID you ever stop to think who it really is that's talking, when childish voices raise a clamor, "Mother, I'm hungry?"

It's really muscles and bones and nerves and cells worn in the stress and strain of play—that are calling for rebuilding material.

What kind of an answer? The right thing, or just anything? It makes a big difference.

Grape-Nuts, so deliciously crisp and appetizing to taste, and so quick and convenient to serve, is a splendid food for rebuilding young bodies. All the wonderful nutriment put in wheat and barley by Nature, including the vital mineral elements, is there—and Grape-Nuts digests easily, quickly and completely. Served with cream or milk, Grape-Nuts is exceptionally nourishing.

"That's splendid!" says appetite. "That's just the need!" say the hungry muscles, nerves and bones.

Ready to serve right from the package—always crisp and fresh. A favorite dish with all the family. Sold by grocers.

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines."—Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Nervousness, irritability, heat flashes, headache and dizziness, are relieved by this splendid medicine.

In thus offering my services to the people of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore counties, I approach them with no well thought out and carefully prepared list of empty promises and a captivating political platform. If nominated and elected, I shall bring to the office of Solicitor the experience of twenty-five years of active practice before the various courts of the state and committed to the simple policy of taking care that violators of the criminal statutes of the state are promptly indicted and speedily and vigorously prosecuted with absolute fairness to all, with favoritism to none. I shall see to it that the interests of the state are properly preserved in all matters in which it is involved, and shall dedicate to the people of the circuit the most faithful and efficient service that within me lies. It is upon the foregoing platform that I am willing to win or lose.

VOLUME 1 CLANTON, ALABAMA, JUNE 1, 1922. NUMBER 38

SOCIAL NEWS

Mrs. T. C. McSWAIN. Editor.

Thursday Embroidery Club.

On last Thursday afternoon the Thursday Embrodiery Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. J. C. Page at the residence of Mrs. J. Q. Wade. The apartments were very attractive in cut flowers and potted plants. After some time spent in conversation and finger work, the hostess served delicious refreshments to about fifteen ladies.

Mrs. Luckie Hostess.

On last Thursday, Mrs. Luckie was hostess to quite a number of ladies at a spend-the-day party, complimenting Miss Roberta Curry, with an all day sewing. Quite a great deal was accomplished. Those enjoying this pleasant day were Mesdames, M. L. White, Armstrong, Clyde Jones, Alverson, McSwain, Simpson, Moore and Miss Roberta Curry.

Mr. Macy Jones spent Sunday in Montgomery.

The friends of Mrs. Macy Jones will learn with pleasure that she is rapidly improving after going thru a serious operation in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Reynolds and Mrs. Heard were visitors to Birmingham last Thursday.

Mesdames W. I. Mullins and J. Q. Wade returned home Wednesday from Hot Springs Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McSwain and three little daughters spent Wednesday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Curry Thomas was a visitor to Montgomery Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Deering and little daughter of Birmingham, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson.

Miss Gladys Mae Nix returned home Sunday from Birmingham, where she has been attending school.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Alverson and little son left Tuesday for a visit to realtives in Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sartor are visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Ross in Guntersville.

Mrs. J. O. Middleton returned to her home in Mobile after spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Littlejohn.

Mrs. L. H. Reynlds returned home Sunday after spending several days in Birmingham.

Mr. S. A. Johnson of Montgomery spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Reynolds.

KILLED ON RAILROAD

Tuesday evening about 5:15, No. 3, the fast southbound mail and express train on the L. & N., struck and instantly killed Mr. Clyde Henley one mile north of Lomax.

The unfortunate young man was an employee of the Railroad Company as section hand attached to the Lomax crew. As Tuesday was a national holiday all of the crews were taking the day off and Mr. Henley had took his gun and walked down on the railroad looking for rabbits. When first seen from the rapidly approaching train he was seated on the end of the ties with his gun across his lap. As he did not look up nor show any disposition to move as the train rounded a curve and came in view of him, the engineer sounded his wistle and applied the brakes but apparently the yung man paid no attention and remained sitting on the end of the ties until the engine struck him and hurled him some distance from the track. Death resulted instantaneously and, while the body was not so very badly mutilated, the head was crushed in and one leg and hip together with the spine were broken in several places.

The young man was the main support of a widowed mother and a younger brother, and had a good reputation as a faithful and efficient worker. His untimely death was a great shock to all who knew him and an unexplainable mystery as to why he did not wake, if asleep, and move out of danger.

The remains were brought on to Clanton on No. 3 and turned over to undertaker Martin who prepared the body for burial.

THE NEW MOVIE HOUSE

All of those who have not been up and given a once over to the work that has been done in transforming the old Baptist hurch building into an up-to-date moving picture house have a great surprise in store, for them. The present arrangement has made of it one of the most comfortable, tasty, commodious movie houses to be found anywhere, and Mr. Wade assures us that nothing but high class pictures will be put on. We hope the people of Clanton will give this enterprise the support it deserves and make it possible and profitable for Mr. Wade to continue the business here as a high class place of amusement.

SARTOR TEEL SERIOUSLY INJURED

On last Sunday Mr. Sartor Teel and Mr. Wiley Smith were out some two miles from the city in a car. In turning the car around something went wrong and Mr. Teel got out and took hold of the car to try and push it out of its trouble, The gas was on and the car gave a quick lurch, knocking Mr. Teel down and running over him.

He was brought home and Dr. N. S. Johnson called in who has been treating him since. The wheels in passing over his abdomen inflicted serious internal injuries, and at this time the condition of Mr. Teel is considered quite precarious.

NOTICE

The First Methodist Sunday School of Clanton will observe Sunday School day, or better known as Children's Day, on next Sunday. There is being prepared a splendid program for the occassion which will be given Sunday night, starting promptly at 7:30 o'clock. Everybody invited to come. Don't just send the children, come with them.

A SPEECH WORTH HEARING

The speech delvered by Senator Heflin at Queens College, yesterday, must have been more than ordinarily good, from the fact that several local citizens of excellent authority came into the Observer office to tell us about it. It was characterized, for example, by Dr. Alexander Graham as "one of the greatest speeches ever delivered in North Carolina."—Charlotte Observer.

DANCE AT EXCHANGE HOTEL

Quite a goodly number of the younger people assembled at the Exchange Hotel last Friday night and enjoyed the pleasure of a real dance.

Among those present and participating in the festivities were: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dryden and daughter, Althea, of Marbury, Misses Hall and Burk and Messrs Adinsell, Wood, Lanier, Parks, Devian, Whittaker, Brown, Bush and Hunt, from Mitchell Dam, Messrs John, Barnett and Erby Deramus, S. L. Gibson and Charley Gulledge, from Verbena, Messrs Tom Jones and Pete Millsap from Montgomery, Misses Kathleen Mullins, Lessie Reynolds, Evilene Hubbard, Maude Mullins, and Louise Orr, and Messrs Bill Levy, O. O. Stewart, Clay Marcus, Omar Reynolds, Claudie Pipes, Otto Jones, Frank Mullins, Joe Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Heard and perhaps some others, of Clanton.

Music was dispensed by the Original No. 5 Dixie Band of Birmingham.

The occassion was fraught with much pleasure to all the participants and quite a number who were presnet as observers. The hotel management served a delicious ice course together with a bowl of punch that seemed extremely popular.

LIGHTNING KILLS MULE

Last Saturday, just at the noon hour, a little thunder cloud passed over the city and fired one or two pretty heavy shots.

One shot struck a tree to which a very fine mule, belonging to Mrs. Jeff Williams, who lives down near Maplesville, was hitched, and killed the animal instantly.

Mrs. Williams only recently paid $250 for the mule, and this isa sad financial blow to her. She has a crop planted that must be tended, and we hope the people of the county will take it into their hands to help her replace the mule. Don't wait to be called on but send her whatever help you can. Address her at Maplesville.

Mr. Hugh Foshee has returned to the Arkansas oil fields at El Dorado. He own a good tract of land out there and oil wells are going down all around it and he is watching the outcome with an eye to closing out his interests when the "signs get right." Good luck to him.

SAD DEATH

Just a month or so ago Mr. Hut Williams, of Birmingham, brought his wife back here and left her to sleep the last long sleep in the home of her childhood. Now he is called upon to say farewell to another loved one, and today he brought his little 4 year old son, Hut, back to slumber beside the mother. The interment will be at Samaria cemetery tomorow

TEACH A SUMMER SCHOOL

Prof Alverson, the popular principal of the Chilton County High School will only enjoy a few days of rest from the school room, as he goes to Jacksonville to teach a summer term there which, we believe, begins on June 5th.

UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA NEXT SATURDAY

Mr. A. B. Baxley, the organizer here of the United Farmers of America, has returned from a visit to his home in Arkansas, and informs us that there will be a meeting of the County Board of this organization at the court house next Saturday at 10 a.m.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be a public meeting of the order at the court house, to which every one is most cordially invited. Come out and learn what we are and what we intend to do.

The following named gentlemen compose the County Board. T. J. Dorminey, R. S. Chandler, J. L. Williams, J. M. Smith, J. W. Lowery, W. J. Morris and A. T. Williams.

As we understand the workings of the order, Merchants, Bankers, Professional men in all lines, in fact, almost any legitimate citizen, can become a qualified member and we notice the "trade mark" of the organization already appearing in the windows of some of our prominent business men. Our best hopes for the success of htis commendable order in our county are extended.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

There will be a Fiddler Convention at the Soldiers Home, at Mt. Creek, on Tuesday, June 6th. Violin experts from all over the country will be on hand, and "Alabama Gal," "Leather Britches," "The old Hen Cackle," etc., will vie with the latest jazz nerve wreckers for first place in the contest.

Everybody is invited, and if you want to leave dull care for a day and have a real hallelujah time, do no fail to be on hand.

Col. J. W. Bateman and his son, J. D., of Wetumpka, were Clanton visitors last Friday. Col. Bateman is seeking the office of circuit solicitor in this district. Mr. Bateman is an able lawyer and a man who numbers his friends by his acquaintances.

LOCAL and PERSONAL

Dr. Pullen and Burton Higgins were host at their new residence on Main Street on Thursday evening. Those enjoying their hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Shanks, Misses Ruth Davis and Bertie Lee Coleman.

Mrs. J. C. Merchant was hostess for the Parent-Teachers association on Thursday afternoon. After the business meeting was over a miscelaneous shower was given as a surprise to Miss Allie Miller. She was the happy recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

SUPREME COURT INVALIDATES LAW

STATUTE AIMED AT HIGH PRICE MAKERS IS DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

CREAM INDUSTRY GROWING

Anniston Merchants To Grant Full Holiday—Many will Attend Training Camp—Veterans Refuse Proposal.

Montgomery—The Alabama Anti-Profiteering law is unconstitutional and void, according to a decision by the Alabama Supreme Court, which held that:

"The act so far as it relates to the prevention and punishment of profiteering as defined in Section 2 is a clear abuse of the police power and is offensive to the declarations and guarantees of our bill of rights and also to the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution." The opinion states in conclusion:

"We hold it to that extent unconstitutional and void."

The case in which this decision was rendered originated in Jefferson County and involved the alleged sale or offering for sale of a pair of silk hose by a Birmingham merchant. The appeal from the judgment of the Jefferson Circuit Court which held the act unconstitutional was originally taken to the court of appeals. A constitutional point being involved in the case, however, it was certified to the supreme court for that body's opinion. This opinion will in turn be certified to the court of appeals.

BUTTER INCOME $7,541.31

27,290 Pounds of Product Turned Out At Auburn.

Auburn—During the last year the college located here received 23,731.9 pounds of butterfat, which was churned into 27,290 pounds of butter, according to the annual report recently compiled by Prof. W. H. Eaton, manager of the creamery. A total of $7,541.31 was paid for butterfat during the year.

The college creamery serves 40 patrons, most of whom live in Lee County, but a few live in Macon and Chambers counties. Throughout the year Chicago prices were paid for butterfat.

Aside from its regular operations this creamery serves as a laboratory for the training of students in dairying, provided a local market for the surplus cream produced by the farmers in the surrounding territory and endeavors to build up the dairy business throughout Alabama.

In his report Prof. Eaton calls attention to the fact that the Auburn creamery was the first established in Alabama, which was done early in 1914, and that there are now 21 creameries in the state, which made approximately 4,000,000 pounds of butter in 1921. Prior to 1914 there were no commercial dairying in Alabama.

CREAM INDUSTRY IN CLEBURNE DEVELOPED

Fruithurst — Cleburne County is breaking away from the one crop system. Cream is now being shipped from Fruithurst, Heflin and Muscadine Stations on the Southern Railway. The first 5-gallon shipment was made from Fruithurst May 7, a year ago. Now 125 gallons per week is being shipped from this point and 175 gallons from the county. This cream is being shipped to Anniston creameries.

MOBILE'S BUSINESS WOMEN PLAN RECREATION CAMP

Mobile—A health and recreation camp for women, similar to those held in the mountains of North Carolina and other sections of the country will be conducted at Pine Needles, the Summer clubhouse of the Mobile Business Women's Club on the eastern shore of Mobile Bay, it has just been decided by the club. The camp will last for two weeks and will be similar to those held in other sections of the country, a special program of recreation, exercise and rest being carried out.

Merchants Abandon Half Holiday.

Anniston—The local retail stores will be kept open on Thursday afternoons and employes given a full holiday with pay every two weeks on another day, it was decided at a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association.

Farmers Planting Crops.

Hartselle—Entering the second week of pretty farming weather the farmers are industriously engaged in planting their crops. With the present week fair, much of the crop can be planted. The low lands intended for corn are still unbroken, but these can be gotten into during this week and good progress made on planting them also. Cotton is being chopped and under the influence of abundant sunshine the plant is growing.

RAILROAD RATES ARE STRUCK TELLING BLOW

TENTATIVE ORDER IS GIVEN BY PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

Montgomery—A telling blow in the cause of a reduction of railroad transportation rates in Alabama was struck in a tentative order issued by the Alabama Public Service Commission. In this order the commission tentatively adopted the class rate tariffs proposed by representatives of chambers of commerce and traffic associations throughout the State. At the request of representatives of Alabama shippers, the commission held in abeyance any action as to commodity tariffs until the shippers' representatives can be heard further regarding these tariffs.

A vital provision in the tentative order is the retention of all less than carload shipments in their respective commodity tariffs. With the exception of coal, coke and pig iron, as well as other furnace raw materials, it is estimated that more than 80 per cent of all intrastate shipments were taken out of the commodity tariffs and placed in the much higher class tariffs, the shippers of the state would have been burdened with an enormously increased freight bill. The basic principles of the famous "Comer" rates are preserved.

ORGANIZATION OF GIGANTIC COTTON POOL MEETING WITH MUCH SUCCESS

Quota in Alabama Now Is Raised To Quarter-Million Bales.

Montgomery — Great enthusiasm marked the totaling of the reports of accomplishment in the formation of the giant cotton marketing organizations from the county agents and field men in the Farm Bureau offices. These reports together with contracts received at the state office show that to date the total baleage signed is somewhere between 115,000 and 120,000 and that approximately 7,000 Alabama cotton growers have signed the contract.

In launching the movement the Farm Bureau officials announced that the Alabama pool would include at least 100,000 bales but so successful has been the campaign to date that it will be continued with a new goal of a quarter of a million bales. Already five counties in the state have obtained their quotas with several more near the top and each will continue the drive until its quota is reached.

T. A. G. Road To Birmingham.

Gadsden—"We intend to extend the Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia Railroad to Birmingham by way of Ashville and Odenville and to make a real railroad of the line," was the statement made here by C. E. James. Mr. James, who recently purchased the little road, stated that he intended to connect it with the Seaboard Air Line at Odenville and to make connection also with the Illinois Central and the Frisco system, which, he said, would mean that more than one big system would read Gadsden and Chattanooga over his rails. He and some of his officials were here looking for a route to cross Gadsden from the north to the south side and also a site for a new passenger station. Work of rebuilding the Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia is already under way and schedules will be resumed within a week.

Freak Lightning At Guntersville.

Guntersville—Lightning set fire to the large three-story residence of Mrs. H. C. Henderson, situated in the heart of Guntersville. The lightning played freaks by ripping off shingles on one wing of the house, tearing off a board and driving it through a window in another part and setting fire to the bath room in still another section of the house. This is the third time this same house has been struck by lightning in the past few years. None of the occupants were injured and the fire was extinguished before serious damage was done.

Hartselle Has Booster Day.

Hartselle—Saturday was another of the Hartselle Booster's Trade Days. Despite the fact that crop conditions are backward, many from the rural districts were on hand to participate in the drawing for the $50 in gold which the club gave away. These trade days are staged every two weeks and are proving quite popular with the trading public.

Mobile — The Raphael Semmes Camp of United Confederate Veterans of Mobile has turned down the proposal to adopt May 30 as National Memorial Day, as the official decoration day of the Confederacy. The camp expressed the opinion that April 26 should be kept as Confederate Day in spite of the fact that May 30 is the day observed by the veterans of all other wars. The camp also elected Miss Marie Spottswood as sponsor for the retunion to be held at Richmond in June.

CONFIDENCE VOTE IS GIVEN GEORGE

COMMONS OVERWHELMINGLY REJECTS AMENDMENT EXPRESSING DISAPPROVAL OF REPORT

DISCUSS PREMIER'S POLICY

But Thundering Answers Of Little Welshman Again Drive Critics Of Administration To Cover

London.—Once again Lloyd George appeared in the house of commons to render as prime minister an account of his stewardship at Genoa, and once again, after a precise and carefully worded statement and an eloquent rebuttal of criticisms directed against him, he received the support of the house in what is considered the equivalent of another vote of confidence.

The house by an overwhelming majority of 235 to 26 rejected an amendment moved by Rupert Gwyne, unionist, to the motion on which the debate was based as a means of expressing the dissatisfaction of the house with the premier's exposition. Mr. Gwynne, had been most vehement in his denunciations of the government, asserting that the premier had spoken only of what might have happened at Genoa, not what really did happen there.

For an hour and a half the premier gave a calm exposition of the conference proceedings, to which the veteran, Herbert H. Asquith, the labor leader; John Robert Clynes, and Lord Robert Cecil replied, criticizing the six weeks' session at Genoa as having accomplishe little or nothing toward the rehabilitation of Europe.

The criticism aroused the premier and he thundered answers toward the opposition benches. After a spirited scene in the crowded house, amid handclapping and shouting at the passage between the premier and Lord Robert Cecil, Lloyd George's second speech ended dramatically as he silenced the house and solemnly proclaimed a policy of co-operation with the French democracy. There were loud cheers as he resumed his seat.

The debate, which followed the prime minister's speech, brought many allusions to the relations between England and France, which are exciting greater contentious feelings between the different section of the house than even the policy toward Russia. Mr. Lloyd George displayed great impatience with those critics who advocated going along without France as he exclaimed:

"You cannot settle the reparations question unless you carry the judgment of France along with you, and you cannot do that by flouting the Versailles treaty and trying to ignore France."

MILLIONAIRE PUT BEHIND JAIL BARS IN KILLNG CASE

Official Disbelief In Fantastic Tale Of Blackmail Seen In Rearrest

White Plains, N. Y.—For the first time since he admitted, three days ago, that he shot and killed Clarence Peters, an ex-marine, and left his body in a lonely roadway near the Kensico reservoir, where it was found six days later, Walter S. Ward, son of the multi-millionaire Baker, is in a jail cell.

Released on $10,000 bail after his first surrender to the sheriff of Westchester county, Ward was arrested on a short affidavit sworn out by District Attorney Frederick E. Weeks, backed by an order issued by Supreme Court Justice A. H. R. Seeger, and, after a conference with his attorneys, was led away to his cell.

Presbyterians Adopt "Stewardship"

Charleston, W. Va.—The adoption of the report of the stewardship committee by the Southern Presbyterian assembly constituted its final action on the report. One important amendment to the report which the assembly authorized was in reference to the proposed Presbyterian foundation. It was proposed to refer the amendment to an ad interim committee consisting of three laymen, one of whom must be a lawyer, and of two ministers. The committee would investigate and report the feasibility of a foundation.

Senate Split On Duties On Graphite

Washington.—Practically all the daylight hours are being spent in the senate in a fight over the tariff duties on graphite, which split both the Republican and Democratic ranks, but left the finance committee majority victorious. Assault after assault was made on the committee proposals, with roll call following roll call, but each was repulsed, the duties being approved as recommended—10 per cent ad valorem on amorphyous graphite; 20 per cent crystaline lump and 2 per cent a pound on crystaline flakes.

Confesses Killing William D. Taylor

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—A man of mystery giving the name of Frank Doran, of Chicago, placed himself in the hands of the police here telling them he murdered William Desmond Taylor, movie director, at Hollywood, Calif. He refuses to give any other information about himself to the police. His fingerprints and photographs will be sent to Chicago and Los Angeles at once for identification. Meantime his mysterious silence regarding his occupation and past life is giving the local police plenty of diversion.

STOPS FIGHT AT NICARAGUA

Firm Stand Taken By Minister Ramer Peacefully Settles Serious Situation At Managua

Managua, Nic. — A revolutionary movement broke out here recently against President Diego Manuel Chamiaffo, a band of rebels seizing Fortress Loma, commanding this city. Upon representations from the American minister, John E. Ramer, however, the revolutionists later agreed to turn over the fort to the commander of the American marines to be given back to the government.

The capture of Fortress Loma was affected at noon recently under command of General Arcenio Cruz, who took the position by strategy in the absence of the commander. Other leaders of the revolutionary movement are Adam Canton and Salvador Castrillo. All are prominent conservatives, but are of the action opposed to the present government.

As soon as news of the capture of the fortress was received, the American minister sent a letter to the commander of the rebellion troops. The reply stated that the rebels were friendly to the Americans and that their purpose was to cause the resignation of the president and a change of the present cabinet.

The American minister answered that if the fort fired upon Campo de Marte, where the American marines are stationed, or upon the city, the fire would be returned by the marines. He also proposed that General Cruz send three representatives to the American legation to meet three representatives of the government for a joint conference.

Mr. Ramer then communicated by wireless with Rear Admiral Cole, of the United States navy, woh replied that he was within 00 miles of Nicaragua, and would arrive at Corinto with 400 marines.

The government was busy recruiting troops and expected that 1,000 men would arrive within a few hours from Granada.

There was rifle and machine gun firing between the government troops and those holding the fortress, several soldier being wounded.

Later, at the conference, it was agreed that General Cruz would surrender the fortress to the officer of the American marines, to be turned back to the government. It was also agreed that the civilians implicated in the revolution would be pardoned and that the military participants should be imprisoned for thirty days.

There was high tension and fear among the people, but everything seems to be quiet at present.

GOMPERS CALL NATIONAL CONFERENCE FOR CHILD LABOR PROTECTION

Washington.—Invitations have been issued by President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, for a national conference "on methods of securing child labor protection" to meet here June 1.

The invitation is a result of the recent Supreme court decision declaring the child labor law unconstitutional and about one hundred men and women are expected to participate in the conference "as the representatives of various organizations devoted to the prevention of child labor, either directly or indirectly." Plans, it was said, probably would be completed for co-ordinating efforts in behalf of an amendment to the Constitution."

Solemn Adoration To Pope At Vatican

Rome.—Improvised into a huge outdoor audience room of spacious dimensions, the Court of Belvidere at the vatican was the scene of solemn adoration by the entire Eucharistic congress to Pope Pius. The vast square contained a mass of pilgrims from every quarter of the globe who had come to Rome to pay homage to the pope and adore the eucharist.

Rewards Offered In Whipping Case

Birmingham, Ala.—Announcement by local civic clubs and individuals of subscriptions to a reward fund for the apprehension of the guilty persons and statement of the local office of the department of justice that the criminal machinery of the federal government was working upon the case were the principal developments from the announcement that Dr. J. D. Dowling, city and county health officer, had been lured from his home and severely whipped by a party of men.

Attempting To Sell Austrian Money

New York.—A new group of high financiers has appeared in Wall street, specializing in foreign exchange. When stock brokers and their clerks came down to businesss more than a score of street hawkers were operating in the financial district with huge bundles of Austrian paper money, which they were trying to sell at 25c per 1,000 kronen. But the "brokers" underwent such a razzing from bank messengers that they were finally forced out of the district. A thousand knroen are quoted at 10 cents.

Cash Offer Made For Gorgas Plant

Washington.—An offer to comply with terms of the contract negotiated between the war department and the Alabama Power company when its plant at Gorgas was enlarged to supply power for the nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals, Ala., during the war, has been made to Secretary Weeks by representatives of the company here. The offer is contained in a proposal to pay $2,500,000 for the government's interest in the plant, railroad and transmission line from Gorgas to Muscle Shoals.

SHOALS CONTRACT IS HELD INVALID

RULES THAT COMPANY CANNOT ENFORCE "EXCLUSIVE PURCHASE RIGHT" CLAUSE

OPINION GIVEN BY WEEKS

Chief Obstacle To Acceptance Of Ford Offer For Plant Removed By Decision

Washington.—In a formall opinion transmitted by Secretary Weeks to the house military committee recently, Attorney-General Daugherty held the contracts negotiated between the war department, the Alabama Power company and the Air Nitrates corporation to be "invalid" with respect to the provisions which officials of the two concerns claimed, gave them exclusive rights to purchase the Gorgas, Ala., steam power plant and nitrate No. 2 at Muscle Shoals.

The opinion was immediately placed before the committee by Chairman Kahn for study in connection with the investigation it is making of Henry Ford's offer to purchase and lease the Muscle Shoals projects. Committee members advocating acceptance of the Ford proposal by congress expressed gratification at the position taken by attorney-general, and some declared the chief obstruction to their labors had been removed by the opinion.

Officials of the nitrate corporation and the power company appearing before the committee had made it plain that they expected the government to meet the obligation imposed by the contracts, and announced that in the event the government failed to do so court action would be instituted to compel appliance.

Their testimony was accepted by some committeemen as presenting a difficult problem which they would have to solve before the Ford offer could be reported, unless it was modified so as to eliminate the nitrate plant which he proposed to purchase and the Gorgas steam plant for which clean title was asked.

Spokesmen for Mr. Ford declined repeatedly to assent to such a modification. The witnesses of the power company and the nitrate corporation steadfastly contended that the consent to any proposal to sell the two plants to other than their own interests.

Thus the committeemen found themselves occupying a middle ground, with Mr. Ford's representatives insistent upon one hand that he be given the disputed properties and the witnesses for the two other companies firmly opposed. Moreover, the chief of ordnance advised the committee that the contracts should be fulfilled and the "moral obligation of the war department removed," in that way, while the acting judge advocate general of the army held the contracts were "null and void" and "unenforceable."

REDUCTIONS ORDERED IN ALL FREIGHT RATES

New Rulings Equivalent To Nation-Wide Cut Of 10 Per Cent From Existing Tariffs

Washington.—Reduction in freight rates averaging about 10 per cent were ordered by the interstate commerce commission in a decision resulting from its inquiry into the general rate structure of the nation.

The cut in freight rates was fixed by the commission at 14 per cent in eastern territory; 13 1-2 per cent in western territory, and 12 1-2 per cent in the southern and mountain-Pacific territories. All reductions ordered are effective July 1, and constitute a greater cut that was generally expected.

The commission decided that railroads are entitled to earn 5 3-4 per cent on the value of railway property, compared with the 6 per cent which was made the reasonable return standard under the transportation act.

Agricultural products will not be affected by the reduction granted under the commission's order. The reduction of 16 1-2 per cent made in the western hay and grain rates last fall, and the voluntary 10 per cent cut made in all agricultural products by railroads January 1, will be substituted for the decision on these commodities.

Bank Did Not Figure In The Loans

Waukegan, Ill.—The Grant Park bank, in which $29,000,000 of state funds were deposited by Governor Small and Lieut. Governor Fred E. Sterling, did not figure in loans made by officers of the bank to the Cudahy Packing company, officers of the company testified at the governor's trial on charges of conspiracy. John E. Wagner, treasurer of the packing company, and Frank I. Clark, assistant treasurer, testified that the Grant Park bank was not mentioned during recent negotiations.

300 SINN FEINERS SEIZED

Premier Craig Says That Forcible Action Is Necessary—New Regulations Are Issued

Belfast, Ireland. Three hundreds or more prisoners were taken by special constables in the various counties of Ulster in the general round-up. The prisoners comprised for the most part officers and men of the Irish republican army as well as members of the Sinn Fein and other organizations opposed to the constituted authorities here.

Although the northern government had contemplated drastic action against the Sinn Fein, it was the assassination of W. J. Twaddell, a member of the northern parliament, that really decided the government to act promptly. But, at the same time, it reduced the number of captives in the roundup, as many of the leading republicans left Belfast, dreading reprisals, and thus escaped the police net.

The prisoners will be interned, but the place of their internment has not yet been determined. Bally Kinlar camp is not available, as military occupy at the present time.

Premier Craig in parliament declared that the recent serious disorders made it clear that forcible action was necessary; consequently, he had issued a new regulation making membership in the Irish republican army an offense in itself. The government had further decided to arrest a number of persons long under observation because it was impossible to allow such individuals in Ulster to carry on a conspiracy against authority.

BRITAIN IS ONLY ONE TO PAY UNITED STATES

Total Accumulated Interest On Outstanding Loans Is Now $1,159,500,000

Washington.—With the passing of May 15, says a correspondent, another date for paying interest on foreign obligations, the United States is still "holding the sack," with no activity by any of her major debtors, save Great Britain, toward reducing their obligations.

Accumulated interest on this government's four outstanding war loans now stands, in round numbers, as follows:

Great Britain	$ 530,000,000
France	374,500,000
Italy	210,500,000
Belgium	44,500,000
Total	$1,159,500,000

Despite the fact that the American foreign debt-funding commission was named and empowered by congress weeks ago, formal notification of readiness to proceed with the work has been indicated by only two powers—Great Britain and France. France has notified this government of the personnel of her funding commission, without indicating when she would be ready to proceed, while informal conversations already have begun between Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Geddes toward laying the foundation for the funding of the huge British obligation.

Cannon Cmpany Must Pay Big Taxes

Raleigh, N. C.—Disolving an injunction issued by Judge McElroy, the supreme court hold that the Cannon Manufacturing company of Cabarrus county must pay to the county of Cabarrus $22,342.17 of taxes for the year 1920 protested by the company. The payment of the tax was protested on the grounds that the state tax commission had allowe da reduction in the assessed valuation of the property, amounting to $4,654,619, on an appeal which was pending when the special seession of the general assembly in 1920 accepted by enactment the final report of asessments in Cabarrus in which the value of the Cannon mills property was fixed at $43,961,303.

General Wood Caught In Typhooon

Manila, P. I.—Wireless queries to the yacht Apo, on which Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood and his wife and daughter sailed for Mindoro recently have not been answered and the typhoon which raged incessantly for several hours is believed to be responsible for the delay in their return. The Apo is believed to have sought refuge in some port of Mindoro. General Wood had planned a brief visit of inspection on the island. So far no serious damage from thetyp hoon has been reported.

Acept Ford Bid, Urges Conferences

Sheffield, Ala.—Calling upon congress and the president to "end the unprofitable and wasteful delay in the disposition of government property here, the Muscle Shoals conference, under direction of the Southern Commercial Congress, by a memorial urged "early and decisive action by accepting the offer of Henry Ford." The memorial, adopted with an enthusiastic demonstration, declared "the facts are now well known, the issue is clearly defined and the time for action is at hand."

Charlie Frank, Ballplayer, Is Dead

Memphis, Tenn.—Charles Frank, one of the organizers of the Southern Baseball association and until a few weeks ago manager of the Atlanta club, died at the home of Mrs. Frank Coleman here, after an illness of more than six months. Frank, who had been suffering from heart disease and other chronic troubles, came here from Bay St. Louis, Miss., where he spent the winter, about ten days ago. At that time his physicians told him that his condition was critical, and death might come at any time.

YOUNG MOTHER NOW STRONG

Her Mother's Faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Led Her To Try It

Kenosha, Wisconsin.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother had great faith in it as she had taken so much of it and when I had trouble after my baby was born she gave it to me. It helped me so much more than anything else had done that I advise all women with female trouble to give it a fair trial and I am sure they will feel as I do about it.—Mrs. FRED. P. HANSEN, 562 Symmonds St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

A medicine that has been in use nearly fifty years and that receives the praise and commendation of mothers and grandmothers is worth your consideration.

If you are suffering from troubles that sometimes follow child-birth bear in mind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

The letters we publish ought to convince you; ask some of your women friends or neighbors — they know its worth. You will, too, if you give it a fair trial.

IRRIGATION NOW OF BIG BENEFIT

Border Method Followed in West Is Well Adapted to a Variety of Soils.

WATER TURNED INTO STRIPS

Not Profitable to Prepare Field for One Crop—Alfalfa, Clover and Other Forage Crops Are Among Those Favored.

The border method of irrigation, followed in many parts of the western states, is well adapted to a variety of soils and crops and is growing rapidly in public favor. As described in Farmers' Bulletin 1243, "The Border Method of Irrigation," prepared by Samuel Fortier and now issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, the method consists essentially in the division of the field to be irrigated into a series of strips, lands, or beds, as they are variously termed, by low, flat levees extending usually in the direction of the steepest slope. Sufficient water is turned into the upper end of each strip and allowed to move down the slope in a thin sheet, moistening the soil to a given depth as it advances toward the lower end.

Crops Suited for Irrigation.

It seldom pays, it is said, to prepare a field for the border method for one crop. The method is well adapted to the irrigation of alfalfa, clover and other forage crops, as well as all grains, and the forage crops may be rotated with the grains without modifying the method. It is also possible to irrigate potatoes, sugar beets and other rowed and cultivated crops by making a slight change in the borders, so that the latitude as to rotation is rather wide.

The most favorable soil for borders is a free-working loam several feet deep, underlain by a more or less impervious subsoil. As the sheet of water flows down each strip, the pervious top soil is readily moistened and the heavier soil beneath prevents the waste of water by deep percolation. Borders are also very generally used where the subsoil as well as the top layer of soil is porous, not because such formations are the most favorable but because no other method will do as well.

Applying Water to Land by Method That Could Be More Generally Adopted in Eastern Farming Sections.

The cost of preparing land for the border method is low as compared with that required for most other methods if the physical conditions are favorable. At the same time it is usually feasible to obtain a fair crop at small cost by the use of temporary borders, and after the crop is harvested, the making of permanent borders may be undertaken without undoing much of the previous season's work.

Slopes Are Essential.

A smooth, regular surface having a slope in one direction of about 2.5 inches to the hundred feet may be regarded as ideal for the border method of irrigation. It is possible to make borders on slopes one inch or less to the hundred feet and on steeper slopes up to 2 feet and more per hundred. Borders have been used on slopes as great as 7½ feet to the hundred feet, but extra care must then be taken to prevent soil and crop erosion.

The amount of water that can be turned into the strip depends on the size of each strip, its slope, and other conditions. In narrow, short strips the head used may be reduced to half a cubic foot a second or from 20 to 25 miners' inches, and in wide, long strips 10 cubic feet a second may be none too large. A large volume of water cannot be handled successfully on steep slopes, but it is always possible to divide a head between two or more compartments.

Full details of the construction and operation of borders are contained in the bulletin, copies of which may be had free by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

PLAN TO AVOID GAPE WORMS

Pests Can Be Guarded Against by Putting Little Turpentine in Drinking Water.

Now that warm weather is coming on, gape worms will soon put in an appearance in certain localities. They can often be prevented by putting a few drops of turpentine in each quart of water—and scattering air slaked lime about the coops and runs.

BIG SAVING MADE BY CULLING OUT SCRUBS

Nonproducing Fowls Eliminated From Many Flocks.

Extension Agents Explain Method of Weeding Out So Thoroughly That Poultry Raisers Soon Become Efficient.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Approximately $40,000 was saved to poultry men in Texas last year through the work of extension workers employed co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural college. In 14 counties of Maine the saving was about $1,394.40. These sums represent the money value of culling, estimated on the feed cost of one cent a day a hen.

In Maine 15,964 hens were examined in culling demonstrations and 4,648 culls removed. In Texas about 15,000 hens were culled. That this culling was successful is shown by the following figures: 19 birds were culled from a flock of 54, and in the next seven days the culls laid only 20 eggs; 290 birds were culled from flocks totaling 846 and in the next seven days laid 26 eggs. Of the entire number of hens culled in Maine, the percentage of egg production for the entire flock was 32.3, for the hens left after culling 40.7 per cent, and for the culls 4.5 per cent.

Extension Agent Explaining Method of Culling.

The number of poultry owners instructed in Maine was 3,043 and in Texas 8,000, many of whom afterward culled their own flocks. The estimated savings represent only a part of the total value of this work. As a result of the demonstrations in one section in Maine, 79 persons eliminated 1,420 birds as culls, while in Texas the culling that resulted from all demonstrations was valued at $125,000.

The extension agents not only demonstrated that the non-producing hen could be eliminated but explained the method of culling so thoroughly that those present could go home and put it into practice nearly as effectively as the demonstrators themselves.

RIGHT CULTURE OF CABBAGE

Rich Soil Encourages Fast Growth, Large and Solid Heads—Chinese Variety Differs.

The history of the development of the cabbage gives the key to its culture. The richer the soil and the faster it is kept growing, the larger and solider the heads. It must be grown fast to head fast. If through lack of fertility or drought its growth is checked, there is either no real head or a loose, very inferior one, the whole strength of the plant going to develop such leaves as it had produced before the check. The Chinese cabbage is an entirely different species from the common cabbage and its brothers.

KEEP COMPOST HEAP MOIST

Arrange Pile So That Rain Will Keep Material Wet and Prevent Loss of Fertility.

"It is of the utmost importance," says the Flower Grower, "that the top of the pile be kept hollow or at least flat, so that rain will keep the material wet and prevent burning and loss of fertility. Don't let the pile get rounded on top under any circumstances, as it should absorb the rainfall and not shed it, and, therefore, the nearer level it is kept the better job of composting will result."

DETERMINING SEX OF DUCKS

Hen Always Quacks in Coarse Voice, While Drake Will Emit Sibilant Sound.

Not every one knows how to tell the sex of ducks, but it is easy. The hen duck always quacks in a coarse voice; the drake never quacks, but emits a sibilant sound, described by one woman as being "like an old man with brownkeeters." It has a "quack" sound, but is high-pitched and not so loud as the raucous quacking of the hen ducks.

"Let there be light—"

For years and years the practical meaning of this Biblical expression was lost to the farmer. True, he may have got some spiritual consolation from it, but there was a significance that had not dawned upon him. He kept hard at it, working his long hours each day and far into the night with little of the comforts of home that make it a solace and comfort after the day's work is over. His first consideration was a barn. And after he had built a structure that was not to be excelled in the neighboring country, he built a hoghouse or sheep barn. All the while he was living in a makeshift shelter which he called home.

But the light was coming, coming to show the way in the darkness. The light that showed the real value of a home, the absolute economy of the idea, and its influence on the future of the boys and girls who were growing up. As they began to desert the farms, to leave their parents to go to the lights of the city, the farmer began to think, and as he thought, he began to see the gleam that was to enlighten him. He realized that to keep his boys on the farm, to get the maximum joy out of life, he would have to build a regular home as well as a substantial barn.

And with the home came many of the conveniences that are now available in the city. With the home came running water, bathrooms, and electric light, the light that was to lead the farmer down the road to ideal home life.

You would have to travel far and long to find a modest farm home that embodies more real comfort, more convenience and labor-saving inventions than the house shown here with floor plans. It is not at all elaborate, being of the familiar, practical and economical square or box type, as it is often called, frame exterior set on a firm concrete foundation with high cellar for heating plant and storage room. A farmhouse without plenty of room for a large laundry, vegetable store room and modern heating plant, is not worth while and certainly not practical.

Across the entire front extends a wide, open porch, an ideal recreation place for the family in the warm weather and cool evenings. In the summer it can be screened in to keep out pests and dirt.

The front door opens into a small vestibule in which there is a clothes closet for outdoor clothes, umbrellas, etc. The reception hall opens into the large living room, 13 by 16 feet 6 inches, arranged in the manner in which modern buildings are, with fireplace and side wall bookcases. Windows in front and side provide plenty of light. It is also important to note in these floor plans that all electrical fixtures and outlets are indicated.

From the living room, one enters the dining room through a door opening rather wide and plain. In dining room provision is made for a central lighting fixture over the table, and smaller wall fixtures around the room. This room gets light from a triple side window. Crossing over, we find the door to the kitchen, a small, compact room of modern design and arrangement. Off the kitchen are pantry and washroom, the latter a necessary room in the farm house plan, a place where the men coming in from the fields can wash up before stepping into the house proper. In this way much of the dirt that used to come into the farm kitchen is left out. Off the dining room to the rear is a bedroom for those who have to wash early. There is also a lavatory in connection with the washroom.

This arrangement leaves the upper floor entirely to bedrooms, of which there are four in this plan, with a rear screened-in sleeping porch and balcony. The two front bedrooms are 13 feet square, while the two rear ones are 12 by 13 feet. They all have clothes closets.

In short, we have a modern farm home, well constructed, containing all of the conveniences and comforts of the city home. It is the antidote for the poison that is gnawing at the vitals of the youth on the farm and driving them to uncertain conditions in the great cities. There is no excuse for the old-fashioned home any more. The snap of a button or the turning of a switch gives the best light there is at small cost. Running water from faucets allows the soothing vigor of a bath and relieves the farmer's wife of the hard task of hauling from the well or pumping it via the kitchen.

Right at the present, when the vital interests of the county and city demand the hearty and earnest cooperation of every citizen in the interests of our schools, it will be well to practice the gospel of united citizenship we have been trying to preach, and to remember that we all are citizens affected by the very same local conitions no matter what our political faith may be. Any public policy that will benefit one class locally will necessarily benefit all in the same ratio, and the reverse is equally true. Any policy that will be detrimental to one class will catch the entire citizenship in its toils. "United we stand, divided we fall"

The wisdom, the necessity of cooperation in the successful prosecution of any public enterprise has been demonstrated so many times in the experienc and observation of everyone that no argument is required to establish the truth of it. We can not pull against each other and undermine the plans of progress on account of personal or political differences and ever get anywhere. Cooperation, united effort, every shoulder to the wheel pushing together is what puts the car of progress in motion and is also what is required to bring success to any enterprise.

In the matter of our local schools, we are not prepared to make any distinctive argument in favor of one more than the other. Both are absolute necessities to the well being and prosperity of our town and county. Both are equally worthy of the united support of every citizen of the town and county. Your duty as a good citizen is plain before you. See to it that these schools are made to go forward and not backward. Besides, the time and money you put in to them is well invested as a business proposition. You have already observed the fact that every dwelling in or near Clanton has been constantly occupied since these educational institutinns had a little of the breath of life breathed in to them a few years back. Good schools pay as business proposition better dividends in cash than can be collected from the majority of bonds and stocks.

The thing to do right now is to forget that anybody wants an office and that two political parties are in existence here, and put every bit of the energy and cash you can rake and scrape in to this cause so that both of these schools may climb up higher in the scale of efficiency rather than slide back into a half starved battle for existence,

Kissing Your $ Good Bye.

Travelling shows, some fairly good and some pure fakes, come along, put down for a series of performances, blow a few tin horns on the street, retire to their tent and pull off such stunts as they may have on hand to amuse the audience.

They spend scarcely anything in the town, put out nothing for public improvements, education nor charity, except a little lisense, gobble up all the money they can, ram it down in their jeans, and you kiss your dollar good bye, for they take it away with them. That much of our potent al medium of trade is gone for good. What do you think about it? Ought we not keep that money at home?

RICHMOND IS READY TO GREET VETERANS

Richmond, Va., June 5.—(Special)—Richmond has called for the remnants of that army which defended her for four years and by the thousands will the survivors answer the summons to be here on June 19, 20, 21 and 22. The last three days are those fixed for the welcoming and entertainment of the United Confederate Veterans at their 32d annual reunion. June 19 has been set as the date for beginning the ceremonies which will engage the attention of the Confederated Southern Memorial Association and of Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Preparations are now complete for taking care of the enormous number of visitors who are expected to attend the reunion. The veterans will be made comfortable at the hotels, with friends or relatives and in private homes.

Provide Comfortable Quarters.

Upon their arrival at the railroad stations in this city, each veteran will be met by a member of the Reunion Committee, given an identification card and assigned to quarters, if previous arrangements for accommodations have not been made. However, Brigadier-General Jo Lane Stern, chairman of the Reunion Committee, urges that all visitors make their reservations before coming to Richmond, applying to the hotels or to the Information and Quarters Committee, Postoffice Box No. 685, Richmond for quarters in private homes and boarding houses.

Reasonable cost, from $1.25 to $2 per day for lodging and breakfast, will prevail in private homes. Dinner and supper, with the compliments of the City of Richmond and the Commonwealth of Virginia, will be supplied Confederate veterans who desire them on June 20, 21 and 22.

Elaborate Program.

The program of exercises and entertainments probably will make this the greatest reunion in the history of the United Confederate Veterans. One of the most impressive exercises in which the veterans will take part will be the laying of the corner stone for the Matthew Fontaine Maury monument.

Addresses will be delivered by some of the South's greatest orators, there will be a great parade and review, band concerts, a Confederate ball and dozens of other features designed particularly to entertain and please the Old South's heroes.

5,000 VETERANS AT RICHMOND REUNION

Richmond, Va., May 29.—(Special)—Richmond is completing preparations to entertain the 32d annual convention of the United Confederate Veterans, on June 19, 20, 21 and 22. Fully 5,000 of the surviving 46,000 Confederates are expected to be within the city's hospitable gates. Most of them will be accompanied by one or more members of their families, and, in addition, there will be present members of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, the Confederated Southern Memorial Association, sponsors and maids and matrons of honor.

Comfortable Quarters.

Because of their age, the veterans this year will sleep in comfortable quarters. Thousands of them will stop at hotels and with relatives and friends, while others will be accommodated at reasonable cost, from $1.25 to $2 per day for lodging and breakfast, in private homes. Applications for quarters and inquiries concerning them should be addressed to Major B. B. Morgan, chairman of the Committee on Information and Quarters, Postoffice Box No. 685, Richmond. Dinner and supper, with the compliments of the City of Richmond and the Commonwealth of Virginia, will be supplied Confederate veterans who desire them on June 20, 21 and 22.

Reduced Railroad Fares.

The Southern Railway, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway and, in fact, practically all the transportation systems in the South have agreed to give the veterans, accompanying members of their families, and members of auxiliary organizations the benefit of reduced fares to this city and return. These rates have been fixed as follows:

Veterans and accompanying members of their families, 1 cent a mile for each mile traveled.

Members of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, the Confederated Southern Memorial Association, other auxiliary organizations, sponsors and maids and matrons of honor, one-way fare for the round trip.

Identification Certificates.

Tickets will be placed on sale through the South in ample time for visitors to reach Richmond on or before June 19. As customary and in order to eliminate trouble in procuring tickets at the reduced rates of fare, identification certificates have been prepared and are being distributed to all veterans and members of Confederate and affiliated bodies. Individuals who are unable to procure them through usual channels should apply at once to Adjutant-in-Chief Carl Hinton, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Hotel Richmond, Richmond.

The Elimination of Union Labor Scientifically.

The program of the national administratian to relieve capital of all annoyance from organized labor is going forward systematically and successfully.

The miner's union having been disposed of, they have now started in to eliminate the railroad unions. They are going about it in a shrewd manner. They have divided the railroad workers into separate units and are going to attend to them in detail. They have commenced this work at the foot of the list by ordering the wages of the trackmen ang foreman cut effective July 1.

When they settle their hash they will take up another bunch and attend to them, and so on. By going at it this way they expect to get by with a cut all the way around without a strike. No one branch of the service is strong enough to effect a complete tie up of things without the cooperation of the others and they believe that each class higer up will "hands off" hoping the cut will not be extended to them if they behave. Finally, they will have gone all around, wages will be cut and no strike result. That system is what you might call a cute trick but it will get by.

LATER—The work is going forward more rapidly than we anticipated. The shopmen are also elated for a $50,000,000 reduction in wagas on July 1. They promise to take off another $100,000,000 from the remaining branches of the union by the same date. This is intended to put wages back to the level before the war. Now what you going to say? Will we have a nation wide strike or not?

MAPLESVILLE NEWS

The school exercises opened Tuesday night. Mrs. Stanley Hayes' room gave an excellent play.

Wednesday night a play given by Miss Kemp's room was greatly enjoyed by a large audience.

Thursday night, a play by Prof. Harris' room, was good from beginning to end.

Friday, we had good speakers, Rev. Allen Lee of Plantersville and Rev. Seibert of Centerville, and exercises by the school last but not least, the issuing of twelve diplomas to the boys and girls. This closed a great work done by the teachers. We hope to have them all return as teachers.

Mrs. Fred McCarty and little son, of Birmingham, are the guests of her mother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Coleman.

The many friends of Mrs. T. R. Williams are glad to see her out after three weeks illness.

Miss Allie Miller has returned to her home at West Point, Miss.

Miss Mary Woodruff, of Montgomery will spend Thursday here in the interest of Parent-Teacher's Association. She is a state worker. Mrs. F. A. Shanks will entertain her.

Mrs. J. C. Merchant entertained the Parent-Teacher's Association Thursday from the 3 to 6. Quite a surprise was pulled off at this meeting on one of our beloved teachers, Miss Miller, the Secretary of the Association. It was in the form of a Miscellaneous shower. A little bird divulged the secret, but she didn't know that it was generally known until Mrs. C. N. Parnell began playing the wedding march and little L. T. Merchant entered with a wagon and Katie Lou Merchant pushing it, was loaded with many beautiful and useful presents. The guests were served punch by Miss Ruth Davis. Miss Annis Kemp and Mrs. F. A. Shanks assisted her in entertaining. A delicious ice course was served to 30 guests.

Mrs. S. J. Shanks of Enterprise, is the guest of her son, F. A. Shanks.

Mrs. G. A. Coleman went over to Centerville Wednesday night to see Bert Coleman graduate.

Messrs W. W. Earnest, and Frank Thomas spent yesterday in Meredian, Miss.

GENERAL SUMMARY

Of the Work Done by the City School Last Term.

There have been some people who want to know what has been our actual standing in figures this year. I give below a brief summary of things:

No. enrolled, 367; No. received by Transfer, 33; Total, 400; Average daily attendance, 321; No. who came until close of school, 304; No. Promoted, 258; No. Promoted to High School, 21; average No. of pupils to teacher, 50; average No. per teacher as shown by average daily attendance, 40 plus.; average monthly salary of teachers, including principal, $88.00; average salary of assistants, $81.00; average monthly salary of teachers when figured for 12 months, $66.00.

The School Board met May 18th and elected a Superintendent. The following teachers have been re-elected for another year:

Ira Pegues, Superintendent; Miss Alice Selman, First Grade; Miss Eula Mae Vines, Second Grade; Miss Woody Rawlison, Sixth Grade; Mrs. Carrie D. Thomas, Fifth Grade. There are three vacancies, one in First Grade, the Third Grade, and Fourth Grade. As soon as filled these will be announced.

Miss Rena Pinson, Oxford, Ala., has been elected to fill the vacancy in first grade.

Some have asked for a Summer school in order to make up a deficient subject. If enough want me to justify my returning I will teach six weeks beginning the first Monday in July. Tuition will be $5.00 per month for one subject, $7.50 per month for two, payable in advance. No one will be allowed to take more than two subjects. If anyone is interested see Mrs. P. D. Wilson as soon as possible so I can make my plans accordingly. Mrs. Wilson has full authority to act for me.

Two rulings of the Board will be rigidly enforced:

1. Resolved, that no child be admitted to the first grade the first term who is not six years old on or before the first day of October and that no child be admitted to first grade the second term who is not six years old on or before January 1st.

2. Resolved that no child be admitted to first grade the first term after first week of school and that no child be admitted to first grade the second term after the first week of second term, unless said child was sick and presents a doctor's certificate to that effect or has moved into this district after said dates.

The reason for the above ruling is patent to every teacher. Each pupil coming into the first grade late forms a separate and distinct class. Some parents have infringed on the six year limit so far that it is necessary to put the bars up and give notice that the rule will be strictly adhered to.

Respetfully submitted,
IRA PEGUES.

WHY—

ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The soap, partially dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and thus forces the soap-film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air, thus forming a perfect sphere or ball at the moment the bubble is first made.

However, after the bubble has been floating for a few moments, the water drips down toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

Virginia Lee

Many will recall that during the World war there appeared on navy posters seeking recruits a very pretty girl—that was Virginia Lee. During the recent national beauty pageant at Atlantic City, Virginia was selected by President Harding as the most beautiful girl in the U. S. A. For years she has been playing in pictures and is regarded as one of the most handsome of the "movie" stars.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ANGELICA

ANGELICA, a name of much more substance than the pallid Angelea, is still one of the "angelic names" which feminine fancy delights to bestow on its girl children. It means, of course, "angelic" and seems difficult to reconcile with the behavior of some of the small daughters whom one finds bearing the name.

Angelos was a Greek word meaning "heavenly messenger," hence "angel." It first became a name in the Byzantium empire when it was bestowed as an epithet upon persons of surpassing beauty. It was applied most often as a masculine name and there was a Carmelite saint called Angelo, who established it as a baptismal name. In his honor, the feminine also became popular and Italian history records many instances of its use.

Angelica sprang to fame since it named the faithless lady of romance for whose sake Orlando lost his heart and his senses. Though she was the invention of Bolardo and Ariosto, the romantic flavor which the story gave her name brought Angelica to instant favor. England liked the name and adopted it. In France it became Angelique, and Italy produced the other forms of Angioletta and Anzilleta, though Angelica continued the reigning favorite.

Angelica's talismanic gem is the pearl. It guards the purity and sweetness of her, brings her friends, and much charm. Sunday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

FALAKTO

Dear Editor:

I will drop in for a few lines from this neck of the woods.

Health of this community is good at present. Farmers are all getting along nicely with their work this beautiful weather.

The writer attended preaching at Poplar Springs Sunday night, and it was sure fine and a large crowd attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Wilson visited Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Stonecypher Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. John Vinson is visiting her father, Mr. Dennis of Elmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Giles and Mr. Willie Bomman motored down to the singing at Corinth Sunday and heard some fine singing.

I will let you all hear from me again some day.

IS GRATEFUL

Clanton, Ala., May 29, 1922,
To The Chilton County News,
Dear Editor:

Will you grant me a space in your columns to say a few words of thanks to my many friends and neighbors for their much appreciated kindness to me while in the infirmary. I was there two weeks and stood the operation fine, through the unlimited mercy and love of God for which I feel so thankful and blessed be the name of God, and what shall I render unto the Lord for all of his benefits to me. My friends visited me while I was in the hospital and on my return home I found my loving neighbors had done so much for me in my crop, for which I want to thank them. I live in the midst of Christian peple. I can't express my thanks to my neighbors. I am ready to do anything I can for my neighbors. May God bless them all is my prayer.

PAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Held at New Prospect Church last Sunday.

Despite the very inclement weather last Sunday a good size audience gathered at New Prospect Church for the purpose of holding a Sunday School Convention.

The president being absent the vice president, Mr. W. D. Cannon, of Marbury, took charge of the meeting. After devotional services and several inspiring songs conducted by Mr. Cannon the program was taken up and carried out.

The first subject, "How to make the Sunday School Grow," was discussed by J. L. Johnson.

The second subject, "The Importance of Teacher Training," was presented in an interesting way by Miss Louise Griggs.

A bounteous dinner was served at the noon hour by the good people of the community. This social hour was a real treat to all present

In the afternoon, the subject, "The Importance of Primary Work," was handled by Miss Mary Griggs. Miss Griggs not only understands how to give advice along these lines, but she can demonstrate how to do the work in a way that will interest all persons who love Sunday School work. She has had special training in this work which she is admirably fitted to do.

Some tme ago, the business manager of the News attended a Sunday School Convention at Marbury. Accidentally we failed to write it up, but we want to take advantage of this opportunity to say that with the leadership shown from there last Sunday at New Prospect we are not surprised to see such a live Sunday School and also such an elegant church building in the thriving town of Marbury.

MAPLESVILLE NEWS

The little village seems lively since school closed.

The material for new School building is being collected right rapidly that sounds like a High School.

Mrs. Jno. Foshee and daughter, Vivian, were hostess Thursday to a spend-the-day. Those enjoying their hospitality in their lovely home were Mesdames Hill Foshee, Aubrey Shanks, Geo. Coleman, Bobbe Supportus, Misses Virgie Nell Foshee and Ruth Davis.

Mary Brooks won the gold metal in the declamation contest of five girls in Dallas County High School. Also Nell Brown won the medal for the highest english grade during the year. Maplesville feels proud of her girls.

RESOLUTIONS LIFT WORK OF CARTER

Chamber of Commerce Officially Endorses Him by Resolution of Directors.

The following resolutions endorsing the work of Rev. P. G. Carter in Clanton, have been passed on by the Board of Directors of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce:

Whereas: The Rev. P. G. Carter has tendered his resignation as Secretary of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce, and

Whereas: It becomes necessary for the Directors to accept the same with regret;

Therefore: We, the undersigned Directors of said Chamber, hereby place on record our high esteem for the retiring secretary, and hearty appreciation of the very efficient, faithful and energetic services for the past fourteen months. In all matters of a civic nature, such as the erection of the hospital, the successful election for the highway amendment, and the general civic interest of the city and community, we have found him untiring in his efforts, and zealous in his work, ever seeking the best welfare of the community. In expressing our regrets at his leaving the community, we heartily commend him to any other place where he may reside as a loyal, unselfish, efficient citizen and gentleman.

Be it Further Reslved, That a copy of the resolutions be printed in the papers, placed on the minutes of the Chamber, and a copy furnished to the retiring Secretary.

Signed:
V. J. GRAGG, Pres.,
W. W. FOX, Vice-Pres.,
W. T. BEAN,
J. L. SMITH,
C. REESE MULLINS,
V. J. HEARD.

SHADY GROVE

On the Third Sunday, June 18, we will have a District Sunday School Convention at Shady Grove, three miles east of Verbena. All Sunday Schools of every denomination are urged to send delegates, and we insist that all Superintendents attend.

We have some of the best speakerh in the County for the day.

Don't forget — Shady Grove, on June 18th.

PATES CHAPEL

Bad weather doesn't keep the Pates Chapel Singing Society from meeting at their regular time of meeting. Sunday evening they met with not so large a crowd as we have had, but we had a fine singing. We would like to urge everyone to come out on next second Sunday evening. You will receive a cordial welcome and we are sure you will enjoy yourself.

Directors for the evening were, Chester Maddox, J. F. Robinson, Harrison Hayes, Miss Emily Pate, Miss Fannie Pate, C. Scott, J. Scott, and Miss Edwards. Organists were Miss Mae Maddox and Mr. J. Scott. We missed our visitors from Pleasant Grove this time but hope they will come next time.

Rev. B. F. Dykes will preach at this place next Saturday at eleven o'clock. Sunday school will meet Sunday Morning at ten o'clock and preaching to follow at eleven o'clock by Rev. Dykes.

The Pleasant Grove Singing Society will meet Sunday evening.

BASE BALL

The Clanton Base Ball Club journeyed up to Jemison Tuesday afternoon, and crossed bats with the Jemison boys in a hard fought pitchers battle, Clanton finally nosing out with a score of 5 to 3 in their favor. Luther Pyron, who has recently returned here and joined the local club attended most capably to the honors in the box for Clanton.

Now, listen! On Friday afternoon of this week, the crack team of Montgomery non-leaguers, is going to come up here and take the scalp off our boys, so they say. Go out and see this contest, for the local team promises to send these capital city boosters back home in sack cloth and ashes. Don't forget the date—Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

IN HARD LUCK

Clever Joe Franklin, who is one of the accommodating draymen for the city, has been having a constant run of tough luck all this year. He has had almost continual sickness in his family all the year, and to accentuate his run of misfortunes, Sunday morning his large fine dray horse died, and left Joe without motive power to run his business.

We learn that a number of the good folks of Clanton contributed quite a neat sum to help Joe over this tight squeeze. A dollar could not be spent in a more deserving cause.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores. Advertisement

IOULD REVIVE BUSINESS

Let-Up in Attack on Attorney General Daugherty—Bankers Meet in Paris to Solve International Loan Problem—Communist Outbreak in Bulgaria.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

OR some time President Harding has been striving to bring about a eral agreement by the railways of country to reduce freight rates terially and voluntarily, accepting opinion of many experts that low- rates are essential to the recovery business in the United States. He led a number of railway executives a conference in the White House l laid the case before them, and y named a committee of their mem- ship to co-operate with the inter- te commerce commission in at- pting to realize the President's hes. This looked promising until Harding a few days later admitted t the railway chiefs had so clearly sented to him the difficulties of the ation that he was not very san- ne of success.

hen the interstate commerce com- sion by itself came to the rescue l on Wednesday announced a deci- n in accordance with which rates nearly all classes and commodities raffic will be reduced on July 1 by unts equal to 10 per cent of their ent levels. The chief commodities luded from the reduction are agri- ural products in all sections out- of New England, live stock and tern grain and grain products. order reaffirms the reduction of per cent in the western hay and n rates last fall and the cut of er cent made voluntarily by the s on agricultural products, Jan- 1.

ccording to the estimates of ex- s, the reductions mean a saving pproximately $400,000,000 a year le rail transportation bills of the rican people. The farmers alone, say, will benefit to the extent of $127,000,000 a year on goods that buy normally. The cut is ex- ed to increase buying and thus ulate industry and diminish un- loyment. On this there is general ment among manufacturers, mer- disers and bankers.

any of the rail executives were only surprised by the commis- s decision, but also quite disgrun- holding that the reduction should been postponed until the roads accumulated more funds through ased earnings. Others, however, tted that the loss in freight rev- probably would be more than off- y increase in traffic.

e interstate commerce commission ded in its decision the determina- of 5.75 per cent as the reasonable al return for carriers on their al investment, as compared with per cent level previously fixed. new figure really amounts to 6 ent since the federal corporation e taxes are subtracted from ngs before profits are figured.

ther part of President Harding's was a voluntary acceptance of uction of wages by the railway erhoods. At present there is lit- rospect of this, but the railway board is expected to make a de- soon on wage questions that been pending before it, the find- o be based solely on evidence nted in the hearings. It is esti- l by the bureau of railway eco- s that railway labor board or- o date are saving the roads $300,- 0 a year in reduced wages, so of the freight reduction seems ly to have been unloaded.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DAUGHERTY'S course in relation to war contract frauds and his alleged connection with the securing of Charles W. Morse's release from the Atlanta penitentiary continue to supply the "warmest" of the news from Washington. Senator Caraway of Arkansas is the most persistent of those attacking Daugherty, and the latter made the assertion that the senator was actuated to throw a screen about men guilty of war frauds. To this Caraway responded with a challenge to the attorney general daring him to bring about a congressional investigation to determine the truth of his charges. Said the Arkansan:

"I defy Daugherty to ask the senate to pass a resolution for an investigation. If he does not do it, he stands convicted before the public as the man who has entered into a corrupt agreement to defraud the government, although he is the attorney general; and if his party will not let him be investigated his party must take the responsibility for not doing it. He said certain things were true. I say when he said it that he uttered a willful and malicious falsehood."

THE house has not yet acted on the resolution providing for a congressional investigation of war fraud charges, which was introduced by Representative Woodruff of Michigan. Senator Norris of Nebraska was quoted as saying that if the house did not speedily pass this resolution, a similar one would be introduced in the senate from the Republican side. Altogether, the situation of the attorney general is decidedly uncomfortable.

TOM WATSON, the eccentric senator from Georgia, had one of his "spells" last week and tried his best to get into a fist fight with Senator Phipps of Colorado. Watson was angry over Phipps' action in regard to certain Georgia postoffice nominations and during a session of the senate he began a furious verbal attack on the Coloradoan. They then went outside the main doorway and Watson roundly cursed Phipps, shouting: "If you will come down off that step, I'll knock your face in with my fist." Phipps, declining the challenge to combat, called a sergeant-at-arms, and the raging Watson was led away by Senator McNary.

NOTHING doing yet in the matter of a senate bill for soldiers' bonus. The Republican members of the finance committee last week found themselves evenly divided between Smoot's plan for paid-up insurance policies and McCumber's plan for certificates on which the service men could borrow. It was thought for a time that President Harding might express a preference, but he evidently was determined the senators should extricate themselves as best they might. Then the Republicans decided to call in the Democratic members of the committee to aid in drafting a bill. It was said the Democrats rather favored the McCumber plan.

THERE was a prospect last week that the German reparations crisis, due on May 31, would be averted. The allied reparations commission was considering offering Germany indefinite postponement of the ultimatum date on condition that she accept essentially the commission's full program. Such an arrangement was thought to be advisable in order to give time to the international bankers' committee, which met Thursday in Paris. Four solutions of the international loan problem were presented to the bankers at their opening session. J. P. Morgan submitted what he termed the American plan, and the others were offered by Sir Robert Kindersley, one of the governors of the Bank of England; Charles Sargent, former French undersecretary of finance and president of the Banque de l'Union Parisienne, and Dr. G. Vissering, president of the Netherlands bank. The sessions were private and the public was not given any hint of what the plans were. However, it was understood to be the opinion of the financiers that if any loan to Germany were arranged, it must be very large, probably at least a billion dollars. It also seemed likely that it would be necessary, in that case, for Belgium to surrender partially her priority on German reparations, for Great Britain to reduce her proportion of 22 per cent of the reparations, and for France to cut down her expectations of cash payments.

PREMIER STAMBOULISKY of Bulgaria had some private conferences with M. Tchitcherin of Russia when they were at Genoa, and the result appears to be that the Bulgarian government, formerly the declared opponent of bolshevism, has changed front and will line up with the soviet republic and make its international policies conform to those of Russia, Germany and Turkey. This will not only present a solid combination against the allies and the little entente, but also will have its effect on the Thracian question, for the Bulgars have always sided with the Turks against the Greeks there.

The Bulgarian communists started some kind of an uprising a few days ago and at first it was reported they had seized the government and that King Boris was a fugitive. This was false, and it appeared the row was mainly an attempt by the communists to force the removal of Wrangel's antibolshevik Russians from the country. The rebels really did begin a march on Sofia, but the army remained loyal and drove them off.

CHARLES R. CRANE of Chicago, former American minister to China, is a great traveler but he is not likely for some time to visit France or any French possessions. Word has come from Syria that a French military court in Damascus, after a hearing by default, has found Mr. Crane guilty of inciting the recent uprising in the French mandate and sentenced him to twenty years in prison. A woman Moslem teacher who was involved in the outbreak was one of those selected by Mr. Crane to receive educational benefit in the United States. He gave her his check for $1,000 for traveling expenses and this gave rise to the charge that the American government was subsidizing the rebels.

MICHAEL COLLINS, head of the Irish Free State provisional government, and De Valera have signed a compact regarding the coming elections, and the later seems to have got the best of it. The agreement virtually will result in the re-election of the present membership of the Dail Eireann, so that the De Valera republicans will again have nearly half the seats notwithstanding the fact that they represent less than 20 per cent of the electorate. The British government is much exercised by the status of affairs, realizing that the treaty is in danger.

Whatever condition of temporary peace may obtain in southern Ireland, the warfare between that part of the island and Ulster has acquired new vigor, due to the outrages perpetrated by Sinn Feiners. Among these was the murder of a member of the Ulster parliament. This so enraged the Belfast government that 300 Sinn Fein leaders—all that could be caught in the Ulster counties—were seized in surprise raids and thrown into prison. Premier Craig told parliament forcible action was demanded, and he issued a regulation declaring that membership in the republican army was an offense in itself. His energetic measures did not stop the operations of the bombers and snipers.

AT LEAST one interesting fight may be expected at every convention of the American Medical association. In last week's sessions of the organization in St. Louis the contest arose over the practice of "group medicine" or clinics. The committee on amendments to the constitution proposed new sections declaring against this practice, which, however, cannot be acted on for one year. Immediately afterward announcement was made of the organization of the Association of Group Clinics of North America, an independent medical association.

ANOTHER step toward the consummation of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project has been taken by the government. An announcement by the State department says it has informed Canada "that the United States government would be glad to take up with the Canadian government the negotiation of a treaty looking to the deepening of the waterways which would enable ocean-going ships to reach the Great Lakes."

JEHOIAKIM TRIES TO DESTROY GOD'S WORD

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 36.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Word of our God shall stand forever.—Isa. 40:8.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Isa. 55:8-11; Matt. 5:17-19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Burning of a Good Book.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jehoiakim Burns the Prophet's Book.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A King Who Scorned God's Word.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Meet the Forces Antagonistic to God's Word.

I. The Book Being Written (vv. 1-4).

1. The Time of (v. 1). In the fourth year of Jehoiakim, Jeremiah had been exercising the prophetic ministry some thirty years.

2. Against Whom Spoken (v. 2). They were directed against Israel, Judah and all the nations.

3. The Purpose of (v. 3). The grand object of the Lord in sending this message by the prophet was Judah's repentance.

4. Method of (v. 4). Jeremiah dictated the words of the Lord to Baruch the Scribe, who wrote them upon a roll of a book.

II. The Book Being Read (vv. 5-21).

Jeremiah was unable to speak the message of the Lord to the people, as he was "shut up" (v. 5). "Shut up" most likely means a royal ban against Jeremiah's proclamation of God's Word to the people or against his entering the temple.

1. To the People (vv. 6-10). The occasion which brought the people together was a day of fasting (v. 6), because of the threatening of the Babylonians. Jeremiah directed Baruch to read to the people the words of the Lord which he had dictated to him, with the hope that the people would present their supplication before the Lord and return every one from his evil way.

2. To the Princes (vv. 11-19). While the reading of the book unto the people seemingly created no great impression, yet Michaiah was so deeply moved that he went to the scribe's chamber where the princes were assembled and declared unto them all the words which he had heard Baruch read. The princes sent for Baruch to come and bring the roll with them. Baruch came and read to them with the result that (1) they were aroused with fear (v. 16). (2) They inquired as to how he had written the words (vv. 17, 18). To this he replied that he had written in the book the words which Jeremiah had dictated to him. (3) Their concern for the safety of Jeremiah and Baruch (v. 19). They were instructed to hide themselves from man's sight.

3. To the King (vv. 20, 21). The princes regarded the words of the Lord to be of such importance that they should be read in the hearing of the king, for he was mainly involved in the judgments pronounced. Upon their report of the matter to the king, he had Jehudi bring the roll and read it to him in the presence of the princes.

III. The King Destroying the Roll (vv. 22-26).

Instead of becoming penitent and afraid he became enraged and cut the roll leaf by leaf and threw it into the fire until it was consumed. This he did against the intercession of some of the princes. When the roll was destroyed he ordered Jeremiah and Baruch arrested.

IV. The Roll Rewritten (vv. 27-32).

The burnt roll was reproduced by the command of the Lord, and many like words were added unto them. We should learn from this incident—

1. The Indestructibility of God's Word. Men may cut it to pieces and burn it, but the Word of God shall stand forever. It comes to light again with woes added to be visited upon its would-be destroyers.

2. The reason men attempt to destroy God's Word. It is because of the authoritative rebuke of their sins. The Bible arraigns man for his pride and wickedness and asserts God's sovereign power over man and his demand for a personal surrender unto Him and worship of Him.

3. The Method of Attempted Destruction of God's Word. It was part by part. "When Jehudi had read three or four leaves he cut it with a penknife." The rationalist today cuts out the biblical conception of God as a being whose essential nature demands punishment of sin; therefore he cuts out the Bible doctrine of man as created of God in His likeness and image. Instead of that he makes man a product of evolution; therefore he explains away the fall of man.

No Longer "Wireless."

The committee on nomenclature at the government radio conference declares that the use of the word "wireless" and names derived from it are obsolete. Instead they urge the use of "radio." For the general title of a system of conductors for radiating or absorbing radio waves use "aerial"; for an open circuit aerial use "antenna"; for a closed circuit aerial use "coil."—Youth's Companion.

Highest Quality—Lowest Prices

The entire Goodyear effort of many years has been toward one result—the tire buyer's advantage.

Goodyear has taken two methods to achieve that result.

One has been to raise the quality of Goodyear Tires.

The other, to lower Goodyear prices.

Goodyear has succeeded in both—to your great advantage.

Goodyear Tires are better today than ever—larger, heavier and stronger. Many users tell us they are getting double the mileage from them they got from Goodyears ten years ago.

Goodyear prices are lower today than ever. On the average they have decreased more than 60% from the prices of 1910.

Look at the figures listed below.

Think of the fine performance of the Goodyears you have known, and remember that Goodyear Tires are giving even better performance now.

You can get these tires at your Goodyear Service Station Dealer's. See him today.

NEW BUILDINGS

The building boom that struck 6th Street some few months ago is still in progress. The elegant quarters erected over there for the Easterling Cafe are rapidly nearing completion now. It will make the fourth splendid new brick business house, with plate glass front, put up in continuous succession.

Now, we have on the other side of the street another brick going up with plate glass and pressed brick front, which we learn will be occupied by Dr. Arthur Johnson as an office.

This boom on Sixth Street is ardently hoped to hold out until a fine two-story building looms up on the vacant corner of Second Avenue and Sixth Street, facing the Court House.

SOLDIER BURIED AT COOPERS

One of the heroes who wrote the name of America away above all other nations on the scroll of chivalry and efficiency in the great World War was buried at Coopers last week We refer to Private Boswell who fell in battle in the early days of our victorious entry into the war, back in 1918. The body was returned to his home and family, and he sleeps now in the church yard among his relatives and friends.

One of the largest crowds that has assembled in Coopers in years was on hand to do him honors. The services were most appropriately and feelingly conducted by Rev. S. M. Adams of Thorsby.

Sleep in peace and happiness, brave soldier boy, until that last great day when all clouds will be rolled away and your reward will come.

W. W. COBERN RETIRES FROM SHERIFF RACE

We are authorized to announce that Mr. W. W. Cobern, of Mt. Creek, has decided to retire from the race for Sheriff.

He does this in the interest of party harmony and to simplify the situation in the primary. Mr. Cobern desires us to extend his most sincere thanks to the many friends [illegible] the county who have assured him their support, and he urges them to do as he is going to do—redouble their efforts for the success of the parry in November. He says the prospect for victory is bright.

MONTGOMERY BARACAS DEFEAT CLANTON

(By Steve Hardee.)

A large number of fans were down at Polk's ball park on last Tuesday afternoon to see Montgomery tramp on Clanton 4 to 3.

Luther Pyron, despite the razzing of the Montgomery Baracas, (his former team mates) shot at him, pitched an excellent game of ball.

Three clean hits were all the boys from the "Clean" city could get off his delivery.

Geo. Wyatt is just as much at home in the out field as Brooks Lawrence is in a saloon. Geo. is a good infielder and that's where he belongs.

One of our infielders made three errors, but we promised not to say anything about first basemen. Outside of making seven errors Clanton did fine. Following is the box score:

BASE BALL.

Although Jupiter Pluvius [illegible] a regular jag last week and pulled off any number of contra[illegible] on the ball teams, the C[illegible] contrived to slip in thre[illegible] with the mit and bat between [illegible] ers.

Friday afternoon th[illegible] from Marbury sailed [illegible] Park with joyous peans of victory, but, like the Irishman, it [illegible] them that they done th[illegible] before the conflict, [illegible] their Waterloo with a final sco[illegible] 7 to 2 marked up against them.

Red Wagoner handled the heavy artillery for Clanton and his zizzing whiz-bangs were too much for the Marbury batsmen.

The fielding on both sides was brilliant and no slabsman had any cause to complain of poor support. The game was full of thrills from the start to the finish.

The batteries were for Clanton, Wagoner and Hayes; for Marbury, Alley, Grant and Porter. Score, Clanton 7, Marbury 2.

On Saturday morning bright and soon, while the dewdrops still glittered in the early sunbeams, the Clanton team boarded cars and put out to West Blocton on a quest for more scalps. Two games of real baseball in league style and finish were played over there. In the first game with Pyron occupying the hill for Clanton, the boys being jaded from their long trip, they failed to get off right at the start and the Blocton hard hitters sneaked away with a lead the home boys could not overcome after they got their stride, So the game went to Blocton 6 to 3. Pyron and Hayes did the honors for Clanton.

In the next game the fight was on from the first ball pitched and every moment during the conflict was full of excitement for the audience.

Clanton put Parrish on the mound in this frame and he gave the Bloctonites all the trouble they wanted, and then some. This game only went seven innings and closed with a tie score of 2 and 2. Parrish and Hayes for Clanton.

That ball team we predicted for Clanton has arrived. The boys have evidently got it. Team work, pep and ability—they are winners.

An immense audience took in both games.

Now, here is our chance to see some real league ball playing. The West Blocton boys are going to come here next Saturday and put on a double header, beginning at two p. m. If you want to see how Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb and those kind of [illegible] do it, just come out to Polk's Park next Saturday and these artists will show you how it is done.

SOME CARS.

We are ready to lay a bet that there are more motor driven vehicles in and around Clanton than any other town of the size in Alabama. You can see all makes, kinds and shapes of cars on the streets. Some spick and span from the factory, some dusty and careworn looking, but still burning the gas, and others mere skeletons of former speeders but still rattling and staggering along.

As for trucks, you can't count them. They are here in all sizes and shapes, colors and conditions of servitude, but still chugging along the streets, loaded with whatever commodity they can pick up to move. Some day we will need an elevated walkway for pedestrians or else stay out.

OH YOU "SHIFTERS."

Clanton young folks are bound to march in the front rank of the procession, no matter which way it is headed.

This new order known as the shifters that has been hugged, kissed and cussed and in some instances jailed, in cities from the mountains to the seaboard, has arrived here.

We notice quite a number of clips or badges worn here already. It is said to be a fraternal order that recognizes no sex. Male and female have the same rights and privileges to bum cigarettes, show tickets, hooch or kisses from each other. Let us be up to date if the heavens fall. Hooray!

Mr. T. J. Dorminey of Jemison was here Saturday looking after the interests of those who till the soil for a livelihood.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Mr. Strawtor Teel, who was injured in an automobile accident last Sunday week ago, is still in a very precarious condition.

His injuries are mainly internal and up to this time his symptoms are not very encouraging. We hear that he may be transfered to the hospital for an operation.

LATER:—As we were going to press, this [Friday] morning Mr. Teel passed away. No funeral arrangements had been perfected in time for us to announce.

SERIOUS OPERATION

Mrs. Jeff Jones was operated on at the local hospital Tuesday for appendicitis and other complications She stood the operation all right and is convalescing nicely with a splendid chance of ultimate recovery.

Miss Margaret Tyus went to Birmingham Saturday to visit relatives.

Messrs. Cecil and J. T. Tyus visited their parents Monday night.

Mr. J. M. Poole, a good citizen of Thorsby, died May 31st in a Birmingham infirmary. For many years Mr. Poole had been engaged in the blacksmith trade at Thorsby. He was a faithful member of the Masonic fraternity. He was buried June 3 at New Salem cemetery near Thorsby with Masonic honors. He will be greatly missed by his many friends in Thorsby and Chilton County. He is survived by one son, Mr. O. J. Poole, of Arizona.

Prof. C. E. Harris, son of our worthy citizen, H. A. J. Harris, is now at home after finishing two successful years as principal of the Consolidated School at Raymond, Miss.

People like to see Councilman Atkinson out when the street gang are at work. He has a way of getting splendid results when he has time to give each job his personal attention.

The weather seems to be trying to please everybody in temperatures the past few days. You can't change your raimens half as fast as the thermometer has been jumping up and down.

BILLINGSLEY BARBACUE

On Saturday, June 17, the good people of the Billingsley community are giving a big barbacue to the public. They intend to have plenty to eat for everybody, and some of the biggest oratorical guns of the State on hand to fill the atmospere with eloquence. Ball games and other amusements will be part of the fun.

Everybody is cordially invited. Saturday, June 17.

If you need Slippers, Hats, Dresses, Piece Goods, in fact anything in Ready-to-Wear or Dry Goods, you can't afford to stay away from Elmore's big 15 day Summer Sale starting Saturday morning.

Sam Eiland of Mt. Creek was in Clanton last Saturday.

Miss Warrene Spigener is in Ashville, N. C., attending the Young Womens Christian Association Conference of the Southern States. She is one of the delegates from Judson College at Marion.

R. F. Deason of Route 3 was here last Saturday.

O. E. Herring, Standard Oil Man, was here recently looking after business for John D.

J. M. Parrish, Sr., of Beat 16, was in Clanton Sunday.

Messrs. John and Harvey Deramus of Verbena were Clanton visitors on last Sunday.

Just think! You can buy 10 yd. remnant of Gingham at Elmore's for 98c, but you had better come early if you expect to get it, for you gnow at that price it can't last long in our Big Summer Sale which starts Saturday morning.

Mr. Hubbard who was prostrated with heat while working last Saturday, is out again, but is still rather feeble.

Miss Madeline Orr was a visitor to the Capital City last week.

Baby Specialists.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles: all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

CASTORIA

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splurg, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little-one.

To them: to these true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Wages of Rail Employees Are Reduced by Board and Big Strike May Result.

HOOVER SETS COAL PRICES

Germany Yields to Allied Ultimatum and International Bankers Plan Reparation Payments and Loans—War Fraud Investigation Begins—British Warn Ireland.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

ANOTHER great strike is threatened, this time of the railroad workers whose wages have been or are to be reduced by the United States railway labor board. Already the board has made public one decision cutting nearly $50,000,000 from the annual wages of the maintenance of way men, and before this reaches the reader it is almost certain another decision will have been published slashing between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 from the yearly pay of the shopmen. Either ruling is sufficient to bring on a walkout if the men remain in their present state of mind, and still others may follow soon.

The first decision announced orders a reduction of 13.2 per cent in the prevailing pay of maintenance of way men, effective July 1. It affects about 100,000 workers, and their new wages will range from 23 to 35 cents an hour. It was signed by the three public members and the three railway members of the board. The three labor members signed a dissenting opinion, holding that the new pay does not constitute the "just and reasonable" wages guaranteed under the transportation act, and that in fact it does not represent a living wage. The majority report, however, points out that common labor on railways, even after the reduction, will be better paid than similar labor in most other industries.

Edward H. Fitzgerald, president of the railway clerks' organization, took the lead in planning for the prospective strike, inviting sixteen chiefs of rail unions to meet this week in Cincinnati. He was forestalling an expected decision by the federal board cutting the pay of the clerks, telegraphers and other smaller classes. There is a possibility that this conference will result in a defensive alliance between the railway workers and the miners. Such a compact really was formed several months ago, but failed to provide for aggressive action unless each step was approved by referendums of the various organizations involved. This lack may be supplied at the Cincinnati meeting.

The six federated shop crafts are concerned not only in wage reduction. They accuse twenty-two roads of violating the transportation act by letting out shop work to contractors not within the board's jurisdiction, and their president, B. M. Jewell, has demanded that the board assume jurisdiction in these cases and compel the railroads to restore conditions in effect previous to the alleged violations. He said that unless this were done strike ballots would be sent out, regardless of the wage issue. The board already has shown that it sympathizes with the attitude of the shopmen in this matter.

Wages of train service men are not involved in the present and immediately prospective rulings of the labor board.

UNOFFICIALLY but authoritatively it is announced that the government is taking no action to end the strike of coal miners and that it does not look for any decisive turn in affairs before the middle of June or the first of July, when the shortage in coal may begin to be felt. Secretary of Commerce Hoover, however, does not propose that the consumer shall suffer unjustly if he can prevent it. He held a conference last week with the representatives of more than 500 producers of bituminous coal whose mines are in operation in the non-union fields, and told them that he would assume personal responsibility for fixing minimum prices at the mine, in order to prevent profiteering. He asked, however, that the operators agree among themselves on fair prices in order that the anti-trust laws might not be infringed. Mr. Hoover then announced what he considered fair prices in three districts. These ranged from $2.20 to $2.60 a ton for the Alabama district; $3.50 a ton for the smokeless coal districts of West Virginia, and $8.50 a ton for the Harlan and Hazard fields of Kentucky and the southern Appalachian fields of Tennessee and Kentucky. The maximum for the Alabama district is 25 censt a ton below the final Garfield war-time scale, while the maximums proposed for the other districts are somewhat above the Garfield prices. The prices are to apply only to spot coal.

GERMANY'S reply to the ultimatum of the allied reparation commission was near enough to complete acceptance to satisfy that body, which, after a day's intensive study of the note, telegraphed to Berlin its approval of the German promises to balance the budget and to stop the issue of paper money. The commission then turned over to the committee of international bankers in session in Paris the entire question of German finances and payment of reparations. Those bankers, among whom is J. Pierpont Morgan of the United States, are now studying the questions of Germany's capacity to pay, the guarantees she can give for the series of huge loans that will be necessary, and, in connection with the latter, the possibilities involved in the Russo-German pact.

The German proposals were drawn up by Finance Minister Hermes and are not at all liked by some other members of the Wirth cabinet and many members of the reichstag. The Stinnes group especially attacked them as a surrender of sovereignty that will bring on catastrophe. The reichstag refused to pass a vote of lack of confidence in the government, but the cabinet is believed to be in a shaky condition.

Lloyd George made a statement on reparations in the house of commons in which he strongly intimated that Germany would be granted reductions, postponements and revisions when these appeared necessary, and this was greeted with cheers. France, naturally, is not pleased with developments, but is not in position to object strenuously.

SENATOR M'CUMBER'S bill for a soldier bonus was approved by the senate finance committee by a vote of 9 to 4, and he announced he would be ready to make a favorable report on the measure to the senate within a few days. He hopes to induce the senate to sidetrack the tariff debate long enough to pass the bonus bill, but as the latter does not go into effect until January 1 next, many of the Republican leaders are opposed to this idea. The Democrats will support McCumber's plan for immediate consideration of the bonus. The bill as approved by the finance committee is almost identical with the bill passed by the house. The Democrats are not satisfied with it, and Senator Smoot will try to have his insurance measure adopted as a substitute, so the debate in the senate is likely to be a long one.

INVESTIGATION of war frauds now is under way in Washington, the first of the government's series of cases, dealing with contracts for disposal of surplus lumber, having been presented to the special federal grand jury by United States Attorney Peyton Gordon. Attorney General Daugherty issued a statement saying that at no time during the grand jury investigation would any information be given out as to its activities or the names of the cases presented.

Meanwhile Senator Caraway and others continue their attack on the attorney general unflaggingly, with the avowed intention of driving him out of the cabinet because of his connection with the release of Charles W. Morse from the federal penitentiary. It is stated in Washington that President Harding has full confidence in Mr. Daugherty's honesty and integrity, which of course means that he will not ask him to retire from the cabinet.

THE delectable Senator Tom Watson of Georgia indulged in another outburst in the senate because Senator Lenroot intimated the Georgian had made an untrue statement concerning the Hoover relief fund accounts. Watson yelled that he was not afraid of "the insolent junior senator from Wisconsin" on the floor of the senate or anywhere else, and that he defied him. Some day one of the husky senators will take Tom Watson at his word and "knock his block off."

OVER in England short shrift is usually given criminals. Horatio Bottomley, member of parliament, editor of John Bull and professional hater of America, has been found guilty of fraudulent conversion of $660,000 in connection with the victory bond clubs he organized among poor people, and was promptly sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. He announced he would appeal but was denied bail and locked up in Brixton prison. Bottomley will lose his seat in parliament if the conviction stands.

IRELAND has about two weeks in which to establish a government in accordance with the treaty creating the Free State and to restore order to a measurable degree. If she fails the British troops now in Ulster and others to be sent over will be used to suppress the republicans and the Sinn Feiners and put an end to the border warfare. Such is the warning given in the house of commons by Winston Churchill, who added that the British cabinet still has faith in Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith. The Irish elections are to be held on June 16 and Churchill said that if De Valera and others who have rejected the treaty are elected to the Irish parliament they must publicly announce that they are bound by the treaty, otherwise the pact will become worthless and will be automatically violated. Collins and Griffith heard Churchill's statement and afterward said they believed they could work out the affair if they had time. Sir Lamington Evans, minister for war, has complete plans ready for military operations for the reduction of Ireland, one of the preliminaries being the full occupation of Dublin.

Along the Ulster border the fighting goes on merrily and every day a number of persons are murdered. In many localities the Free Staters and republicans are making common cause against the Protestants of Ulster. Bloody conflicts between the military and constables and gunmen take place daily in Belfast.

OBSERVANCE of Memorial day was made especially notable by the dedication of the beautiful Lincoln Memorial in Washington, now virtually completed. It was turned over to the nation by Justice Taft as head of the memorial commission and was accepted by President Harding in an eloquent address. In the great throng that witnessed the ceremonies was Robert Todd Lincoln, son of the Great Emancipator.

ONE of the pledges of the Harding administration and a prediction made early in the year by treasury officials was fulfilled last week. All issues of Liberty bonds sold at par or better, for the first time. The trading in them on Wall street was very heavy. At the low quotations of last year most of these bonds were yielding from 5 to almost 6½ per cent. On the present basis of values the 3½s net exactly 3½ per cent and the 4s and 4¼s from 4 to 4¼ per cent.

TWELVE balloons started from Milwaukee Wednesday in the national race, and at this writing six have landed, in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri. The others probably were traveling northeast. One of the great bags, belonging to the navy and therefore a non-contestant, is filled with helium and carries a new secret radio device from which much is expected. The three balloons that travel the greatest distances will be America's entries in the international race in France later in the year.

PLANS for the unification of China are moving forward. Uuon the meeting of the old Republican parliament, backed by General Wu, the President, Hsu Chih Chang, resigned and was succeeded by Former President Li Yuan Hung. Overtures have been made to Sun Yat Sen.

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SIBBERT, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women: why not give it a fair trial—now.

LESSON FOR JUNE 11

JEREMIAH CAST INTO PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 38:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord.—Jer. 1:8.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Gen. 39:19-23; Jer. 20:1-18; Luke 3:18-20; Acts 12:1-11; 16:19-34.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How God Cared for Jeremiah.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jeremiah's Bold Truth-telling.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Faithful in the Face of Danger.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Lessons From Jeremiah's Character.

I. Jeremiah Predicts the Capture of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

1. To Whom—the People (v. 1). Jeremiah had been taken out of the prison by the king (37:17), and ordered confined to the court of the prison (37:21). The people seem to have had free access to him in the court (32:12). From this place of limited confinement Jeremiah announced to the people their approaching captivity.

2. Counsel Given (vv. 2, 3). (1) All that remaineth in the city shall die by the sword, famine and pestilence. (2) He that goeth forth to the Chaldeans shall live. "He shall have his life for a prey" doubtless means that he shall escape with his life, though losing all else.

II. Jeremiah Accused by the Princes (vv. 4, 5).

1. "He weakeneth the hands of the men and all the people" (v. 4). From a human standpoint what they said was true, but since Jeremiah was but the interpreter of God to the nation they ought to have heeded his advice to surrender.

2. "This man seeketh not the welfare of this people, but the hurt" (v. 4). This charge was utterly false. Jeremiah was the best friend of the people, for he faithfully proclaimed to them God's judgment upon them for their sins and advised them how to make the best of their unfortunate situation.

3. The King's Cowardly Act (v. 5). Jeremiah is abandoned by his cowardly friend. The very one whom Jeremiah was trying to help deserted him. The king was afraid of the Chaldeans, the princes, Jeremiah and God.

III. Jeremiah Cast Into the Dungeon (v. 6).

This was not a regular prison, but a cistern which had doubtless been emptied of its water during the siege, leaving only "mire." Into this mire he sank. The purpose was to let Jeremiah die there. There was no possible way to escape. In this situation Jeremiah is a type of Christ (Psalm 69). Jeremiah was one of the bravest of God's servants.

IV. Jeremiah Rescued From the Dungeon (vv. 7-13).

1. By Whom—Ebed-melech, an African servant (vv. 7-9). The Jewish prophet whom his own countrymen tried to destroy is saved by a Gentile, which may be thought of as foreshadowing the Gentiles' attitude toward Christ. Though Ebed-melech had a colored skin he was the whitest man in Jerusalem. He was not only sympathetic, but courageous. He went to the king and boldly declared that the princes had done evil in imprisoning Jeremiah.

2. The Method (vv. 10-13). The king yielded to his request and furnished a guard to prevent interference with the work of rescue. He let down soft rags and worn-out garments by ropes and instructed Jeremiah to put them under his arms and under the ropes so as to prevent injury to him as he was lifted up. They lifted him out of the dungeon and he was permitted the freedom of the court of the prison.

Why did Jeremiah have such a hard time? Why do the purest and best men and women have to suffer? Why are God's prophets unpopular? Jeremiah, the prophet who declared God's power to deliver, goes to prison and suffers. "Why do the righteous suffer" is an age-old question.

1. The power of God is more strikingly shown in deliverance than in keeping from trials. This was so in the case of the Hebrews in the fiery furnace and Daniel in the den of lions.

2. Great gain accrues to the sufferers; e. g. the Hebrews in the fiery furnace were not only kept from being burned, but had walking with them the Son of God; Job through his trials was brought to see himself.

3. Suffering turns out to the furtherance of God's cause; e. g. Job becomes the priest through whose intercession his friends are pardoned; Paul's sufferings furthered the preaching of the gospel; John through banishment on the Isle of Patmos was given the vision of the Revelation.

Zion.

But Judah shall dwell for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation. For I will cleanse their blood that I have not cleansed: for the Lord dwelleth in Zion.—Joel 3:20 and 21.

Be Honest.

Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men.—Romans 17.

The Perfect Man.

If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man.—James 3:2.

CAN NOW WALK AS WELL AS EVER

Esteemed Lincoln Resident Declares Tanlac Has Made a Clean Sweep of Her Rheumatism and and Other Troubles.

"I couldn't believe all they said about Tanlac until I tried it myself, and now I never doubt what I read about it," said Mrs. Anna B. Crawford, 2500 N. 23rd St., Lincoln, Neb., wife of a well-known retired business man.

"I got into a badly run-down condition," she continued, "and suffered greatly from indigestion. I had headache for days at a time, slept poorly and woke up mornings so weak and dizzy I could hardly get up. Then rheumatism set in and made walking difficult and I could scarcely use my arms for the pain.

"But Tanlac has made a clean sweep of my troubles, brought back my appetite and enabled me to gain much weight. It is a pleasure to make a statement in praise of this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Protection.

Ambassador George Harvey on formal occasions bears himself with a great air of dignity. Among his friends, however, he is very jolly.

A foreign correspondent told the other day of an intimate dinner in a Pall Mall club where Mr. Harvey appeared through some accident with a very shabby umbrella. He explained:

"I always carry a green cotton umbrella in London so that Englishmen won't think it worth stealing."

DISCOURAGED AND MISERABLE

Virginia Lady So Weak She Could Hardly Get Around—Says Cardui Helped Relieve a Serious Condition.

Ringgold, Va.—Mrs. D. T. Barker, of a well-known Pittsylvania County family, residing on Route 2, here, says that upon reaching a critical period of her life she was "in a very serious condition."

"I was so weakened until I couldn't get around," Mrs. Barker relates. "I couldn't sleep. I was so blue and out of heart. I had no appetite.

"I would . . . try medicines, and grew weaker and weaker, more out of heart every day. I would get up and try to drag around, and feel so miserable, and creep back to bed.

"My husband bought me Cardui. I thought the first bottle helped me, and when I began the second, I knew it did. I kept it up—each day growing a little stronger, a little more like my former self, and I began to eat and sleep.

"It sure wasn't long until I was up and around like another woman. No more dragging; no more weak and blue feeling. It cured me. I used seven bottles in all."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Barker describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui, if troubled with womanly ailments.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Moved?

Bob Newby, Mayor Lew Shank's chauffeur, was explaining the distance from Indianapolis to Columbus.

"It was about forty-three miles," he told the mayor.

"Was?" returned his honor. "Have they moved the town?"—Indianapolis News.

The Mississippi river is back in its banks again after causing an estimated loss of $20,000,000 by its recent rampage.

Which is the most brutal and degrading, a chicken fight or a fistic encounter between men.

If the next State administration in Alabama don't do a big job of house cleaning the first dash out of the box they will sho' start a howl.

Two of the railroad unions are sending out strike ballots returnable by July 1. One side or the other is pulling a big bluff. Will the railroads call the hand or pass up the ante?

Cat waltzing, shimmie dancing, vulgar jazz music and cigarett smoke with an occasional touch of joy juice seems to constitute the principal attractions at most of the swell city functions these days.

Marriage these days is like the average mail order advertisement: "If not satisfactory, return." They marry now, try each other out a week or s , are not satisfied and divorce court does the rest.

It took Congress about 12 months to evolve a way to side step the Ford bid for Muscle Shoals and make it appear to the public that they didn't do it.

The devil is an ingenious old guy. He suggests a new style or fad that is just a little bit naughty on first appearence. The young people fall for it as something new and up to date. They grab on and the gates to the H dean empire go to swinging.

Our State School Laws are badly in need of renovation and remodeling. It is to be hoped that the next legislature can find the time, the honesty and the nerve to attend to them so as to put more money in to actual education and not so much into useless and cumbersone machinery.

The International News Service tells of 117 Russian children who were lined up and shot to put them out of their misery, as they had contracted glanders from eating decayed horse flesh, and glanders in the human being is incurable. And this is the year of our Lord 1922. Is civilization also a fraud?

The champion liar, so far, dates his communication from Chicago. He says the mosquitoes were so thick up there that the people thought the air was full of smoke and turned in the fire alarm. The firemen arrived at the scene, put up their ladders and attempted to go up and locate the blaze, but the insects were so thick they drove the firemen down and they had to give it up. Don't page Ananias any more. Here is your man.

The Oil Syndicates and the Packers Trust market their products at any price they see fit. An expensive congressional committee spent several months "investigating" them on a charge of profiteering. They rendered a decission that the government had no anthority to interfere or fix a price. Oil and meat have been going up ever since. The working man has to market his labor just the same way but the government steps in and fixes a price they must sell their labor at on any and all occasions. The result is that wages are decreasing in about the same ratio that provissions are going up.

Democrats, Wake Up!

There is one truth that we would like to burn into the mind of every Democrat in Chilton county. And that is, that no victory has ever been won in the world's history without effort. You can not sit down and fold your hands and do anything or get anywhere.

There has not been in years so favorable an opportunity for democracy to triumph in Chilton county as at this time, but no cause, however righteous, can succeed without the earnest help and cooperation of its advocates. If you cleave to a single principle or have an iota of interest in the party you profess to espouse, you are a laggard in the cause and a dead weight to your party, if you fail to put any effort in the campaign. If you are satisfied wiih conditions, and are willing to supinely await the dark menance the future holds for you and your children, continus to sit idly by and leave all the work to be done by others, and the sequell will be that in just a few brief years you will be mourning in sackcloth and ashes the great mistake you made in not putting the best in you into the issue when victory and safety to you and yours was in your reach.

We are not writing this to the other fellow but is directed individually to YOU. You are not consistently working for the cause as you should if you expect to win, You are asleep at the switch. We all have a living to make, but while we are making it we do not have to close up like a clam and forget our duty to white Americanism and the danger signals the Harding administration are continually waving in our face. Be a true Southern man and woman and battle fearlessly for the only political party that has made the South endurable since the evil days of the civil war. You know that is the living truth, and still, are willing to sulk in your tent and leave this important cause to shift for itself. This is not an issue that can be won by an occasional day or so of enthusiastic wind jamming, but to gain a victory this year means that every democrat in the county must carry this burning question in his or her bosom daily and count that day lost whose setting sun finds them without an effort made to win others to a realization of the crying needs of the hour

Our friends, the enemy, are working systematically and without ceasing, day in and day out. They realize that their work is cut out for them They do not count the effort nor the cost. We can but admire and respect them for their loyalty to their party. It means something to them and they give to their cause the best that is in them, while the majority of our party sit down comfortably and wait for the gods to lay the laurel wreath of victory on their knees without even stretching out a hand for it.

Waiting for the other fellow to do all the work has put many a man in the poor house but not one on easy street. A thing not worth striving for is not worth having. You can win this time if you are willing to try.

FOR SALE

ONE 4-horse power stationary Engine in first class running order CHEAP. Call at News Office.

One Party is Right.

In advocating one party as the fairest and best plan by which all the people may be represented in the South, we could not imagine that party as being one that advocates social equality, negro children in our white schools, etc. Consequently, as the situation now exists in the South, the only party that fills the bill is the Democratic organization. It is the only party we know of, or that has any historical record, that has always stood for absolute white supremacy in the South and has lived up to its convictions.

The Muscle Shoals Congressional Committee have recommended that Congress accept the Ford offer with the Gorgas plant eliminated. The day before they made that report Mr. Ford notofied them that unless included his bid was withdrawn. Under these conditions do they expect to fool the public and make them believe they accepted the Ford offer and he backed down? That is the game but everybody should remember that they did NOT accept the Ford bid at all.

WILL NOT STOP.

Pastor Carter has gone to new fields and no longer is here to start another fight, so, we suppose the railroad wins out and train No. 1 will still flash by us like a streak. A court order vacates the order of the Public Service Commission that Clanton be made a flag stop for No. 1.

What is the Public Service Commission anyhow? It must be just a few juicy cogs in the state political machine. Its rulings never stick unless they rule in favor of a corporation.

As for stopping No. 1, that don't amount to a hill of beans no way. If No. 9 or No. 3 are not in your class, why go by auto or walk.

HIGH SCHOOL SITUATION.

Under the state high school rulings the Chilton County High School found that a total of $1,300.00 more was necesary to keep it among the list of accredited institutions of that character.

The County Board of Revenue was appealed to but claimed the financial condition of the county would not allow them to appropriate any funds to meet or even help meet the situation.

A meeting of citizens was called at the Court House and attended by a few Clantonites who discussed the situation and with their usual pluck decided to raise the amount by private subscription. Up to this writing they have secured $1,150.00 and the other $150.00 will no doubt be raised this week.

The city is already caring for a City School of about 400 pupils, have just added another story to their splendid brick school building and are already loaded up with school expenses, but they are determined to strain a point and hold the Chilton County High School up to the high standard of efficiency, even if they are compelled to make strenuous sacrifices to do so.

It looks like all the people of the county would rally to the support of this work as it is strictly a county enterprise and concerns all good citizens alike.

Miss Edna Lowe has returned to the University of Alabama to resume her studies after a two weeks stay with her parents.

Miss Eula Mae Vines left Tuesday to attend the Summer School at the University of Alabama.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL FACULTY COMPLETED

For the information of all who are interested, I announce the faculty of the Clanton Grammar School for the next session:

First Grade—Miss Rena Pinson;
First Grade—Miss Alice Selman;
Second Grade Miss Eula M. Vines;
Third Grade—Miss Bessie Floyd;
Fourth Grade—Miss Clyde Young;
Fifth Grade—Mrs. Carrie Thomas;
Sixth Grade—Miss W. Rawlinson;
Seventh Grade—Ira Pegues.

Just a word or two about the new teachers will suffice. All have first grade certificates and all have had experience. Miss Pinson and Miss Young are Normal School graduates. Miss Floyd has had one and one half years at college and three months at Troy Normal School. I do not know them.dierroonextG; bgk mem vbg ba the church affiliations of any of the teachers.

You should take advantage of Elmore's big 15 day Summer Sale which starts Saturday morning, and lay in a summer supply of everything you are going to need.

STANTON NOTES.

Misses Ernestine and Lorrene Dyer left Monday for Birmingham where they will attend Howard College this summer.

Miss Vivian Schurter returned to her home Thursday after spending three months at the State Normal School at Livingston.

Messrs. Earl Martin and Ernest Young of Plantersville were the guests of Misses Elsie and Mildred Schurter Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones of the city of Birmingham were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Dyer last week.

Miss Carrie Thrash has returned from Montevallo where she attended school this winter.

Mr. Willie Culver of Birmingham spent a few hours with friends here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Dyer spent the week end in Birmingham with their mother, Mrs. Jessie Crottwell.

The school has been started and they are making great progress on it.

The W. M. U. ladies gave a delightful play Tuesday night for the benefit of the school.

Mr. Howard Greg returned to the Howard College last Saturday, after few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Greg.

Mr. W. C. Dyer spent Monday in Birmingham.

Mr. Winston Huff of Selma spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Huff.

Mr. Nicholls and Misses Vivian Schunter and Ola Parnell, Ernestine Dyer and Mr. Pearse motored to Clanton Sunday.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Beulah Dunlap was hostess to quite a number of her friends Saturday night at the home of Mrs. J. A. Jones in west Clanton, this being Miss Dunlap's birthday. She received several nice presents and many good wishes were written for her in a small book. Music on the Edison was enjoyed throughout the evening. The guests also enjoyed several games, and at a late hour cream and cake was served by Mrs. Jones, who was assisted in serving by Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. J. C. Jones and Mrs. Scroggins. Those present were the hostess, Misses Inez Dunlap, Nettie Culp, Bettie Hand, Era Mims, Edna Kemp, Lorene Parrish, Lois Williams, Gracie Duncan, Messrs. Jim Dunlap, Dasil Mims, Arthur Mims, Irvin Williams, Sam Vinson, Ernest Moore, J. Z. Mims, Tommie Carter, Dewey Foshee and Morris Dunlap.

BAKER SCHOOL HOUSE.

He, Ho, Ha! Mr. Editor, Fix that printing press of yours to look out this way long enough to catch a few of the doings of this place.

Health of this part of Chilton is good. Everyone seems to be interested in the fields. Hope they will get big returns for their labors in the Fall.

Say folks, don't you all think Jim and Luther should be complimented for they both worked Saturday evening and never went to Canton?

On last Saturday night quite a crowd gathered at the home of James and Nancy Dunlap, the event being a tacky party. Never did see such dressed up people. Miss Flora Thornton won first prize for the girls and Miss Eula Gray second. Denson Williams and "Pud" Watson won the boys prizes. After a series of games cake was served and everyone left saying it was the best time they ever did have.

Don't think anybody will fail to have huckleberry pie and sour kraut this winter from the way they are canning both. So Mr. Editor when you come out this way you can know before hand what your dinner will be.

Listen, Leona, Nancy and Myrtle went "Fording" Sunday. Never did I see such pleasing looks. Was it because their young men were along, or the Ford? 'Tis a mystery yet unsolved.

Prof. Calvin Parrish was at Liberty Sunday afternoon, hand shaking with friends. He conducted the singing. Calvin is a good young man who will surely make his mark. He is a young man whom the small boys would do well to pattern after.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ward spent Sunday at Walter Ward's. They all attended singing at Liberty.

Little Lucile and Bill Scroggins are spending this week with their grandmother, Mrs. Dunlap.

Mr. Arthur Cox and family were at Mr. Watson's Saturday night. They enjoyed eating ice cream. Mr. Dunlap and family were also there. Uncle Billie says he always knows where there is something good to eat.

Mrs. B. I. Gray has been very sick. Hope she will soon recover. She is a dear old lady loved by all.

Miss Addie Mae Weldon has returned from a week's visit to her brother at Calera.

Mrs. Henry Weldon came home with her and will spend a few days with her mother, Mrs. Culpepper and Mrs. Weldon.

Mr. Editor my hoe is standing idle in the fence corner, so I had better go. Good wishes to all.

Don't fail to visit Elmore's Big 15 day Summer Sale which starts next Saturday morning.

WHY—
ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The soap, partially dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and thus forces the soap-film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air, thus forming a perfect sphere or ball at the moment the bubble is first made.

However, after the bubble has been floating for a few moments, the water drips down toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

Virginia Lee

Many will recall that during the World war there appeared on navy posters seeking recruits a very pretty girl—that was Virginia Lee. During the recent national beauty pageant at Atlantic City, Virginia was selected by President Harding as the most beautiful girl in the U. S. A. For years she has been playing in pictures and is regarded as one of the most handsome of the "movie" stars.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ANGELICA

ANGELICA, a name of much more substance than the pallid Angelea, is still one of the "angelic names" which feminine fancy delights to bestow on its girl children. It means, of course, "angelic" and seems difficult to reconcile with the behavior of some of the small daughters whom one finds bearing the name.

Angelos was a Greek word meaning "heavenly messenger," hence "angel." It first became a name in the Byzantium empire when it was bestowed as an epithet upon persons of surpassing beauty. It was applied most often as a masculine name and there was a Carmelite saint called Angelo, who established it as a baptismal name. In his honor, the feminine also became popular and Italian history records many instances of its use.

Angelica sprang to fame since it named the faithless lady of romance for whose sake Orlando lost his heart and his senses. Though she was the invention of Boiardo and Ariosto, the romantic flavor which the story gave her name brought Angelica to instant favor. England liked the name and adopted it. In France, it became Angelique, and Italy produced the other forms of Angioletta and Anzilleta; though Angelica continued the reigning favorite.

Angelica's talismanic gem is the pearl. It guards the purity and sweetness of her, brings her friends, and much charm. Sunday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA.

The first county meeting of this organization was held last Saturday at the court house. A good attendance was noted and much interest was manifested.

In the forenoon a business session was held and arrangements perfected for the co-operative marketing of all farm products. The melon crop of this year will probably be the first trial of this system in this section.

Mr. A. P. Villadsen of Thorsby was elected as County Business Agent. His headquarters will be in Clanton. He has had many years experience in the marketing of farm products as main assistant to his father who was for eight or ten years manager of the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association. His training and knowledge of the markets makes him especially qualified to take this business up in a business way from the very start.

Five organizers were also elected and put to work at once and some more will be put in the field a little later. Those elected were Rev. W. S. Cox, whose work will be mainly in Chilton County; J. G. W. Bailey and J. H. Anderson will invade Elmore County and put on a drive there; H. G. Carter and Prof. Weldon will carry the gospel of organization to Autauga County.

It is the hope and intention of the Union to perfect as large an organization as possible in time to market the cotton crop next Fall. After one demontsration of the advantages to be derived from this service, they claim that the future of the Union is assured and that practically all the farmers will enlist in the cause.

We earnestly hope this organiation will solve the problem for the farmers and put them in a position to price and sell anything they produce before many more years. A dream like that will come true some day and this may be the auspicious time.

ISABELLA NEWS.

Have you thought that duty has but little meaning these days? We do not stop to think what our duty is, people wait to be invited to church when it is their duty to come. People wait for someone to ask them for money for our preachers or money for other church claims, when it is a duty they owe to God's cause, to the church and to their fellowmen. We should not wait to be asked by our pastor or some church official, but be ready to help at all times. Be at the church when there are services or Sunday School. Your presence will be helpful. Let us not wait for some all-day-to-do to come, but be there for every service.

Mulberry Church has put on a program for the 25th of June. All the members are invited for a good old time hand shake; also bring flowers to decorate the cemetery. If you've no relatives there bring them for a friend or your friend's friend.

The childrens day program at Isabel Church on last Saturday was as good as could be expected owing to the threatening weather. The crowd was small, some of the children who were on the program were not there and this cut the program short, but I feel sure that the day was enjoyed by all who attended. Our neighboring community of Macedonia was well represented. We welcome them.

The farmers in this section are a great deal behind with their work, owing to the excessive rains we have had but a few plow days in the past two weeks.

Mr. S. J. M. Webb and family visited their old home in Coosa county last Sunday. They attended a homecoming day at their old church.

Mrs. W. T. White of this community has been very ill for the past week but is some better now.

We regret to hear of the death of Mrs. Abney, a sister of Mr. William Walker. She is well known in this county, having been reared here. We extend our sympathy to the family.

ALL DAY SINGING AT MITCHEL DAM

Verbena, Ala., June 7—Preparations are being made for an old fashioned "all day singing" to be held at Mitchell Dam on Sunday, June 18, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

It will consist of music selected from the old book of Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp. Classes will be present from Birmingham, Montgomery, Gadsden and Coopers, and a cordial invitation is extended to all persons desiring to participate.

It is desired by the arrangement committee that all automobile parties come by way of Verbena, Ala., and all persons coming by train will be met at Coopers, Ala., by a special train furnished by the Dixie Construction Company and will be able to leave the dam in time to get afternoon accommodation.

J. W. Hayes of Mitchel Dam will be in charge of the singing, and requests that lunch be brought if possible, as accommodations are limited in this respect.

All who cme to the Dam will be able to view the construction work, which is going forward at a rapid rate, in addition to enjoying the all day singing.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP
In Addition to Singing on the Fourth Sunday P.M. In June.

There has been prepared for the afternoon of the Fourth Sunday in June, at Friendship Baptist Church, a special program, which will include not only singing led by any directors who may be present, but also some important talks on vital subjects by able speakers. The following is the arrangement of the program:

Singing, opened at 1:00, by W. O. Rich singing two songs. Short lessons, by other directors, who may be present.

2:30, Subject, "The Relation that Music has to the Church Work," by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

3:05, "The Leading Sins of the Day," by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

3:40, "What a Church means to a Community," by Rev. M. J. Parrish

4:05, "Advantages in Advancing the Cause of Christ now as Compared with Forty Years Ago," by Rev. S. M. Adams.

4:40, "The Indebtedness of a Community to Church," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

Each speaker will have twenty minutes to discuss his subject, which will allow fifteen minutes between each address to be devoted to singing, by different leaders who may be present.

We feel that a varied program of this kind will be a great help to our church, as well as the singing society, and everybody is urgently invited to come and take part with us

The subjects that have been selected are very important ones, and the men who are to handle them are in every way capable of their tasks.

Leaders of music are urged to come as we hope to be able to place all who are present on the program for a short lesson.

RATE REDUCTION TO COME JULY 1

TEN PER CENT REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES BOTH INTERSTATE AND INTRASTATE.

TO BUY REGISTERED CATTLE

Birmingham Commission Legal—Alabama Coal Scale Fixed—Klan Helps Church—Rains Damage Crops—Tonnage Tax Paid—Disabled Veterans Organize.

Montgomery—Railroads in Alabama will make a reduction of 10 per cent in all freight rates, both interstate and intrastate, July 1. This information was given the public service commission by A. R. Smith, vice-president of the Louisville and Nashvilel road, who spoke as chairman of the committee of railroads. Mr. Smith said the railroads had accepted the report of the interstate commerce commission, which provided for reductions of one half in the last increase of 25 per cent permitted by the commission, the reduction being a net decrease of 10 per cent in all rates.

The public service commission of Alabaam ordered the same reduction on intrastate rates in Alabama as soon as the interstate commerce commission acted. Mr. Smith, not having been advised of the action of the Alabama commission, requested permission to make the decrease in intrastate rates. In accepting the decrease, Mr. Smith said the railroads do not agree with the conclusion of the interstate commerce commission that there will be a net return of 5.75 per cent to the railroads under the new rates. He also declared the railroads could not agree that the reductions are justified in the southern group, but would hope that reductions in labor costs would mean that the legal earnings of the railroads could be maintained.

Disabled Veterans Organize.

University—A chapter of disabled American Veterans of the World War has been organized in this city and the following officers were elected: Judson Snead, C. C.; Carl McCaffrey, V. C. C.; F. C. Wood, adjutant; W. C. Taylor, treasurer; John Otis and Charles B. Thomas, sergeants-at-arms. Summer vacation for vocational students will not be given until August, when two weeks will be given before the opening of the fall term. Meetings of the recently organized club will be held in Morgan hall during the summer and all members are looking forward to its progress with much interest.

Tuscaloosa Hospital Bonds Sold.

Tuscaloosa—The Sidney Spitzer Company of Cincinnati was awarded the Tuscaloosa Hospital bond issue of $50,000. The bid of the Spitzer Company was in the sum of $47,560, or a ratio of 95.12 per cent of the par value of the issue. The bonds bear five per cent and mature in 30 years. The new city hospital, costing $100,000, is well under construction and will be completed by the middle of August. Teh remaining $50,000 was paid by popular subscription among the citizens of Tuscaloosa.

Three Alabama Women Survive.

Out of 49 women surviving whose husbands fought in the War of 1812 three live in Alabama. The others are scattered through 22 states of the nation. Those living in Alabama are: Mrs. Julia Ann Smith, 86, Wadley, widow of Private James Pugh, Virginia Militia; Mrs. Jane E. DeWitt, Mississippi militia, and Mrs. Missouri T. Godwn, 79, Pell Cty, widow of Private Alexander Godwin, Tennessee militia.

To Buy Registered Cattle.

Dadeville—The Dadeville Civic Club is making arrangements to buy at least three registered Jersey bulls and is starting a campaign for better cattle on the farms of the county. Many of the leading farmers are taking an active interest in the matter.

New Rate is Established.

Mobile—A rate that will put Mobile on parity with New Orleans for Pacific Coast business for exports to Cuba and South America will soon be in effect. The rate will apply on canned goods, dried fruit, beans and other commodities shipped from the Pacific to Gulf ports and then exported to southern points.

Alabama Coal Scale Fixed.

Alabama's coal scale was fixed at 25 cents per ton below the final Garfield scale by a decision of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, announced following a conference with Alabaam coal operators, during which the operators agreed to this scale as being fair. Under the Garfield scale the price for the bulk of run-of-mine coal varied from $2.45 to $2.85, which by Secretary Hoover's fair price decision is now fixed at $2:20 and $2.60.

CITY COMMISSION WOULD USE PRISONERS IN FARMING GAME

Plan To Reduce Expenses by Raising Feed for Stock and Vegetable.

Birmingham — The Birmingham City Commission is contemplating entering the farming game. Commissioners W. B. Cloe and W. L. Harrison, together with David Stanton, city plumbing inspector, are making arrangements whreby the city will start a farm and truck garden at East Birmingham and Green Spring Park. At East Birmingham there are 40 acres of tillable land and at Green Springs 60 acres. The city plans to raise hay and other feedstuffs for the city's animals and to have gardens to produce vegetables for the city jail consumption. Prisoners who languish in the city jail are pust the ones to do the cultivating, according to the ideas of the commissioners, who thrashed the matter out at their monthly meeting with heads of departments. It is hoped by this plan that large sums can be saved by the city in feed and vegetable bills, while at the same time the relative cost will be small. The commissioners are in earnest about the project and announce they have other plans on foot to reduce operating expenses of the city that will be made public from time to time.

MAN PLEADS INSANE IN OWN DEFENSE AND WINS JURY VERDICT

Montgomery—Something new under the sun. A man appeared as his own lawyer in the circuit court, entered a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity and was acquitted by a jury. T. L. Henry was charged with having escaped from the prison at Kilby. He had no lawyer but requested that he be permitted to defend himself. He entered a plea of not guilty because of insanity, testified in his own behalf and obtained a judgment of not guilty from the jury. Henry showed that the sun which beat upon him as he worked in a field made him insane and he didn't know what he was doing when he escaped.

School Principals Selected.

Montgomery—State Superintendent of Education John W. Abercrombie, pursuant to authorization from the state board of education, announced the selection of Clair Dufford, of Starksville, Miss., for the principalship of the State Secondary School at Abbeville, and of W. F. Swann of Horn Lake, Miss., for the principalship of the agricultural school at Sylacauga. These two appointments complete the list of agricultural school principals for 1922-23. Mr. Dufford succeeds W. H. McLaurin, who resigned his position, and Mr. Swan succeeds W. D. Newman, acting principal, who has been elected to the principalship of the Lamar County High School.

Mobile's Still Qouta.

Mobile — Seizure of a 100-gallon still with 25 barrels of mash on Robinson's Bayou brings Mobile County's total of ilicit whisky making outfits destroyed in the past two years up to 1,316, according to the official records on file at the sheriff's office. Moonshiners operating on the dividing line of Mobile County and Green County, Miss., as well as Jackson County, Miss., are causing the deputy sheriffs from Mobile to go to the federal court at Biloxi, Miss., to give testimony.

Shippers Cooperating.

Birmingham—Shippers are cooperating with the American Railway Association, car service division, by loading freight in cars that will land the carriers in their home territory and thus cut down empty haulage, according to H. J. Arnett, representative of the association, who is winding up work here in this connection.

Birmingham Commission Legal.

The supreme court of Alabama held in a decision handed down in the case of Thomas E. Street vs. W. B. Cloe and other members of the Birmingham City Commission that the commission, as at present organized, is legal and that its election was legal and regular in every way.

Klan Helps Church.

Wilsonville — While Rev. F. B. Hewlett, pastor of the Wilsonville Methodist Church, was in the midst of his sermon, white-robed figures marched in to the edifice, down an asle to the pulpit and deposited a letter containing $60.

Northport Girl Prize Winner.

Northport—Miss Susie Turner of Northport, daughter of Collier Turner, is in Washington as guest of Representative W. B. Oliver. Some time ago Mr. Oliver offered a free trip to Washington and entertainment for 10 days to the young lady of this district who could produce the greatest profit on one-tenth of an acre of ground. Miss Turner won the prize. At a cost of $28.25 she produced enough tomatoes to sell for $110.75.

PROFITS ARE BIG ON SOFT COAL

U. S. BOARD TELLS CONGRESS OPERATORS HAVE AVERAGED FIFTEEN PER CENT

COMMISSION MAKES REPORT

Says Operators In Ohio, West Virginia, Tennessee And Kansas Earned 5 To 18 Per Cent

Washington.—Bituminous coal operators have averaged 15 per cent profit during the last six years, according to figures submitted to congress by the federal trade commission.

The trade commission, however, refused to vouch for the accuracy of the figures, stating that they were obtained partly by the commission's efforts and partly from the national coal association.

"Under court injunction since early 1920, the commission has been unable to require reports on investments, costs and prices and other matters affecting the coal trade," said the report, "which left the national coal association as the only source of information concerning the reasonableness of prices charged for coal by its member operators."

The six years average rate of profit," continued the report, "thus made up for 1916-1921 was 15 per cent, the average for the different years showing great ups and downs, 8 per cent in 1916, 29 per cent in 1917, 18 per cent in 1918, 6 per cent in 1919, 23 per cent in nine months of 1920, and only 3 per cent in 1921."

Under fuel administration price regulation, the report goes on, operators in Ohio, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kansas, were earning from 5 to 18 per cent, but the same operators, during the peak panic prices of 1920 were making margins at the rate of 59 per cent for Ohio, 57 per cent for West Virginia, 64 per cent in Tennessee and 79 per cent in Kansas.

The conclusions reached by the commission are as follows:

1. The need of more accurate and complete information regarding ownership of bituminous mines, the true investment therein and true profits arising therefrom.
2. The need of ascertaining profits of selling companies owned by or affiliated with mining companies.
3. The need of establishing the coal industry in public confidence and protecting it by devising means of federal supervision and publicity so as to avoid periods of excessively high prices and of severe depression."

A great deal of dificulty was experienced by the commission, the report said, in determining the actual investments, upon which the profits could be figured on a percentage basis. The commission was forced to revise "investments" to a great extent, in one instance reducing the valuation by 54 per cent.

Another Steel Merger Reported Ready

New York.—Thomas L. Chadbourne, attorney, announces adoption of a plan whereby properties of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance company, Republic Iron and Steel company and Inland Steel company will be unified under ownership of Midvale. The name of the new corporation will be the North American Steel corporation.

Daughter Is Born To Former Empress

Madrid, Spain.—A daughter was born recently to former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary. King Alfonso as soon as he received the news, went to the palace at Pardo, in the suburbs of Madrid, where the ex-empress has been residing since her return recently from the Island of Madeira, after the late Emperor Charles died in exile early in April. Mother and baby are reported doing well. Many congratulatory telegrams have been received at the home of the empress.

American Yacht Sails Round World

Girl's Plea Sent Dad To His Death

Indianapolis, Ind.—Seventeen-year-old Mabel Donovan apparently signed her father's death warrant. The girl's wish, expressed in a letter to Governor McCray, pleading that the sentence of death to William E. Donovan for the murder of her mother be carried out, was gratified. Donovan shot and killed his wife as she stood with their two-year-old child in her arms, and his daughter looking, died in the electric chair at the Indiana state prison in Michigan City, with a prayer on his lips for his daughter.

Tobacco Merger Is Rapped By Reed

Palmyra, Mo.—James A. Reed, a candidate for United States senator, in a speech here recently assailed the United States supreme court in referring to the announcement of the $157,000,000 tobacco firm merger in New York. "We have cut the tobacco trust serpent into four or five inocuous pieces," declared Mr. Reed, "and now we see it is gathered together again waggingits tail. And the supreme court will undoubtedly approve. Of late our supreme court has been turning its attention to trust building."

RIOT IS CAUSED BY PARADE

Scattered Fights Took Place Between The Police And The Unemployed.

London.—An attempt by London's unemployed to stage a big parade and demonstration broke up in a riot directly in front of the Bank of England, long the symbol of capital.

As the marchers neared the famous old bank, police attempted to head them off. The unemployed paraders broke up their marching formation and a free-for-all fight started. Mounted police drew their truncheons and wielded them on the rioters freely. A number of arrests were made, but the small number of police on the scene enabled many to escape who might otherwise have been arrested.

As soon as the disturbance broke out, an emergency call was sent out for all policemen on leave to assist in restoring order.

Scattered fights took place between the police and the unemployed. One of the latter, during a bout with an officer, threw a brick, but it missed its target and went through a plate glass window of the American Pioneer Leather company.

Police were on the lookout for a renewal of the disorders.

ELUSIVE FIGURE IN THE WARD MYSTERY "COMES AND GOES"

"Charlie Ross" Joins Attorneys For The Family Of The Slain Soldier

New York.—"Charlie Ross," supposed "brains" of the blackmail ring which Walter S. Ward, wealthy baker, claims led to the fatal tryst two weeks or more ago, which ended with his shooting Clarence Peters, former sailor, whisked momentarily into sight and as suddenly and mysteriously disappeared.

With the authorities of West Chester county and New York professedly seeking him, the "mystery man" in the sensational case is known to have joined William J. Fallon, attorney for Peters' family, in the afternoon recently. They met soon after "Ross" had sent an emissary to Fallon's office, in the heart of the business district.

Orders Arrest Of Women In Knickers

Traverse City, Mich.—Orders to the chief of police from Mayor Swanton, directing the arrest of any woman or girl appearing on the streets here wearing knickerbockers will stand, despite the storm of protest they have occasioned, the mayor announced. The mayor has been criticized by local woman's clubs, and pastors, who declared his order was too drastic. The mayor said that before issuing the order he had held a conference with the city attorney and been informed that he could prosecute any woman violating the order.

7 Die In Collision; One Ship Sinks

Portland, Oregon.—Seven firemen asleep in the forecastle of the Furness-Prince line's 2,322-ton cargo steamer Welsh Prince, were killed and three injured one night recently, when, according to meager reports received here, that vessel was rammed by the freighter Iowan, in the Columbia river, off Altoona, Wash. The Welsh Prince sank within thirty minutes, and the Iowan, a 6,547-ton freighter, operated by the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, was sinking slowly, according to last reports.

Sentence For Aged Negro Commuted

Raleigh, N. C.—The death sentence of Wright Rouse, aged negro, convicted of murder in connection with the slaying of William Whitley, wealthy Walstonburg merchant and farmer, has been commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Morrison after alienists had submitted a report that the negro was mentaly deficient. Mrs. Sarah Whitley, wife of the slain man, and Thomas Hayes, are now serving life terms in connection with the killing.

Utters First Word Far Above Clouds

Atlantic City, N. J.—Mute since birth 6-year-old William Rosenborg, of Washington, uttered his first word "airplane" recently when taken up 1,000 feet in a seaplane. In the hope that altitude would help the boy to talk he was to be taken up more than 5,000 feet.

Greets Boys Who Won Trip Abroad

Washington.—The Maryland team of agricultural club boys which was awarded the grand prize of a trip to Europe in the live stock judging contest at the Southeastern Fair, Atlanta, Ga., last fall, were received by Secretary Wallace the other day. The boys will sail from New York on the Carmania, June 14. After visiting the annual exhibition of the Royal Agricultural society at Cambridge, England, in July, the party will inspect several famous herds in that country and in Scotland, returning to New York.

$500,000 Damage In Memphis Fire

Memphis, Tenn.—Damage estimated at more than $500,000, largely by water and smoke, and caused by a fire of undetermined origin which gutted the two upper stories of the Bry-Block Mercantile company, one of the largest department stores in the South. The fire, originating in a frame loft used for storage purposes, built on the roof of the big establishment, and fanned by a high wind, spread with such rapidity that the hundreds of girls employed made their escape from the building with difficulty.

FORD TURNS DOWN COMMITTEE OFFER

INSISTS ON INCLUSION OF THE GORGAS STEAM PLANT IN PROPERTIES HE BIDS FOR

VIRTUAL ULTIMATUM GIVEN

Says Final Proposal Has Been Made And Asks Vote By House On Proposition

Washington.—Henry Ford presented a virtual ultimatum on the question of disposition of Muscle Shoals in giving to the house military committee his views on the model offer for the Alabama properties drafted by the committee.

The Detroit manufacturer in a letter laid before the committee by one of his representatives, J. W. Worthington, declared he could not consent to elimination of the Gorgas, Alabama, steam power plant from the properties the government proposes to lease or sell and in doing so declared that if his revised offer is rejected "then I must understand that the acceptance of my offer for Muscle Shoals 'as a whole and not in part,' is refused."

Mr. Ford agreed to other modifications of his offer as made by the committee in its modern offer but said he wanted the committee "to consider this proposal (the one presented by him recently) as final and that no further changes should be expected."

Request was made by the manufacturer that the committee send his final offer to the house for a vote on acceptance or rejection.

"If congress votes acceptance of my offer," Mr. Ford continued, "we will get on the job at Muscle Shoals at once; but if congress rejects it that will be but the beginning of a more determined effort on my part to save Muscle Shoals for the benefit of the public."

Immediately upon receiving Mr. Ford's letter the house committee went into executive session to consider it. Members would not forecast what action would be taken, but in some quarters it was believed that the committee finally would vote to meet Mr. Ford's demand as to purchase of the Gorgas plant.

Bunco Trick Story Told By Witness

Memphis, Tenn.—Visions of how he was going to make large sums of money on the stock exchange, later to realize that he had lost $28,000 through an alleged "confidence" swindle were described to the jury in United States district court by E. B. Carter of Lynchburg, Va., in the trial of W. L. Huntley, Jr., former bank official, who is on trial on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Patrick Furrey and Joseph Lynch, county defendants of Huntley in the alleged swindle case, pleaded guilty and are expected to take the stand for the government in the Huntley trial.

Wu Pei Fu Renews Attack On Chang

Tientsin.—General Wu Pei Fu, using the Chinese Eastern railway, has instituted a general advance against the forces of General Chang Tso Lin, whom he recently drove out of Pekin into Manchuria. General Wu's objective is Shanhaikwan, at the southern tip of Manchuria, on the Gulf of Liaotung. Feeling against Chang Tso Lin is said to be spreading in Manchuria. The entire line of the Chinese Eastern railway is reported in the hands of supporters of Wu Pei Fu.

Two Bank Bandits Reported Killed

Flint, Mich.—Two bandits who robbed the Metamora State bank at Metamora, near here, were shot to death by possemen using machine guns, according to a telephone message received here. A member of the posse was wounded in the exchange of shots.

Crisis In Ulster Still Continues Grave

London.—Interest in the Irish situation shifted to Ulster, where the borderland disturbances and the Belfast outrages are more serious than ever. The conference of Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, and the Marquis of Londonderry, with Premier Lloyd George, were not productive of optimistic statements regarding the solution of the problem.

Big Changes Made In Bonus Measure

Washington.—The house soldiers' bonus bill amended in several important particulars, but the much-discussed bank loan provision retained, has been approved by the senate finance committee by a vote of 9 to 4. Chairman McCumber proposed to report the measure to the senate within a few days, and said he hoped to get action on it before the passage of the tariff bill. Some senators believe that the bill will be passed before the adjournment for summer, but it is hardly probable.

Urges Quick Action On Anti-Lynch Bill

Washington.—Declaring the United States is disgraced, the world over, "on account of the mob law prevailing in many states," Representative Dyer, Republican, of Missouri, in a letter recently to Chairman Nelson of the senate judiciary committee, protested against any further delay on the part of that committee in acting on the anti-lynching bill passed by the house. Representative Dyer is anxious to get action on this measure before congress adjourns for the summer months, he declared to newspaper men.

RAIL MEN TO VOTE ON STRIKE

Executive Council Of Brotherhood Appeals to Membership Ballots Following Board's Decision

Detroit.—A strike vote was ordere by the executive council of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Wa Employees and Railway Shop Laborers here, in answer to the wage slas made by the railway labor board.

Declaring that a cut of 13.2 per cen in their wages did not parallel a per cent reduction in living costs, th council asked that the men, 400,000 i all, vote on a strike protest.

The slash in wages made by the labor board at Chicago came as a complete surprise to the council, which wa in session here on routine business. Discussion of the order resulted in a order by Edward F. Grable, president o the union, that the decision for strike vote be held over until the arrival of the official notices of the reductions.

Grable, however, stated at the tim he was confident that the strike vot would be ordered, terming the slas "both unjust and unfair."

Chicago.—A virtual ultimatum to th railroads of America, through th United States railroad labor board wa presented by the Federation of Sho Crafts, representing 400,000 railwa employees, in a request for a conference with the board, when the federa body will be ask to take immediat jurisdiction of all cases in which rai roads are alleged to be disobeying th board's orders.

If the board declines, a strike ballot will go out at once to shopmen a over the country.

With the further wage cut threatened in a decision expected to be han ed down by the board, a third questio will likely be placed on the ballo according to B. M. Jewell, head of th shop crafts. Two questions, one on alleged violations of board decisions b letting out shop work and the oth on elimination of time and a half fo overtime, have already been authorized for submission to the men.

If another pay cut is authorized b the board, the pending ballot will undoubtedly be converted into a tripl barreled strike threat, Mr. Jewell declared.

CONCRETE KEEPS OUT MANY PESTS

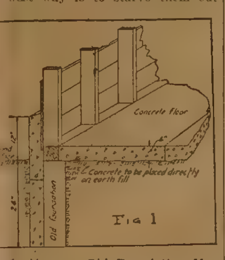
Rats and Mice Destroy Crops and Property Valued at Millions Each Year.

PLAN TO STARVE THEM OUT

This Is Best Done by Building Rat-Proof Buildings or Re-arranging Old Structures—Cut Off Their Suppy of Food.

(By W. G. KAISER, Agricultural Engineer.)

Since the time when the Pied Piper of Hamlin destroyed the rats, no other such satisfactory method of ridding rms of these pests has been found. he best way is to starve them out



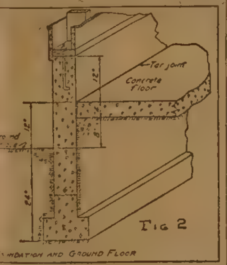
ig. 1—How an Old Foundation May Be Ratproofed and a Concrete Floor Installed.

this can only be done by building oof buildings or ratproofing such ructures as are already built. The nited States Department of Agricul re says that rats and mice destroy rops and property valued at more an $200,000,000 yearly. They carry ubonic plague and other fatal dis ses. One pair of rats at the end of ree years will be the ancestors of 18 nerations amounting to 359,709,482 ividuals.

Plan for Foundations.

I the three illustrations, I have hown how to build foundations and oors ratproof; how to build a false oundation alongside an old foundaon and floor it to keep rats from orking through and how to ratproof wooden building.

Lumber piles and other miscellane s structures form a living place for ts which should be eliminated. Lum

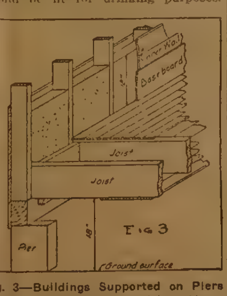


g. 2—Showing a Good Method of aking Foundation and Floor of a New Buidling Ratproof.

r piles should be elevated at least inches from the ground, board walks uld be replaced by concrete and rbage should be kept in concrete or etal containers having tight-fitting ps. There should not be a scrap of left where rats can get it.

Concrete Mixture.

For foundation work such as I have entioned a 1-2½-4 mixture of con ete is recommended. This means one ck of portland cement to 2½ cubic et of sand and 4 cubic feet of peb or broken stone. As is absolute necessary in all concrete work, the nd and pebbles should be free from and trash and the water used uld be fit for drinking purposes.



g. 3—Buildings Supported on Piers Are Ratproofed by Raising Above Ground Level and Placing Concrete Between Walls Above Sills.

nly enough water should be added to ake the mixture of a quaky and jelly ke consistency. Floors of concrete ould not be less than 4 inches thick. ey may either be placed directly on e ground or on a cinder base, but al ays be sure the soil is well drained. r floors, a concrete mixture of one ck of portland cement, 2 cubic feet sand and 3 cubic feet of gravel or one is recommended.

Along with ratproof buildings, start campaign for killing rats. If the ound is undermined with holes, it is ssible to drive them into the open or suffocate them by connecting the stem of holes with the exhaust pipe automobile

OPPORTUNITIES FOR KEEPING HONEY BEE

Nectar Going to Waste in Tulip-Tree Regions.

No Question but That Area May Furnish Many Times More Product Than at Present—Bulletin Discusses Methods.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the tons and tons of nectar going to waste every year in the tulip-tree region of the United States because the colonies of bees are not strong enough to get the full amount of surplus, there is no question that this area may furnish many times more honey than it does at present. This opinion is expressed by the United States Department of Agriculture in Farmers' Bulletin 1222, "Beekeeping in the Tulip-Tree Region," prepared by E. F. Phillips and George S. Demuth, and now available for distribution.

The tulip tree is occasionally found as far north as Vermont and Rhode Island, and west to Michigan, Arkansas and Louisiana. On the outer limits of its distribution it is not abundant. It is more plentiful on the south shore of Lake Erie and rare west of the Mississippi river, except in northeastern Arkansas and southeastern Missouri. The trees are more abundant and larger in the south-central part of its range, especially in Tennessee, Kentucky, the western part of the Carolinas, and in the Ohio river basin. It is common throughout the Piedmont plateau of Maryland and Virginia.

That this honey can be marketed at a profit is attested by the fact that this section now sends to outside regions for part of its honey supply. There is not the local prejudice to dark honey which exists in the clover region and in the West. All these factors taken together make the region one of promise. The enormous number of colonies of bees in this region is pointed to as proof of the great nectar resources, and if these colonies are given proper care vast quantities of honey can be produced.

Modern Homes for Bees.

The abandonment of the "gums" and box-hives and the adoption of modern equipment, together with practices more suited to the region, is advised. The region, it is said, needs more men engaged in beekeeping on a commercial scale as a chief or only occupation. The peculiarities of the region, however, are such as to demand a close study of the business. Careless beekeeping, it is pointed out, is entirely unprofitable, especially in places where the main honey flow comes so soon after the last killing frost of the spring.

Copies of the bulletin, which discusses methods for carrying on the business successfully, may be had free by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

LAYING HENS IN FARM FLOCK

Most Efficient Number Is Between 150 and 500, Say Ohio Poultry Experts.

At least 150 laying hens should constitute the farm flock, say poultry experts at the Ohio experiment station. The most efficient flock is between 150 and 500. The flock containing fewer than 150 hens is not efficient, while flocks of more than 500, though perhaps too large for the general farmer, may be better adapted to those specializing fruit and poultry farms.

PROPER FERTILIZER TO BUY

PORCH BEAUTIFIES ORDINARY HOUSE

Design Is Fine Example of What Can Be Accomplished.

NOT EXPENSIVE TO BUILD

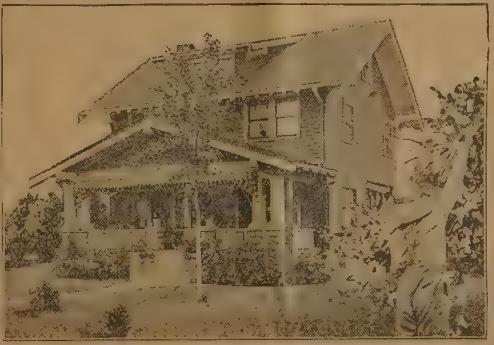
Simple Touches Turn What Would Be Unsightly Model Into Home Both Attractive and Artistic—Has Eight Rooms.

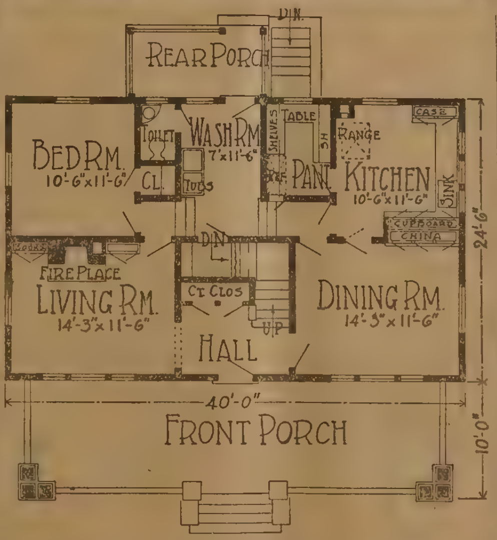
By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

The old-fashioned two-story house, usually twice as long at it was wide, sitting broadside to the street, was not a prepossessing home. Its steep-pitched roof with gables at either end, and its plainness set off with a small porch made such a house merely a place of habitation—not a real home. There were thousands of such houses in the United States, neither city, nor town, nor country exempt from what might be termed a home-building atrocity. Yet there was a very good reason for such houses—economy in construction cost.

Economy today is, perhaps, as essential to the home builder as it was when the prevailing style of architecture was that which has been described. Home builders want good homes—conveniently arranged inside with the modern conveniences, and attractive in exterior appearance. Yet they want these things at the lowest possible cost compatible with good, lasting materials and construction.





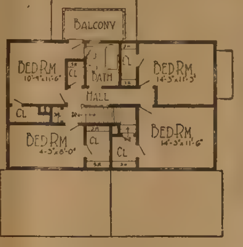
First Floor Plan.

What can be done to make a simple house into a comfortable and attractive home is shown in the illustration. This eight-room house would be a simple oblong, two-gabled house were it not for the artistic porch, the exposed roof rafters of both house and porch and the dormer window set into the steep-pitched roof. These are the things that have made this house an exceptionally good one from both exterior and interior, and at the same time it is one of the most economical of modern home building designs.

As will be seen by the floor plans that accompany the exterior view, this house is 40 feet wide and 24 feet deep. The foundation walls are straight, there not being a jog in the lines of the building. The house itself is of the simplest sort of frame construction. But it is the porch that breaks its monotony of line and its consequent plain appearance. Corner piers of rough-face concrete block support the double square corner porch columns. The porch roof rafters are left exposed, the ends projecting somewhat on each side. Piers on either side of the stone steps leading to the porch add to its attractiveness. And when the railing has been put in place, there is a semi-privacy that is one of the best features of a front porch.

The house contains eight good-sized rooms, four on each floor, while underneath is a cellar, wherein is placed the heating plant and the various storage rooms that every housekeeper demands in her home.

The entrance door off the porch leads into a central hall. Out of this hall run the stairs to the second floor, leaving an alcove for a coat closet. To the left of the hall connected by a double cased entrance is the living room, 14 feet 3 inches, by 11 feet 6 inches. To the right of the entrance hall is the dining room, of the same size as the living room. Back of the dining room is the kitchen, 10 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 6 inches, while adjoining is a good-sized pantry, with side window, shelves and closets and the refrigerator. Back of the living room is a bedroom, 10 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 6 inches. This room might be used as a den or office or for any of the purposes a housekeeper may wish.



Second Floor Plan.

The stairs to the second floor end in a central hall, off which open the four bedrooms, each a corner room, and the bathroom. By reference to the floor plans it will be seen that these rooms correspond in size with those on the first floor, giving the family two rather large front bedrooms and two smaller rear bedrooms.

Viewed from almost any angle of what is most desirable in a home-building design it will be seen that this is an exceptional one. The front view of the house is attractive; the broad, deep porch makes for summer comfort; the interior arrangement is good; all the modern home conveniences are installed and, what is most important to the average person, the cost of the house is comparatively low. Eight rooms, five of which are bedrooms, provide for larger than the ordinary family, making this an exceptionally economical plan from which the man with a family larger than the usual may build.

Fish Performs Queer Antics.

Few have seen a fish stand on its head and do the nose-dancing act. The State museum at Augusta, Me., has a salmon that not only does the trick, bouncing up and down like a rubber ball, but for much of the time will lie motionless on its back near the surface of the water. At other times it will swim around the tank, up and down, across and lengthwise, as though chased by a submarine. Curator James says the salmon will probably return to normal but at the present time it is a freak.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for State Senator for the 15th Senatorial District of the State of Alabama, composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton, and Shelby, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held Aunust, 8th 1922.

Lawrence F. Gerald.

(Paid political advertisement by Lawrence F. Gerald, Clanton, Alabama.)

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce my candidacy for State Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District of Alabama, which is composed of the Counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held in August, 1922.

If elected to the Senate of Alabama, I shall support every measure, which proposes to reduce public expeses and thereby relieve the people of the State of some of the burdens of taxation. I shall support every measure, which will abolish useless and unnecessary offices, of which there are many. I shall oppose every measure which directly or indirectly exempts corporations from the payment of lawful taxes. I am not directly or indirectly connected with any corporation in Alabama, nor will I accept any place upon the pay roll of any corporation in this or any other state in the event of my nomination or election to the office of Senator. I am for Henry Ford first, last and all the time.

PLEASANT GROVE

Dear Editr:

Please allow me a few lines to say a few words about this place.

Our Singing Society met Sunday with a large crowd and did some good singing. We had several visitors from other communities which we are always glad to have. There should be so much pleasure in meeting together and singing praises to God.

Directors for the evening were Prof. James Franklin, Mrs. Eddie Childress, Mr. Burl Martin, and Mr. Chester Maddox.

Organists were Miss Nora Franklin and Miss Mae Maddox.

We wish to thank the visitors for heir help. We give them a hearty welcome and hope they will come again. We hope every one who can will come out next third Sunday evening and bring some one with them.

Our Society meets every first and third Sunday evenings. All singers and lovers of music are invited to come and be with us.

BASE BALL PAST WEEK

Clanton Team Getting in to Their Stride. Three Times a Winner. Defeated Once.

The double header between Clanton and Blocton arrived last Saturday exactly on time. Jupiter Pluvius turned off the sprinkler for the time being and the afternoon was ideal.

In the first game Parrish took the firing line for Clanton and Dick Hays wore the muzzle. Parrish's artillery was in good shape and the barage he laid down was too hot for the Blocto-nians.

Blocton put on the mound a left hand wheeler, named Jones, with D. Finnin receiving the fire, and both were the real article, but the home boys were hungry for revenge and swiped the ball from any old place and sent it out to grass.

This was a beautiful game, evenly matched and hard fought from start to finish. The final score stood:

Clanton—12 Blocton—9

Batteries:—For Clanton, Parrish and Hays. For Blocton, Jones and Finnin.

The only unpleasant feature of the entire game was a little disturbance occasioned in the 7th inning by the repeated raw decissions of a visiting umps who was not artist enough to pull such stunts before a Clanton audience, who demand honest and clean sport for their money.

In the second game the jinx swallowed Clanton at one gulp. After playing one snappy frame the boys grabbed an invisible aircrapt and soared up in the ether, and left some dummies in their place. Pyron took the hill for Clanton and pitched the first frame to pofection, but he boarded the airplane in the second and left with the others. Kendrick, who was dealer for Blocton in this game, pitched superb ball and put something on the pill that made it absolutely invisible to our boys. They never could find it but they sawed the atmosphere all to pieces feeling for it.

The score board read at the close of the 7th and last inning:

Clanton, 1. Blocton, 6.

Batteries —For Clanton, Pyron and Hays. For Blocton—Kendrick and Stevens.

Monday afternoon the lusty Clantonians went over in the mountains near Aldrich and routed out a bunch of ghosty swatters who had been blowing their horn in "high G" for quite awhile.

Pyron took the box for Clanton with blood in his eye and lust for gore in that good right wing of his and a determination to even up his defeat of Saturday. The result was disastrous to the Aldrich clan, for although they sawed the atmosphere into small strips trying to connect with the elusive pellet, when the last frame had been hung up and the game was only a memory, the swealing swatters had still failed to find it and the score for them was a nest of 9 big juicy goose eggs, while Clanton chalked up 11 clean scores before they could throttle down the gas and get their machine to stop. Pyron has thus added to his record one no hit game already.

Tuesday afternoon the hard hitting defenders of the Calera base ball fans motored down to Polk's park and found the Clantonians at home to callers. Pitcher "Red" Wagoner did the honors of the occasion for the home team with neatness and dispatch. He is the twirler who has not lost a game this season. When Calera finally gave his benders up, after 9 hard fought innings, the cruel score board grinned at them with a tally of 8 to 3 with Clanton on the long end.

Connaster and Parrish each tried to loose the ball in the dim distance with the bases full, and the scorer was kept busy as the Clanton boys romped in home.

So far the following games are on the schedule for next week:

Monday afternoon; Clanton vs Aldrich at Polk's Park. Tuespay afternoon: Clanton vs Calera at Calera.

BILLINGSLEY BARBACUE

On Saturday, June 17, the good people of the Billingsley [illegible] are giving a big [illegible] the public. They intend to have plenty to eat for everybody, and some of the biggest oratorical guns of the State on hand to fill the atmospere with eloquence. Ball games and other amusements will be part of the fun.

Everybody is cordially invited Saturday, June 17

Nice cool dresses for both Ladies and children will be found at Elmore's Summer Sale at very reasonable price.

CENTRAL ALABAMA HOSPITAL

There is no doubt about [illegible] will win out, as is proven by the [illegible] of our local hospital. Patients are coming from far and near, and the wonderful success the hospital is making in saving and curing these various sufferers is daily winning for it an ever broadening field of usefulness.

Here is a few of its cases that have been nursed and treated in the last few days:

Mrs. W. T. White of Benson, operated on Saturday for acute appendicitis; is convalesing splendidly.

Mrs. J. D. Jones, Clanton, operated on Thursday for appendicitis and lystic tumor; a very serious operation. She is recovering more rapidly than could be expected.

Mrs. Ocie N. Williams is a patient at the hospital, who has been under treatment. She will be able to go home in just a few days now.

Miss Annie Huckabee is also under treatment there and will be discharged well in a day or so.

Mrs. Washington Powell was operated on for appendicitis Friday, and is doing fine, and will be out again in a few days.

The many friends of Mrs. Hance Alred, who underwent a most serious operation at the hospital some days ago will be pleased to know that [illegible] is convalescing splendidly, and wil be at home again in a few days.

The baby of Mrs. Tom Smitherman is very ill at the hospital and is being treated with good hope of success.

Jessie Spigner, colored, who relapsed from typhoid fever and was thought to be dying was hurried back to the hospital, and is now out of danger [illegible] on the road to recovery.

There is no similar institution in the South that beats the record here for efficiency and success, and we have not heard of any place that is even keeping stride with the Central Alabama Hospital.

Millinery, you can buy that mid summer hat at Elmore's Big Summer sale at a very low price.

DEATHS PAST WEEK

ALL DAY SINGING AT MITCHEL DAM

Verbena, Ala., June 7—Preparations are being made for an old fashioned "all day singing" to be held at Mitchell Dam on Sunday, June 18, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

It will consist of music selected from the old book of Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp. Classes will be present from Birmingham, Montgomery, Gadsden and Coopers, and a cordial invitation is extended to all persons desiring to participate.

It is desired by the arrangement committee that all automobile parties come by way of Verbena, Ala., and all persons coming by train will be met at Coopers, Ala., by a special train furnished by the Dixie Construction Company and will be able to leave the dam in time to get afternoon accommodation.

J. W. Hayes of Mitchel Dam will be in charge of the singing, and requests that lunch be brought if possible, as accommodations are limited in this respect.

All who cme to the Dam will be able to view the construction work, which is going forward at a rapid rate, in addition to enjoying the all day singing.

Entered in the Postoffice at Clanton, Alabama, as Second Class Mail Matter Under Act of Congress.

"A long lane that never turns" very often turns from bad to worse.

Speaking of problems, the one Henry Ford put up to the present Congress is in "Class A."

If last Monday and Monday night were not hot enough for you there is no chance for you to be satisfied until after you die.

Lenine has been reported dead about fifteen times. Russia has been dead about five years. Lenine is now reported living and well but we hear nothing so far that would indicate reincarnation of Russia.

Conan Doyle as the writer of the Sherlock Holmes detective stories was a conspicuous success, but Conan Doyle as the exponent of a decadent Spiritualism is a pitiful failure —Morn'. Stick to your job.

Another Congressional "probe" has been ordered for the gasoline trust. While they are attending to this job, if they will also reduce by half the cost to the people of the "hot air," "gas," etc we are paying for in the halls of Congress they will deserve a Carneigie medal.

On the streets of Clanton Sunday we saw an "emancipated" woman up to the minute. She had on tight fitting knee pants and a real loud and jaunty coat. As an advertising scheme the result was o. k., but the goods displayed were rather disappointing.

Advertising pays good dividends only when it tells the truth. Tell the people what you have and then be honest and show them what you advertised. Shoppers soon get the idea that a person who is dishonest in his statements is an unsafe man to deal with. Gain the public confidence in any business by honest and truthful dealing and your success is assured.

The presumption that some "big preachers" and prominent newspapers have forgotten that the Saviour personally established a plan of salvation when He was here on earth, is proven by the fact that they are busy all the time trying to tell us the kind of religion we need. A "broad" kind is what they advocate. There is also, we remember, a "broad" road that leads to a mighty hot climate.

In a recent issue of the Birmingham News the editor proceeded to crucify a correspondent for presuming to criticise our present school system. In another column in the same issue the paragraph writer inadvertantly, we suppose, allowed a real disgraceful truth to creep in when he refered to our school system as paying $3,300 per annum for college presidents and $15,000 for a coach to teach boxing, ball playing etc. Does the News consider that efficiency?

A Comparison.

As between the Ku Klux Klan and the Knights of Columbus there can be no comparison. The first stands for the purest and highest type of Americanism. The other represents the most awful and tragic hierarchy this world has ever known. One is cursed and abused for the villianies that other people do. The other is touted and blessed for the good deeds paid for by others. One is the sworn upholder of freedom and the government of the United States. The other is the sworn vassel of a system that has tortured and oppressed mankind throughout the ages, is absolutely foreign in all its principles and is solmnly pledged to do the bidding of ONE man, even to the point of treason, arson and the most awful forms of murder.

Still, in the metropolis of our state, we find one leading newspaper, several lawyers, a few priests and preachers and quite a number of latter day agnostics and would be foreign imitators, demanding the head of the American order, while the other, without one single feature to reccommend it to a land of freedom, is patted on the back and given every encouragement to go to it.

This misguided newspaper and its following need to broaden their vision. Birmingham is a great city and a coming city, but because the nature of its industrial life has drawn together a large number of foreign born and bred citizens they need to remember that Alabama and the great Southland still is proud to be known as the home of true Americans who glory in the land of their birth; in the freedom bought by the blood of their fathers and recently dedicated anew by the blood of their sons and brothers. They do not care for the pomps and follies of the "old world." They are not running after, pandering to no trying to ape any person or sentiment across the seas. There is glory enough for them in the traditions of this great land of ours, and it will be many, many long years before they will be prepared to subscribe to the agnostic views, the toadying attitude and the anti-orthordox tendencies of this great paper with its "broad minded" policies.

We have all heard the Masonic order charged with being guilty of spiriting away their brethren who were guilty of foul crimes, of intrigueing with the law to save guilty members from merited punishment, of "influencing" the courts in such a manner that convictions were impossible, and so on. The people who make these charges belong to the same element of un American toadyists that are now attempting to break down the legitimate influence for good of the Klan and for the same reason. We do not believe there is any one influence, outside the religion of Jesus Christ, that has done as much for humanity as the Masons, still, they have their ages-old enemy and we all know who and why it is.

The writer is not now nor ever has been either a Mason nor a member of the Klan, but he is a full fledged, free born American citizen, glories in the fact and is thankful to God for the privilege of having been born and reared in this land of freedom and in the South.

CARD OF THANKS

TRAIN JERKS ARE NECESSARY

Supreme Court Says Ordinary Jerks Not Negligence of Employes.

Montgomery—The ordinary jerks of a railroad train cannot be called negligence on the part of employees of the railroad when a person is killed or injured as a result of such jerks under a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of John Barton, director general of railroads, versus Willie S. Crawford, from the Jefferson Circuit Court. The plaintiff's husband, Harry F. Crawford, was killed when a jerk of the train threw him under the wheels. A jury gave her a judgment for $4,000. The Supreme Court, after reviewing the evidence, held that there was nothing to indicate that the jerk was any greater than is necessary in the operation of a train, took judicial knowledge of the fact that perks are necessary and decided the lower court committed error when it did not give an affirmative charge in favor of the defendant.

TWO BIG BUSINESS CONCERNS ORGANIZED IN ALABAMA

Montgomery—One of the biggest business concerns to be organized in Alabama in recent months, the Willman Cotton Mill Company, of Athens, filed formal notice of its incorporation in the office of Secretary of State William P. Cobb. The company, which was incorporated by Shelby S. Fletcher and others, has an authorized capital stock of $200,000, with $90,000 paid in and will engage in the business of manufacturing cotton cloth, etc.

Another new concern of unusual proportions, the Alabama ElDorado Oil Co., of Montgomery, which has an authorized paid-in capital stock of $50,000, also filed articles of incorporation in the secretary of state's office. The incorporators are Sylvain Baum, I. F. Solomon, A. A. Hill and Julius Hesslein.

Law Enforcement Records.

Montgomery—A total of 322 arrests during May, reported to Governor Kidby by L. L. Phillips, chief state law enforcement officer, breaks all previous records of the state law enforcement department for a single month. Ninety-seven of the arrests, the reports of the department for May shows, were for violation of the prohibition law, 31 for operating a still and 20 for having a still in possession. There were 29 arrests on charges of vagrancy, the unusually large number for this offense being accounted for by the "clean-up" campaigns which were carried out during the month in various towns and communities. Eighty-six stills were seized and destroyed also 36520 gallons of mash and 475 gallons of liquor.

K. K. K. Ordinance Killed.

Birmingham—By unanimous vote the city commission of Birmingham refused to adopt an ordinance proposed by the Birmingham Bar Association and backed by numerous civic and commercial bodies prohibiting masked parades. F. J. Mashburn, of Atlanta, who said he was a representative of the Ku Klux Klan made a lengthy argument against the proposed ordinance.

"Daddy" 33 Times.

Harlan—Arrival of a baby at the home of Robert Baker, 84 years old a dairyman, was announced. At the same time it was said the advent of the new comer marked the thirty-third time Mr. Baker starred in the role of daddy. Mrs. Baker, who is 35, is his seventh wife. They have been married fourteen years. The seventh Mrs. Baker has presented her husband with eight children.

Baby Born With Teeth.

Gadsden—Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith, who reside on Lookout Mountain near the city, are the proud parents of a daughter born Monday, which has a full set of teeth. Otherwise the child is normal. It has fully developed front and back teeth, according to those who have examined it.

Montgomery School Bond Election.

Montgomery—An ordinance was adopted by the city commissioners calling for a resubmission of the $1,000,000 school bond issue to the voters of the city, the election to be held on July 10. The ordinance was introduced, the rules suspended and the adoption was unanimous.

Weevils Doing Damage.

Hartselle—Considerable apprehension is felt for the safety of the cotton plant. From some sections of the county there comes the report that the weevil is beginning to play on the young cotton plant.

Minor Sues Power Company.

Gadsden—Sarah Myrick, a minor, is suing the Alabama Power Company for $5,000 damages, alleging personal injury. The plaintiff alleges that she was struck by a street car and was cut and bruised from head to foot.

Killed By Lightning.

Florence—George Pittman, 18, of Gravoly Springs, near here, was struck by lightning and instantly killed while working in a field.

A WORD FROM JUDGE S. M. ADAMS, TO THE VOTERS

Regarding His Candidacy for State Senator on the Democratic Ticket.

Thorsby, Ala., June 10th, 1922.

To the Voters of the Fifteenth Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby:

Ladies and Gentlemen:-

I wish to say to you that I am engaged on my little farm doing my own work, and it will be imposible for me to see each voter, and for that reason I wish to say a few words in this letter, and first I will appreciate the votes of the people, and if elected will do what I can in their interest. I do not think we need many additional laws, but on the other hand, we need some changes, in the Tax and Election laws. I cannot see why just about half of the State and county officials should not do the work they all do, and thereby save to the Tax payers, half of the expense of the officials, and I have never believed that it is just to tax the farmer even down to the old hen and chickens, and allow the corporations to go free of taxes. I will do all I can looking to equal rights to all and special priveleges to none, on this subject. I do not believe that our prohibition laws should be interfered with, except to make them stronger. The enforcement of the prohibition laws according to my information is fully paid by the violators of the law, and certainly all good citizens want to see the laws enforced. Hoping to meet as many of the voters personally, as it is possible for me to do, and feeling that no candidate for public office should conceal his position on public matters, I invite interrogation on public questions.

I am yours sincerely,
S. M. ADAMS.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP

In Addition to Singing on the Fourth Sunday P.M. In June.

There has been prepared for the afternoon of the Fourth Sunday in June, at Friendship Baptist Church, a special program, which will include not only singing led by any directors who may be present, but also some important talks on vital subjects by able speakers. The following is the arrangement of the program:

Singing, opened at 1:00, by W. O. Rich singing two songs. Short lessons, by other directors, who may be present.

2;30, Subject, "The Relation that Music has to the Church Work," by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

3:05, "The Leading Sins of the Day," by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

3:40, "What a Church means to a Community," by Rev. M. J. Parrish.

4:05, "Advantages in Advancing the Cause of Christ now as Compared with Forty Years Ago," by Rev. S. M. Adams.

4:40, "The Indebtedness of a Community to Church," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

Each speaker will have twenty minutes to discuss his subject, which will allow fifteen minutes between each address to be devoted to singing, by different leaders who may be present.

We feel that a varied program of this kind will be a great help to our church, as well as the singing society, and everybody is urgently invited to come and take part with us.

The subjects that have been selected are very important ones, and the men who are to handle them are in every way capable of their tasks.

Leaders of music are urged to come as we hope to be able to place all who are present on the program for a short lesson.

Prof. Stanley Davis, Route 6, was here Monday on a business mission.

Miss Fanny Vance left Monday for the Troy Normal School where she will be engaged in pursuing her studies for several weeks preparatory to higher grade work in her profession.

We are glad to announce this week that Mr. J. Bice, formerly Treasurer of Chilton County, has been returned to that job by the Commissioners; he is already in charge, having taken over the office June the first.

WHY—
ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The soap, partially dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and thus forces the soap-film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air, thus forming a perfect sphere or ball at the moment the bubble is first made.

However, after the bubble has been floating for a few moments, the water drips down toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

Virginia Lee

Many will recall that during the World war there appeared on navy posters seeking recruits a very pretty girl—that was Virginia Lee. During the recent national beauty pageant at Atlantic City, Virginia was selected by President Harding as the most beautiful girl in the U. S. A. For years she has been playing in pictures and is regarded as one of the most handsome of the "movie" stars.

—O—

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ANGELICA

ANGELICA, a name of much more substance than the pallid Angelea, is still one of the "angelic names" which feminine fancy delights to bestow on its girl children. It means, of course, "angelic" and seems difficult to reconcile with the behavior of some of the small daughters whom one finds bearing the name.

Angelos was a Greek word meaning "heavenly messenger," hence "angel." It first became a name in the Byzantium empire when it was bestowed as an epithet upon persons of surpassing beauty. It was applied most often as a masculine name and there was a Carmelite saint called Angelo, who established it as a baptismal name. In his honor, the feminine also became popular and Italian history records many instances of its use.

Angelica sprang to fame since it named the faithless lady of romance for whose sake Orlando lost his heart and his senses. Though she was the invention of Boiardo and Ariosto, the romantic flavor which the story gave her name brought Angelica to instant favor. England liked the name and adopted it. In France it became Angelique, and Italy produced the other forms of Angioletta and Anziletta, though Angelica continued the reigning favorite.

Angelica's talismanic gem is the pearl. It guards the purity and sweetness of her, brings her friends, and much charm. Sunday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

PATES CHAPEL

Happiness seems complete in the Pates Chapel community. Let us always be thankful for what we have.

On Saturday night a social was given at the home of A. Maddox in honor if his son, who is home on a vacation from Piedmont College. Some of the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cleckler, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cleckler, Messrs Monroe Franklin, Enoch Hayes, Harrison and Vastine Hayes, Paul Barret, Amos Smith, Clifford Childress and Lee Pate, Misses Fannie Pate, Emily Pate, Nora Franklin, Zemma Hayes and many other yound ladies.

The Pates Chapel singing society met Sunday evening with a large crowd. Many beautiful songs were directed by the following people: Chester Maddox, J. S. Castleberry, Harrison Hayes, Emily Pate Miss Edwards, J. Scott, H. Castleberry, Mrs. J. A. Cleckler, Mrs. Eva Childress and Prof. James Franklin. Organists for the evening were, Miss Nora Franklin, Mrs. Eva Childress and Miss Mae Maddox.

Come on, Pates Chapel. Lets make our community what it should be. These singings are held on every second and fourth Sunday evenings for every one. We are always glad to have visitors from other communities. We are made strong by their presence. Let us help each other. We hope to have a quartette at our singings from now on. This will add variety to our singing. "Variety is the spice of Life," so every one come to Pates Chapel next fourth Sunday in July and see what we have for you. Because of the all day singing at Pleasant Grove the Fourth Sunday in June and the all day singing here for the old people the Second Sunday in July, we will not be able to meet again until the Fourth Sunday evening in July. Don't forget to come then tho.

ORGANIZATION OF GIGANTIC COTTON POOL MEETING WITH MUCH SUCCESS

Quota In Alabama Now Is Raised To Quarter-Million Bales.

Montgomery.—Great enthusiasm marked the totaling of the reports of accomplishment in the formation of the giant cotton marketing organizations from the county agents and field men in the Farm Bureau offices. These reports together with contracts received at the state office show that to date the total baleage signed is somewhere between 115,000 and 120,000 and that approximately 7,000 Alabama cotton growers have signed the contract.

In launching the movement the Farm Bureau officials announced that the Alabama pool would include at least 100,000 bales but so successful has been the campaign to date that it will be continued with a new goal of a quarter of a million bales. Already five counties in the state have obtained their quotas with several more near the top and each will continue the drive until its quota is reached.

T. A. G. Road To Birmingham.

Gadsden—"We intend to extend the Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia Railroad to Birmingham by way of Ashville and Odenville and to make a real railroad of the line," was the statement made here by C. E. James. Mr. James, who recently purchased the little road, stated that he intended to connect it with the Seaboard Air Line at Odenville and to make connection also with the Illinois Central and the Frisco system, which, he said, would mean that more than one big system would read Gadsden and Chattanooga over his rails. He and some of his officials were here looking for a route to cross Gadsden from the north to the south side and also a site for a new passenger station. Work of rebuilding the Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia is already under way and schedules will be resumed within a week.

Freak Lightning At Guntersville

Guntersville—Lightning set fire to the large three-story residence of Mrs. H. C. Henderson, situated in the heart of Guntersville. The lightning played freaks by ripping off shingles on one wing of the house, tearing off a board and driving it through a window in another part and setting fire to the bath room in still another section of the house. This is the third time this same house has been struck by lightning in the past few years. None of the occupants were injured and the fire was extinguished before serious damage was done.

Hartselle Has Booster Day.

Hartselle—Saturday was another of the Hartselle Booster's Trade Days. Despite the fact that crop conditions are backward, many from the rural districts were on hand to participate in the drawing for the $50 in gold which the club gave away. These trade days are staged every two weeks and are proving quite popular with the trading public.

CITY COMMISSION WOULD USE PRISONERS IN FARMING GAME

Plan To Reduce Expenses by Raising Feed for Stock and Vegetable.

Birmingham — The Birmingham City Commission is contemplating entering the farming game. Commissioners W. B. Cloe and W. [illegible] Harrison, together with David Stanton, city plumbing inspector, [illegible] making arrangements whreby the city will start a farm and truck garden at East Birmingham and Green Spring Park. At East Birmingham there are 40 acres of tillable land and at Green Springs 60 acres. The city plans to raise hay and other feedstuffs for the city's animals and to have gardens to produce vegetables for the city jail consumption. Prisoners who languish in the city jail are just the ones to do the cultivating, according to the idea of the commissioners, who thrashed the matter out at their monthly meeting with heads of departments. It is hoped by this plan that large sums can be saved by the city in feed and vegetable bills, while at the same time the relative cost will be small. The commissioners are in earnest about the project and announce they have other plans on foot to reduce operating expenses of the city that will be made public from time to time.

MAN PLEADS INSANE IN OWN DEFENSE AND WINS JURY VERDICT

Montgomery—Something new under the sun. A man appeared as his own lawyer in the circuit court, entered a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity and was acquitted by a jury. T. L. Henry was charged with having escaped from the prison at Kilby. He had no lawyer but requested that he be permitted to defend himself. He entered a plea of not guilty because of insanity, testified in his own behalf and obtained a judgment of not guilty from the jury. Henry showed that the sun which beat upon him as he worked in a field made him insane and he didn't know what he was doing when he escaped.

School Principals Selected.

Montgomery—State Superintendent of Education John W. Abercrombie, pursuant to authorization from the state board of education, announced the selection of Clair Dufford, of Starksville, Miss., for the principalship of the State Secondary School at Abbeville, and of W. F. Swann of Horn Lake, Miss., for the principalship of the agricultural school at Sylacauga. These two appointments complete the list of agricultural school principals for 1922-23. Mr. Dufford succeeds W. H. McLaurin who resigned his position, and Mr. Swan succeeds W. D. Newman, acting principal, who has been elected to the principalship of the Lamar County High School.

Mobile's Still Qouta.

Mobile — Seizure of a 100-gallon still with 25 barrels of mash on Robinson's Bayou brings Mobile County's total of ilicit whisky making outfits destroyed in the past two years up to 1,316, according to the official records on file at the sheriff's office. Moonshiners operating on the dividing line of Mobile County and Green County, Miss., as well as Jackson County, Miss., are causing the deputy sheriffs from Mobile to go to the federal court at Biloxi, Miss., to give testimony.

Shippers Cooperating.

Birmingham—Shippers are cooperating with the American Railway Association, car service division, by loading freight in cars that will land the carriers in their home territory and thus cut down empty hauls, according to H. J. Arnett, representative of the association, who is winding up work here in this connection.

Birmingham Commission Legal.

The supreme court of Alabama held in a decision handed down in the case of Thomas E. Street vs. W. B. Cloe and other members of the Birmingham City Commission that the commission, as at present organized, is legal and that its election was legal and regular in every way.

Klan Helps Church.

Wilsonville — While Rev. F. B. Hewlett, pastor of the Wilsonville Methodist Church, was in the midst of his sermon, white-robed figures marched in to the edifice, down an aisle to the pulpit and deposited a letter containing $60.

Northport Girl Prize Winner.

Northport—Miss Susie Turner of Northport, daughter of Collier Turner, is in Washington as guest of Representative W. B. Oliver. Some time ago Mr. Oliver offered a free trip to Washington and entertainment for 10 days to the young lady this district who could produce e greatest profit on one-tenth of acre of ground. Miss Turner won e prize. At a cost of $28.25 she oduced enough tomatoes to sell $110.75.

MAKING PLANS FOR BIG DAY AT STANTON THE 23

Barbecue, Base Ball, Games, Public Speaking, and All Round Big Time.

Mr. A. L. Dyer of Stanton has requested the Clanton papers to announce that preparations are being made for a barbecue, ball games and a public speaking at Stanton on the 23rd of this month. They are expecting to have a big day, and invite everybody to come.

An effort is being made to get Judge Brandon down there to speak, but if it is not possible to get him, some other good speaker will be obtained.

Plans include two ball games for the day. One game will be played with the Stanton and Brent Teams contending for the honors. And Mr. Dyer says they are going to try to get the Clanton team booked for the other game.

The proceeds of the day will go to the Stanton school which is now being built.

One lot of sport dresses just received at Elmore's will be sold for $15 each and they are worth $25

The installation of these off[illegible] will take place June 27.

THE REDPATH CHAUTAUQUA

The Redpath Chautauqua has been in Clanton this week. As is known, this is one of the leading Chautauquas of the country. The public has been liberal in its patronage of this educational Chautauqua. Large audiences have been present each night to enjoy the program given for the upbuilding of the community. When it comes to backing up anything of this nature for the good of the community, Clanton does not take second place.

Mrs. George Wise of Birmingham the manager of the Chautauqua, is an affable person and did her work well, adding largely to the pleasure of the stay of the Redpath Chautauqua in our hustling town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ward of Verbena, were in Clanton Monday.

THE TRUTH AND NOTHIN' BUT THE TRUTH

Judge: Were you going to steal that automobile young man?

Prisoner: Why, yer honor I wasn't even thinking of such a thing.

Officer: No, he wasn't thinking about it yer honor, he had already decided on it.

Visibility of the Moon.

The reason for only a part of the moon's disc being visible to the earth is that the east and west sides become alternately visible; this is c[illegible] the moon's longitudinal libration. The libration in latitude arises from the moon's axis not being perpendicular to her orbit, in consequence of which a part of her surface round the North pole is visible during one-half and a corresponding portion round the South pole during the other half of her revolution in her orbit; the libration in latitude is about 6 degrees, 41 minutes.

VOLUME 1 CLANTON, ALABAMA, JUNE 22, 1922. NUMBER 41

A PERFECT LINIMENT

Rev. J. D. Deason, of Maplesville, hands in the following prescription with the advice that all of us have it filled and use it:

One half-pint faith, half-pint virtue, half-pint of knowledge, half-pint of patience, half-pint temperance half-pint godliness, half-pint brotherly kindness, half-pint charity, one good resolution, well shaken together three times a day with prayer; will cure the devil's rheumatism, evil eye, blasphemy, grumbling, back-biting, tobacco habit, deceit, kills the nerves of prejudice and purifies the blood and if we can get the worst man there is to use this prescription it will restore him back to manhood and respectability with God and man; it will make him love his own wife and children better and he will want to put them under the same treatment.

Now, if we can get this remedy used in the homes of this country, it will cause the ladies to wear full dresses, stop theatre going, cleanse your heart from inbred corruption and preserve your soul blameless: it will stop men's wives from joy riding with other men.

Shake well before using, rub until it affects the heart, keep this up 365 days in a year, and if it don't cure you, you can bankrupt heaven.

Kenneth Danforth is at home this week spending the time with his parents.

Mr. W. A. Jones of near Verbena has already had two cotton blooms. This sounds like he will head off the boll weevils.

YOUNG LADIES DESIRED TO GO IN TRAINING FOR NURSES.

Owing to the unexpectedly large number of patients, we need two or three more nurses in training. Would like to admit them one every week or two as needed.

They must be over 18 years of age and have a high school education, or at least be able to enter high school.

Those desiring to enter training please write me at once. Address

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT SHADY GROVE SUNDAY

Last Sunday an interesting Sunday School Convention was held at Shady Grove Church near Verbena.

After Sunday School Mrs. J. F. DuBose demonstrated how to teach a small class of begniners, which was highly interesting, and proved that she understands how to handle children.

At eleven o'clock Rev. J. H. Lembrick preached an interesting sermon from Psalm 85 chapter and 6th vse. Rev. Lembrick is an efficient minister and understands how to put the proper spiritual meaning in his sermons.

At the noon hour the people of Shady Grove did not fail to do a child's part by serving a bounteous dinner that proved to add largely to a social feature of the day.

In the afternoon the following subjects were discussed:

"The Sunday School and its Relation to the Social Problem," by J. L. Johnson.

"Opportunities of our Young People," by Prof. H. A. Harris.

"Selling the Sunday School," by J. J. Pickens.

"Our Aim—the Men of Alabama for the Men of Gallilee," by Rev. J. H. Lembrick.

"The Journey of Life and the City of Don't Care," by J. C. Pattilo.

Although there was an all day singing at Mitchell Dam, a large audience was present at the Sunday School Convention, which proved that the people of this community are lovers of Sunday School work.

Mr. W. A. Calloway, President of the district, presided over the convention. He never fails to bring his distrct up to the standard in the Sunday School work.

The most valuable diploma that most young ladies could have would be one issued by mother saying they could make up the bed, sweep the floor, and cook good biscuits, all with neatness and dispatch with a happy smile on their face and a joyous song in their hearts seven days in the week.

CHILTON COUNTY'S STUDENTS AT JACKSONVILLE NORMAL

Editor Chilton County News:

We take this means of telling the readers of your paper what Chilton County is doing in the State Normal School at Jacksonville.

There are thirteen here from dear old Chilton preparing to teach in the public schools of Alabama. We do not believe we could get better training in any other school in the state than at Jacksonville.

We are headed here by our efficient and loved high school principal, Mr. Alverson, who is instructor in mathematics for the summer.

We will be glad to hear from any one at home, and trust more will join us soon in our educational career.

With love to all,

Major Catts, son of ex-Sheriff Catts, myself and wife passed on way to Birmingham visiting son, W. H. Catts a few days. Major Catts was stationed at Fort Benning, is now on leave and goes to Fort Leavenworth in September.

Remt. of sheeting 10 whole yds. to the piece Elmore's Summer Sale 95c.

Frank Allen, of the Birmingham News, was at Cooper Sunday visiting friends and relatives. Frank went to school several years ago to the business manager of The News. If he does his work as well as he prepared himself as a student, he will "Bat a Home Run" in his work for the Birmingham News.

QUICK CROP

Mr. A. W. Powell, for years a valued citizen of Clanton, but who moved to Holt, Fla., last year, is having good success as a truck grower down there.

In a recent letter to friends here he writes that he had ripe water melons on June 7. They measured 18 inches in length and 28 inches thick. They were only seven weeks from planting of the seed to ripe melons. That's going some. We are glad to hear that Mr. Powell is finding Florida a profitable home.

BILLINGSLEY BARBACUE

On Saturday, June 17, the good people of the Billingsley community are giving a big barbacue to the public. They intend to have plenty to eat for everybody, and some of the biggest oratorical guns of the State on hand to fill the atmospere with eloquence. Ball games and other amusements will be part of the fun.

Everybody is cordially invited. Saturday, June 17.

Nice cool dresses for both Ladies and children will be found at Elmore's Summer Sale at very reasonable price.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP

In Addition to Singing on the Fourth Sunday P.M. In June.

There has been prepared for the afternoon of the Fourth Sunday in June, at Friendship Baptist Church, a special program, which will include not only singing led by any directors who may be present, but also some important talks on vital subjects by able speakers. The following is the arrangement of the program:

Singing, opened at 1:00, by W. O. Rich singing two songs. Short lessons, by other directors, who may be present.

2:30, Subject, "The Relation that Music has to the Church Work," by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

3:05, "The Leading Sins of the Day," by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

3:40, "What a Church means to a Community," by Rev. M. J. Parrish.

4:05, "Advantages in Advancing the Cause of Christ now as Compared with Forty Years Ago," by Rev. S. M. Adams.

4:40, "The Indebtedness of a Community to Church," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

Each speaker will have twenty minutes to discuss his subject, which will allow fifteen minutes between each address to be devoted to singing, by different leaders who may be present.

We feel that a varied program of this kind will be a great help to our church, as well as the singing society, and everybody is urgently invited to come and take part with us.

The subjects that have been selected are very important ones, and the men who are to handle them are in every way capable of their tasks.

Leaders of music are urged to come as we hope to be able to place all who are present on the program for a short lesson.

Millinery, you can buy that mid summer hat at Elmore's Big Summer sale at a very low price.

DEATHS PAST WEEK

Mr. Charles Jones, aged 35, who resided near Thorsby, died here June 11 and was buried at New Salem Monday afternoon June 12, Rev. J. T. Nelson officiating.

Mr. R. S. Teel, whose death occured just as we went to press last week and was announced by us, was buried Saturday afternoon at New Salem, Rev. D. M. Pearson officiating. Services held at residence.

Mr. Harry C. Horner, age 43, a native of Canada, but recently making his home at Mitchell Dam, died there June 13 and was buried in Clanton the following day. Services were at the undertaking parlors of J. Mell Martin and were conducted by Rev. D. M. Pearson.

PLEASANT GROVE

Our Singing Society met Sunday evening, but on account of the funeral of Mr. Collins at Cedar Grove and the all day singing at Oak Grove our crowd was not so large as usual. We missed our help from other communities. But yet our singing was good. We had a few visitors and hope we will have more next time.

Directors for the evening were, Prof. James Franklin, J. S. Wright, J. A. Cleckler, Chester Maddox, Mrs. J. A. Cleckler and Mrs. Eddie Childress. Organists were, Miss Mae Maddox. Mrs. Eddie Childress and Miss Nora Franklin.

Rev. Dykes will fill his regular appointment here next Saturday and Sunday.

There will be an all day singing at this place next Sunday, June 25. Let's everybody come and make it a success. Don't forget our regular singing evenings, which are the 1st and 3rd. Hope everybody who can will come and help us out.

THANKS FORM THE CENTRAL ALABAMA HOSPITAL

The doctors and nurses of the Central Alabama Hospital desire to express their thanks for the neighborly kindness shown to the patients and their relatives by the people of Clanton.

TO OUR READERS

The Chilton Co. News Publishing Co. have under order and already shipped from the factory a brand new Linotype Machine.

This will enable us to cut off half the expense of getting out the paper and make it possible for us to give you a much better paper than heretofore.

It will probably take two weeks or perhaps three, to get the machine in and have it installed. In the mean time we have decided to cut the size of the News to four pages to save the heavy outside cost for typesetting. Please get this in your head now and remember that the paper is not reduced for goodbut is only arranging to get on its own feet and travel in high.

We thank you

The prospect is good for 25 cent cotton next fall. The question is, can you make the cotton?

A magistrate in Detroit fined a flapper $50 for making goo goo eyes at a married man. He said if she had not wore her hair bobbed he would have only fined her $25

The average man has to attain the age of 40 or 45 before years he accumulates any reasonable, reasoning sense. The average female is a self-starting calculator from the word go.

Any person who would attempt to minimize or make light of the race problem in the South at this time is either an enemy of this section, woefully lacking in vision or perversely blinded by prejudice.

Cyclones are very impartial in their visitations this year. We hear of them dipping down all the way from New York to San Francisco, and from Canada to the gulf. Don't get impatient, your time may come by and by.

"The wisdom of God passeth all understanding." Still, a day scarcely goes by without the leading papers of the country carrying a lot of bosh by some crack brained egotist about the "way to live," "the new religion" "the universal creed," and so on.

They have a "Jack the Clipper" in Birmingham who is making a collection of ringlets by clipping the tresses off of young ladies while at the movie shows. When the devil begins his promised 1,000 year vacation on earth wonder if he will stage his first appearance in Birmingham.

Young men stay out at night, tell taproom stories, imbibe bootleg rotgut, inhale vast quantities of the latest improved "coffin tacks," profane the name of God and the face of nature and call it "having a good time." The devils in hell are the only individuals who get a real "good time" out of such carousals as that.

The editor extends his thanks to Dr. Orien T. Dozier, of Birmingham, for two very timely pamphlets on the menance of the times. One is entitled "Chips and Whetstones," the other, "Just A-Thinking." The Doctor is a forceful and fearless writer and we appreciate the privilege of reading his little messengers of warning to all true Americans.

Candidates are beginning to fill the air with oratory now and every one of them is promulgating a special personal plan of salvation for the country. Listen at them all, lay aside all prejudice and go out to the polls and elect those you honestly believe to be the most efficien. Be a business man or woman and get the very best service possible for your money.

Negro delegations are still haunting the halls of Congress almost daily demanding the passage of the Dyer anti-lynching bill. Yet we find now and then, even in the South, professional politicians who actually have the hardidood to undertake to make the people believe that the "nigger" question is all a myth. Absolutely willing to pawn the white supremacy of the South against the price of some little insignificant office. People, get wise.

NAME IT AND TAKE IT

We saw on the farm of Mr. H. L. Mims Sunday a new kind of bug or weevil that seems to specialize on the cotton plant. It is almost exactly like a boll weevil but is three or four times as large. There were any quantity of them on his cotton but the only sign of their work was a few leaves that seemed to have been eaten out around the edges.

Name it and take it.

Some weeks ago we predicted that no action would be taken on the Muscle Shoals proposition until after the fall elections. This week Senator Norris, chairman of the Senate Muscle Shoals committee, announces that they cannot possibly reach a settlement of that question before adjournment. Playing politics by these so-called servants of the people is costing the farmers millions of dollars in high priced fertilizers.

We know some people who are so self centered and light-brained that they rarely ever speak to anyone. They have no future before them. They are at the zenith of their career right now. Soon they will evaporate like a dew drop, leving no sign of ever having existed, and the world will not even remember that they ever existed. You had as well try to live without air as without some sort of companionship.

[illegible] a senator once who remained "on the job" in Washington while a strenuous campaign was being waged against him by an opponent back home. He won out on his record. If more of them would build themselves a record for real service on the job Congress would not have to adjourn, with urgent bills on the calender, so they can go back home and fix up the fences every time an election rolls around. The man who holds a job successfully is the man who makes himself indispensable by efficient and faithful service.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that Henry Bice, who was convicted at the fall term 1916 of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, for murder and sentenced for a term of 30 years, in the State penetentiary, will make application to the State Board of Pardons for his parole.

CHILTON COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The 10th Annual meet of the Chilton County Singing Convention will occur this year at the High School Auditorium on the Fifth Sunday in July.

The management is arranging to make this the biggest and best session they have ever staged. It is pretty certain now that the Vaughan Quartette, of Tennessee, who recently entertained the people of this section so splendidly, will return and be one of the many attractions on the program.

The famous Ganus Quartette, of Birmingham, will also be present and will render splendid assistance in making the occassion a success.

Everybody is cordially invited to be on hand and take part in this splendid musical event. Don't forget the date—Fifth Sunday in July.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denty have as their guest this week their daughter Mrs. David Cherry and children.

SHOALS REPORT GOES TO HOUSE

THREE SEPARATE REPORTS MADE TO HOUSE BY MEMBERS OF MILITARY COMMITTEE

CONGRESS TO DECIDE ISSUE

Talk Of Making Final Decision Admitted To Be The Duty Of The Full House Membership

Washington.—Three separate reports setting forth recommendations for action by congress with respect to private development of the government's $106,000,000 power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, were made to the house by members of the military committee.

The task of making a final decision is admitted in each of the reports to be the duty of the full membership of the house at an early date, but recommendation to that end, submitted after four months of continuous consideration by the committee, differ in important respects as they are presented in the documents.

Acting Chairman McKenzie of Illinois, who drafted the majority report, declares at the outset of that document that the Ford proposal was the only one found "worthy of serious consideration," and asks acceptance by the house, provided, however, that the Gorgas steam plant is not included among the projects to be disposed of at Muscle Shoals.

Concurrence in the majority report, except for the references made with respect to the Gorgas plant, is voiced in one of the minority opinions, presented by Representative Wright of Georgia, and supported by Representatives James (Republican) of Michigan, and the remaining Democratic members. They are asking full compliance by the house with all provisions of the Ford proposal, including the Gorgas property, and point out the belief that if congress eliminates the Gorgas unit, it would defeat the Ford offer.

In conclusion, the majority report says, "action by congress is imperative, and immediate action means economy if such action provides for such disposition as will insure an income for the government and not a continuous outlay.

"Two courses are open," it adds, "one government ownership and operation which in view of the character of the project would in the judgment of the majority of the committee mean not only failure from the standpoint of income, but disaster to the hopes of the farmers and other users of commercial fertilizers. To have the government undertake and engage in the manufacture of fertilizer ingredients, with political superintendents, foremen and straw bosses, is unthinkable, and to undertake such a scheme would be unspeakable folly.

"The alternative course is to sell the tangible property to private individuals or to a corporation on conditions prescribed by congress, lease the power at a fair rental and permit individual American initiative and ingenuity to have an opportunity at this place, where the greatest water power in our country can be developed, requiring a preservation of the element of national defense and, at the same time, giving an opportunity for relief, if such there can be, to not only the Southland, but our entire country in the way of commercial fertilizer and reasonable prices."

Another Opera Star Tires Of Marriage

New York.—Word has reached here that Alexander Smith Cochran, wealthy carpet manufacturer, has been granted a decree of divorce in Paris from Mme. Ganna Walska, Polish operatic star. Incompatibility of temperament was said to have been the grounds. Terms of a financial settlement, if there was one, could not be learned.

Another Problem Added To Worries

Washington.—"Which comes first—the hen or the egg?" has given way to "who ranks first—a major general or a rear admiral?" as the all-absorbing question of the day. The world having failed to solve the former, President Harding has been personally called upon to decide the latter.

Companies Ask Complaint Dismissal

Washington.—Dismissal of the complaints issued by the federal trade commission June 3 against the merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Lackawanna Steel company is asked in replies filed by the two companies denying that the consolidation will operate to restrain trade. In answering the complaint, the companies also asked for advancement of the date of the hearing on the complaint set for July 24, and this was taken under consideration by the commission.

Baron Kato Asked To Form Cabinet

Tokio.—Admiral Baron Kato recently was offered the premiership of Japan. He asked time to consider whether he would undertake to form a cabinet to succeed that of Premier Takahashi, which resigned. Admiral Kato headed the Japanese delegation to the Washington arms conference. Observers here see in the move further assuranc e hofteevogrn-chamna termination to carry out wholeheartedly the engagements made at the Washington arms conference.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Mr. W. B. Corley,
Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.
Dear Sir:

Through the courtesy of my good friend and fellow patriot, Reverend S. M. Adams, I received a copy of your paper, the Chilton County News, and read with great delight your editorial, "A Comparison." Evidently, Rome hasn't succeeded in putting a muzzle on you as yet, but you may look out for persecutions to follow, and be alert lest some Roman "snake in the grass" either stab you in the back or attempt to assassinate your character, or do you some dirty injury, for these minions of the Pope take it as a personal affront for any heretic to doubt or dispute the divinity of their papal God at Rome.

Beyond all question the daily press of this nation is either cowed by fear of losing patronage or intimidated by personal fear, or bribed by Romanism, and therefore cannot chirp against the infamous aggressions which Romanism is making in our land and country. I, therefore, congratulate you in having the backbone and courage of your convictions to speak the truth regarding that infamous band of traitors, the Knights of Columbus, in alliance as they are with all of the other disloyal elements in our country uniting their forces to destroy our republic and establish in its stead a theocracy, ruled by the Pope who sits on his throne at Rome, and claims not only to be the ruler of all kings, princes and potentates of the earth, but also asserts himself as having commission to act as vicegerent of God, over all the earth.

I very much fear for the perpetuity of our present form of government unless the evangelical ministers of the various protestant orders in this nation preach the gospel of protestantism and make it plain to their congregations the sinister designs and diabolical deeds being done in this land of free men by the minions of his satanic majesty, the present ruling pope.

I had the pleasure last week of making a speech in defense of the Ku Klux Klan, an order or organization of which I am not a member and in no wise connected except through patriotic sentiments, and had the pleasure of seeing that disgruntled band of hungry, free advertisement seeking lawyers, and spotlight politicians defeated in their purpose of having adopted an ordinance prohibiting the parades of the Ku Klux Klan in Birmingham. It was once my pain and pleasure to perform some service and participate a little in the diversions of the K. K. K. in the receding the Civil War, and as a choice between the Knights of Columbus and the imps of hell I would gladly today enlist with the latter and fight their battles, rather than take part in the diabolical deeds of that militant band of arch traitors, with whom you say there is no comparison, when mentioning the K.K.K.

I am taking the liberty of mailing to you, under separate cover, copies of two of my booklets, "Just a Thinking," and "Chips and Whetstones," which I trust you will receive with my compliments and best wishes.

May God lend strength to your pen and years to your life, that you may continue the fight aganist all traitors, wrong doers, and especially against that most mendacious, diabolical and damning of all despotisms, the Roman Hierarchy.

Sincerely yours,
O. T. DOZIER, M.D.

GEO. BENJAMIN JENKINS DEAD

Mr. Geo. Benjamin Jenkins, of Maple View, New York, died at the home here of Rev. Jno. G. Mitchell, whose wife was the daughter of the deceased.

The death occurred Friday evening and the remains were shipped from the parlors of the Martin Undertaking Shop the following day to the family home at Maple View.

Mr. Jenkins had been an invalid for quite a long time. He was 67 years of age.

MOTHER SICK

Mr. J. Mell Martin was called by telegram Monday to Equality, Ala., to the bedside of his mother, who had suffered a stroke of paralysis.

He left by rail at once and we certainly hope that he found her much improved.

Seasonable rains have fallen pretty generally in this section the past few days and the crop prospect is said to be good.

WHY—
ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The soap, partially dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and thus forces the soap-film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air, thus forming a perfect sphere or ball at the moment the bubble is first made.

However, after the bubble has been floating for a few moments, the water drips down toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

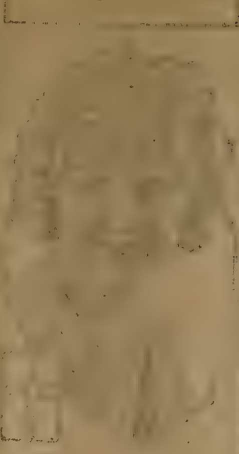
Virginia Lee



Many will recall that during the World war there appeared on navy posters seeking recruits a very pretty girl—that was Virginia Lee. During the recent national beauty pageant at Atlantic City, Virginia was selected by President Harding as the most beautiful girl in the U. S. A. For years she has been playing in pictures and is regarded as one of the most handsome of the "movie" stars.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ANGELICA

ANGELICA, a name of much more substance than the pallid Angelea, is still one of the "angelic names" which feminine fancy delights to bestow on its girl children. It means, of course, "angelic" and seems difficult to reconcile with the behavior of some of the small daughters whom one finds bearing the name.

Angelos was a Greek word meaning "heavenly messenger," hence [illegible] It first became a name in the Byzantium empire when it was [illegible] as an epithet upon persons of surpassing beauty. It was applied most often as a masculine name and there was a Carmelite saint called Angelo, who established it as a baptismal name. In his honor, the feminine also became popular and Italian history records many instances of its [illegible]

Angelica sprang to fame since [illegible] named the faithless lady of romance for whose sake Orlando lost his heart and his senses. Though she was the invention of Bojardo and Ariosto, the romantic flavor which the story gave her name brought Angelica to instant favor. England liked the name and adopted it. In France it became Angelique, and Italy produced the other forms of Angioletta and Anziletta, though Angelica continued the reigning favorite.

Angelica's talismanic gem is the pearl. It guards the purity and sweetness of her, brings her friends, and much charm. Sunday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

BARBECUE AT BILLINGSLEY

Last Saturday, June 17th, the people of the thriving little city of Billingsley gave a barbecue for the benefit of the Baptist Church. A large number of people from Chilton and Autauga counties were present, and the day was a success from every standpoint.

Dr. George H. Thigpen of the Masonic Home at Montgomery delivered an excellent address in the forenoon. Every one who heard him was highly pleased with the sound logic and advice given by the speaker.

In the afternoon the various candidates from Autauga County and other candidates from the district embracing the solicitor's district and senatorial district made brief talks. Among those from this county who made talks of interest were Judge S. M. Adams, who is in the race for State Senator from this district, an Hon. Thomas A. Curry, who has h hat in the "ring" for the solicitorsh in this district.

Hon. J. W. Ward, candidate f Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, was among those who were at Billingsley last Saturday.

Hon. Lawrence Lee was at Billingsley last Saturday. Mr. Lawrence i looking forward to being one of Alabama's Public Service Commissioners.

Col. V. J. Heard, who is looking after his interest in behalf of being the next solicitor from this district, was on the ground at Billingsley last Saturday.

(Paid political advertisement by Lawrence F. Gerald, Clanton, Alabama.)

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce my candidacy for State Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District of Alabama, which is composed of the Counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held in August, 1922.

If elected to the Senate of Alabama, I shall support every measure, which proposes to reduce public expeses and thereby relieve the people of the State of some of the burdens of taxation. I shall support every measure, which will abolish useless and unnecessary offices, of which there are many. I shall oppose every measure which directly or indirectly exempts corporations from the payment of lawful taxes. I am not directly or indirectly connected with any corporation in Alabama, nor will I accept any place upon the pay roll of any corporation in this or any other state in the event of my nomination or election to the office of Senator. I am for Henry Ford first, last and all the time.

R. E. FITTS.

(Paid political advertisement by R. E. Fitts, Stanton, Alabama.)

Mr. John Collins, a highly respected citizen who lived near Thorsby, died June 16th. He was a member of the Methodist Protestant church at Cedar Grove near Thorsby. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. D. Messer at this church on Sunday, June 18th. A large concourse of friends and relatves were present to pay the last esteem of respect to this worthy church member and citizen who had lived an honorable and upright life.

Miss Rosa Anderson, of Ramer, is the guest of Rev. C. D. Messer and family this week. She has been one of the teachers at Perote, Ala., for the past year and her family is one of the best known families in the state.

Messrs W. B. Allgood and A. J. Kimbrough, of Montgomery, passed through Clanton yesterday en rou to Sylacauga, Talladega and other points. Mr. Allgood is a candidate for State Auditor and like Judge Brandon is known as W. B. (Bill) Allgood. He is a sure winned like PLAIN BILL.

Miss Jewel Hayes of Birmingham, is here this week visiting relatives and friends. Miss Hayes graduated at the County High School here two or three years ago.

The people of Thorsby are going to celebrate the 4th of July next Tuesday in that live and hustling little city. They are firm believers in the old adage, "United we stand, divided we fall." No Town in Alabama goes in wholeheartedly to accomplish something worthy more than our live neighbor on the North does.

Prof. O. L. Chambers, of Leighton, Ala., is in Clanton in the interest of the W. O. W. Mr. Chambers is an affable gentlemen, and the W. O. W. members will appreciate his help.

If you want to buy your dresses ready made we have them. If its piece goods you want we have them. You will always find our stock fresh with all the new things.

Mr. Charles Peterson has written the business manager of the News, urging the importance of making the celebration at Thorsby a success next Tuesday. We know now that after July 4th Thorsby will have proven herself equal to the occasion. She knows no such word as fail.

CONGRESSMAN JEFFERS SPEAKS

Mr. Jeffers of Alabama. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the pending Ford proposal, providing for the completion and advantageous operation of the Muscle Shoals project, may be adversely affected or even defeated for all time by the passage of this proposed appropriation of $7,500,000 for the continuation of work at Muscle Shoals under Government supervision and control.

From the viewpoint of a staunch advocate of the Henry Ford offer, this proposed flat appropriation of $7,500,000, without any reference to pending offers for the Government properties at Muscle Shoals, is not wise and not justifiable. Rather than this procedure, let us have action by Congress on the Henry Ford offer.

My desire is to help all I can on any move or maneuver that will hold out any hope of action by Congress on the Ford proposal. The people all over this country of ours who are interested in the future welfare and progress of the agricultural people of the Nation want to see Henry Ford's proposed contract approved by this Congress, and I am for it. (Applause.)

Our people have said to us in unmistakable terms that they want Congress to "hurry up and approve the contract with Mr. Ford" for the great Muscle Shoals project, and they want us to work constantly to that end with a "never-say-die" spirit. (Applause.) If the leaders of the party in power in this House, and their steering committee and Rules Committee, will heed the urgent demands of the people of the country and give the House a chance to express itself on the Ford proposal, I feel sure that the House will go on record as favoring its approval. All we want is that the House be given that chance. (Applause.)

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to extend my remarks in the Record.

The Speaker. The gentleman from Alabama asks unanimous consent to extend his remarks in the Record. Is there objection. (After a pause.) The Chair hears none.

MUSCLE SHOALS ADVOCATES GAIN POINT IN HOUSE

$7,500,000 Appropriation For Wilson Dam Work Delayed Until Fall

Advocates of prompt action on the Ford offer for Muscle Shoals scored victory in the House late yesterday.

By a vote of 135 to 105, the House adopted a substitute amendment by Representative James, Republican, of Michigan, under which a $7,500 000appropriation for renewing construction work on Wilson Dam will be delayed until October 1.

Previously the House had rejected a substitute amendment by Representative Huddlestn, Democrat, of Alabama, which would have withheld the appropriation until January 1, 1923.

The House action yesterday indicates that supporters of the Ford offer may be successful in their efforts to secure final consideration and action on the Ford proposition at this session of Congress.

The vote on the James substitute was a blow to administration leader

A CALL FOR BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

At Clanton, Ala., 10 O'clock, A. M. July 20, 1922.

In accord with the suggestion of the Baptist of Chilton and Unity Association, also the Southern Baptist Convention, the County Sunday School Convention of Chilton County and the Unity Association, are hereby called to meet at the above place and date, July 20, 1922.

We urge each Baptist Sunday School to elect and send at least 4 delegates.

Brethren, this is your work—attend to it.

C. REESE MULLINS

--- PLATFORM ---

Candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County
In the Coming
DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY ELECTION
On August 8th, 1922.

1st. I believe in a majority of the white people ruling the affairs of this County, State and Nation, and the negro having no voice.

2nd. I believe in the cooperation of our County Officials with our State Officials, in keeping our schools up to the present standard and to gradually improve them as fast as possible, which I believe can be done with less taxes than we are now paying.

3rd. I am in favor of improving our roads and keeping them up better, which I am sure can be done with less money, if properly managed

4th. I am in favor of a reduction in our tax rate of at least one-fourth or more, and abolishing all unnecessary offices, which will mean a saving to the tax payers of the County amounting to several hundred dollars annually.

5th. I am in favor of making it compulsory for every white man and woman in the State, between the ages of 21 and 45, to pay a poll tax, which would then entitle them to vote, and which would go to the education of their children

6th. I am in favor of all being taxed equally, I mean according to the values of their holdings. The farmer, the merchant, the banker and the corporation—let the corporations pay as well as the farmers and the others. Treat all alike and give all a fair deal.

7th. I am in favor of Henry Ford getting the Muscle Shoals property, which in my opinion would give to Alabama and to all the South new life, and make every old hill side in Alabama blossom like a rose, with cheap nitrate of soda.

8th. I heartily endorse the manner in which the old soldiers home and inmates are now cared for, and I would like to see the appropriation for them increased They fought our battles, and I am now in favor of them having the best of care.

9th. I am in favor of our County Superintendent of Education being elected by the people and also the County Treasurer.

10th. And last but not least, I am in favor of Woman Suffrage. I am glad to say that they can now vote, and that I was in favor of this from the beginning and did everything I could for its passage and voted for it; and especially I am in favor of women serving with our County Superintendent on our County School Board.

It is not my intention to make any speeches until after the primary on August 8th, but then I will be ready for a fair and open discussion of the issues of the day.

I will greatly appreciate and solicit your vote and influence.

Respectfully,
C. REESE MULLINS.

JACK CORIEY DEAD

OUR LITTLE BOY IS GONE

This week we have been called upon to drink to the very drugs the bitter cup of sorrow that has ever been presented to us before. Our darling little boy, Jack, after suffering almost constantly for the fourteen years of his gentle existence, came to the point where the frail little frame could stand no more, and God, in His infinite mercy, called him Home.

Owing to the condition of his health all his life long he could never [illegible] and mingle in the games and [illegible]lies of the other children, and he [illegible] the constant companion of [illegible] mama, and because of that [illegible] our lives that nothing will ever fill until we again [illegible]ther the hand of little Jack in ours [illegible]r beyond the river and start out on the eternal journey together.

We realize that God was good and merciful in calling him to heaven and humbly bow to His will; but the chastening rod has left marks upon our hearts that only the balm of death's dreamless sleep will erase.

Little Jack realized that death was [illegible] hand for days before the end [illegible], and with his darling eyes cast [illegible] in the silent watches of [illegible] night his precious lips whispered [illegible] prayers to the throne above.

When the final moment came he told us, "I am gone. Kiss me good [illegible]." And putting his loving arms around the neck of mama, he kissed [illegible], and turning to papa he clasped [illegible] neck and whispered, "Papa good-bye," and as we kissed his precious lips already icy cold in death [illegible] brave little spirit took its flight. [illegible] most triumphant death we have ever witnessed.

"The Lord giveth, and the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

Last Monday little Jack Corley [illegible] great beyond. [illegible] a child he had but few equals and no superiors. The Business Manager of The News will [illegible] remember his pleasant smile and [illegible] profound respect displayed by [illegible] superb little man. He was a constant companion of his father and in all probability no words of consolation can fill the aching hearts of his esteemed father and mother. It can be truly stated that they did all in their power both day and night, to prolong the life of this heroic child [illegible] are reminded of the fact in observing this child's life since we have [illegible] love what we suffer for, and no par[illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Corley have done for this child since he has been an invalid all of his life.

MT. NEBO

The singing society met Sunday afternoon with a very good crowd. [illegible] for the afternoon were [illegible]ers Sam Henley, Sim Henley, [illegible]nry Scott, Mr. Stevens, Mesdames Glennie and Eula Culp and Miss An[illegible] Culp. We had a quartette by [illegible]dames Glennie and Eula Culp and Messrs Henley and Stevens. All singers and lovers of music are invited to come and take part in the singing. We are always glad to have good singers with us.

The society meets every second and fourth Sunday afternoons.

The biggest line of summer Millinery in town will be found at Elmore's and priced special for Saturday's selling.

CARD OF THANKS

We have never before so fully realized the pitiful inadequacy of our language and the utter impossibility of putting into words the deep gratitude of our hearts, as we do at this moment.

The wonderful thoughtfulness, the gracious sympathy and the timely and most efficient aid rendered to us by the good people of Clanton during the sickness, death and burial of our precious little boy, Jack, is something that savors more of heaven than of earth. We are overwhelmed with gratitude to you every one. Our hearts are overflowing with a realization of how great and how glorious a thing the sympathy of such friends as these we have learned to know in Clanton can be. Even to the hour when our feet will splash the cold water of the river of death, and over beyond, in the land where little Jack is now resting up from his long years of suffering here, our hearts will treasure the memory of your kindness and our most earnest prayers will cluster around the throne of grace that the great and merciful God may always guard, bless, keep and save you every one.

Grateful yours,
Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Corley.

ISABELLA NEWS

People are interested in the things to which they give some of their time or strength or money. The reason some people are not interested in understanding Christ's Kingdom in the world is that they are doing nothing to help it on. They do not give to the church. Their children do not go to church or Sunday School. They do not count in the great things which God is trying to get done in the world through the service of his people. If you want your children to be Christian men and women, put some time in home training, show them you are interested in the things of God. Put some time and energy and pay something to the church, and your conscience will not lash you so.

The program and home coming day that was announced for the Fourth Sunday in June, has been changed to the Second Sunday in July at Mulberry Baptist Church. Let us not forget.

The friends of Mrs. W. T. White are anxious about her, as she has been operated on for appendicitis at Clanton's new hospital. Let us pray for her recovery.

Mrs. D. O. Manning, with her two daughters of Birmingham Mrs. Ava Tucker and Mrs. Flossie Wells, are visiting her sister of Jasper.

We are glad that Mrs. Maud De Shazo has greatly recovered from her recent illness. We feel that it was an answer to prayer.

It was sad to see a much larger crowd at the ball game of this community than at church for regular service. Let us appeal to the ball team leaders to arrange the ball playing so it will not interfere with the church service.

Rev. R. T. Gilbert had so recovered from his recent illness that he was able to fill his pulpit at Isabella last Sunday, and preached for one hour and a half with soul filling food. His lesson was from Acts, Paul before Agrippa. Agrippa said, Paul, thou almost persuadest me to be a Christian.

NEW HOMES BUILT

Another building boom seems about to materialize in Clanton. Quite a number of nice bungaloes are going up. We learn that Mr. Watts Moore is having a couple of neat homes erected on Second Avenue. They will be valuable additions to the residental section for both of them are real close in to the heart of the town and will be unusually popular to people engaged in business.

Mr. Tom Rockett of Coopers is also about to finish up a splendid home for himself down near the high school building. This means that Clanton will gain another substantial citizen and clever man.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that Henry Bice, who was convicted at the fall term 1916 of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, for murder and sentenced for a term of 30 years, in the State penitentiary, will make application to the State Board of Pardons for his parole.

UNIONS ARE HELD SUABLE

Decision Reverses Damage Verdict Against United Mine Workers As Not Responsible

Washington.—Deciding the celebrated Coronado coal case, the Supreme court held that labor organizations, although unincorporated, are amenable to the Sherman anti-trust act, and that under it such organizations may be prosecuted for restraint of interstate commerce. The court also held that labor unions are suable. Chief Justice Taft, in announcing the decision, did not indicate any dissent.

The case which presented the questions passed on by the court was an appeal by the United Mine Workers of America, district No. 21, of that organization and its officers, 27 local unions and their officers and 65 individuals, some of the latter not members of any union, from a decision by the United States district court of Arkansas, approved by the circuit court of appeals, holding them guilty of violating the Sherman anti-trust act during the coal mine strikes in Arkansas in 1914, and imposing damages of $200,000 which were trebled under the anti-trust law.

The effect of the decision will be to set aside the damages, because of the finding that the acts which caused the destruction of property were not incited for the purpose of restraining interstate commerce.

During the strike, lawlessness prevailed and property damage was done the Coronado and other mines controlled by the Bache-Denman Coal company. The United Mine Workers of America contested the jurisdiction of the federal courts on the ground that being an unincorporated association of mine workers, it was not subject to prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law.

Five questions were presented by the controversary, Chief Justice Taft said:

1. Whether there had been a correct selection of the parties to be sued.
2. Whether the parties not being incorporated were subject to suit.
3. Whether the United Mine Workers of America had been engaged in a conspiracy or in the destruction of property for which that organization and its officers could be held liable.
4. Whether there was evidence to show that the conspiracy alleged did restrain or monopolize interstate commerce.
5. Whether thetri al court, in charging the jury, had coerced them into returning the verdict.

There had been no misjoinder of the parties under the laws of Arkansas, where the case was tried, the Supreme court held.

EMBARGO ON SOUTHERN PRODUCE PROTESTED

Washington.—Before Commissioners Potter and Atchesino and Director Roth of the interstate commerce commission's service bureau, New York City, and the port of New York authority, presented arguments and objections against an embargo on shipments into New York of Southern Produce and potatoes ordered by Pennsylvania railroad, effective at midnight, June 5. The railroad proposed to hold all such consigned freight for New York at Kearney, N. J., instead of transporting it across the river in the customary fashion to piers 28 and 29.

Pope Pius Economizing All Expenses

Rome.—Pope Pium is showing his powers of organization and economy even in small matters, drawing the pure strings of the vatican much closer than his predecessor. Benedict XV approved with slight examination the estimates for upkeep. Pius has fixed 500 lire, equal to about $26 monthly for ordinary small repairs, and has appointed a committee to examine every detail and see whether it is asbosultely necessary.

Lillian Russell Dies At Pittsburg, Pa.

Pittsburg.—Mrs. Lillian Russell-Moore, wife of Alexander P. Moore, publisher of the Pittsburg Leader, and noted stage beauty of a score and more years past, died of heart failure at her home here after an illness of several days.

Five Men Killed In Powder Explosion

Oakland, Calif.—Five men are dead three badly injured and a dryer wrecked as the result of an explosion at the Trojan Powder company plant at San Lorenzo, eleven miles from this city.

American Vessel Seized By British

London.—A steamer bound from New York for Fenit, county Kerry, Ireland, with corn and a mixed cargo, has been held up in Tralee bay by a British sloop, says a dispatch to the Press association from Tralee. A large quantity of ammunition in barrels was seized, the dispatch says. A Central News dispatch says the steamer is the Seattle Spirit and she is now berthed at Fenit pier. The Seattle Spirit is a shipping board vessel built at Seattle in 1919. She sailed from New York May 18 for Cork.

Few U. S. Troops Will Stay On Rhine

Washington.—In compliance with requests from Germany and some of the allied powers, a small force of United States troops is to be retained at Coblenz, on the Rhine, beyond July 1, the date set originally for completion of United States evacuation of German territory. Secretary Weeks announced that decision has been reached to retain at Coblenz Major General Allen and two battalions of the eighth infantry, which had been scheduled to sail for home on the 30th of June.

PLEASANT GROVE

An interesting singing was held at this place Sunday. There was nothing to keep everyone from having a good time. Had a fine singing, good preaching and dinner plentiful for everybody. All those who didn't come to the singing missed something good.

Rev. Dykes preached an excellent sermon at this place, both Saturday and Sunday. Everyone in the house seemed to enjoy the sermon Sunday, and also the singing. The opening song was sung by the Chairman, Prof. James Franklin, and then prayer by Rev. Dykes.

Directors for the day were James Franklin, J. Z. Mims, Marion Cofer, Chester Maddox, Lum Scott, J. C. Veazey, Vester Campbell, Mardis Smitherman, Burl Martin, Mrs. Eddie Childress and C. C. Cobern, all five minutes each. We also had three quartettes by the Clanton quartette in the morning, which was enjoyed by all, and one in the afternoon by James Franklin, Chester Maddox, J. C. Veazey and Monroe Franklin, which seemed to be enteresting to all. Late in the afternoon we had one duett by Prof. James Franklin and his daughter, Mrs. Eddie Childress.

Organists for the day were Mrs. Eddie Childress, Mr. Willie Culp and Miss Nora Franklin. No. 196, "When the Singers Get Home," was sung by the chairman for the dismissing song, after which we were dismissed by Rev. Dykes.

So you see all who didn't come missed something good.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS NEXT MONDAY

There will be a Summer School in Seventh Grade room of Grammar School, beginning next Monday, July 3rd. It will be on the tuition basis and run strictly according to summer school methods namely, pupils will be in classroom only while their classes are in recitation. At all other times, pupils may be at home or out under the shade trees. Pupils need not come until time for their classes. Summer work is hard on both pupils and teacher and I have made the above rule so as to make it easy on all. Tuition Rates will be: In classes of three or more, 1 subject 6 weeks $6.00; 2 subjects 6 weeks $10.00. In classes less than three, 1 subject 6 weeks $7.50; 2 subjects 6 weeks $12.00. Tuition payable in advance on FIRST day. Decide for sure whether you want to go to school before you come, because if you "start in" and then "drop out" no money will be refunded.

Please see me as to what you want to study, so I can arrange a schedule.

WHY—

ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The soap, partially dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and thus forces the soap-film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air, thus forming a perfect sphere or ball at the moment the bubble is first made.

However, after the bubble has been floating for a few moments, the water drips down toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

Virginia Lee

Many will recall that during the World war there appeared on navy posters seeking recruits a very pretty girl—that was Virginia Lee. During the recent national beauty pageant at Atlantic City, Virginia was selected by President Harding as the most beautiful girl in the U. S. A. For years she has been playing in pictures and is regarded as one of the most handsome of the "movie" stars.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ANGELICA

ANGELICA, a name of much more substance than the pallid Angelea, is still one of the "angelic names" which feminine fancy delights to bestow on its girl children. It means, of course, "angelic" and seems difficult to reconcile with the behavior of some of the small daughters whom one finds bearing the name.

Angelos was a Greek word meaning "heavenly messenger," hence "angel." It first became a name in the Byzantium empire when it was bestowed as an epithet upon persons of surpassing beauty. It was applied most often as a masculine name and there was a Carmelite saint called Angelo, who established it as a baptismal name. In his honor, the feminine also became popular and Italian history records many instances of its use.

Angelica sprang to fame since it named the faithless lady of romance for whose sake Orlando lost his heart and his senses. Though she was the invention of Boiardo and Ariosto, the romantic flavor which the story gave her name brought Angelica to instant favor. England liked the name and adopted it. In France it became Angelique, and Italy produced the other forms of Angioletta and Anzilleta, though Angelica continued the reigning favorite.

Angelica's talismanic gem is the pearl. It guards the purity and sweetness of her, brings her friends, and much charm. Sunday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

TRAIN JERKS ARE NECESSARY

Supreme Court Says Ordinary Jerks Not Negligence of Employes.

Montgomery -The ordinary jerks of a railroad train cannot be called negligence on the part of employees of the railroad when a person is killed or injured as a result of such jerks under a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of John Barton, director general of railroads, versus Willie S. Crawford, from the Jefferson Circuit Court. The plaintiff's husband, Harry F. Crawford, was killed when a jerk of the train threw him under the wheels. A jury gave her a judgment for $4,000. The Supreme Court, after reviewing the evidence, held that there was nothing to indicate that the jerk was any greater than is necessary in the operation of a train, took judicial knowledge of the fact that perks are necessary and decided the lower court committed error when it did not give an affirmative charge in favor of the defendant.

To Fight Bean Beetle

Mulga—Some difficulty is being experienced by the gardeners and truck growers in this section in their efforts in trying to successfully fight the bean beetle, due to the continued rains. It is said that every application of remedies to check their destructive work is soon destroyed by a rain and in many gardens and truck farms they are rapidly destroying the bean crop.

New Peach Appears.

Albany—"The Eubanks Prospect" is the name of a new peach which has made its appearance here. According to J. Y. Newton, on whose place the tree is located, it was bought from a Mr. Eubanks, who lives in Prospect, Tenn., was brought here last January, set out, and already has borne ripe fruit. "That's speed," was Mr. Newton's only comment.

Biscuit Demonstration.

Childersburg—Miss Harriett E. Plowden, Talladega County Home Demonstrator, and Miss Willis, assistant state demonstrator from Auburn, gave a biscuit contest for the Girls Canning Club. Alice McSherdan made the highest score and will represent this club at the County Short Course in Talladega, July 5 to 8.

Auburn Buys Jerseys.

Auburn—The purchase of three excellent Jersey cows by the Experiment Station from the famous W. J. Ezell herd, Lowisburg, Tennessee, is announced by Prof. J. C. Grimes, head of the Animal Husbandry Department. They were selected by William Hardie, Dairy Specialist for the Extension service, a few days ago.

Baby Born With Teeth.

Gadsden—Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith, who reside on Lookout Mountain near the city, are the proud parents of a daughter born Monday, which has a full set of teeth. Otherwise the child is normal. It has fully developed front and back teeth, according to those who have examined it.

Screening Law Upheld.

Montgomery—Birmingham's city ordinance requiring the screening of fruit stands and meat markets as a general protection against flies were upheld in a decision by the supreme court in the case of N. A. Barrett, et al, versus Frank Rietta, et al, appealed from the Jefferson Circuit Court.

To Build Highways.

Decatur—The Morgan County Board of Revenue is meeting at the courthouse to give the final touches to arrangements for the issuance of road bonds totalling $409,000. The work is expected to begin early next month. It is the plan of the board to begin work in each of the commissioner's districts simultaneously. The county projects will be built in addition to the ones contemplated by the state and federal governments.

SENATE GETS BILL TO PROVIDE BONUS

BONUS MEASURE GOES TO CALENDAR AFTER PRESENTATION TO THE SENATE

PURELY AMERICAN MEASURE

First Effort To Present Bill Is Blocked By Senator Williams, Who Withholds His Consent

Washington.—The soldiers' bonus bill has been formally presented to the senate after a first effort by Chairman McCumber of the finance committee to report it at the opening of the session had been blocked by Senator Williams, of Mississippi.

Senator Williams was absent from the senate when Senator McCumber presented the measure for the second time, but came into the chamber a few minutes afterward. The presentation followed a quorum call and was without discussion. The bill automatically went to the senate calendar.

In attempting to offer the bill soon after the senatem et, Senator McCumber said that "in the very near future I hope to be able to lay aside the tariff bill for a day or so for the purpose of considering and passing, if possible the compensation bill."

He added: "In the soldiers' compensation bill, we have nothing but an American bill. I hope we shall be able to dispose of it as an American measure in the same spirit that we voted for appropriations to carry on the war."

Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic leader, expressed the hope that when the bill was called up it would be a vote of the senate, and that unanimous consent for its consideration would not be requested. He said if it was proposed to pass the bill at this session it might be as well considered now as in July or in August.

"I should be very glad," he added, "if the bill went over until after the election so that the American people might have an opportunity to voice their sentiments on the subject."

Senator Underwood said he felt that the bonus bill, if passed, "will not only work injury to the American people, but will, in the end, work an injury to the men whom it proposes to help.

McPARLAND LEADS BARRET IN RACE FOR PRINTER HEAD

Indianapolis, Ind.—Official tabulation of the vote cast in more than seven hundred cities for the election of officers of the International Typographical Union has begun here by the union's board of canvassers, with indications that only two changes in the results as shown by unofficial tabulations were possibilities. The board did not expect to complete its work under a week.

No announcement was made of the complete unofficial votes, but with only the votes of a few unions missing the tabulation showed William R. Trotter of Vancouver had a lead of less than two hundred over James J. Hoban of Cleveland, candidate for re-election as second vice-president, while William O'Leary of Boston needed to gain few more than one hundred votes to be third choice as one of the three trustees chosen for the union printer's home. Malcolmn Knock of Boston had the slightest lead over O'Leary

The re-election of John McParland of New York as president by approximately forty-five hundred votes over Walter W. Barrett was assured by the unofficial vote, as was also the election of Charles Howard of Detroit as first vice-president over D. I. Campbell of Norfolk, Va. J. W. Hays of Minneapolis also was shown as winning re-election as secretary-treasurer, defeating William H. Towne of Duluth

Auhtority Given For German Loan

Paris.—The allied reparations committee by a three to one vote, overriding France's negative ballot, gave the bankers' committee full authority to propose an international loan for Germany on any basis the committee thinks desirable. The bankers, however, indicated their disposition not to take any action that would be in opposition to the French government's wishes.

U. S. Arbitration Asked By Chileans

Washington.—Without accepting the Peruvian proposal to arbitrate the questions of a plebiscite in Tacna-Arica, the Chilean delegation to the Chilean-Peruvian conference here presented a counter proposal under which the plebiscite would be held and the United States would act as arbitrator of the plebiscite conditions. The Peruvians are understood to have rejected this suggestion, insisting that the whole question of whether a plebiscite is to be held should be submitted to the arbitrator.

G. A. R. Would Return Dixie Banners

Minneapolis, Minn.—Without recommendation, the Minnesota encampment of the G. A. R. referred to regimental associations holding Confederate battleflags a proposal that these flags be returned to their original owners to be burned in Fourth of July celebrations. The proposal was discussed by the encampment in closed session, and a resolution "urging return" of the Confederate flags was not put to a vote. Instead, it was voted to refer it without action of the organization directly interested. [illegible]

Candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County
In the Coming
DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY ELECTION
On August 8th, 1922.

1st. I believe in a majority of the white people ruling the affairs of this County, State and Nation, and the negro having no voice.

2nd. I believe in the cooperation of our County Officials with our State Officials, in keeping our schools up to the present standard and to gradually improve them as fast as possible, which I believe can be done with less taxes than we are now paying.

3rd. I am in favor of improving our roads and keeping them up better, which I am sure can be done with less money, if properly managed.

4th. I am in favor of a reduction in our tax rate of at least one-fourth or more, and abolishing all unnecessary offices, which will mean a saving to the tax payers of the County amounting to several hundred dollars annually.

5th. I am in favor of making it compulsory for every white man and woman in the State, between the ages of 21 and 45, to pay a poll tax, which would then entitle them to vote, and which would go to the education of their children.

6th. I am in favor of all being taxed equally, I mean according to the values of their holdings. The farmer, the merchant, the banker and the corporation—let the corporations pay as well as the farmers and the others. Treat all alike and give all a fair deal.

7th. I am in favor of Henry Ford getting the Muscle Shoals property, which in my opinion would give to Alabama and to all the South new life, and make every old hill side in Alabama blossom like a rose, with cheap nitrate of soda.

8th. I heartily endorse the manner in which the old soldiers home and inmates are now cared for, and I would like to see the appropriation for them increased. They fought our battles, and I am now in favor of them having the best of care.

9th. I am in favor of our County Superintendent of Education being elected by the people and also the County Treasurer.

10th. And last but not least, I am in favor of Woman Suffrage. I am glad to say that they can now vote, and that I was in favor of this from the beginning and did everything I could for its passage and voted for it; and especially I am in favor of women serving with our County Superintendent on our County School Board.

It is not my intention to make any speeches until after the primary on August 8th, but then I will be ready for a fair and open discussion of the issues of the day.

I will greatly appreciate and solicit your vote and influence. Respectfully,

C. REESE MULLINS.

[illegible] D. Messer has our thanks [illegible] to peaches this week.

All candidates [illegible] weeks until [illegible] day dawns.

The [illegible] in New [illegible] filled all [illegible]

The [illegible] year came [illegible] of the [illegible] what went with it.

W[illegible] [illegible] serious [illegible]?

Col. [illegible] heard from when the vote is counted. It is possible that [illegible] surprise may be pulled off in Alabama politics.

Our machine is to be here this week and we hope it will not disappoint us. We are going to do our best to give you the most readable paper in Central Alabama after we get it installed.

It is the imperative duty of every democratic man and woman in Chilton county to vote in the primary. You owe it to yourself, your children and the South to rally to the cause.

The legitimate fruits of the anti-lynching bill are being handed [illegible] the public daily [illegible] you ever close your eyes in peaceful slumber again if you endorse that bill by your ballot?

It will be a mighty difficult matter to make the average voter see how he is benefitted when he has to pay from $7.50 to $10.00 more for a suit of clothes under the benign workings of the Fordney tariff law.

If the solid labor vote in the United States does not repudiate the republican party at the polls in November it will demonstrate clearly the fact that they do not need any sympathy.

Wonder how the labor vote of the United States feel now after throwing down the democratic party two years ago and tying their kite to republican promises. Experience teaches a dear school but some of us can't learn any where else.

Watch the daily papers. The crime of rape is already alarmingly on the increase owing to the approaching enactment of the Dyer anti-lynching bill. No matter how much political prejudice you may have in your system you cannot deny to your own conscience the truth of this statement.

The editor and family wish to extend their sincere thanks to Mr. W. A. Candler for some of the finest roasting ears we have seen this year. He is a good farmer, a good citizen and a good democrat. No one can claim a finer pedigree than that.

The Dyer anti-lynching bill has been recommended for passage by the joint conference committee and will doubtless become a law in August when Congress reconvenes. You can no longer delude yourself with the hope that it will not become a law. It is an assured fact now. The fight has been made but the republican majority was too large for the democrats to save us. How on earth can a Southern man or woman vote with a party that will insult the land of their birth and home with such a vile and awful law as that? Actually putting a price on the virtue and chastity of our women [illegible]! Let us implore you, good people, to wake up and think!

Let's Be Reasonable.

It strikes us as a pitiful begging of the question and a ridiculous attempt to manufacture campaign prejudice when any candidate, or other person, undertakes to build up an argument in Chilton County local affairs on the assumption that the political creed of any candidate has anything whatever to do with his personal fitness or qualification for office. We hardly believe there is a candidate in the republican party in Chilton county who is prepared to publicly make the statement that because a man is a democrat it necessarily follows that he is either a crook or an imbecile. We believe they will all agree with us that the political complexion of a man's creed does not have a single thing on earth to do with his personal honesty, integrity or business ability.

The local affairs of Chilton are personal with the people who live in the county, and the political differences that exist as between the two great political parties of the nation, have no more bearing on the proper or improper, the honest or the dishonest administration of the affairs of this county, than does a dew drop in Texas have on a drouth in Alabama.

Any person who attempts to create the impression that an honest democratic administration in the county would be any different from an equally honest republican administration, so far as service or efficiency are concerned, is either woefully dense or else is making a broad insinuation as to his estimate of the intelligence of the public.

We do not oppose the gentlemen who are offering for office on the republican ticket because we do not consider them honest and capable. We do not feel like their republican predilections have made grand rascals out of them, but do feel like they are mistaken in attempting to perpetuate a party in our county that puts us out of touch, step and sympathy with the political sentiment that does now, and will for many years to come, rule and predominate throughout our State and the great section of which we are a part.

It can not be good business policy to do so. We cannot fight and abuse the great body of people among whom we live and expect the recognition, the cooperation and the assistance we would naturally receive if we were in harmony and accord with them. The past policy of Chilton county, from a business stand point, has been absolutely suicidal.

Let's try to be reasonable and logical in this campaign and treat the public as intelligent, rational people. Let's give them a reason at all times for the faith that is in us, and discard absolutely everything that savors of misrepresentation or falsehood. Democrats have nothing to fear from the full lime light of truth and sincerity and all we ask is a fair verdict of the people on facts.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that Henry Bice, who was convicted at the fall term 1916 of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama, for murder and sentenced for a term of 30 years, in the State penetentiary, will make application to the State Board of Pardons for his parole.

[illegible] ON TRAIN NO. 3

Some of the First Fruits Of the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill.

Birmingham Age-Herald:- July 3.

Conquered at the hands of H. S. Cook, Pullman conductor, after he had attempted to criminally assault a prominent young Montgomery woman on L. & N. train No. 3 enroute from Nashville to Birmingham, W. E. Hays, negro waiter, was taken from the passenger train shortly after noon, when it reached Birmingham, and placed in the city jail.

The negro was removed from the car by an officer on telegraphic instructions from Cullman where the alleged crime is said to have been attempted.

Closely guarded at the city prison, the accused black is denied all callers, and newspapermen were turned from his cell, and any information except that he is being held for authorities of Cullman was the only official statement issued.

According to Conductor Cook, Hays who was serving patrons of the dining car at lunch, was clearing off the tables just before the train pulled out of Cullman. Being the last person to leave the diner, the young woman was followed by the black to the rest room. Just as she closed the door behind her the waiter forced himself into the compartment, but was repulsed. The infuriated black retreated only to make a second attempt to force his attentions upon the young woman, the second time pounding his way through the door by throwing himself bodily against it. Despite the cries for help from his victim, the attacker seized the young woman and was scuffling with her in his arms when Conductor Cook, by fistic encounter, subdued him and freed the woman from his grasp.

Hays, a black, brutal appearing mass of giant structure, when brought before officials of the central station declared that he did not lay his hands on the woman, but admitted forcing his way into the rest chamber after the passengers had left the diner. He gave no reasons for his enforced attentions but admitted that he asked her if she was a northern woman and then perhaps, realizing the seriousness of the offense for which he is now charged, said his conduct was not unbecoming and he only wished to know if she would go riding with him when they reached Montgomery.

The negro has been returned from Cullman to the Birmingham jail for safe keeping.

What do you suppose Dyer, the notorious father of the lynching bill, would say if the young lady assaulted on the train Sunday had been his daughter? That would settle the question of whether he is a real red blooded white man or a mixed breed mongrel monstrocity as his bill would indicate.

The luscious watermelon has made its appearance on our streets from the local farms. At present they are extremely exclusive and associate only among the aristocrats, but that's all right. In a few weeks they'll be glad to take up with any old bum if he can rough up a dime or even a jitny.

A little old city election is due to come off here in September. Pick out your men, make up your ticket and vote for the men who you believe will give us the best and most fearless service. Show the world, through your city government, that you stand absolutely for the moral, the clean and the fearless administration of law and order.

The government is threatening to take over the coal mines unless the miners go back to work. What good will that do unless they reverse themselves and grant the demands of the men? They wont work for the government any cheaper than they will for anyone else.

MUSIC TEACHERS

An examination for certificates to teach music in the pubic schools of this state will be held at the County high school building on Monday, July 17, 1922. A fee of $2 will be collected from each applicant for music certificate.

WHY—

ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The soap, partially dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and thus forces the soap-film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air, thus forming a perfect sphere or ball at the moment the bubble is first made.

However, after the bubble has been floating for a few moments, the water drips down toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

TRAIN JERKS ARE NECESSARY

Supreme Court Says Ordinary Jerks Not Negligence of Employes.

Montgomery—The ordinary jerks of a railroad train cannot be called negligence on the part of employees of the railroad when a person is killed or injured as a result of such jerks under a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of John Barton, director general of railroads, versus Willie S. Crawford, from the Jefferson Circuit Court. The plaintiff's husband, Harry F. Crawford, was killed when a jerk of the train threw him under the wheels. A jury gave her a judgment for $4,000. The Supreme Court, after reviewing the evidence, held that there was nothing to indicate that the jerk was any greater than is necessary in the operation of a train, took judicial knowledge of the fact that perks are necessary and decided the lower court committed error when it did not give an affirmative charge in favor of the defendant.

To Fight Bean Beetle.

Mulga—Some difficulty is being experienced by the gardeners and truck growers in this section in their efforts in trying to successfully fight the bean beetle, due to the continued rains. It is said that every application of remedies to check their destructive work is soon destroyed by a rain and in many gardens and truck farms they are rapidly destroying the bean crop.

New Peach Appears.

Albany—"The Eubanks Prospect" is the name of a new peach which has made its appearance here. According to J. Y. Newton, on whose place the tree is located, it was bought from a Mr. Eubanks, who lives in Prospect, Tenn., was brought here last January, set out, and already has borne ripe fruit. "That's speed," was Mr. Newton's only comment.

Biscuit Demonstration.

Childersburg—Miss Harriett E. Plowden, Talladega County Home Demonstrator, and Miss Willis, assistant state demonstrator from Auburn, gave a biscuit contest for the Girls Canning Club. Alice McSherdan made the highest score and will represent this club at the County Short Course in Talladega, July 5 to 8.

Auburn Buys Jerseys.

Auburn—The purchase of three excellent Jersey cows by the Experiment Station from the famous W. J. Esell herd, Lewisburg, Tennessee, is announced by Prof. J. C. Grimes, head of the Animal Husbandry Department. They were selected by William Hardie, Dairy Specialist for the Extension service, a few days ago.

Baby Born With Teeth.

Gadsden—Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith, who reside on Lookout Mountain near the city, are the proud parents of a daughter born Monday, which has a full set of teeth. Otherwise the child is normal. It has fully developed front and back teeth, according to those who have examined it.

Screening Law Upheld.

Montgomery—Birmingham's city ordinance requiring the screening of fruit stands and meat markets as a general protection against flies were upheld in a decision by the supreme court in the case of N. A. Barrett, et al, versus Frank Rietta, et al, appealed from the Jefferson Circuit Court.

To Build Highways.

Decatur—The Morgan County Board of Revenue is meeting at the courthouse to give the final touches to arrangements for the issuance of road bonds totalling $409,000. The work is expected to begin early next month. It is the plan of the board to begin work in each of the commissioner's districts simultaneously. The county projects will be built in addition to the ones contemplated by the state and federal governments.

THE BLOOMER GIRLS FAIL TO BLOOM IN CLANTON

(By Steve Hardee)

Last Friday afternoon Clanton met the Western Bloomer Girls, when about 300 people witnessed the game.

Those who expected the girls to defeat Clanton were badly disappointed, as Clanton had a "walk-away" from start to finish, scoring 7 runs to the girls 1. There were only 4 girl members of the team, the rest being made up of men.

The girls played only a little better than the average girl, although they appeared to understand the game thoroughly.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Pyron, making fourteen take three healthy swings at the air, out of the 36 who faced him.

Following is the box score:

THORSBY CELEBRATES FOURTH IN TRUE AMERICAN SPIRIT

The people of Thorsby did not fail to celebrate the famous day in American History last Tuesday. The decorations and floats were fully in accord with true Americanism.

The parade was put on in the very best of style and order. The various secret orders, Chamber of Commerce, Ladies Guild, Parent-Teachers Association, Thorsby Tribuse, marched in the parade. Not less than 1500 people were in the town to do honor to the time place and occasion.

At the morning hour Hon. H. P. Burriss delivered an inspiring address suitable for the occasion. Next Col. Zack I. Drake made a timely speech, full of wit and humor as well as highly appropriate for the occasion. After this Judge L. H. Reynolds made a few remarks. Mr. Burriss served one term as City Commissioner of Birmingham and Col. Drake is one of the leading attorneys of Birmingham.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for State Senator for the 15th Senatorial District, of the State of Alabama, composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton, and Shelby, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held Aunust, 8th 1922.

SINGING AT PLEASANT GROVE

Last Sunday a large audience congregated at Pleasant Grove Church to engage in and listen to an old time singing from the days when the "Christian Harmony" was the song book for excellence.

Mr. W. J. Morris was elected chairman and called the meeting to order at 9:30. Directors for the forenoon were Messrs W. J. Morris, T. J. Baker, Mr. Lolly and Mrs. Sara Bates, all of whom distinquished themselves as being thoroughly familiar with the quaint peculiarities of the old time system of song.

At 11 o'clock Rev. C. D. Messer was called on for a sermon and, with his accustomed force and vigor, he gave the audience a most timely and spirited discourse that was graciously received. After the sermon came dinner and here the writer must invoke the aid of your imagination in picturing to your mind what a suberb repast was spread—enough for everybody and to spare.

The afternoon session was given over to music ferver "ye olden tyme" again, the exercises being directed in turn by Messrs Henderson, Lolly, Williams, Maddox and Hayes. Until late in the afternoon the audience sat thrilled by those good old songs of long ago and there came the good byes and the earnest wish of all for many, many more good, happy, helpful days like this Sunday.

HOME COMING DAY AT MULBERRY

Last Sunday the people of the Mulberry community gave a Home Coming Service at their church that was one of the most perfect and delightful occassions of the kind we have ever attended.

The forenoon was given over to the children for their exercises, which were beautifully carried out and were most impressive. Mr. T. L. LeCroy deliveded an address on Home Coming which was replete with truth and pathos. In conducting the Children's services, under the guidance of Rev. B. Lawrence, all present repaired to the cemetery, which had been thoroughly cleaned off, when flowers in great profusion and loveliness were tastefully arranged on all the graves.

This was a most timely and beautiful service and did great credit to the children and the grown-ups who arranged it.

The noon hour having arrived the baskets were opened and a great spread of dinner, consisting of all the good things you can think of, was laid out and all present invited to come up and partake. By the way, any young man who wants a wife should look for her among the lovely girls of the Mulberry neighborhood if he wants a good cook in the bargain.

The afternoon was given up to Sunday school discussion. Mr. J. L. Johnson came first on the program and spoke to the subject: "The Duty of Parents to the Sunday School."

Prof. H. A. Harris followed with a splendid and timely talk on the "Opportunities of Young People," which was highly commended.

Mr. J. J. Pickens was next on the program and his subject was: "Individual Responsibility." The speaker was in hearty sympathy with his subject and entertained the large audience with some splendid ideas and gems of thought.

Altogether the occasion was a grand success in every detail and we congratulate those good people out there on their "Home Coming Services."

PREACHING AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

We are requested to announce that Rev. Ezell, of Eatonton, Ga., will preach at the First Baptist Church here next Sunday.

Everybody is most cordially invited to come out and listen to this distinguished minister at 11 o'clock, A. M.

MT. NEBO

The singing society met at this place Sunday afternoon with a small crowd.

Directors for the afternoon were: Messrs Billingsley, Popwell, Scott and Henley, Miss Annie Culp and Mrs. Glennie Culp.

We had a quartette by Messrs Anderson and Popwell and Mesdames Scott and Culp.

Organists for the afternoon were Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Zella Scott.

We invite all singers and lovers of music to come and be with us.

DIES SUDDENLY

This morning the sad intelligence reached us that Mr. J. C. Alred, father of Messrs "Bud" and J. Hance Alred, had passed away suddenly at 12:30 last night. Impaired circulation producing high blood pressure is supposed to have been the cause of death.

He was a long time resident of this community, a good citizen and numbered his friends by all who knew him. He had been complaining some for several days, but ploughed some yesterday in his farm.

The burial will take place in the morning at Samaria Church where he has been a member for many years.

BOLD HIGHWAYMAN

One of the cheekiest hold up men we have read about hit the little town of Coopers Tuesday night.

From the best information we can obtain this bold, bad man did not pick 'em. He stuck up everybody he came to and made no effort at concealment. After he had robbed several and got the excitement at fever heat, he walked down on the main street and sat down and chatted with the crowd, making no attempt to conceal from them either his identity or his business. Apparently no one wished to start anything with him so he was not molested. Sheriff Gore was communicated with here and he and Deputy Will Culp hurried to Coopers. Upon their arrival there they learned that their man had boarded a freight and started back north. The railroad operator informed them that the freight would take the siding at Falakto, 3 miles up the road. The officers jumped in their car and made it back to Falakto just as the train was puling in. They began to look for their man but so many "passengers" alighted in the grass and bushes along the road side they did not know which was which. In a few moments the train started to pull out and they noticed the momentary glimmer of a flash light in the edge of the swamp. They began to close in on this spot and sighted their man. They ordered him to surrender and fired a load of shot over his head. He returned the fire and broke through the swamp. A fusilade of lead was sent after him and a hot chase put up but he was too fleet of foot and made his escape.

The other "hobos" on the train said he robbed all of them he came to on the train as they came up from Coopers to Falakto.

He is said to be one Ira Grant. son of Mr. Luther Grant, of Chilton County. He carries two big guns and a flash light.

Mr. E. W. Taylor of Coopers, who some time ago graduated at Massey's Business College, is now a citizen of Clanton, having recently accepted a position with the Clanton Produce Company. Mr. Taylor is a worthy young man and you can always count on him doing the right thing.

Mrs. Sewell and her daughter, Miss Ethel, of Montgomery, visited Clanton friends this week.

Dr. Joe W. Johnson, of Chatanooga, Tenn., and son Joe W. Jr., spent several days recently with Mrs. P. D. Wilson, Dr. Johnson's sister. Dr. Johnson is President of the Inter State Life Insurance Company, located at Chatanooga. It will be recalled that Dr. Johnson was reared in this county. It is gratifying to his many friends to know that he has gone forth and achieved success along the pathway of life.

Are you troubled with insomnia? Try cleaning up your conscience before you retire.

Either the boll weevil or the cotton crop will win or loose in the next thirty days

The melons that have appeared on the local market so far are away below normal in size.

"Plain Bill" Brandon will probably address the voters of Chilton county this month. Watch for the announcement and come out.

Several prominent republican senators have suddenly turned over and are now endorsing the Ford bid. They must have heard from home.

The labor situation in these United States is getting to be a very live and dangerous wire for the government to handle.

Col. Bibb Graves has signified his intention of paying us a visit in the near future in the interest of his candidacy for governor. He will draw a good crowd.

Oil wells are getting to be so common out west that the local papers hardly give a new gusher more than a three line notice Still, gasoline goes right on up.

Melons are beginning to tumble from their high estate. The common person can afford to look, and in some instances, ask the price now.

A public man with plenty of brains and no judgement is equally as objectional as the fellow with plenty of tongue and no brains. Both varieties seem to thrive in the United States, however.

And the Bible says: "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God" Deut 22:5.

A great many people are certain they are going to heaven when they die just because they didn't steal anything and get caught, paid all the debts they couldn't beat, didn't get drunk in public and lived reasonably decent.

Tomatoes are getting plentiful now on the market and—as a consequence we are dead broke all the time. We are by tomatoes like the average negro is by watermelons—spend our last jitny for just a few more tomatoes.

The enginemen and firemen have discovered a way to go on a strike without striking. If they live up to their plans the railroad strike will most likely be settled this week or the sound of a train whistle will become only a memory pretty soon.

The Agricultural Department a Washington which is keeping close tab on the situation, reports that the average cost of living, after falling off in April and May 17 per cent from war time prices, has advanced again during June and July 8 per cent. How come? Somebody tell us.

Talking about tomatoes, that elegant basket full that Mrs. Ida Campbell gave us last week demonstrates the fact that they can still be raised to perfection if you only know how. The editor and family extend many thanks to Mrs. Campbell for this most kind rememberance. In quantity and quality they were all that could be desired. We thank you.

The Labor Troubles.

There is one peculiar, and we might say fortunate, thing in regard to most of the people in the South. We rarely borrow trouble, that is, we never trouble trouble until trouble troubles us So it is now in regard to the almost imminent revolution that is stalking abroad in the land.

About 1,000,000 coal miners are now, and have been for several months, on a strike. That industry is almost paralyzed in the north and west and greatly crippled in the south. Numerous outbreaks have occured and hundreds of lives have been sacrificed, first and last, in this conflict between labor and capital, and today we are no nearer a settlement of that controversy than when the strike was called. The operators refuse to make any concessions and most of them are on record as absolutely refusing to make any more contracts with any kind of organized labor.

The general government has intervened time after time and endeavored to bring about a settlement, but all their efforts have been abortive because they will not antagonize capital and labor will not yield further to a yoke of quasi slavery. So, there you are.

There looms on the horizen an even darker and more threatening cloud of revolution in the form of what is dangerously near being right now a general railroad strike. It is unwise to minimize the danger because the mine is charged and the fuse laid and lighted now that will result in a general walk out of 2,500,000 men and the stopping of all trains in operation in the United States, unless some kind of concession can be wrung from the railroad magnates, Do you visualize what a condition like that would mean? In perhaps a week every industrial enterprise in the country would be forced to close down and several more million people will be thrown out of employment. Then in a few weeks hunger will begin to pinch many of them and you will have made to order, one of the most terrible potential armies ever put in the field by the bloodiest revolution of history,

Can it be possible that our great system of a government of by and for the people will fail us and fall before the golden calf? Can not a free people successfully govern themselves?

As long as money can buy a seat in the Senate in opposition to the will of the people expressed at the ballot box, and as long as the presidents of the Woolen Association, the Fertilizer Trust, the Packers Association and the Manufacturers Association are invited or permitted to write our tariffs for us, in place of our duly elected congresamen, we can not expect anything else but strikes, hard times, idleness and finally anarchy and revolution,

Our heart is made sad this week by the passing of Editor E. W. Barrett, of the Birmingham Age-Herald. We knew him many years ago when he and we were both young men and reporting for the Atlanta Constitution. He was a fine young man then and the promise of his youth was nobly fullfilled by the success he achieved. Alabama, and especially the press, has indeed suffered an irreparable loss in the passing of Editor Barrett.

Why be Profane?

The Good Book says: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain."

Even the devil does not offer a single inducement, either in wealth, happiness, power, influence nor prestige for any one to profane the name of the Most High.

You make no friends nor add any weight to your arguments by sandwitching your conversation wit oaths, but you do forfeit the respect of all decent people.

Still, men and women, both young and old, will defile their lips and scorch their souls with blasphemy and for what? It is the most absolutely foolish form of soul suicide that one could imagine when you come to think about it. Don't you think so?

WHY—

ARE BUBBLES ROUND?

A SOAP bubble, to use as an example the most familiar kind of bubble, is merely a hollow ball of water with air inside. The soap, partially dissolved, forms a very thin film or skin over the air which is endeavoring to force its way through it. This air exerts an equal pressure in all directions and thus forces the soap-film out at an equal distance from the center of the compressed air, thus forming a perfect sphere or ball at the moment the bubble is first made.

However, after the bubble has been floating for a few moments, the water drips down toward the bottom of the ball and collects there in drops. The weight of these pull the bubble out of shape—spoil its perfect symmetry—and increase the pressure of the air inside to such a degree that it breaks through the film and the bubble bursts.

TRAIN JERKS ARE NECESSARY

Supreme Court Says Ordinary Jerks Not Negligence of Employes.

Montgomery—The ordinary jerks of a railroad train cannot be called negligence on the part of employees of the railroad when a person is killed or injured as a result of such jerks under a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of John Barton, director general of railroads, versus Willie S. Crawford, from the Jefferson Circuit Court. The plaintiff's husband, Harry F. Crawford, was killed when a jerk of the train threw him under the wheels. A jury gave her a judgment for $4,000. The Supreme Court, after reviewing the evidence, held that there was nothing to indicate that the jerk was any greater than is necessary in the operation of a train, took judicial knowledge of the fact that perks are necessary and decided the lower court committed error when it did not give an affirmative charge in [illegible] of the defendant.

To Fight Bean Beetle.

Mulga—Some difficulty is being experienced by the gardeners and truck growers in this section in their efforts in trying to successfully fight the bean beetle, due to the continued rains. It is said that every application of remedies to check their destructive work is soon destroyed by a rain and in many gardens and truck farms they are rapidly destroying the bean crop.

New Peach Appears.

Albany—"The Eubanks Prospect" is the name of a new peach which has made its appearance here. According to J. Y. Newton, on whose place the tree is located, it was bought from a Mr. Eubanks, who lives in Prospect, Tenn., was brought here last January, set out, and already has borne ripe fruit. "That's speed," was Mr. Newton's only comment.

Biscuit Demonstration.

Childersburg—Miss Harriett E. Plowden, Talladega County Home Demonstrator, and Miss Willis, assistant state demonstrator from Auburn, gave a biscuit contest for the Girls Canning Club. Alice McSherdan made the highest score and will represent this club at the County Short Course in Talladega, July 5 to 8.

Auburn Buys Jerseys.

Auburn—The purchase of three excellent Jersey cows by the Experiment Station from the famous W. J. Ezell herd, Lewisburg, Tennessee, is announced by Prof. J. C. Gadsden—Mr. and Mrs. Marton Smith, who reside on Lookout Mountain near the city, are the proud parents of a daughter born Monday, which has a full set of teeth. Otherwise the child is normal. It has fully developed front and back teeth, according to those who have examined it.

Screening Law Upheld.

Montgomery—Birmingham's city ordinance requiring the screening of fruit stands and meat markets as a general protection against flies were upheld in a decision by the supreme court in the case of N. A. Barrett, et al, versus Frank Rietta, et al, appealed from the Jefferson Circuit Court.

To Build Highways.

Decatur—The Morgan County Board of Revenue is meeting at the courthouse to give the final touches to arrangements for the issuance of road bonds totalling $409,000. The work is expected to begin early next month. It is the plan of the board to begin work in each of the commissioner's districts simultaneously. The county projects will be built in addition to the ones contemplated by the state and federal governments.

TWO BIG BUSINESS CONCERNS ORGANIZED IN ALABAMA

Montgomery—One of the biggest business concerns to be organized in Alabama in recent months, the Wellman Cotton Mill Company, of Athens, filed formal notice of its incorporation in the office of Secretary of State William P. Cobb. The company, which was incorporated by Shelby S. Fletcher and others, has an authorized capital stock of $200,000, with $90,000 paid in and will engage in the business of manufacturing cotton cloth, etc.

Another new concern of unusual proportions, the Alabama ElDorado Oil Co., of Montgomery, which has an authorised paid-in capital stock of $50,000, also filed articles of incorporation in the secretary of state's office. The incorporators are Sylvain Baum, I. F. Solomon, A. A. Hill and Julius Hesslein.

Station Name Change Asked.

Robertsdale—The citizens of Robertsdale, Baldwin County, appeared before the Public Service Commission, asking that the L. & N. R. R. be required to change the name of their station at Robertsdale and give it the name of the town. At present the railroad has this station named on its time tables as Silver Hill. It appeared from the evidence brought out that at the time of establishing the station, there was no town existing there, and the station was located to serve a town named Silver Hill, some three miles off the line and has never been changed, although there has now grown up around the station quite a substantial little town, which in the postal guide is named Robertsdale. The matter was heard at length and taken under advisement by the commission.

Law Enforcement Records.

Montgomery—A total of 322 arrests during May, reported to Governor Kidby by L. L. Phillips, chief state law enforcement officer, breaks all previous records of the state law enforcement department for a single month. Ninety-seven of the arrests, the reports of the department for May shows, were for violation of the prohibition law, 31 for operating a still and 20 for having a still in possession. There were 29 arrests on charges of vagrancy, the unusually large number for this offense being accounted for by the "clean-up" campaigns which were carried out during the month in various towns and communities. Ei[illegible] six stills were seized and d[illegible]ed also 36520 gallons of mash and 475 gallons of liquor.

Montgomery—Residents of Alabama's three largest cities, Montgomery, Birmingham and Mobile, are interested in a citation issued by the Alabama Public Service Commission. In this citation the commission calls on the Birmingham Railway, Light & Power Company, the Montgomery Light & Water Power Company and the Mobile Electric Company to show cause why their regulation which requires a deposit in advance by consumers for an etxension of gas mains or electric distributing lines should not be revised.

K. K. K. Ordinance Killed.

Birmingham—By unanimous vote the city commission of Birmingham refused to adopt an ordinance [illegible]posed by the Birmingham Bar [illegible]sociation and backed by nume[illegible], civic and commercial bodies prohibiting masked parades. F. J. M[illegible]burn, of Atlanta, who said he was a representative of the Ku Klux Klan made a lengthy argument against the proposed ordinance.

"Daddy" 33 Times.

Harlan—Arrival of a baby at the home of Robert Baker, 84 years old, a dairyman, was announced. At the same time it was said the advent of the new comer marked the thirty-third time Mr. Baker starred in the role of daddy. Mrs. Baker, who is 35, is his seventh wife. They have been married fourteen years. The seventh Mrs. Baker has presented her husband with eight children.

Montgomery School Bond Election.

Montgomery—An ordinance was adopted by the city commissioners calling for a resubmission of the $1,000,000 school bond issue to the voters of the city, the election to be held on July 10. The ordinance was introduced, the rules suspended and the adoption was unanimous.

Weevils Doing Damage.

Hartselle—Considerable apprehension is felt for the safety of the cotton plant. From some sections of the county there comes the report that the weevil is beginning to play on the young cotton plant.

Minor Sues Power Company.

Gadsden—Sarah Myrick, a minor, is suing the Alabama Power Company for $5,000 damages, alleging personal injury. The plaintiff alleges that she was struck by a street car and was cut and bruised from head to foot.

Killed By Lightning.

Florence—George Pittman, 18, of Gravely Springs, near [illegible] struck by lightning and instantly killed while working in a field.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY

Last Friday night some would-be candidate for penal servitude cut one of the screen windows entirely out at the store of Mr. Guy Roberts. He also cut a light wire that must have been in his way.

Mr. Roberts says he did not Miss anything from his store and thinks some passer by must have frightened the miscreant to such an extent that he lost his nerve and was afraid to crawl inside. Burglaries and holdups are getting to be very common everywhere now, and we guess Clanton will have to come in for her share.

C. REESE MULLINS WRITES TO VOTERS

Clanton, Ala., July 19, 1922.
Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.,
My Dear Sir:

I feel inclined just at this time to say a few words to the Democratic Party of this my native County, and the party and County I love so well. This letter I also extend to them that are becoming Democratically inclined, and will say to them that the Democratic party has laid down the bars. The door is wide open and we welcome them back home into the grand old Democratic party that is our friend. For this party I am glad to say that my family has stood flat footed, on Chilton County soil, and fought for seventy five years. Just at this time every loyal citizen, both men and women, are debating in their minds as to what is the proper and best step to take politically. In speaking to those who have been affiliating with the Republican party, I want to say to them that their interest, my interest and all our isterests, as I see it in every way, is better taken care of in the Democratic party, which is the only party that has ever done anything for the South; and why should we have two parties?

The Republican party in Chilton County has never risen above the county and never will, and you who are affiliating in this party will have no voice in the selection of any of the state officials, for they will all be on the Democratic ticket. A majority of you will never have a chance to hold an office in your party, as your leaders want you to do the voting and let them do the rest.

Twenty-five years ago we only had the one party, and everything running smooth as a ribbon. Now, what is the matter with the Democratic party? Why have you left this grand old party, the oldest and best one in the land today—the white man's party founded on the principle of the people, for the people and by the people. I don't care what you may call yourself, you are bound to admit that this is the right principle and that the white people should rule with the negro eliminated, and not the money power with the negro's help, which is the Republican party, and whose president says the negro should be fully equal with us politically. The Democratic party says no and I am sure we all agree. I am proud of my old party and I believe in its principles and one hundred per cent white Democracy, just like I believe in my God.

I shall never forget and never forsake the principles of this grand old party, taught me by my father and my mother, whose dear old lilly-white hands rocked me in a Democratic cradle. There are other reasons why I love and am proud of my party and that is for what they have done for this Southland of ours—to free us from negro equality, which was heaped upon us after the Civil War by the Republican party who was then in power. They had overpowered us, but thank God they never whipped us. Now, what did they do in 1868, just after the war when they were in power? They passed a law against the challenging of any man's vote and there was no provision as to color. What else did they do About this time they passed a law and had it written on the statute books of this State that it should be lawful for whites and blacks to inter-marry, and this law stood there until the Democratic party got back in power, and removed this law and had written instead on the statute books of this grand old State of ours that it should be unlawful for white people and negroes to marry. And thank God, it stands there until this good day and will stand for all time to come.

This was done by the Democratic party—the white man's party, and the party to which we should all belong. I can see no reason for you good people going on any further into the Republican party, and won't you stop, look, and consider for your selves. Now, you Republicans say, hold on there Mullins, we no more stand for negro equality than you and your party, but the difference between us is the tariff question. Well, now, lets see about that. You say we are better off with high tariff. This is a big question, but yet it is simple in a way. When you put high tariff on foreign trade, can't you see that you are giving to the money power and manufacturer of this country the advantage of the consumer, causing us to have to pay more for our manufactured goods than if only a reasonable tariff was charged, and let in the foreign manufacturer giving to us free trade and competition with the foreign countries, which is of vital importance to us all.

I say to you that the two parties are nearer together on this question than ever before, or they were until Mr. Harding's administration; but it seems now that he and all his bunch up there have gone wild again over high tariff and the negro, so you are bound to see that the Democrats are right on the tariff question. You are also bound to say and I believe you will agree with me that the Democrats are right on the negro question, but what does the President of this great country of ours and the leader of the Republican party say today about the negro. He comes right here in our midst and tells us to our face that the negro should be fully equal with us politically, and then follow this up by going back to Washington and appointing a negro as recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia to preside over thirty-three white women working in that department for an honest living.

The Republican Congressmen who are largely in majority today, seek to play into the colored lime-light by passing the Dyer or Anti-Lynching Bill, which in substance is this: If while you and I are away from home to-day, that if a brutal negro comes along and outrages your wife, your daughter, or mine, and if we should in the heat of passion, outraged by the brutish crime, catch this negro and swing him to a limb, that the innocent tax payers of this county must pay to that negro's family ten thousand dollars, and besides, the Sheriff of the County and all of his deputies automatically become charged with being accessories to the crime and subject to prosecution with a possible sentence of ninety-nine years in the penitentiary. Are you going to remain in and support a party like this. I say no, that you are not going to stand it any longer, but that you are coming back home to the old Democratic party—the white man's party.

I want to say just here that I am glad the ladies can vote now, for I know they will not stand by and support a party like that. I have always been in favor of women suffrage. But some men seem to think that ladies haven't enough judgment to vote, but I want to tell you right now, if I had as much sense as my mother, you would not see my name on the Democratic ticket for Probate Judge, but you would see it on there for Governor.

One more thought and I am going to close; and that is this: If the Republican party was a friend to the South and wanted to do something for us, why haven't they given Henry Ford the Muscle Shoals property. They had said it was a Democratic failure and branded it as junk. When Henry Ford came along and offered to give the government $1,200,000 a year rent for it, for one hundred years, for the purpose of manufacturing nitrate of soda for the farmers of the South at 8 per cent profit, which would be the greatest benefit to the farmers of the South of anything that could possibly happen, and would make every old hill side in Alabama and Chilton County as well as the balance of the South blossom like a rose. They could do this if they would and you know it. Why don't they do it? We all know why. It is the money power—the Republican party that is withholding this from us.

Now, in conclusion, I want to say to the Democratic party of this county that this is my last and final appeal to you for the nomination on August 8th for Probate Judge, which I feel sure you are going to give me by a large majority. And I promise you now in case you do, that I will land a great victory for the party in November and give a fair and impartial administration to one and all-alike.

One more appeal to you good people, who have been affiliating with the Republican party, and I am then through. I want to say to you, since your president and other leaders of the Republican party have come out fiat footed for the negro to have equal right with us politically, if you not going to balk on them and refuse to follow any further, in the name of common sense, in the name of decency, in the name of our mothers, in the names of our wives, our sisters, and our God, won't you good honest men and women, who once belonged to the Democratic party, and who was rocked by that lilly-white hand of your dear old mother in a Democratic cradle, come back home into the grand old Democratic party—the white man's party, to live and die. I believe you will, and we invite you to come.

Respectfully,
C. REESE MULLINS.

THOS. A. CURRY SAYS A WORD

Clanton, Ala., July 17, 1922.
TO THE DEMOCRATS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

I take this method of expressing my deep appreciation of your loyalty to me in my race for the office of Solicitor of our Circuit. But when I remember the years that I have fought in the trenches with you, the scars that I wear with you which together we received on many a hard fought political battle field, I have no need to wonder at your fidelity and loyalty to me in the present struggle. I have spared neither time, effort nor money in my effort to win an office that is one of most important which the people entrust to one of their citizens. Your Circuit Solicitor is, after all, the officer to whom you look and upon whom you depend to stand between the good citizen and the bad; the law observing citizen and the law breaking one; for the enforcement of those laws which make for the protection and safety of the citizen in his home and in his property and personal rights. He is the advisor of the grand jury, draws all indictments and prosecutes all offenses. It matters not how able the Circuit Judke may be, his hands are altogether tied if he is not supported by a strong and experienced Solicitor. It is a matter of profound delight that I find the good citizens of Elmore, Autauga and Chilton, unwilling to trifle with this most important office or to commit it into incompetent hands. I have spent my time and my place on the firing line in Elmore and Autauga counties, where my presence and activities were most needed, leaving you at your place where your part was to be played, imposing entire confidence in your fidelity to your "old comrade in arms" and to your county. We have won this fight and Chilton has at last come into her own by capturing an office which the other counties fought hard to retain. I know every Democrat in Chilton County and, with few exceptions, they are my friends in this fight for we are in a common cause. During this hard fight, I did not have time to see you individually and it may not be my pleasure to do so before the 8th of August, but after that date it shall be my privilege to meet and greet you and rejoice with you in our splendid victory.

Faithfully yours,
THOS. A. CURRY.

SPECIALIZES ON CLANTON

Last Friday afternoon Clanton was visited with quite a severe little cyclone. From the fact that the twister could neither be traced into nor out of the city, we suppose the elements staged this exciting little performance especially for our benefit. If it was intended as a sample or demonstration, we want to say now, with all the earnestness we can command that we are all absolutely convinced and Boreas need not pull off any more playful stunts like that to make us all subscribe to his power and ability to wreck and destroy.

Broadhead and son were, perhaps the heaviest losers from the storm. The tin roof of their store building was ripped off and the deluge of water that accompanied the storm wet part of their immense stock of merchandise. The store force were all on the job, however, and proceeded to cover with rolls of oilcloth everything exposed and managed to protect a large amount of the stock. A few hundred dollars will cover the loss.

The new Baptist Church was also quite seriously damaged by water. Either part of the roof was blown off or the vent pipes are to small to discharge the water fast enough when such a terrible deluge as that of Friday occurs. A good deal of plastering has fallen off inside some parts of the building and the nice furniture in the rest room was considerably defaced.

The Alabama Power Co., also had its troubles. Several poles were blown down and lightning burned out the fuses in a number of transformers. Many resident fuses were also blown out.

The Central Alabama Hospital suffered some damage from water. The cap on the roof that covers the scuttle escape blew off and a good deal of water got on the inside doing damage to equipment and plastering.

The building of the City School was also considerably damaged by water owing to portions of the roofing giving way to the violence of the wind.

Numerous trees were blown down and a good deal of fencing also was wrecked, though taking it all in all, Clanton came through the ordeal splendidly and considering the fierceness of the blow and the cloudburst that came with it, we are all extremely thankful that we got off so light as we did.

COMING TO CLANTON

Mr. John T. Ellis, of Troy, has bought the corner lot fronting the Court House and joining the New Cafe from Dr. Gowan. He has not fully decided what sort of a business house he will put up there, but is going to utilize it at once. Mr. Ellis will also either buy or build him a residence here right away and move his family to Clanton. We are glad to see such progressive men as Mr. Ellis moving in and wish for him great success in our city.

A SCIENTIFIC REASON WANTED

There are many mysteries that we get up against in the journey from the cradle to the grave. For instance, you go to almost any other city you please and you will find the cars, trucks, motor cycles and other gasoline get-a-bouts gliding about hauling passengers and freight and performing the other duties to which they are assigned with perfect efficieney and with less than one tenth of the awful din and racket they keep up here. The operators of these engines of torture tell us upon inquiry that they will not perform here hardly at all without having all mufflers off and we judge from the racket a megaphone attachment to the exhaust pipe. There must be some special atmospheric condition prevailing here that is not conducive to the operation of motor driven vehicles.

AT THE BATIST CHURCH

Last Sunday morning at the Baptist Church the usual Sunday School exercises were carried out with an attendance of 131. A live interest seems to be manifested in this work, but there are still many adults as well as children who should be enrolled there and we hope to see them come out and devote an hour each Sunday morning to studying about the home where all of us have to go sooner or later.

At 11 o'clock, Rev. S. J. Ezell, of Eatonton, Ga., preached an able sermon to a capacity house and again at night. There is some prospect that Rev. Ezell may be induced to move over with us as pastor of the First Baptist Church.

EASILY THE BELLE

The little lady who arrived at the home of Col. J. B. Atkinson about three weeks ago, Miss Mary Frances, is easily the belle of the city so far. She is not only beautiful as a doll, but she has a head of long wavy dark brown ringlets that would entangle the heart of the toughest old batchelor in town. She is indeed wonderful.

AN OLD TIMER VISITS CLANTON

Mr. B. E. Jones, of Montgomery, was in town a couple of days last week. "Baz" was on business but he has so many friends here that he hardly had time to attend to anything else but shaking hands.

Mr. Jones is a product of Clanton and Chilton County and was for years engaged in the saw mill and lumber business here. He is looking fine and says the world is being fairly good to him.

NEW PLAINING MILL

Messrs Henderson and Hosey are installing a planing mill in the old Fertilizer building on the west side of the railroad that has been silent and still for years.

This mill will be ready for operation this week and another nice little pay roll be added to Clanton's business. We wish them all kinds of success.

ATTENTION BAPTISTS

There will be a conference of the members of the First Baptist church of Clanton next Sunday at 11, a. m. The main business of the conference will be to discuss the subject of filling the pulpit for another year and the calling of a preacher for that purpose. All members are especially urged to be present.

QUARTERLY MEETING OF W. M. U. OF THE UNITY ASSOCIATION

The quarterly session of the Women's Missionary Union will be held in Maplesville on next Saturday, July 22nd.

Mrs. Germany of the Baptist Training School of Louisville, Ky., will be with us at that time and will be one of the main workers. Everybody is invited to attend and all members are urged to be present.

Mr. Woodyard has had the old Ideal Theatre stand transformed now into a neat business house.

CONGRESSMAN JEFFERS WARNS EX-SOLDIERS

They Must Apply for Certificates of Disability Before August 9, 1922.

Congressman Lamar Jeffers issues the following statement which is of great importance to ex-service people. The Congressman's statement is clear and timely, and should be read very carefully by all ex-service people:

"All ex-service men, discharged before August 9, 1921, who contracted any disease or suffered any injury in the service which may be likely to cause disability or death at any future date, should secure a certificate of such disease or injury from the U. S. Veterans Bureau before August 9, 1922.

"This applies to any ex-service man who suffered a disease or injury while in the service, but who made an apparent recovery and who may not be disabled at the present time as a result of such disease or injury, but who may, at some future time develop a compensable disability traceable to that disease or injury suffered while in the service.

"Any such ex-service man who may not at the present time be disabled to compensable degree as result of his service, but who has reason to believe that because of injury or disease contracted in line of duty, or because of serious aggravation in line of duty of any existing disability, he may at any future time be disabled to compensable degree as a result of such injury or disease contracted or aggravated in line of duty, should at once communicate with the U. S. Veterans Bureau and secure the certificate which will allow him to file claim for compensation at any later date if he should find himself suffering, later on, with a compensable disability traceable to his service.

"From the above it will be seen that this requirement of the law refers to those cases in which a member of the military or naval forces of the United States has incurred an injury or disease which does not immediately result in a compensable disability or death, but which may be likely to result in disability or death at some future time. In such cases compensation cannot be paid unless the certificate of injury has been obtained from the Director of the Veterans Bureau within one year after discharge from the service, or within one year after the passage of Section 306, as amended August 9 1921. So it is of utmost importance that all ex-service men discharged prior to August 9, 1921, who incurred an injury or disease while in the military service should procure a certificate of such injury or disease from the U. S. Veterans Bureau before August 9, 1922. Unless the certificate is secured, which would protect the man's rights to file his claim later on, should his disability become compensable later on, he will be barred then from making his claim.

"Of course, in any case in which an ex-service man has reason to believe that he is disabled at the present time to compensable degree (that is, a disability of 10% or more) as a result of injury or disease incurred in the service, he should immediately file claim for compensation if he has not already done so.

"In either case, if he has reason to believe he is suffering now to compensable degree with disability traceable to his service, or if he has reason to believe that at any future time he may be suffering to compensable degree with disability traceable to his service, he should communicate at once with the U. S. Veterans Bureau in order that his claim may be recorded and his rights protected.

"I will be very glad to have any ex-service man who wishes to apply for this cetificate write me to that effect right away if he so desires and I will be glad to file his application for him, or he can take it up directly with the U. S. Veterans Bureau, either at Washington, D. C., or at New Orleans, La. In taking this up a man should give a clear and true statement of all facts relating to the disease or injury upon which he bases his request for the certificate.

"Let me urge every ex-service man who wishes to ask for this certificate to do so immediately, as the time is so very short. He must do so before August 9, 1922."

STANTON ITEMS

Miss Vivian Schurter has returned home from Livingston, where she has been attending school this summer.

Mrs. G. B. Kimbro, Jr., and children of Houston, Texas, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Parnell.

Miss Ernestine Dyer returned home Friday from the Howard College.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Huff and children have been visiting his father, Mr. Joe Huff.

Mr. Leon Dyer spent Friday in Birmingham.

Miss Ethel Gregg returned from the University Tuesday.

Mr. Howard Gregg, who has been at the Howard College for some time, is spending a few weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Gregg.

This is getting to be an age of reason. If you can't make statements that have a semblance of truth and reason in them, for better would it be for you if you had sewed up your mouth with a grape vine before you spoke.

CLANTON WINS CLOSE GAME

(By Steve Hardee.)

Winning one of the prettiest games of the season, Clanton defeated Tallasee last Thursday afternoon 4 to 3. Tallasee scored one run in the first inning, holding Clanton scoreless until their turn in the 8th, Jack Hayes, Clanton's little "Big League Prospect" started the rally by knocking a double.

Totty, a south paw, pitched a good game of ball for the visitors, although suffering from a severe headache.

Striking out ten men, Pyron pitched an excellent game. Cruise, a new receiver caught for Clanton.

The features of the game were the batting of A. Pyron, Cruise, and J. Hayes, of the locals, and the pitching of Totty of Tallassee.

Following is the box score:

Tallassee:

	AB	H	R	PO	E

CLANTON ROUTE SEVEN

Editor the News:

Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words about this part of the county.

Health of this place is fine at present, and everybody enjoying life.

It seems that farmers are all just about done plowing and hoeing and waiting for harvest time to come. Also a few are able to enjoy eating watermelons, as there are a few to be found.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jackson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Frith.

Miss Mary Belle Wooley is spending a while with her sister, Mrs. Jake Wallace, of Maplesville.

Miss Ruby Jones and brother, Stanley, visited Mr. Durwood Jones and wife of Macedona Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Georgia Ruddick of Stanton is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nelson this week.

Mr. Bluford Jones and wife spent Sunday with Mr. Charley Jones and wife.

Mrs. Orein Roper visited relatives of Sardis Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roper and baby, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fox.

It was awfully rainy for the cream supper Saturday night, but I think there were a few out, as Miss Lena Nelson was planning to entertain the young folks at a ceam supper, but pitty those that went, for my, how muddy.

Guess I had better hush for this time. Will come again soon.

ANNUAL SESSION OF THE SINGING CONVENTION

To Be at County High School in Clanton on Fifth Sunday in July.

The 19th Annual Session of the Chilton County Singing Convention, using the new books, will be held at the High School building the Fifth Sunday in July.

The biggest and best ever held in the county is promised by the present officers.

A special effort is being made to have the Vaughan and the Ganus Quartetts present together with a number of other good leaders.

We want the whole county represented at this convention.

JAS. FRANKLIN, Pres.,
J. M. SMITH, Sec'y.

JOSEPH CLARK ALRED DIED SUDDENLY

The death of Mr. Joseph Clark Alred, which occurred last Thursday night at his home near Samaria, came as a distinct surprise to his relatives and friends. He was 70 years of age, and for a long time has been a prominent citizen of this county. He was the father of Messrs J. Hance and Bud Alred.

The funeral was held at Samaria Church Friday, conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes. Burial arrangements were in charge of Martin.

ALABAMA IS RICH IN RIVERS

ROLL CALL OF HER SPLENDID STREAMS—COOSA THE GREAT POWER PRODUCER.

Declarations by distinguished members of Congress recently in Alabama that this state's richest resources are to be found in its wonderful system of rivers, not equaled by any other state in the union, have served to focus general attention to these streams and their possibilities for enriching the state Some of these streams have their headwaters in the northern counties of the state and their outlet in the Gulf of Mexico.

In alphabetical order, these streams may be enumerated as follows: Alabama, Bigbee, Cahaba Chattahooche, Conecuh, Coosa, Escambia, Mobile, Pea, Sipsey, Tallapoosa, Tensas, Tennessee, Tombigbee and Warrior. While all these streams are not navigable, each serves its particular purpose in the state by affording more miles of navigable water than can be boasted by any other state in the union.

With this great system of rivers, ranging down from the mountains of North Alabama, and flowing peacefully through its rich agricultural sections, finding their final outlet into deep water at Mobile, it is easy to see why the visiting statesmen classed the state's waterways as its richest resource. Originating in the wonderful mineral regions, the Warrior River carries down stream coal, iron and steel, cement and other products from the mineral district. Steel barges operated by the government navigate this stream as far north as Cordova at all times, the system of government locks providing a minimum depth of nine feet. The barges return upriver heavily freighted and save the people many thousands of dollars annually in their freight bills.

JONESTOWN NEWS

Misses Tessye Nelson of Selma, Georgia, and Helma Ruddick of Stanton, were the guests of Mrs. Lena Nelson the past week-end.

Miss Ruby and Mr. Stanley Jones, spent the week-end in Macedonia as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Jones.

Miss Lena Nelson entertained Saturday evening, giving a dance at her home in honor of her visitors, Misses Tessye Nelson, Georgia, and Helma Ruddick. The porch and parlor were decorated with ferns. The guests enjoyed dancing until a late hour, after which an ice course was served. Those included in Miss Nelson's hospitality were visitors and friends of nearby residents.

Miss Mary Belle Wooley motored to Maplesville Friday for a two weeks stay with her sister, Mrs. Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Lum Adams of Birmingham, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Roper, during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pink Jones of Birmingham, have been visiting friends and relatives here recently.

Misses Tessye Nelson, Georgia and Helma Ruddick, left Monday for Selma, and Stanton.

The report having been put in circulation that Mr. Charley Duke said the Methodist church had cancelled the ministerial license of Rev. C. D. Messer on account of his candidacy for Probate Judge of this county, Mr. Duke authorizes us to say for him that said report is absolutely false in every particular.

MESSER'S CHAPEL

Children's Day Exercises.

Last Sunday a large audience assembled at Messer's Chapel to participate in the Children's Day Exercises.

Promptly at 9:00 a. m., services began and were splendidly rendered in every detail. At 11 a. m., Rev. A. C. Messer, of Wilsonville, brother of our Rev. C. D. Messer, gave the large audience a most interesting sermon from the text: "Every Man Stood in His Place."

After the sermon an hour was taken for dinner and those good folks out there certainly saw to it that everybody fared sumptuously.

At 1:30, p. m., the exercises were called to order again by a song service that was a delight to everyone present.

Superintendent J. C. Pattillo then addressed the audience, his subject being: "Class Organiation, What, Why and How." He made a telling speech which was well received.

County President, J. L. Johnson, followed with short talk in the subject: "Duty of Parents to the Sunday School."

The closing address of the occassion was made by Mr. J. J. Pickens, our widely known Sunday School enthusiast, and he ably spoke from the subject: "Individual Responsibility."

A short business session then brought to a close this delightful occasion and all returned to their homes feeling that it was good to be there.

UNION MEETING OF THREE MISSIONARY SOCIETIES

On Monday afternoon, July 31st, the Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist Ladies Missionary Societies of Clanton will hold a Union Meeting at the Baptist Church at four o'clock. All are cordially welcome. Those whose names appear on the following program will please take notice and be on time.

Industrial Missions

Opening hymn, "How Firm a Foundation." Bible study; prayer for all. Religious endeavor, Mrs. Askins.

Personal Service Period, Mrs. J. C. Jones, Mrs. Lawrence Gerald, Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Song, Miss Madelyn Orr.

What Methodists are doing in Industrial Missions, Mrs. Pearson.

Presbyterian Activities along Industrial Lines, Mrs. Splawn.

Industrial Missions with the Baptists, Mrs. Pickens.

Prayer by Mrs. Eleanor Roberts.

Opportunities that await us in Industrial Missions, Mrs. McDavid.

Hymn, "Work for the Night is Coming."

Benediction.

One evidence of returning prosperity can be noted in every quarter of the city now. New buildings are going up and more repair work is in evidence than we have noticed for a long time.

MORE HOUSE ROOM FOR CLANTON

We notice a great pile of brick, lumber and other building material in a lot just north of the W. I. Mullins home. On investigation we learned that those signs meant something, and that Mr. Watts Moore was going to erect an elegant new home there. Report has it that he is going to put up one of the most modern houses that has yet been erected in Clanton and that when he gets it finished he will move his family in and be settled for life.

Col. Smoot, of Wetumpka, was in to see us Monday. He seemed in good spirits and said the situation in the race for Judge in our district looked reasonably favorable to him. The Colonel is a mighty fine man and will make a good Judge if elected.

OH, THAT MELON!

All the songs that have been sung and all the delightful dreams that have been dreamed about the famous "Alabama Sweetheart" watermelon, certainly culminated and came true at our house the other day when we carved that splendid specimen presented us by Rev. C. D. Messer.

We can say this for Bro. Messer, If he preaches as good sermons as he can raise watermelons he is a wonder, and if he captures the Probate Judge job and handles the affairs of that office just half as efficiently as he manipulated the career of that melon everybody should be satisfied. We extend our sincere thanks, Bro. Messer, and may your shadow never grow less.

100 BALES DAILY

The Clanton Mill & Gin Co., under the management of Mr. Maddox, has been a success from the start. He has kept the business abreast of the times and, in consequence, has received the patronage such efforts to please always deserve.

The entire plant is electrically driven thus eliminating a large fire risk. They are now busily engaged in more than doubling their capacity, putting in the very latest ginning and packing system, absolutely new from the factory to them, enables them to give to their patrons the very best service possible. They will be able to gin 100 bales per day this season which will practically guarantee prompt action and no waitnig.

RAYMOND K. MARCUS

we are always glad to see a young man forge to the front and manifest a disposition to snatch from the battle of life the laurels of success by sheer pluck and energy.

This is the promising outlook of Mr. Raymond K. Marcus, son of Dr. T. J. Marcus, of our city, who is exhibiting this week a diploma from that famous institution of learning Tulane University, of New Orleans, as a first grade graduate in the science of hygeine and embalming. A diploma from Tulane is the best credentials one can secure as to his efficiency and a guarantee to a job in any place he may go either at home or abraod. We congratulate Raymond.

One thing we want all the world to know and that is that Clanton can boost of some of the best people that ever blessed the earth. This is a fact that we can personally vouch for.

Shady Grove.

The all day singing in Harp and Harmony music books, at Cedar Grove on Sunday last, July 23rd, was a splendid success.

Mr. John W. Hayes was elected chairman for the day, and a committee was appointed to arrange for the directors.

There were many singers and directors present, not to mention the very large crowd of listeners.

At the noon hour dinner was spread for all, and 'twas a bountiful dinner, indeed.

The people of Cedar Grove certainly proved their welcome by rendering their kind assistance in helping to make the day a success, and for which we kindly thank them.

THE SECRETARY.

Mr. Jack Wilbanks is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin.

Every DEMOCRATIC VOTER in Chilton County should cast his or her VOTE for Charlie McDowell for Leiutenant Governor.

VAUGHN QUARTETTE

Lawrenceburg, Tenn., July 2[illegible], 22.

Dear Friend:

Your card to hand, and I thank you for same. The quartet is planning to be with you Sunday, and you can count on them. They are anxious to meet with you good people in your convention.

Thanking you for your kindness. I am,

Yours in Song,
JAMES D. VAUGHAN.

A Chiropractor Here.

We are pleased to call your attention to the professional card of Dr. E. R. Steele, graduate Chiropractor, who has located among us with offices in the Wilson Building.

Dr. Steele is a graduate of Carver College, of Oklahoma, one of the most noted institutions teaching the science of chiropractic physical adjustment in the United States. He is a genial and affable gentleman and we are glad to welcome him to our city, not only as a citizen but also as a competent and efficient representative of his chosen profession.

ANNOUNCEMENT

There will be a vespar service at the Masonic Hall grounds Sunday afternoon beginning at 6:30. Dr. C. M. Dannelly of Montgomery will be on hand and conduct the services. You are cordially ivited to come.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks to our good friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy shown us in the burial of our son and brother, Alonza D. Shirley, who was killed in action in France July 26, 1918. He was a brave and true soldier and inlisted in the beginning of the World War.

E. D. W. SHIRLEY.

LOOK OUT FOR BURGLARS

Both Verbena and Mt. Creek have climbed into the lime light the past week by furnishing the scene for a genuine burglary each.

Last Thursday night some one broke open the store of D. I. Deramus, at Verbena, and went in and selected such merchandise as suited them and then took their departure in peace. We heard no estimate as to how much they took away, but learn that the haul was quite heavy.

The same night an artist with an auger bored the lock out of the front door of the store of Geo. Cobern, at Mt. Creek, went in and fitted himself up with a lot of shoes and clothing and departed in peace. No arrests have been made so far as we know. These kind of visitors are getting two common as well as highway robberies. Somebody ought to be caught and punished.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

A most unfortunate tragedy occurred at Coopers last Friday night which resulted in the death of N. B. (Deacon) Brown, colored, for years a most familiar figure in Clanton.

"Deacon" had only recently moved to Coopers from here and on the day of this accident he had been up here on business, and had just got back to Coopers on No. 11 a few moments before the fatal occurence.

The best information that we can obtain is that "Deacon" and his wife were passing along the street on their way home and were opposite the house of a white man, a Mr. McLoughlin, who was handing a pistol to his wife to put up when by some means the weapon was discharged, the bullet finding lodgement in the side of the dead man just under the heart. The wounded man was rushed to the hospital here, but was past all aid and died a few hours after arriving at the hospital.

Just as we predicted the luscious watermelon has become a real plebian now. It is nothing unusual to see them on the streets absolutely glad to find company with the five cent buyer.

Misses Lucile and Agnes Fiquette of West Point, Ga., are visiting Miss Aurabelle Martin this week.

News Gathered During the Week

Breezy Items That Are of General Interest

Governor Kilby and his Secretary were guests of the Exchange Hotel last Tuesday evening.

Mr. J. A. Thacker, of Maplesville Route 2, is in town this week spending the time with his many friends. The latter part of this week he expects to go over and visit his relatives at Prattville.

Prof. J. F. Bone, principal of the school at Midland City, was in Clanton last Saturday greeting his many friends with his smile that we use to be accustomed to.

Mr. B. H. Hayward, of Tampa, Fla., lfet for his home Tuesday evening after spending several days as the guest of M. A. Gore and family.

Dr. Phillip Horn and family, of Troy, spent several days this week with Mrs. Lawrence F. Gerald, Mrs. Horn's sister.

REMEMBER W. B. (Bill) Allgood is a sure winner as the next State Auditor. The business manager of the News is anxious to see him carry Chilton by a sweeping majority. He will make an honest, currageous, and efficient officer.

Misses Lucile and Agnes Fiquette, of West Point, Ga,. are here this week spending the time with Miss Aurabelle Martin.

Miss Lucile Mullins who taught in the school at Midland City, the past year, is at home with her parents this summer, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Mullins, of Route 5.

Mr. L. E. Latimer, of Albertville, Ala., was a visitor in Clanton last Sunday and Monday. Mr. Latimer is a warm friend of Lee Barnes, who was an old school mate of the business manager of the News.

T. C. Gandy, Route 3, was in town Saturday. He reports that the crops are good in his community. In fact, he seems to think that so many candidates have been around until they have tramped the boll weevil to death.

MEETING OF COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

Since there is not enough business to justify a meeting of the County Board of Education this month, there will be no meeting of the Board until the last Friday in August. At that time the Board will consider all applications for the transportation of pupils.

Again this week we have the delightful privilege of extending our thanks to another splendid friend for a basket of real premium tomatoes. Mrs. W. E Maddox, of Route 1, was the liberal donor this time, and by her kindness, added another demonstration to the fact that good people and excellent tomatoes both abound in Chilton county.

C. G. BROWN

For State Treasurer.

I wish to solicit the support of every Democrat in Chilton county for my nomination for State Treasurer in the Democrtic primary August 8.

Good many of you all will remember me as the man who built the state highway from Clanton to Jemison. Am county treasurer of Russell county now. Am a native Alabamian and life long Democratic. If elected I pledge you the very best service that can be rendered by an experienced and competent man.

I thank you, C. G, Brown.

UNITY AND CHILTON BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

[illegible] the Unity and Ch[illegible] [illegible]tions met in [illegible] Baptist church here last Thur[illegible].

There was a lage attendance and much interest was manifested and most harmonius session was held.

The services were opened at 9:45 by devotional exercises which were conducted by Rev. S. M. Adams.

Mr. J. J. Pickens, in behalf of Clanton and the local school, then was called upon and delivered a splendid address of welcome, which was fittingly responded to by Prof. Davis, of Deatsville.

[illegible] the program was [illegible] interesting addr[illegible] [illegible]vered by Mr. Emmett Moore, State Sunday School Worker. He is the man for the pol[illegible] and did much good by his timely advice and encouragement.

Rev. S. H. Bennett then spoke to the subject "The Part Baptists have played in the Sunday School Work of the World." He is wholely conversant with the subject and gave the large audience a real treat as well as a large fund of information.

An elegant luncheon was then served by the local ladies in the basement of the church and every one present was sumptuousley fed.

After the report, Mr. Emmett Moore again addressed the convention along the lines of Sunday School work and progress.

He was followed by Rev. Edwards of Selma, who spoke to the subject: "The Importance of Sunday School Work." His address was able and convincing and was well received by the audience.

Election of officers for the next year was then gone into resulting in the selection of J. J. Pickens, President; Wm. Billingsley, of Thorsby, first Vice-President; W. I, Mullins, second Vice-President; J. L. Johnson, Secretary-Treasurer.

The elected officers, together with Rev. Buford Lawrence, of Jemison and Mrs. Hughes, of Billingsley compose the Executive Committee.

LETTER FROM HON. CECIL E. ALEXANDER

Prattville, Ala., July 27, 1922.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE NINETEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT:

I am a candidate to succeed myself as your Solicitor. I was born and reared near Prattville and have been a life-long Democrat. Instructed in the Law Department of the State University, and was Solicitor for two [illegible] Autauga county just before the recent great war. When I became your Solicitor two and a half years ago, I was fresh from the United States army where I served for more than two years—fifteen months of this time, I was in France. Much of the time I was over seas, I was on the front. I had no opportunity of thinking about the practice of law, my only thought being to do my full duty as a soldier, and of doing my part in subduing the terrible army put in the field by the arch enemy of civilization.

Upon my return, I assumed the duties devolving upon me as your Solicitor, and since that time I have worked hard to discharge those du[illegible] [illegible] serving my [illegible] the people of Nineteenth Circuit.

I have learned the work and my record as your prosecuting attorney will show that I have made progr[illegible] and am better fitted for the position now than when I first assumed the duties. In the future, I pledge to you my best efforts and if close study, hard work and continuous service will meet the requirements of the high office I ask at your hands I assure you of these.

Feeling, that I am entitled to an endorsement, I kindly ask for your VOTE AND INFLUENCE.

Thanking you in advance for any consideration, I am,

Yours very truly,
CECIL E ALEXANDER.

Letter from J. B. Stanley

Greenville, Ala., July 24, 1922.
Mr. J. L. Johnson,
Clanton, Ala.
My Dear Sir—

Your esteemed favor of the 22nd received and contents noted.

You ask how I stand in regard to the primary system in Alabama and the nation. In reply will say that I am in favor of the primary plan for both the state and the nation.

The only argument that is being used against the primary plan, is that no one except a man of considerable means can run for an office on the state ticket. Even with this drawback, the primary plan is giving such satisfaction that the system is [illegible] discussed. Where the people are satisfied it is best to let it alone.

If there is an exception to be made it would probably be in selecting the candidates for the Supreme Court Judges. I am not committing myself even to that, for almost any change would be hazardous. I will have to hear arguments both for and against before my mind would be made up.

Hoping that this will be satisfactory, I am,

Yours most truly,
JAS. B. STANLEY.

ADVENTISTS PREPARING [illegible] CAMP MEETING

Preparations are now being made throughout the state by Seventh Day Adventists to attend the annual convention and Camp Meeting of the Alabama Conference of that denomination, which will be held in Gulledge's Grove, Clanton, August 3-13.

A city of tents will be pitched in order to take care of the delegates and others while attending the con[illegible]. A large pavilion will be [illegible] the main preaching ser[illegible] [illegible] for the young peoples meetings, one for the children, one for the "little tots," a dining tent in which good vegetarian meals will be served, and a book tent where good literature for young and old can be procured at greatly reduced prices. And a reception tent for all visiting mothers with children and where the ladies of the city will be comfortably provided for.

A sanitary committee will see that [illegible] kept in good healthy condition. Every provision will be made to provide for the comfort of all the people from the city and surrounding country who may attend.

Elder Charles Thompson, president [illegible] the Southern Union Conference of which Alabama is a part, will be present. Elders C. A. Russell, W. W. Eastman and J. S. James from the World Headquarters of the denomination at Washington, D. C., will be present and lead out in the public [illegible]. Prof. L. H. Wood, from [illegible] Southern Junior College; Dr. A. Olsen, late Medical Secretary for [illegible]; Dr. E. A. Sutherain, Medical [illegible] Southern Union [illegible] Elder W. H. Lewis returning [illegible] [illegible]mary from Africa, will be present.

Delegates will be present from all parts of the state and among the church workers of the Alabama Conference who will attend and help in the work of the Camp are: S. G. Haughey, O. F. Frank, W. P. McLennan, J. G. Mitchell, F. W Schmehl and B. C. Marshall.

Having its origin in obscurity and poverty, the Seventh Day Adventist denomination has had a most remarkable growth, and is to-day established [illegible] 110 countries of the earth, with [illegible] [illegible] having local conferences in [illegible] state of the Union and every [illegible] in Canada.

[illegible] years ago, the Seventh-Day Sabbath, and Advent of Christ were proclaimed by a small company of believers in New England. To-day the denomination has 4,511 organized church with [illegible] membership of more [illegible] A total of 13,091 ord[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] 14 member[illegible].

The su[illegible] of the Adventist peop[illegible] [illegible] gelization of the world in this generation. They are a people with a distinct message and that message [illegible] Jesus Christ is soon to come, and hence a knowled[illegible] of, and obedience to His Word as contained in the Scriptures is held to be the paramount consi[illegible] [illegible] return to the simple Bible faith of the apostles and obedience to the commandments of God.

Missionaries in foreign fields, as well as laborers in other departments of educational endeavor, are trained by an intensive system of education. [illegible] record of the latest fiscal period [illegible] more than 40,000 students enrolled in schools comprising the [illegible]tem, which is a gain of nearly [illegible] per cent in four years. Six college and numerous academies are yearly pouring forth a stream of sanctif[illegible] young men and women, [illegible] objects in life is the giving of the gospel message for this time.

Jesus Christ was the greatest healer of human infirmities ever in the world, and Adventists have found that ministry to the bodies of afflicted ones is a sure way to reach their hearts and induce them to yield to the influence of the gospel. They maintain 47 sanitariums, treatment rooms and dispensaries, where a total of 156 physicians, 992 nurses and 1102 other persons find employment. A recent venture is the establishment of a medical college at Loma Linda, California, which is meeting with suc[illegible].

The circulation of the products of the printing press have largely contributed to the remarkable success of these people. In 45 publi[illegible] houses, located at strategic points [illegible] America and foreign lands, 1125 persons are employed and it requires nearly 2400 workers to assist in the general distribution of the out-put. Nothing but denominational literature is produced, among which may be found 572 bound books, 131 periodicals, 364 pamphlets, nearly 1,700 tracts, or, in round numbers, 2,770 publications, one copy each of all classes being valued at $764.00.

This literature is published in 95 languages, and during 1920 alone, a total of $5,682,972.35 worth was circulated in different parts of the world,

A fine display of literature in the English language will be seen at the book tent. All visitors to the Camp ground are invited to visit the book tent and examine the literature. All the inhabitants of Clanton and vicinity are invited to visit the Camp and to attend any and all the services.

FITZHUGH LEE'S STATEMENT IS BRANDED AS FALSEHOOD; B. H. COOPER SHOWS HIM UP

Says Man Who Has Held Public Office For 22 Years Has Never Stood For a Principle and Has, At Times, Supported Opposing Candidates For Governor

B. H. Cooper, associate member of the Alabama Public Service Commission, and a candidate for re-election, in a vigorous statement accuses Mr. Fitzhugh Lee of making false statements. Mr. Cooper in his statement refers to the published article of Mr. Lee wherein Mr. Lee stated that before writing the order materially reducing passenger rates in Alabama, that Mr. Cooper submitted this order to Mr. George W. Jones, district attorney for the L. and N. Railroad and Mr. Sam P. Kennedy, the latter a private citizen of Anniston, Ala.

Mr. Cooper points to the office holding record of Mr. Fitzhugh Lee, who has been in public office for 22 years, to the record of his brothers in holding public offices and to Mr. Lee's chameleon-like propensity for dodging questions of principles, and after the governor is in, managing to secure an appointment to public office.

He also charges that Mr. Fitzhugh Lee has in the past supported more than one candidate for governor at the same time. Mr. Cooper's statement in full is as follows:

"My opponent, Mr. Fitzhugh Lee, in his paid advertisement carried by the [illegible] on July 16 states that he was advised by reliable authority that this order (referring to the order issued by the Alabama Public Service Commission on July 11, reducing passenger rates in Alabama) was submitted by Mr. Cooper to Sam Kennedy and George W. Jones, attorney L. and N. R. R., for their approval before being proposed to the Alabama Public Service Commission.'

During his campaign for the public service commission Mr. Lee has made a number of statements so manifestly untrue that I have not deemed it necessary to expose their falsity by political publications.

"But in this instance Mr. Lee makes a charge so grave that I cannot permit it to go unanswered.

"1. Mr. Lee was not 'advised by reliable authority' that this order was submitted as stated by [illegible]

"2. I do not believe Mr. Lee was advised by any one that this order was submitted by me to Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Jones.

"3. I do not believe that Mr. Lee's statement is anything else than the off-spring of his own fevered imagination.

"If any person [illegible] make the statement to Mr. Lee that I submitted this order to Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Jones, that person told a [illegible] falsehood. If Mr. Lee [illegible] this statement without any authority and out of his own imagination [illegible]—and this I believe to be the fact—I brand it as a malicious falsehood.

"Mr. Lee has held office for twenty-two years. He began as a clerk in the probate court in Barbour County in 1900; was examiner of public accounts, 1906-11; chief clerk in the office of the state auditor, 1911-15; secretary of the state board of equalization, 1915-19, and now state auditor, 1919-23.

"Ordinarily any candidate who has had the long career in public office which Mr. Lee has had, points to it with some degree of pride and invites the attention of the public the kind of record he may have made. But throughout this entire campaign Mr. Lee has been painfully silent on this subject. Indeed, he has apparently endeavored to conceal from the public the fact that he has been on the payroll of the state for twenty-two years.

"Mr. Lee has shown remarkable ability to secure appointive offices not only for himself, but for other members of his family. His brother, Mr. Lawrence H. Lee, has been the reporter of the supreme court for many years. His brother, Mr. Alto V. Lee, has held various offices, state and county, and is now a candidate for Congress from the Seventh District. His brother, Dr. Lee, is employed in the state health department. His brother, Mr. William L. Lee, does not hold a state office, as such would doubtless be incompatible with his employment as counsel for the Georgia-Alabama Power Company.

"It is a remarkable incident in the political history of Alabama that Mr. Fitzhugh Lee has maintained an intimate, closed-door relationship with every governor of Alabama since 1900, in spite of the many sharp and irreconcilable conflicts which arose in the political principles advocated by Governors Jelks, Comer, O'Neal, Henderson and Kilby.

"Mr. Fitzhugh Lee has been intimate with all these distinguished gentlemen, embracing opportunely the political principles which they advocated. Wet or dry, railroad or anti-railroad, high or low taxes, Brandon or Kilby—these were all the same to Mr. Fitzhugh Lee, and however much such principles met in conflict, Mr. Lee was never torn asunder.

"In view of this record, covering a period of twenty-two years, during which Mr. Fitzhugh Lee never experienced any difficulty in adopting conflicting principles and supporting opposing candidates, is it not natural for the public to ask Mr. Fitzhugh Lee, not where he stands on this question of public utilities during his campaign today, but where will he stand tomorrow if he be elected?"

A public man with plenty of brains and no judgement is equally as objectional as the fellow with plenty of tongue and no brains. Both varieties seem to thrive in the United States, however.

Melons are beginning to tumble from their high estate. The common person can afford to look, and in some instances, ask the price now.

Talking about tomatoes, that elegant basket full that Mrs. Ida Campbell gave us last week demonstrates the fact that they can still be raised to perfection if you only know how. The editor and family extend many thanks to Mrs. Campbell for this most kind rememberance. In quantity and quality they were all that could be desired. We thank you

The enginemen and firemen have discovered a way to go on a strike without striking If they live up to their plans the railroad strike will most likely be settled this week or the sound of a train whistle will become only a memory pretty soon.

Frank Morgan for Public Service Commission; Two to Be Elected

Two years ago you elected Patterson over Sam Kennedy by 30,000 majority, but Patterson's hands have been tied because Cooper and Gaillard, Kennedy's associates, held over. They are now offering for re-election.

Let us elect Frank Morgan thereby assuring a majority on the Commission who will stand for the people's rights.

Who is Frank Morgan? An Alabama boy, born and raised in Cleburne County. The only candidate in this race born and reared in North Alabama. He is a traveling salesman, and has sold goods in every County in the State and knows the State and the people in it as well as any man forty years old living within its boundaries. His thousands of friends over the State will tell you that his business and personal record is clean, and that he has every fitness for making an excellent associate member of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

Mr. Farmer, Mr. Merchant, Mr. Wage Earner, Mrs. Housewife—you can trust Frank Morgan to take care of your interest in regulating the rates and service of your gas, telephone, car fare, electric light and power, and freight and passenger traffic.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 1 — CLANTON, ALABAMA, AUGUST 4, 1922. — NUMBER 47

SOCIAL NEWS

Mrs. T. C. McSWAIN, Editor.

Mrs. Heard Entertains.

Mrs. V. J. Heard was the charming hostess to the Wednesday Bridge club and a few friends on last Wednesday afternoon. The apartments were very attractive with dahlias and roses. In this apartment were placed four tables, where the guests indulged in Bridge. It was found in conclusion that Mrs. Carrie Mullins held the highest club score and was presented with a lovely hand embroidered towel and that Mrs. Guy Roberts held the visitors score and was presented with a box of powder. After which the hostess, assisted by her little daughter, Mary, served a delicious ice course.

Mrs. Frank Callen Hostess.

Mrs. Frank Callen was the hostess to the Thursday embroidery Club at her residence on last Thursday afternoon. The guests spent some time in conversation and finger work. After which the hostess served a salad plate and ice tea, assisted by Mrs. [illegible]rowder. Besides the club members were Mesdames, Moore, Simpson, [illegible]rewder and Gowan.

A Surprise Party.

On last Wednesday afternoon the members of the Wednesday embroidery club gave Mrs. R. E. Luckie a surprise house warming. The instigators and who were the hostesses of the afternoon were Mesdames, Simpson and Armstrong. The honor guest received quite a few useful articles. These hostesses served chicken salad and ice tea.

Miss Gladys Henley Birthday Party.

On Monday night at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Gilvie McKee, Miss Gladys Henley celebrated her 12th birthday. Quite a number of the future belles and beaus were present. A great deal of merriment was enjoyed as this was [illegible] on the lawn. After a late hour [illegible] cream and cake were served to about twenty five young people.

Spend the Day at the Personage.

On Friday the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church had a spend-the-day at the Parsonage, to study the work of women in missions. The ladies for these dscussions were Mesdames Barney Roberts, J. C. Jones, Pearson and Neighbors. At the noon hour a bountiful picnic lunch was served. The toast mistresses on this occassion were Mesdames, J. C. Jones, M. L. White, Mc[illegible]ain and Luckie. There were about [illegible]nty ladies who enjoyed this lovely occasion.

Messrs Frank Mullins, Charles [illegible]ore and Miss Maud Mullins have returned from Perdido Bay after spending some time there as the guests of Mrs. Guy Higgins.

Mrs. Gowan Honored.

On Tuesday morning, Miss Kathleen Mullins entertained at Bridge, complimenting her sister, Mrs. Gowan of Brewton. After several interesting games the hostess served a salad plate and ice tea.

Miss Kathleen Mullins has returned home after a months visit to friends in Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Parrish of Birmingham are visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McKee of Birmingham are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant McKee.

Miss Roberta Curry returned home Tuesday afternoon from Ashville, N. C., where she has been visiting her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Jones. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Jones and little son.

Mrs. Amzi Gowan and children have returned to their home in Brewton, after a visit to her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Mrs. Herbert Neighbors and children have returned home after a two weeks visit to relatives in Goodwater.

WORK TO START AT ONCE

Mr. J. T. Ellis, of Troy, who recently purchased the corner opposite the Court House, is in the city this week having material put on the ground and will start work immediately on a modern filling station.

The plans he has are complete in every detail and when the work is finished Clanton can boost of a filling station second to no city in Alabama. The two fronts will be open with an attractive top. The floor will be nicely concreted and the entire opening in the shade and dry. Gas and oils will be sold here with free air and water for all.

On the east side of the structure will be a neat sales room where you can buy that new tire you need if you automobile much. Also a rest room with private wash room and toilet for both gentlemen and ladies will be installed as a convenience to the traveling public.

Mr. Ellis will move his family here this month and become one of us.

TO DOUBLE CAPACITY

The Forest Lumber Company this week is installing new boiler power at their planing mill which will enable them to double their capacity.

The expect to be in operation by the last of the week with everything in first class shape. They have on hand in their yards here now around 2,000,000 feet of lumber, with trucks and wagons daily adding thousands of feet to the grand total, so we can confidently expect the planers to have six days in every week for a long time to come.

If we had several plants like that turning loose a pay day here every Saturday business would boom in all seasons and we merchants would have no slack seasons in trade. A number of small industries in a town are worth more than one large one. Go out after the small plants and the big one will follow.

C. D. MESSER'S APPEAL TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Thorsby, Ala., July 31, 1922.

Editor Chilton County News:

Please allow me a few words.

I have not had the opportunity of canvassing the county as my opponent has. I want to say I am a life long Democrat. I have ever believed in the principles of Democracy and for white supremacy. I am opposed to equal educational and political rights of the two races, as President Harding advocated in his Birmingham speech. I rejoice to know that the grand old Democratic Party did eliminate the negro from the polls in the South. I want to say I am a strong believor in the office seeking the man. I am known to be a man that stands for the right; have made it the rule of my life to tell the truth and pay my debts. With regard to our county affairs. I believe in using the very best economy and making every dollar of the county's money go just as far as possible, and if I am elected I shall indevor to take care of every interest of the county, and observe and inforce all laws without partiality to any. I make no promises to any one, but to do right in the fear of God and man. I want to insist on every Democratic voter in the county going to the polls and cast your vote for the very best men For the Bible tells us when the righteous rule the people rejoice.

We want to invite all our Republican friends to come back to the grand old Democratic Party and help us elect the best men in the state and county for our officers.

I think we should stand together here in this South land of ours, so lets go to the polls and vote as you pray.

Yours for the best,
C. D. MESSER.

MAD DOGS

Early Tuesday morning a dog passed along down second avenue, turning south at the railroad, that was putting up a remarkable race. He was hitting on six and traveling at a second pan without any regard to wheih side was up.

He was supposed to be rabid and was given a clear track and right of way over all trafic by unanimous consent. As he turned down the rail road quite a crowd of colored men and boys took up the chase. They overhauled him at the creek, when he seemed to fall in a fit, and a shower of rocks quickly disposed of him.

If he bit any other animals we have not heard of it, but it will be wise for parents to keep a close eye on small children on the streets as it is possible he may have left some victimes in his wake.

CENTRAL ALABAMA HOSPITAL

This splendid institution is still adding laurels to its wonderful reputation for effieiency. Its fame is preading far and near and patients are coming from every direction.

Just in the past few days they have discharged a large number of cured cases ranging all the way from acute appendicitis to aggravated typhoid Also several maternity patients have been successfully cared for there and have gone home walking advertisements of the wonderful efficiency of that department.

Last week the little daughter of Mr. Martin, of Thorsby was run over by a big touring car and mangled and crushed in a fearful manner. She was rushed to the hospital and today we learn that she will recover and be none the worse for her experience. Such instances as that demonstrate how fortunate we are in having this splendid institution close at hand.

W. W. FOX STILL SICK

We regret to announce that our genial friend, Mr. W. W. Fox is still confined to his home with a severe carbuncle betwen his shoulders.

Mr. Fox has probably been missed as much or more on the streets as would have been any citizen of the city. He is always jolly and full of life and keeps something stirring all the time when he is able to be at his store down in town.

He is chairman of the Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee, and it is especially unfortunate that he cannot be on the job as the primary is so near at hand and the duties of his office pile up.

Report has it that he is now convelescing and we sincerely hope he will be able to get out speedily and be with us again.

DEMOCRATIC MANAGERS TAKE NOTICE.

The following rule in regard to the voting of negroes in the primary next week was unanimously passed by the State Democratic Executive Committee last week. Election Managers govern yourselves accordingly.

The committee by unanimous action decided that no negro can receive a ballot to vote in the primary of August [illegible]th. Election officers are forbidden to allow negroes to vote and if one [illegible] allowed to vote the committee has made it a cause for contest. This action was also unanimous.

THE SINGING LAST SUNDAY

The largest crowd that has ever assembled in Clanton on a similar oc[illegible] on hand Sunday to attend the annual all day singing given by the Chilton County Singing As[illegible]. The capacity of the large a[illegible]t the High School was totally inadequate to care for the crowd. By 9, a. m., all the seats were occupied and standing room was at a premium. Not more than two thirds of those in attendance could ever get in hearing of the music.

The Famous Vaughan Quartette, from Tennessee, were present and added new laurels to their already wonderful popularity here. The only regret being that they could only stay over the day and had to return that evening. It had been hoped they would give a few performance here after[illegible].

The entire program was a glorius success, the only draw back being the n[illegible] auditorium, and everyone will anticipate a year in advance the ann[illegible] sing for 1923.

NEW PLANING MILL

The planing mill plant belonging to Henderson and Hosey is in active operation now and is dressing about 30,000 feet per day. This plant is electrically driven and no fire is any where about it so the fire risk is nil.

This adds another nice little weekly pay roll to the Clanton business and is another "drop in the bucket" towards the final inportance of Clanton as an industrial center.

There is not a more favorable location in the South than we have here for industrial development. A cotton mill here would have the best agricultural backing of any site in Alabama. A wood fiber plant here would have millions of feet of suitable timber right at hand. A handle, spoke and rim factory here could get untold quantities of hickory and white oak on the river. A canning factory in Clanton would find fruit and vegetables in any quantity desired.

Come on. Let's go.

PLANTERS GIN & WAREHOUSE COMPANY

This popular industrial organization that received such a serious financial blow in the great warehouse fire that occurred last winter is rising Phoenix like from its ashes and is rebuilding on the same ground a splendid iron warehouse. Their ginnery has been gone over and put in first class shape, and by the time the first bale of the fleecy staple is ready for market they will be prepared to give efficient service to all comers.

The News is proud to see this evidence of pluck on the part of this splendid firm and wish for them all the patronage and success that such enterprising people deserve.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

The prospects for a fairly good cotton crop in this section is promising, and evidence of the effect of the outlook is manifest in the arrangements being made by warehousemen to take care of the crop.

The Farley Brothers are entirely overhaluing the Farmers Warehouse, raising the walls, putting on new iron roof and so on. They will have it ready in a few days.

The Wade Gin & Warehouse in West End, we learn, is also being put in readiness for a big cotton business.

As told in another column, the Planter's Warehouse & Gin will also be ready to serve any and all business in fine shape.

Mr. R. W. Milford, one of our esteemed friends, was in to see us Tuesday.

A TENTED CITY

The Seventh Day Adventists, who established their State headquarters here last year, have put up again this year a regular tented city on North Seventh Street, and their annual Camp Meeting is in progress.

They do everything up to date and in the arrangement of this camp nothing has been forgotten. Rest tents have been put up, also a tented cafeteria where hot lunches and cold refreshments can be secured to order Sleeping tents enough to accommodate all who care to camp are also in evidence in orderly street arrangem[illegible] A news department also occupies one tent where you can get your reading matter. Everyone is invited to attend the services which are held three times per day.

DROWNED AT LOCK 12

A little boy 8 years of age named Jack Chandler and living with his parents at Selma, fell from the ledge at the power house at Lock 12 today and was drowned.

He came there with a party of fisherman from Selma and was out on the ledge, which is strictly against the orders of the Power Company, when he fell off and was seen no more. At this writing the body has not been recovered.

This should impress the public with the fact that it is always wise to remember and obey the warnings of people who know and operate such plants as that at Lock 12. The Company's do not arbitrarily issue orders to annoy or interfere with the public, but they do try to keep us all out of danger and we should co-operate with them.

LAMPTON'S [illegible] PAINT [illegible] TEST

Do You Want Your Paint To Last?

We are pleased to announce that we are prepared for spring and have on hand a complete assortment of Lampton's house paints. Made by the old established paint firm of Lampton, Crane & Ramey Co., Incorporated, Louisville, Ky., these products are backed by an iron clad guarantee and a reputation for the making of dependable paints that was established a quarter of a century ago.

As you know, some people only know paint by it's name but we know that many so called paints will not stand the test of a scorching sun and the trying weather changes of this climate, which in fact, are hard on even the very best paint.

You have seen houses that were painted in the Spring that looked fine when the paint was fresh but before the summer was over looked as though they had not been painted for several years.

That was because a cheap paint was used—not a pure paint made of pure white lead, zinc and linseed oil fully ground and scientifically mixed as are Lampton's famous paints.

When you paint with Lampton paints no matter what color you use—you know that it is going to last—you know that it is going to wear longer, look better and be more economical in every way.

Come in and let us tell you more about this absolutely pure paint and let us show you the guarantee that stands behind it. Come and get a free Lampton's color chart. See us for anything else you want in the paint line—varnishes, finishes, brushes etc. Glad to see you.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL TO OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 4TH

Strong Faculty Secured for the Year and Prospects Good.

The Chilton County High School will open on Monday, September 4, 1922. A record enrollment is expected and students are urged to enter the first day as time lost is very hard to make up. We are pleased to announce the following faculty for the ensuing term: S. E. Alverson, Principal; [illegible] Whatley, of Opelika, will teach Science and coach Athletics. Mr. Whatley is a graduate of Auburn and was a very successful teacher and athletic director in the State Secondary Agricultural School of Abbeville last year. Miss Estelle Holland of Forsyth, Ga., is an A. B. graduate of Bessie Tift College (Ga.) and has had several years of successful experience. Miss Holland will have charge of the English Department. Miss Mary Fuller of Perryville, Ala., will teach Home Economics. Miss Fuller is a graduate of Montevallo and taught last year in the Morgan County High School. Miss Fuller is a specialist in this line of work. She has a special certificate in Home Economics from the Staet Department of Education. Miss Mildred Ford of Alexander City, will teach Social Science and English. Miss Ford was with us last year. Mis Alma Ratliff of Birmingham, has been selected as teacher of History. She is a graduate of Judson College and received honors in History while a student there. She has had several successful years experience in the Marion County High School. Miss Roberta Curry will have charge of the Music Department.

With this splendid crop of teachers we are anticipating a very successful year. Al teachers are specialists in the work they have been chosen to teach and all have had successful experience.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of Solicitor for the 19th Judicial Circuit of Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary Election to be held in the counties composing said District, on the second Tuesday in August, 1922.

In thus offering my services to the people of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore counties, I approach them with no well thought out and carefully prepared list of empty promises and a captivating political platform. If nominated and elected, I shall bring to the office of Solicitor the experience of twenty-five years of active practice before the various courts of the state and committed to the simple policy of taking care that violators of the criminal statutes of the state are promptly indicted and speedily and vigorously prosecuted with absolute fairness to all, with favoritism to none. I shall see to it that the interests of the state are properly preserved in all matters in which it is involved, and shall dedicate to the people of the circuit the most faithful and efficient service that within me lies. It is upon the foregoing platform that I am willing to win or lose.

TO THE CHILTON DEMOCRATS.

I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to every democrat in the county for the honor you have confered on me by giving me your nomination for Circuit Clerk.

In appreciation of the confidence you have reposed n me, I shall do all in my power, in an honorable way to win for you this important office in November.

Again allow me to thank you every one.

Your friend
Thos. M. Parrish.

TO MY SUPPORTERS

I desire to tender my thanks to the democratic party of Chilton County for the confidence reposed in me by making me their candidate for Representative in the next Legislature.

I shall endeavor to put on a winning campaign from now until November and shall do all in power, in a clean and honorable manner, to win out for you in the general election.

I solicit the support of all people in the county who believe in the rule of the people and pledge myself, if elected to do my utmost to represent you and your wishes in every manner possible. I can do no more.

Thanking you again most cordially I am,

Your sincere Friend,
J. L. Johnson

CROP PROSPECT

The hot sun of last week and the week before successfully took care of the boll weevil, and now we should have a fair yield of the fleecy staple. The hot period came to end with a splendid season which seems to have been pretty general. This boosted late corn, sweet potatoes, sugar cane and other fall crops, besides making ready for planting turnips and collards for winter use.

Taking it all in all Providence has been kind to the farmers this year. If the gamblers and other middle men can be sucessfully got rid of, prices should range reasonabley good this fal and we should all feel thankful for the kindness of the year 1922.

We do Job Printing.

THE ELECTION

Owing to the great length of the Democratic ticket in the primary Tuesday, complete return are not available in time for the paper this week. We print a list of the fortunate ones so far as clearly indicated in the State and also the winners in our county and district.

Brandon and McDonald, for governor and Lieutenant governor respectvely ran clean away with everything in sight.

Of course, Hon. Lamar Jeffers is again our standard bearer for congress as no one opposed him.

From best information obtainable Rev. Sam M. Adams has won the nomination for State Senator from this district, composed of the counties of Chilton, Autauga and Shelby.

It also looks like Geo. F. Smoot has the best of Judge McMorris in the race for Circuit Judge.

As migth have been expected, owing to the unfortunate split up by too many candidates in the field it is pretty certain that Col. Bateman, of Elmore, has won the nomination for Solicitor.

For Representative, J. L. Johnson is chosen. He had no opposition and is the unanimous choice.

For Probate Judge of Chilton County Hev. C. D. Messer received the nomination of the party.

In the race for Sheriff Mr. Bowen L. Jones had the lead and is our nominee for that important office.

For Clerk of Circuit Court Mr. Thos. M. Parrish received the unainimous nomination having no opponent.

Mr. W. R. Clements was nominated for County Commissioner of the first district and Mr. H. E. Robinson for the second district.

Mrs. Beverly Hester, of Clanton, and Mrs. C. N. Parnell, of Maplesville, were selected as candidates for membership on the School Board.

Messers Guy Higgins and M. C. Broadhead were elected delegates to the Democratic Convention which will meet in Montgomery in September.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY NOMINATIONS

Following is a list of the county ticket nominated by the Republican party in the primary Tuesday.

For State Senator, P. M. Pitts, for the Legislature, W. M. Wyatt, for Probate Judge, L. H. Reynolds, for Clerk of Circuit Court, Zeb Mims, for Sheriff Thomas Littlejohn, for Commissioner first district, T. J. Dominy, for second district James Mims.

For County School Board, A. L. Robinson and W. J. Billingsley.

These are the horses entered for the race on both sides and all you have to do is to get up and ride.

BASE BALL

After orgaizing the best ball team in Central Alabama and making a record of 21 straight winnings, the indications now seem to point to a local closing of the season.

We hear of no more games on the schedule at present and it looks like the ball fans will have to wait now for the foot ball season to open before we get any more out door thrills.

Ceaser wept because there were no worlds for him to conquer and, perhaps the Clanton Ball team got in to a similar condition.

Congressman Lamar Jeffers, of Anniston, was in Clanton last Saturday and Sunday.

Congressman Jeffers looks well and is now enjoying good health. He is making a good record in Congress always looking after the interest of his people in the district. While here he was the guest of the Wilson Hotel.

Messers Charlie Gulledge, Erby Deramus, and H. B. Oliver of Verbena were in Clanton yesterday.

Mr. A. B. Baxley, of Birmningham s in Clanton and Chilton County this week in the interest of the United Farmers of America. "The hand that tills the soil feeds the world.

THE MIGHTY HAVE FALLEN

A few weeks ago the most aristocratic thing to be found in Clanton was a real ordinary looking water melon. But times have woefully changed for we saw great lucious looking 40-pound melons on the street Saturday going begging at a dime and a good many realy returned home to become plebian hog ofod. There is a moral to this if you care to look for it.

Who do you want for Mayor and aldermen next time? How do you like the presnt gang, or do you want to change? Fix up your slate.

JUST ITEMS.

Mrs. T. J. Bland and daughter, of Verbena, were visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

Election day drew quite a large crowd to the city.

Look out for melon rinds allowed to sour and rot in back yards and ally ways. Doctors say they produce fever germs.

Have you got your slate fixed for the municipal election yet? It is time to go to figuring.

Mr. W. W. Fox is having a nice awning put up in front of his No. 2 store on second avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mahan, of Gadsden, are here this week visiting Mr. Mahans parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arkie Mahan.

Ed Edwards says he is open for any kind of a job. That cover slots of ground and he ought to find one pretty quick.

Train service is getting prettly badly shot to pieces even on our division of the L. & N.

The election is over now and we hope everybody will accept the result in good humor. The next thing is let all parties and both sides get together and pull for the industrial advancement of Chilton County and Clanton.

Everybody is glad to see Mr. W. W. Fox out again after his protracted and painful illness. It does us good to see his jovial face on the job again.

Fall goods are begining to arrive and from the amount it looks like the merchants are confident of a good trade this fall.

Mr. Mell Martin bought the largest melon we have seen this year and brought it in and cut it in our office. The office force all filled up once at least. Talking about good citizens and clever men, you could not beat Mell Martin in the world and that is covering some ground too.

From the looks of the situation now it hardly appears that Bibb Graves can say "I also ran."

If Brandon can do for Alabama what he did for Tuscaloosa County our children will rise up and call the day blessed in which he was elected.

If bursting up union labor is what you want give Gov. Kilby the job. He fixed the union minors in short order and only killed a few of them. Coal is dug now in Alabama by any old thing that can swing a pick and no questions asked.

Walter Gillespie, our one time go-git-em deputy Sheriff, but now in the government service, was in town a few days this week.. He had on "his readies" but we don't know what particular still he was after. Bet he got it.

Tomatoes are playing out but melons are still plentiful in the local market

DISTRICT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT MAPLESVILLE

At 2.00 p. m. qutie a nice audience assembled at the Maplesville Baptist Church for a session of the District Sunday School Convention.

At 2:15 p. m. the convention was opened with devotional exercises by J. N. Foshee.

An address was then made by J. L. Johnson on the subject: How to win and hold the boys in Sunday School.

Next was an excellent address by Miss Della Williams on, The child we teach and how to teach him.

Mrs. C. N. Parnell then gave a splendid talk on, "How to have variety in the Sunday School.

After listening to a report from the Schools, Mr. J. J. Pickens delivered an address on the subject, "The Superintendent. His qualifications, Prepration and Duties.

Congressman Lamar Jeffers, who was visiting in the county, was present and, upon invitiation, he delivered a short address on Sunday School topics that was a real gem.

ANDERSON JACKSON WILLIAMS DIES

On Wednesday, August 8, Mr. Andrew Jackson Williams, who lived on Verbena Route 1, died from an attack of paralysis. He was buried the following day by Undertaker Martin at Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Williams was 69 years of age and was a much esteemed and valuabel citizen in his community. He is survived by a wife and several children.

DROWNED AT THE DAM

Mr. Dan L Rush, age 27 an employee at Mitchell Dam, was accidently drowned on the job there Monday July 31. The body was recovered the following day, rbought here by Undertaker Martin, prepaerd for burial and shipped by him to Sylacauga. The remains were buried at Mt Olive cemetry near that place.

The deceased is survived by a wife and one small child as his immediate family, also several toher brothers and near relations.

DROWNED AT LOCK 12

The most pitiful occurance that has happened in our vicinity for a long time was the drowning last Thursday of little 8 year old Thomas Jackson Chandler, of Selma.

The little fellow was with a fishing party from his home town who were intending to spend a few days out at the Lock. He went out on the 'Ledge" at the Power House and was walking just in front of one of the gentlemen belonging to the party when he slipped and fell through under the guard rail into the terrible vortex of water that boils up from the huge turbines that drive the plant. The water there is perhaps 50 feet deep and is lashed into a perfect maelstrom by the action of the immence turbines.

The little body was found Sunday following at Rushton, some 12 miles below the Lock. Undertaker Martin broght it here where a hearse from Selma took charge of the remains and carried them home. Our entire city was saddened by this calamity and we sympathize with those stricken parents.

DISSATISFACTION STEADILY INCREASING

(From New York Commercial (Rep.)

As long as a party is in power the responsibility for the government rests with it. If it does not meet its responsibilities the electors straightway change the majority into a minority. The Repubilcan party has been hampered by an unwieldly majority in the first place, and by lack of competent leadership n the second. It has probably never before happened in the history of American politics that a party has been so entirely bereft of competent leadership as the Republican party has during the last four years. The results is that a large part of the constructive programme which the nation had in mind when it placed the Republcan party in power has not been carried out, and dissatisfaction is steadily increasing.

OUR CONGRATULATIONS

We feel like we will not be intrudin on the feelings of any one of the opposite party in what we are constrained to say in regard to certain of the candidates.

Messers Harris and Bean, two of the defeated candidates of that party, certainly deserve the hearty commendation of all good citizens for the clean, honest and clear cut campaign they both conducted.

They made a good fight and an honest fight on principle and neither of them, so far as we have learned, ever stooped to any unfair questionable methods in their effort to win.

Although they were defeated we wish to congratulate them on the clear example they made of how a campaign, that should have won, can be conducted.

We do Job Printing.

The airplane has had its day, even the children have quit looking up when one sails by.

Bathing suits guaranteed to draw up to half size are said to be best sellers now at the bathing resorts.

It looks like in a few more years society will revert to the fig leaf costume of Adam and Eve.

God rules in Heaven and earth but it looks like these daye thatmoney is runing him a close second on earth.

Runaway marriages are popular these days because it costs like the dickens to pull off a wedding at home.

If telling the absolute truth and talking only when we had something to say were the rule, this would certainly be a quiet world

Again, had you noticed that as the number of yards in a woman's dress decrease the price automatically increases.

The autoists is not the only fellow that is having engine trouble now. The Railroad engineers is in the same class.

In two more weeks cotton wagons and trucks will begin to make our streets look like the good old days before the boll weavil came among us.

The most pitiful sight we can think of right now is some puffed up egotist trying to tell an intelligent audience the secrets of radio, or some other really scientific development.

As the results of the primaries in the various states become known it grows more apparent each day that the Harding adminstration has failed to make good.

The railroad strikers put one over the operators in accepting the Harding compromise. The roads lost the sympathy of the public when they turned down that proposition.

In a few more years some enterprising mail order house will be offering brides and grooms for sale to be returned if not satisfactory. Then, mabe the divorce courts will get a rest

The cotton crop is about safe, now and general seasons all over this section would be fine. It will come, alright. The farmers are going to get a showing this year.

The old nominating convention is never likely to blight the purity of politics any more, but little by little strings are being tied to the primary that is not adding to its popularity.

One of the few mistakes that Woodrow Wilson has ever made was in attempting to interfere in the Missoura primary. His opposition elected the man he was fighting that time.

The hot sun and dry weather of the past week or so has put the boll weavil on the bum in this section. If some equally as effective calamity would only overtake the cotton gamblers now, the farmers would be in good for this fall.

Primary election in the various states have failed almost without an exception to live up to the slate. The people are getting wise to these old time slate makers and are doing some of their own figuring now.

If young people would devote half as much time to choosing their associates as they do to selecting their clothes and cigarettes, at least half the number that get behind the bars these days would be happy and free.

On the 15th of this month Congress will reconvene. A few of the members will go back happy in anticipation of another term while a goodly number have received their notice to quit from the votes back home. "Ye can not serve two masters.

Campaign orators as a class set up imaginary "evils" and rip and rant and make a great noise when really, if you sift the matter out, there is nothing whatever to it. They intend to mislead their audience if they can weep wail enough.

WHITES BOLT THE GAME

We hope that the following report of the Montgomery County Republican Convention will effectually answer two questions of fact that have been often disputed in Chilton county recently. One is the fact that southern Republicans DO affiliate with the negro in their political conventions. The other is the equally prominent fact that the negro question is a live one in the south and he is encuraged by the policy of that party to crowd to the front and take control of affairs as he did in Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala. August 8th.

Negroes obtained control of the convention of the Republican party in Montgomery County today and as soon as they elected one of their number, G. E. Newstall, as chairman of the convention, most of the white delegates withdrew and held their own convention in another section of the court house. Newstall received 52 votes to 23 votes cast for S. E. Dawsey, who was presented for the chairmanship by the white wing.

The moment Newstall was declared elected county chairman, the suggestion was made that all white persons retire and hold their own convention All but nine left the room and held their own meeting. Dawsey was elected chairman and an executive committee, composed of followers of Pope M. Long, state chairman against whom a bitter fight is now being waged, was named.

George N. King and J. P. Dimmick were named delegates to the state convention by the white faction, while Newstall and J. A. McKinney were named delegates by the other faction.

The state convention September 7, which will settle the fight over the state chairmanship, also will determine whether King and Dimmick or McKinney and Newstall shall be seated as delegates from Montgomery county.—Age-Herald

JUST LISTEN

When you happen to get located among such good people as those we have in Chilton County, it is a real pleasure to be an editor even after you submit to all the bumping, jolting and cussing that falls to your lot in trying to deal absoultely fair between all creeds, parties and candidates.

For instance, during the past week our good friend, Mr. W. A. Candler, on Route 7, remembered us twice with a nice mess of splendid butterbeans fresh from the vine.

Then there is our especial old friend out in the Concord neighborhood, Mr. Jno. M. Parrish, the man who has the unique distinction of having lived in three different counties without ever moving his residence, he came in and gave us the largest mellon we have seen this year, also a sack of splendid peaches.

Then Rev. C. D. Messer came along with another extra fine melon, so you see, we and ours have rather been living on the shady side of easy street lately.

Our hat is off to all three of these good old democrats, and may we all live to rejoice together when Chilton County, wtih all of its good people, is gathered back into the fold of democracy along with the balance of the South.

THE RAILROAD STRIKE

The strike of the shopmen had not materially hurt us here until this week Late Saturday an embargo order came down the line to receive no more freight for shipment except food feed live stock and perishable stuff.

We have three planing mills operating here all shipping their output and this embargo order practially puts them out of business. The Forest Lumber Company informs us that they will continue operating for the present at least. The Henderson and Hosey plant will doubtless close down as their shed room for dress lumber is limited. The Jno. M. Robinson mill, we learn, will also be forced to close down in a day or so unless the embargo is lifted.

It is to be hoped that this condition will only exist for a few days, for these working people need the time and Clanton especally needs these regular pay days.

OUR CAMPAIGN POLICY

The primary is over now and we sincerely hope that all democratic candidate who were defeated last Tuesday will rally, with all the enthusiasm that is in them, behind the nominees and demonstrate to the world that principle with them is far above personal advancement. In other words, let the world know that you are a democrat first, last and all the time.

From now until November the battle will be between the great parties and not in any esnse a family affair. In waging this fight the policy of the News will be to meet all arguemnts fairly and with reasons for the faith that is in us. We believe in the principles of democracy with all our soul, mind and strength and shall contend for thees as against the republican party,but in doing this, our our line of argument will be directed solely against what we honestly conseive to be the evils and shortcomings of that party, especially as it effects our homes and the South.

In conducting a campaign on this line we wish to assure all of those who differ with us that we are not attacking them personally in any sense of the word but are honestly trying to win for our section the safty and prestige to which we are entitled.

As we announced in the first issue of the News, and as we have consistently lived up to ever since so long as we are editor the paper will never smirch its colums with filthy vituperation and vile personalities. We are not fighting any single indivudal but we intnend to deal with vital principles. We shall at al times treat with unmitigated contempt, so far as the columns of the paper is concerned, all personalities affesting us or our policy. We can always be found around the office and our idea of settling personal matters is to go at it face to face. So much for that.

We hope to see a clean clear cut campaign, not only because it is right and decent, but because the fratracidal strife that has gone on in Chilton County for years has hung a mill stone around the neck of our industrial advancement and given our good name a black eye abroad. Let every one of us irrevocably make up his or her mind now that we will wage an earnest an dintense campaign for the success of our party, remembering that persons do not mean anything and that sacred principles of truth and safety for us and all our country is what we are after.

Mud slinging is always the subtrefuge of the man or party who realizes that their cause is weak and that they have no reasonable argument to offer. The just cause does not fear the lime light. The weak ones seek to muddy the water with slander and personalties and escape the meeting of issue that it can not cope with.

Persimmons are turning red and the faithful old possum dog is being groomed. Sweet potatoes are getting ripe and you can imagine the rest.

"MR. HUGHES'S DIPLOMAT"

(From the New York Herald Rep.)

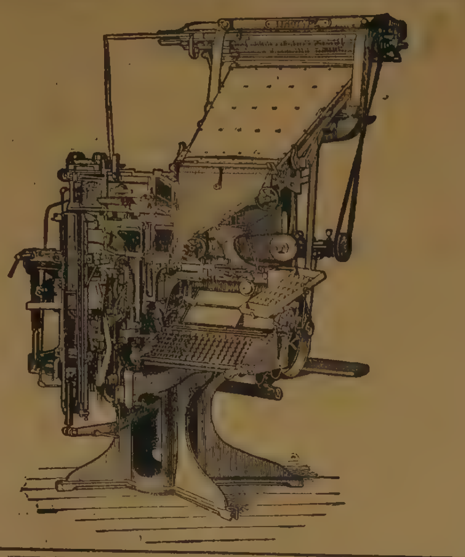
Secretary of State Hughes in an interview with The World's Work on the subject of diplomatic appointments, expressed his views in part, as follows:

"It is necessary to select able and well trained men for such important work, men particularly trained in the field of diplomacy. Errors and indiscretions on their part may involve us in war, and good judgement and diplomatic adroitness may prevent grave and serious misunderstanding. . . The tasks to be accomplished are too important to be left to untrained hands. A man must be thoroughly trained to succeed in any line. This applies no less to diplomacy than it does in other work."

These be brave words. Not long after they were spoken the malignant George Harvey was nominated for Ambassador to Great Britain—an absolutely unfit appointment, as Harvey demonstrated in his first public utterance. Since then it has been necessary to put an official extinguisher upon him. Probably Mr. Hughes had little relish for this selection, which is generaly supposed to have been the personal choice of Presodent Harding

The other day the President announced the appointment of eight ministers to various counties in South and Central America, Europe and Asia. Subjecting these to the Secretary of State's test, that they should be able men "particularly trained in the fields of diplomacy," it is found that just one, Lewis Einstein, of New York, who has been made minitser to CezechSlovakia, fills the bill. He has had many years of experience in diplomatic posts and is well qualified for his new honors. The others are an unknown lot of Republican politicans, two of whom hailed from Oregon, while the others come from Kentucky, Colorado, South Dakota, Missouri and Maine. Not one has had any diplomatic training whatever, and all will supplant men who through years of experience have made their service of value.

This is Our New Typing Machine.



With a good deal of satisfaction the editor of The Chilton County News announces the installation of a new Lynotype. This mechanical marvel qualifies us to serve efficiently the large number of persons who look to our publication for enlightenment and entertainement, and who patronize our job-printing department.

The rapidly increasing circulation of The Chilton County News, together with our desire to place at the command of our advertisers and others the higest grade of typoghaphy, induced us to secure a fine composing machine for the quick and accurate and pleasing presentation of the news of the day, and the production of superior job work.

Our new Lynotype enables us to set by machine many forms of composition that preveiously necessitated tedious work by hand. Our plant is now cable of turning out composition consisting of correct type faces in many difference sizes, and the change from one size to another is made very quickly. At a high rate of speed the versatile operator whoes hand is made famous by the Mergenthaler Linotype Company as "the band that keeps the world informed" produces line after line of the sort of composition desired.

This installation is a testimonial to the prosperity of Clanton and vicinty. And that the good people of the community are duly appreciative of our efforts to serve them in all departments of the printing business is manifested by the many complements received from individual patrons since the arrival of our new machine.

The accompanying illustration will give our readere some idea of the marvelous mechanism of the Linotype, a composing machine on which are assembled matrices (or little brass molds) and lines of type cast lines such as you are now reading.

Besides enabling the operator to set various faces and sizes of type, our new Linotype makes it possible for him to produce the rules and dashes and borders which aer uesd in various advertisements in each issue of our publication. When employed i the composing of advertisement newspaper heading, booklets, catalog ues, and various other kinds of prin ted matter, our new machine enabl one operator to set in the sam time more type than ordinarily coul be produced by five or six men or w men doing the work by hand—an the composition is incomparably bet ter.

While for a long time we have re ceived the patronage of a host of sub scribers, advertisers, and printing bu ers in general, we look forward to th handling of an even greater volume business now that we are so wel qualified to render the sort of serv ce most to be desired.

It has been our aim to present th news of the day without fear or f vor, and to reflect faithfully the i eals and ambitions of our constituen and we shal continue to devote o talents and resources to the fulfilli of this aim. And of great help to in the carrying out of our purpo e wlli be our new Linotype.

"WORST CONGRESS IN TWENTY YEARS"

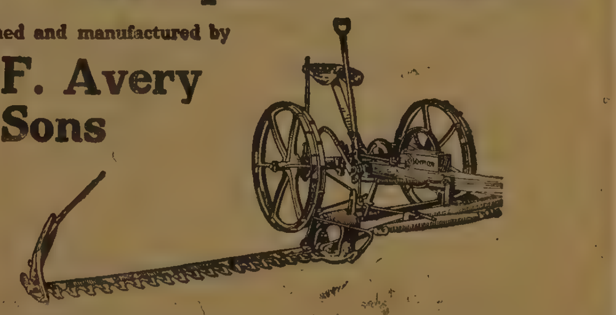
(From Boston Transcript Rep.)

Today the record of the House of Representatives in the first year the new adminstration stamps it unmistakably as the worst House in twenty years. It has done more thing that it ought not to have done, and it has left undone more things th it ought to have done, than any Ho of Representatves controleld eith by the Republican or Democrat party that Washington has seen the last decade. It has broken more sacred promises and put out more pernicious propaganda, it has tr passed in more directions upon the executive authority, than has any one of its predecessors in twenty yea Its presiding officer is helpless, leaders are leaders in name only, a for the most part they represen either the worst o rthe most stup in either political camp to-day. H and there in our New England de gation there is a Congressman who an exception to the rule and there will be ample time to call these exception by name before the primaries. Tak as a whole, however, the House of R preesntatives as controlled by the R publican party, if judged by its reco to date, is unworthy another lease o life.

Valuable Features of "Champion" Mowers

New owned and manufactured by

B. F. Avery & Sons



Pitman Connection to Knife Head has a self-adjusting device that automatically takes up wear—one of the most valuable improvements ever made on a mower.

Outer End of Pitman Crank Box is closed and an oil chamber is provided that holds enough oil for several hours' cutting.

• Coupling Yoke that attaches the cutter bar to the frame is unusually wide. This gives it great leverage so it holds the cutter bar securely in alignment even in the heaviest cutting.

The mechanism that drives the knife is simple, strong and smooth running,

SCHOOL SYSTEM DEFENDED

I am not a politician nor a son of a politician. It is not my purpose to defend any person or any party. I have cast my lot in Chilton to labor in the cause of education. Schools are my one hobby. They are the field of my endeavor. When an attack is made on me personally, I am magnanimous enough to ignore it and go ahead, but when an attack is made upon the cause of education it becomes the duty of every loyal supporter of schools to resent such attack and do all in his or her power to combat such destructive tactics. It does not concern me who is elected Judge of Probate, whether he be Democrat or Republican; but, it does concern me as well as it concerns every boy and girl in Chilton County when all kinds of damaging strife are stirred up that are calculated to injure our schools long after the heat and fever of this political year have passed away. School animosity lingers long in the minds of men. Any man who seeks to ride into office by such villification deserves the condemnation of all good men regardless of his party affiliation. I am making this plea this week for the Primary is just closing and the renewed struggle between the parties has not been begun. I plead with the leaders of both parties to let the school alone. You might knock till Doomsday but the schools would not be bettered by your having knocked. Persuasion for a better method with nothing said about our present plan will have far more influence for good.

In observing the contest which comes to a close tomorrow, I have observed that the attack upon our educational system might be summed up as follows:

1. Unequalness of appropriations to counties.
2. Unfair administration in Chilton county.
3. Removal of schools from local control.
4. Greater percentage of illiteracy than in 1860.

In regard to the first attack, I refer you to Article 10 of our 1919 School code. Section 1 says: "On the first day of October or as soon as practicable thereafter, the State Auditor shall certify to the State superintendent of education the amount of money which has accrued and been placed by him to the credit of the educational fund for the schoolastic year commencing on that date." Section2 says As soon as such certificate is received by the State superintendent of education he shall set apart such sums as are provided by law, and he shall then apportion the remainder of such fund as far as practiable, among the several counties in the State, in proportion to the number of school children of school age therein. Section 6 says." As soon as practiable, after the State superintendent of education has apportioned the school funds to the several counties, and has certified the same to the county superintendent of education, the county board of education shall apportion the funds awarded to their county to the several schools and to cities of two thousands (2000) or more inhabitants, according to the last or any succeeding federal census, in their counties so as to provide, as nearly as practicable, school terms of equal duration EXCLUSIVE of any local funds provided by the schooldistrict.

The foregoing sections quoted word for word from the law will show that the appropriations must be equal to the several counties. The basis must on the whole number of school children both white and black. It would be contrary to the Constitution of the United States to discrimiante against the negro children in the law itself. This is why appropriations cannot be made to the counties according to the number of white children and then appropriate in a different degree to the colored children. Every man who pretends to know anything knows there can be no law which in itself discriminates against the negro children.

In regard to the second charge that there has been an unfair administration in Chilton County, let us look at the facts. Last year is the only year that I know about positively. The Coutny board of education paid the teachers in the vairous schools for six months on the basis of their certificates. The salary schedule set by the county board did not come up to the price paid in some schools and it was necessary to supplement the salary of said teachers out of local funds as was done in Clanton, Maplesville, Verbena, and several others. A small school requires moer per child than a large one, because it takes just so much for the teache'rs salary whether she teaches 17 or 40. Suppose a teacher is receiving $65 per month for six months and teaches only 17 pupils. This would average $23 per child. If the same teacher should be teaching 40 pupils for the same time the average would be only $9.75 rpe child. This is the reason the law was changed from the old method. This method gives every boy and girl the same length of term out of the public funds whether he or she lives in a densley populated community and goes to a large school or whether she lives in a sparsely settled community and goes to a small school. I defy any one [illegible] would dare to say the boys and girls [illegible] the small schools are not entitled to [illegible] the number of months [illegible] the boys and girls [illegible] according to the [illegible] year. Well, the Clanton school average 1 37 pupil per teacher and the West Clanton School averaged 17 pupils per teacher. Any one can see that it would take more per pupil to run the school at West Clanton than it would to run the school at Clanton. The facts show that the Clanton school was run on $12.46 per pupil and [illegible] took $23.23 per pupil from the county funds to run the west Clanton school. Altho I am connected with the Clanton school and would like to [illegible] a large appropriation as possible [illegible] our school, yet I know [illegible] books and school ad [illegible] our school can [illegible] per pupil than the West [illegible] average of our [illegible] and more than th [illegible] school. [illegible] thing ex[illegible] a late school or [illegible] Sumter, Macon and Bullock [illegible] the four counties each [illegible] large proportion of [illegible]. There are more negro children in some of these counties than [illegible] white children. The negro [illegible] large schools and [illegible] small amount per pupil [illegible] there are a number of very small [illegible] schools that require a large amount per pupil. That is why the [illegible] children in Dallas, Sumter, Macon, Bullock and four or five other [illegible] black belt receive $30 [illegible] while in the counties [illegible] predominance of white children there is a very much [illegible] amount per pupil. This condition [illegible] to the [illegible] of appropriations but to the unequalness of population in the various counties that they [illegible] be compared.

There has been much said about the schools [illegible] out from under local [illegible] the law gives to the county superintendent the right to [illegible] teachers for the different schools of the county but the [illegible] gives the local school trustees the right to reject any teacher the county superintendent may select and makes it his duty to elect another teacher. This also may be rejected and [illegible] until the trustees are satisfied. Article [illegible] Section 5 says "The board [illegible] shall have the pow[illegible] vote to refuse to accept the original assignment of any teacher not later than 30 days before the date set for the opening of the school [illegible] written notification to the county superintendent of education setting out the reason for such refusal and [illegible] HEREBY MADE THE DUTY of the county superintendent to nominate another teacher for such school". Section 7 on this same Article 7 gives the board of school trustees the right to prefer charges against the teacher to the county board of education. This last feature was removed [illegible] from local control in order to keep down factional disturbance in the control of the school. I know from experience that such fusses do rise and cause all kinds of ill will in the community. By trying such cases before the county board instead of before the local board is [illegible] teacher the right to a change of venue that is allowed every man when a fair impartial trial cannot be expected in one county. I favor and I know a number of teachers favor a change in the manner of selection of teacher. I favor a plan that requires the county superintendent of education to collect all the information he deems necessary about all the applicants for schools in his county and to keep this information in his office so that the local school trustees may see the record of each applicant [illegible] the assistance of the county superintendent they may select their [illegible] teachers. This would give the trustees the right to select and would give them the benefit of the [illegible] the county superintendent who is [illegible] good judge of the fitness of an applicant. I think this would be better than our present plan and would be much better than going back to the old time way of choosing [illegible]. I think the control of the building would be absolutely in the hands of the local trustees and for what I have been able to find out, the next Legislature will speak clearly on that point. This point is being demanded all over the State by both Democrats and Republicans. There are a number of strong school men who favor this change and I think you people in Chilton county can feel sat[illegible] about a change being made next January.

The charge has been made and I do not dispute it that there is a higher percentage of illiteracy now than in the days before the Civil War. That is easily accounted for to any man who wants to see the truth. Before the Civil War a large part of the white people owned slaves and were able to employ a private turtor for their children. Others less wealthy managed to send to private schools. While the others were taught by the preachers. Ignorance was looked upon as a disgrace in those days. Our public school system was not established until 1855 in Alabama, so we cannot say that our school system before the Civil War was responsible for the low percentage of illiteracy among the white people. If we had the same public sentiment today that we had in those [illegible] years there would not be a single white illiterate person in Alabama. Public sentiments is and has always been the strongest factor for law enforcement in any State. If we had a public sentiment that looked upon ignorance as a disgrace, it would not be necessary to have a compulsory attendance law.

What happened after the war? The South was crushed. Homes were destroyed, fields were laid waste, and general chaos prevailed. In this crushed condition, it became necessary for the South to support a double system of schools, one for the whites and one for the negroes. Is it to be wondered at that for a number of years there was very litle done for education. Even in my generation, I never [illegible] a school of more than three months until I went to the high school. What have we today? In Chilton county the schools were run for six months last session. The standard of the schools has been raised. The qualifications of the teachers have been raised until now a teacher must have at least two years of high school work to take for a second grade, and must have finished a high school before taking for a first grade.

The above has been written of my own free will. I have no ax to grind. I seek only to correct some false conclusions that might be drawn by failing to know the facts on the other [illegible] for several seeming contradict[illegible] side and failing to know the explanations. If you were sick you would take the advice of a doctor. If you had appendicitis you would consult a surgeon. Then why not take teh advice of school men about your schools? It seems strange to me that you will believe anything a politican tells you about schools although he may not have given schools any special study. Play fair. If you are going to drink down everything politicians tell you about your schools then why not consult them when you are sick and drink down some of their medicine? You say I fear I might be killed by their medicine. Well, be very careful that the medicine the politicians feed your schools does not make your schools sick unto death. Do not be content with one side. Learn both sides before you form your opinion.

CHAUTAUQUA CLOSES TONIGHT

The Guarantors Faced a Deficit of Nearly $600 This Year

The Chautauqua closes tonight with a wonderful lecture by Dr. Baumgardt who will give some views of the heavens, taken thru the most powerful telescopes in the world.

The program for the year has been very good, some of the numbers exceptionally so. The play, "Turn to the right," given last night was one of the very best numbers of the year. All remembered the rain of a year ago and appreciated the dry weather of this year. Wm Keighly and his company of Broadway Players kept the audience in laughter or in tears.

An attempt was made a tthe session last evening to secure guarantors for next year's event but the audience was very backward about the matter. It is hopped that action may be taken the near future which will secure the chautauqua for next year. Edina cannot afford to lose her place on the circuit. The amount is somewhat less than last year and 100 names should be secured.—Knox County Democrat, (Edina, Missuria).

IT COSTS MUCH LESS TO DO IT NOW

Prices are down. Delay in painting because of price is no longer an excuse.

But regardless of price, it always costs more not to paint than to paint. Decay and rust never let up. And the very next rainstorm may thoroughly soak unprotected spots and start real deterioration.

Suppose that every five years you invest $20 in good paint. That's $4 a year. Neglect will cost you many times that amount some day in building materials.

And that $20 investment in good paint will add several hundred dollars to the value of your home, besides preserving your pride in an attractive place, which in itself is worth something.

Good paint we say. Cheap paint isn't cheap—it's expensive.

Lucas Tinted Gloss Paint, covering 350 to 400 square feet, two coats, costs less to start with than cheap paint which covers 200 to 250 square feet. And enduring much longer, this first cost is still further reduced.

The Reason for this is that the Lucas materials are ground days longer, more rigid laboratory tests are made, and a larger percentage of high grade linseed oil is used—which not only gives a more beautiful gloss but causes deeper penetration and greater durability.

There's only one place in town to get this paint—at our store. We have the exclusive agency for it—and proud of it.

FIRE MAINS EXTENDED

One of the wisest acts the present city officials have put into effect is the extending of the fire mains and hydrants out west to take in the city School building and all adjacent property in that quarter of the city, also the small service main that has been supplying the Gowan addition is to be replaced by a fire main and hydrants.

Clanton has been splendidly taken care of by the present city officials and we wish to congratulate them on having made a most creditable record.

EXPRESSES THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to every democrat in the county for the honor you have given me by the nomination for County Commissioner. I shall try in an honorable way to show the people my appreciation by doing my utmost to win for you this important office in November.

Again expressing my thanks to you one and all I am.

ACHIEVEMENT OF G. O. P.

Achievement of the G. O. P. as seen by Senator Pittman, of New Mexico, and as outlined in an interview with a home paper was put in the Congressional Record by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas. The Arkansas senator is hot on the trail of the Harding administration, and he never fails to avail himself of an opportunity to make this clear. He picked up a Santa Fe, New Mexico, paper and found the interview with Senator Pittman, in which a strong indicment was drawn against the administration, and he put it where he thought it would do the most good.

Following the statement that "poverty, distress, disorder, violence, are Four Horsemen of the Hariding administration," and that "Republicans have made a mess of the government by reason of which democrats are going to sweep in power, Senator Pittman is quoted as outlining briefly republican achievements among which are:

minthe os vbgkm dl rod iwifitmbb

Foreign relations left in chaotic condition.

Our foreign commerce—there is none.

Millionaires' taxes reduced; poor people pay.

The H. C. L. still is a terror.

Transportation charges increased.

Outrageous discriminations.

Prepetuation of long and short haul "outrage."

Destruction of all state contorl over intrastate commerce.

Producer and consumer are starving together.

Harding, Mellon and Wall Street keep the soldier from bonus

The four horsemen of the Harding administration are:

Poverty,

Distress

Disorder.

Violence.

Republican management of the affairs of the nation has been a failure declaerd United States Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, in an interview today.

"I look for a democratic house as the result of the coming fall election," he added, "as a rebuke to Mr. Harding and its administration, and a rebuke to the republican government in the saddle for two years before Harding took office; as a loud protest against the 'four horsemen' of the Harding administration: Poverty, distress and violence.

Senator Pittman is up for reelection to the United States senate this fall He says that he expects to win, and he looks for a democratic wave all over the country

"These are bad days" he continued, "with the coal walkouts, with railroad shopmen striking, with so much of the after-war misery; with so many hundreds of thousands out of work: with so many pledges broken, promises unfilled, and brilliant visons of happiness, progress, and prosperity changed into a mirage of plain chaos

"There may be a revolution in this country some day. But it will not come from present labor troubles and present poverty, in my opinion. If there ever is a revolution in this country, I think it will be brought about by the people and for the people who finally realize that they, the people, no longer rule; that men are put on the tekets and elected by money Montgomery Journal.

A GREAT CROP IN TWO COUNTRIES

We are about to harvest one of the greatest American crops on record, only the cotton crop of the South being below that of high point year. Reports from Canada indicate that our neighbor also has produced a bumper crop this year. Agricultural products constitute our real wealth. brou mfw h onNsa- mah dlu wowwwy The other two basic commodities, in the view of Editor Arthur Brisbane, are brains and mines. Some of our mines, are idle just now, but agriculture in moving onward

We not only have made a great crop in America, but there is money in the banks to serve the needs of the farmer in moving and otherwise financing his crop. Money is easy now. That is something new for the present era. The people during the past three years have greatly strenghened the foundations of ther economic structure. But there is still work to do. The people who own mines and railroads have not been allowed to work out their difficulties and restore top-mark production, and thus contribute their share to prosperity for all However, let us hope that even these hurdles may be taken.—Advertiser.

ADAMS NEWS

The Revival services at this place the past week was certainly good. We had the opportunity of listening to the able sermons of Rev. W. T. Edwards of Selma, Alabama There was 15 additoins to the church by experience. The baptizing took place Saturday a. m. at 9:30. I don't think I have M. at 9:30 o'clock I don't think I have ever heard a better sermon than the one Bro. Edwards preached to the new memberes after the baptizing Saturday a. m. Dear young brothers and sisters will you only take Bro. Edwards advice and continue to read our Bibles and let your lights shine that the world may see that you are determinded to do right. By so doing you know not the good that you will do in the community in which you live by bringing your associates to church. Continue to pray that the others that could not get their consent to let the world go may yet see their mistake and turn to Christ.

We are glad to say that the health of this community is good, but are sorry to hear of so much sickness in Ardis community as their protracted meeting started yesterday.

We are glad to say that we have a real good Sunday School at this place but would be glad for others to come and help us for their never was a Sunday School so good but what it could be made better, so come right on and join and help us out.

Mr and Mrs Newt Wyatt and family visited Mr. J. R Rucker and family Sunday.

Mrs. Vivian Mitchell, and children of Tuscaloosa are visiting her father and mother Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Adams of this place.

Ada Minor visited her father and mother Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Minor Sunday.

Mr. Jake Scott and family visited Mr. R. M. Roebuck's Sunday.

Wishing the paper and its many readers good luck will close.

MAPLESVILLE NEWS

Dear Editor:

I want to drop a few lines in your paper in regard to the big meeting at Mt. Carmel.

We are glad [illegible] and glorious meeting. Our helper was Brother Edwards from Selma, he was a real fine man and full of religeon May God bless him where ever he goes, and we were all so glad to have with us our dear old pastor who has served our church for 9 years. May God bless him.

During the meeting we received 15 members into our church. We are glad to have them with us hope to see the young members come out and do some thing for Christ. We was glad to see the Church full every night. Hope to have Bro Edwards back with us some time. We was glad to see the young people take such a hand in the meeting. I hope and pray they will continue their duty in the Church We should all do more for our church there is always room for us to do more towards our church. We are sorry to say our dear old pastor has had to give up our church, he has got one more time to serve us but he will always be remembered in our prayers. Hoping to see this piece come out in your paper this week as this is my first I will stop off and come again, thanking you. A reader of the News.

MASONIC PICNIC AT BILLINGSLEY

Last Saturday a big barbacue and basket dinner was given at Billingsley under the auspices of the Masonic order.

A large crowd was on hand and the [illegible] able to be imagined.

Col. J. B. Atkinson, of Clanton, made an appropriate and timely address on the principles of Masonry just before the noon hour and was intently listened to by the large crowd.

The dinner and barbacue were served up by the good ladies in a most lavish and tempting array and every one present was fed to repletion.

In the afternoon the Lodge assembled in a busines session under Worshipful Master Gaines and Mr. Cagle was given the M .M. degree.

The gathering not only was a compliment to the esteem in which Masonry is held by those good people, but also bore beautiful testimony to the splendid community spirit existing down there.

All the good, clean, honest people do not belong to any one political party It is a great pity they don't, too.

The lower house of congress begin to grind again Tuesday. The only people who will get any profit out of this is the Washington newspaper correspondents.

Nature deals pretty kindly with us all. Just before it looks like the hot weather will burn us up the clouds begin to roll up, the cooling breezes fan our steaming brows and the gentle rain drops patter down, then don't we feel fine.

[illegible] trains are required by law to to come to a dead stop before they cross another railroad. Now if all autoist were made to come to a dead stop before they cross a railroad thousand of innocent lives would be saved yearly.

The automoblie is a great convenience and can be made a source of much enjoyment and healthful recreation in the hands of sensible people. On the other hand they can be an intolerable nuisance and a dire menance to life and limb when a person deficient in gray matter in his cranium gets hold of one.

Movie King, Will Hays, has decided that all the females appearing on the screen must make their dresses much longer at both ends. All leg shows are to be cut out. When this takes place it will be much more fun for the average young man to stand on the streets and see "society" go by than to attend a movie show.

It's getting so these days that when a man is elected to office the next thing he wants to do is find a soft place for all his relatives and political heelers to feed at the public crib. If there is not places enough to go around he generally goes to hatching up [illegible] for enough "Commissions" and "Committees" to take care of them all. In the meantime the people pay the freight.

It is a doubtful question in our minds whether or not it is wise to call out troops to guard property. Soldier boys seem to be a source of more trouble and grievance in case of a strike than they do good. Labor that is not on strike objects to working under the shining bayonets of the soldiery. If property is really in danger and needs guarding for protection why not let the owners employ and pay their own guards.

If the railroad strike is not finally and really settled right away the disrupted transportation is going to greatly interfere with the price and sale of cotton. Our advice to every farmer, is to hold your cotton until the results of the strike have entirely passed away. You are due to get 20 or 25 cents a pound for your cotton this year, and will get it unless you sell before the railroads get in shape to handle traffic normally. Don't sell until the market has a chance to be normal at least.

TO CHILTON COUNTY DEMOCRATS

We are now entering on a County Campaign that will be fraught with many peculiar situattions and before we go futher, you will all have to make up your minds whether or not you wish for success earnestly enough to be willing to make sacrifice of your convenience and devote your energy and time to working for the party.

All the elements of victory are spread out before you, but no part of that victory is going to be handed to you on a silver platter. If the democrats of Chilton county have not the earnestness of purpose that will urge them to go whole-heartedly into this fight, the effort of the few will be abortive.

We are free to confess that the primary was disappointing to us. Five or six hundred registered and qualified democrats in the county refrained from voting. That does not indicate the interest in the party that would auger well for success. It has been in time past the utter failure of democrats to realize the importance of party loyalty and the importance of going to the polls and voting that has put Chilton County and the party into the lamentable position we occupy today. Our reputation as democrats away from home is that we always lay down and never unite as touching any one thing. A man from an adjoining county said the other day that financially Chilton county was largely democratic and that all democrats away from Chilton county felt like that the only reason we do not control the county politically was that we were after the dollar only and that our party fealty was nil. We can not hope for sympathy nor assistance from the party abroad, and we are not entitled to our meed of political recognition unless we demonstrate at the ballot box, the fact that we stand for something besides dollars and cents.

We cannot understand why it is that democrats, especially Chilton conty democrats, are content to supinely law down and allow the opposite party to dominate all of the affairs of the county when by proper interest and effort this county could be made democratic at any time the members of that party saw fit to do so. We are informed by reliable people who are in a position to know that a political check of the census for Chilton county shows that the democrats have a considerablly majority in adult numbers. Then what excuse have we for not being in control? Simply the fact that our party, as individuals has been lacking in loyalty. They have allowed their names to pass from the voting list in their haste, perhaps, to make another dime and to save a dollar and a half. Circumstances have presented the opportunity for you to redeem yourselves in the eyes of the democrats of the state. Are you going to do it?

The democratic ladies of this county have also shown a supprising indiffenence to their future and that of their children. Ladies you have been given ample opportunity to see for yourselves what the future holds in store for you and yours. You are intelligent and should be able to realize where your safety lies and where your duty is. Let us beg you to rally to the flag of democracy and demonstrate to the world that you mean to use the ballot wisely and well.

We have cednavored to talk plain and simple facts to you democrats now This is not a time for sentiment and "soft soap." You write your own record at the polls in November and don't forget that the democrats all over Alabama are watching to see what that record is. Make it one you will not be ashamed of.

Who can remember when the railroads ever paid any heed to an order of the Alabama Puible Service Commission? They most preemptorily ordered pasesnger rates in this state reduced to 3 cents per mile on August 15th. Have you heard of any road obeying that rule? For every dollar spent of the people's money in maintaining that expensive luxury, the Public Service Commission, not one cent's worth of good results to the people. Our State government machinery has a great number of useless cogwheels in service that only adds to its inefficiency and cost.

Courtesy and politeness in men and modesty in dress and manners in woman are beautiful virtues. It certainly is a pity they are not popular.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If there is anything in the world that we would love to be able to do right now, it would be to so conduct the Chilton County News as to make it absolutely satisfactory to every democrat in the county.

But let us tell you our trouble in being able to do that and if you see any way out please let us know at once.

Up to thepresent moments, we have had exactly eleven prominent democrats to tell us how the paper should be conducted during the campaign. We thank them everyone for the interest they manifest in the paper and also in the campaign but our dilemma arises from the fact that no two of them have agreed as to the proper policy to pursue. We would gladly gratify them all, but evidently that is impossible. Now, the question is, what would you do under those circumstances if you had our job.

Long years ago we found out that no one issue of any paper was ever printed that pleased everybody. Perhaps one week you step on one persons sore spot, the next week, possibly, you tickle him all over and make the other fellow mad. That's the newspaper game so far as we have learned it.

We can say this much: Our colums will be open for any and all parties to express themselves, so long as they do not deal in personalities and mud slinging. We can offer nothing fairer than that. Have your own say and we will be pleased to give you a hearing.

REV. SAM. M. ADAMS WRITES

Thorsby, Alabama, August 12-22

To My Fellow Democratic Voters, of the 15th., Senatorial District of Alabama.

I take this method of extending to you my thanks, for your support in the recent primary, and the nomination as Senator of this District, and hope that you will never have cause to regret, my nomination, and if elected I will endeavor to represent, the best inertest of the people in the Legislature and sincerely hope, that I may ever remember that I am a servant nad not a Boss, and to those who voted for my opponents, permit me to say that it was your privelege, and you exercised the right of chocie, just as I did or any other Democrat, and I beg you to count me as loyal to you in public matters of legislation, as to any other citizen, and I assure you that I feel the responsibility, and will need your cooperation and friendship as citizens of the great State of Alabama, in the discharge of my duty as a member of the Legislature.

And again permit me to thank you, and remind you that we have one country, a common interest and that each of us should cherish the time honored principles of Democracy, the government of the people, by the people, and for the people and to this end, I shall Labor, with the hope of your friendship sympathy, and cooperation,

Sincerely yours,
S. M. ADAMS

We must hand it to the labor leaders for having been able so far to steer clear of the traps and pitfalls set for them by the shrewd political schemes arranged against them, but we predict, that sooner or later, the maze of words and propostions will become so intricate and misleading that labor will be caught napping and will fall into the hands of the enemy.

SHADY GROVE

Dear Editor:— May I have space in your paper for a few words.

Sunday morning, just as everybody was ready to start to Sunday School, the Good Lord sent us a blessing that we had been praying for. It just rained and rained the service out, but no one complained, for all were too thankful.

W. A. Callaway, J. M. Mims and J. F. Dubose attended the Sunday school convention at Thorsby last Thursday and report a nice time, and oh, my! plenty of good dinner.

Mr. J. F. Dubose and family visited Mt. Creek recently.

Mr Tom McKenny and family of Myrtlewood, have been visiting relatives here.

Mr. Oscar Howard and family have returned to their home at Pell City after an extended visit to friends and relatives here.

Mr. J. J. Johnson, of Walnut Creek, was a visitor to Mr. Dubose last Sunday.

Mrs. L. A. Jackson and baby, of Owensboro, Ky. and Miss Sallie Brooks, of Montgomery visiteed Mrs. Dubose the past week.

Mr. Jeff Mims and family visited at Verbena last Saturday.

HAVE IT FIXED—The undersigned is prepared to make all your old tinware good as new. All kinds of Saldernig done.

THE SITUATION IN CHILTON COUNTY.

There are two tickets in the field for election to the various offices in Chilton County. Of course, we are going to support the democratic nominees to the best of our ability and with all the earnestness and sincerity of which we are capable.

We are going to do this as a matter of principle, and because we feel absolutely assured that the best interest of our county can be secured by electing that ticket. We are not going to back them for election by any argument that to these particular individuals belong all the honesty and all the capability that exists in the county, for that would not be true. We believe them every one to be capable and honest gentlemen, however, and in every way eminently fitted to give this county as able and as clean an administration as could any gentlemen selected either in or out of Chilton County. At the same time, we would indeed feel sorry for our County if, in these few men, it could be truthfully or even reasonably be said that we had embodied all the honesty and all the capability that exist in the county.

As we have said before, we wish to reiterate that statement here, that neither the religeous nor political creed of any man makes him either capable or incapable, honest or disonest so fa ras the name of that creed is concerned. It is what is inside of that man.

We are acquainted with any number of clean, high-toned gentlemen in Chilton County whom we feel honored to call our friends, who vote the republican ticket. We feel like we know they are mistaken in their choice of a party, but we also feel like we know they are honest in their choice and we respect them and like them just the same. Friendship is too sacred a thing to be sacrificed on the alter of political differences.

We learned during the campaign before the primary that one candidate on the republican ticket, in the heat of debate said: "That the sorriest republican in the county was better than the best democrat." Knowing this gentleman as we do, really liking him personally we were shocked when we heard that he had made that remark. We had always considered him one of the shrewdest campaigners we ever knew and we could hardly realize that he would make such a break as that. He was wise enough to know that not a single member of the audience could believe that statement even if they wanted to ever so bad and his long business and political experience in Chilton county made it absolutely impossible for him to believe himself. There are sorry men in both parties, but there are also good men in both parties and a comparrison like that is absolutely meaningless.

When you calmly and seriously study out what each of the great parties stand for, it appears to us that the democratic party is the only one that is even patterned after or attempts to represent the great principles of free government as outlined in the declaration of independence and the original constitution, as framed by those grand old patriots and statesmen who visualized our great system of freedom and founded on that vision this the greatest government on earth.

Again, it appears to us that it would be much wiser policy for our County to fall in line with the sentiment of the "Solid South" and of our state and work in harmony with the party in power, than to attempt to play a lone hand politically and by so doing, being absolutely out of touch and sympathy with the very friends, and the only friends, who could and would lend us a helping hand in time of need.

There are several other cogent and important reasons why it appears to us that Chilton County should vote the democratic ticket, but, perhaps, we may refer to them later. The main thought we wish to stress now is, that we are all neighbors and friends, living under exactly the same conditions and affected alike by any and all laws. Both parties are blessed with large numbers of as good conscientious people as live anywhere and unfortunately, both parties are burdened with an element of lawless, disreptutable induvuals that neither party is responsibile for. Good people may, and do differ politically and still live in peace, harmony and friendship, and that is the condition we wish to contend for in Chilton County.

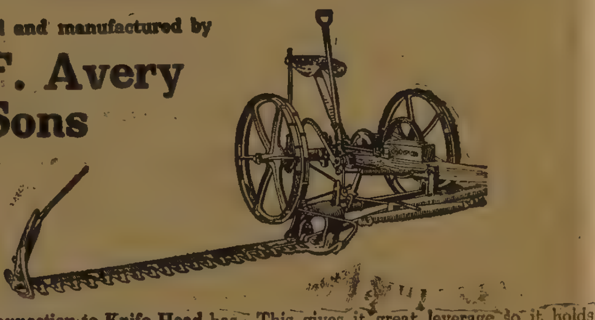
Valuable Features of "Champion" Mowers

Now owned and manufactured by

B. F. Avery & Sons



Pitman Connection to Knife Head has a self-adjusting device that automatically takes up wear—one of the most valuable improvements ever made on a mower.

Outer End of Pitman Crank Box is closed and an oil chamber is provided that holds enough oil for several hours' cutting.

Coupling Yoke that attaches the cutter bar to the frame is unusually wide.

This gives it great leverage so it holds the cutter bar securely in alignment even in the heaviest cutting.

The mechanism that drives the knife is simple, strong and smooth running.

Champion steel self dump rakes and Champion side delivery rakes are worthy running mates for Champion Mowers.

Come in and look these machines over.

PUBLIC SCHOOL OPENS SEPT 4th.

The Clanton Public School will open the first Monday in September. There will be no public exercises. We shall begin work that day. I regard a protracted series of hot-air speeches as worse than useless and announce that such will not be indulged in this year at opening. We want the children to be on hand at 8:30 with what books they have. If new books are needed, they will be specified on the first day Upchurch Drug Company has been given a list of books to be uesd and will have a supply on hand.

DO NOT BUY BOOKS UNTIL TOLD BY YOUR TEACHER

There may be a few changes in books so I am making this announcement to save you money. Under the law we now have a right to adopt our own supplementary books and I presume every teacher will exercise that right.

Since the policy of the school in general can not be carried out without the cooperation of the entire faculty, I do not feel that I have the right to make any announcement until I have had the approval of my Co-workers.

In view of the fact that a good deal of expense has been incurred in recovering and renovating the building that a full-time janitor will be necessary to take proper care of building and grounds, and view of our deficit last year with no hope of any increase revenue this year, the board feels that it is necessary to charge a fee of $3.50 per pupil. This will hardly cover expense of coal, janitor, crayon, and repairs.

The board will consider it a special favor if as many can do so will pay the fee before school opens so as to avoid all coming at once. Be sure you keep your receipt.

Althou the faculty has been arranged once befoer. I give for information, the names of our teachers again.

Sixth Grade, Miss Woodie Rawlinson Fifth, Mrs. Curry D. Thomas; Fourth, Miss Clyde Young; Third Miss Bessie Floyd; Second Miss Eula Mae Vines; First, Miss Alice Selman and Miss Rena Pinson.

HOW TO HAVE A BIG DEFICIT

Canada is learning a great deal about how deficits can be grown under favorable conditions. Government operated-railroad lines in that country are said to have produced mounting deficits yearly going from $27,769,577 in 1918 to $56,673,234 in 1921, the total deficit in the four years being approximately $200,000,000.

As the Houston Post says: "The States' attempt at operating the roads during the war was even more disastrous both to the Federal treasury and to the country's transportation system. It would be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire to put the responsibility of operating the mines and railroads on the Federal government in the hope of ending the strike. Some other way must be found."

"EVERBODY GIVING CONGRESS HELL."

Here is the opinion of Congressman William R. Wood of Indiana, a stalwart Republican, spoken on the floor of the House, November 17; concerning bublic opinion of this Republican Congress:—

"I know the very serious condition that is prevailing throughout the land. I am only speaking the truth when I say that the people of this country employed in every vocation and in every character of business are giving this Congress hell. They are doing it because we have done nothing to stimulate business. They are doing it because we have done nothing to give employment to the unemployed. They are doing it because we have done nothing to benefit the farmer and stimulate the prices of the farmers' products.

Representative Wood has since been made chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, charged with the reelection of the Congress he denounced on the floor of the House as a Do-Nothing Congress.

MENTAL MAKEUP HOUSE NEVER SO LOW SAYS CONGRESSMAN KAHN.

"I have never known a time when the mental makeup of the House of Representatives was so low as it is today."Rep. Julius Kahn (Rep.), chairman o the House Committee on Millitary Affairs, in a speech before the Actors' Order of Friendship of New York.

Mr. H. E. Smith Route 5, was in town Saturday. Mr. Smith is one of those true democrats, he believes in "a government of the people, for the people and by the PEOPLE.

FARMER'S ORGANIZINQ TO MARKET CROP IS WHAT IS HURTING

Cable dispatches from London convey the information that Sir E. Mackay Edgar, quite a figure in textiles in the spinning world of Britain, is expressing his fears in the Saturday Review that there are possiblities of a world cotton famine, due to the aravages of the boll weevil in America, which, he estimates will consume fifty per cent of our crop. He suggests more attention be paid to the pending parliamentary measure to tax cotton imports for the purpose of providing funds to develop British Empire cotton growing. Sir Mackay Edgar believes that the boll weevil will get at least half the American cotton crop, and that will mean that only 80 per cent of the world's 10,000,000 spindles workng full time could obtain enough cotton. He thinks under these circumstances cotton growing would be sufficiently remunerative to make it attractive and would result in a large production throughout the British Empire.

Sir Mackay Edgar advances nothing new. It has been a matter of much discomfort for many years to our cousins in the tight little isle that we had a practical natural monopoly upon the bulk of the world's short-staple cotton. It may be that Mackay-Edgar—precious old beam—is really worried about the boll weevil, y'know, but it's a good bet of a doughnut to dollars that he is much more worried about the really businesslike and efficient manner in which the cotton producer is going about marketing his crop this coming season. Heretofore the hapless grower had to take about what Mackay, old top, and his kind were willing to allow. And it was never anything much.

The value of cotton enhanced rapidly after it left the hands of the producer, and when it came back to us in the shape of English lawns and ginghams and the like, it was very much enhanced; and the spinners of New England rather had a community of interest with Lancashire in keeping the prices down, and so the situation has gone along very comfortabley until recent years

The cotton producers have made various attempts to pool or to sell under some plan which would prevent dumping of huge qunatities on the market—preventing the spinners and speculators from gobbling it all up early in the season, but these effotrs have almost invariably amounted to very little and in the end have come to grief because of the injection of politics. Now there is a widespread marketing organization all over the cotton belt which is strictly a business organization, which has sufficient cotton pledged to insure a fair price—and that is about what is biting Sir Edgar.

As for the English attempt to raise cotton, it has been going on for considerable time in Egypt and in India. Some ten or ffteen years ago the Britishers hired expert plantation managers from Mississippi, took an assortment of expert cotton choppers and pickers and plenty of American seed, and were going to put the Southerners out of business. Something went wrong and kept getting worse and, after spending a lot of money and not starting any live competition, the attempted competition petered out. If the Britsihers could possibly raise cotton in competition with the South they would have been doing it long ago.—Birmingham News.

ADMINSTRATION AND CONGRESS JUST DRIFTING

BORAH

The deplorable state into which we have fallen is not the fault of our governmental system. As a matter of fact our system of government works almost to perfection with a party program or policy to work upon. The whole diffiiculty in this Congress is the lack of such a program or policy.

Almost everyone realizes that this was no time to revise the tariff. The economic conditions existing at the present time are such as to foredoom that effort to failure. It is impossible to produce anything approaching a scientific tariff. And yet, with everybody knowing that, the tariff bill is permitted to drift out here.

And so it goes—drift! It is impossible to get anywhere in Congress and it is impossible to get a negative or affirmative declaration from the White House. Condition just move along until we get into the hopeless and absolutely deplorable mess.—Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), in interview with Kansas City Star.

THE GRA[illegible]

[illegible] here." The generalizing legend would not convey the exact truth, but would approximate it to a suprising degree.

John A. Lusk, who served a term on the first elective commission, beginning in 1904, was beaten for reelection. After serving two years as president of the Commission, Braxton Bragg Comer was elected Governor, but his victory was due to the success with which he convinced the people that he, a friend of the people and enemy of the rate schedule of that time. He had his hands tied on the Railroad Commission because the two associate members would not co-operate with him. It is also true that Charles Henderson, after serving as president of the commission, was elected Governor. In fact, he proved the one real exception to the rule. Sam P. Kennedy, his successor in the presidency of the commission, after being elected once by a slender plurality, was in the end beaten by A. G. Patterson. Leon McCord and Frank [illegible] were beaten [illegible] and B. H. Cooper [illegible] two terms only to be overwhelmed at last.

Every man who has been elected by popular vote, either to the old Railroad Commisison, or its successor, the Public Service Commission, has won by attacking the incumbents on the ground that they were too easy on the "interest." Once they were in office, however, the responsibilities of their position, the obligation of their oath, tended to make them more judicial and less partisan. It became necessary for them to be fair and considerate even of public utilities who had cause pending before the commissionsion. In the end, however, they paid for their sense of justice with their political prestige.

An old member of the commission, who long since tasted defeatt for doing what he believed to be his duty, said the other day:

"No man can serve on the commission, do his whole duty in face of his oath of office and hope for a secure political future in the State. I say that eight cases out of ten brought before the commisison by utilities are so convincingly presented and supported by such formidable data that if presented to a jury any jury would give the affirmative charge. As a matter of fact, at least half the petitions of utilities are denied by all commissions, or their objections to other petitions overruled.

"In the nature of things, arguments are presented to the commission much more fully than they can be presented to the whole people. And as the people are ill-informed about corporation affairs, and I fear often selfish when their own interests are concerned, they will tear down the greatest idol of the people who is true to his oath and just to all petitioners. I should't pick the Public Service Commission as a stepping stone to higher place. It's more like a tombstone than a steping stone."—Advertiser.

IT COSTS MUCH LESS TO DO IT NOW

Prices are down. Delay in painting because of price is no longer an excuse.

But regardless of price, it always costs more not to paint than to paint. Decay and rust never let up. And the very next rainstorm may thoroughly soak unprotected spots and start real deterioration.

Suppose that every five years you invest $20 in good paint. That's $4 a year. Neglect will cost you many times that amount some day in building materials.

And that $20 investment in good paint will add several hundred dollars to the value of your home, besides preserving your pride in an attractive place, which in itself is worth something.

Good paint we say. Cheap paint isn't cheap—it's expensive.

Lucas Tinted Gloss Paint, covering 350 to 400 square feet, two coats, costs less to start with than cheap paint which covers 200 to 250 square feet. And enduring much longer, this first cost is still further reduced.

The Reason for this is that the Lucas materials are ground days longer, more rigid laboratory tests are made, and a larger percentage of high grade linseed oil is used—which not only gives a more beautiful gloss but causes deeper penetration and greater durability.

There's only one place in town to get this paint—at our store. We have the exclusive agency for it—and proud of it.

BUSINESS CHANGES

Some of the business changes that have taken place in the city during the past week are as follows:

Mr. Wiley Littlejohn has opened up a general merchandise store in the stand formely occupied by Mr. "Baz" Foshee on west second avenue.

Mr. G. O. McKee has mooveed his Market and general fruit, vegetable and fancy grocery store in the building formely occupied by the Ideal Theatre. The interior of this building has been entirely remodeled and renovated and Mr. McKee has roomy and well ventilated quarters.

Messers Davis and Ware have had the former stand of the McKee Market entirely made over and have opened up a first class short order cafe there.

LANDMARK TO GO

The large two story wooden building that has stood for so many years on the west side of the railroad crossing on second avenue in being torn down and the owner Mr. Albert Headley, informs us that he has let the contract to replace the old structure with a double story brick building that will be arranged for a business house on the ground floor and an appartment house above.

This will be a decided improvement in the appearance of that part of the city and will be a needed addition to the facilities to accommodate the constantly growing business of Clanton.

CHILTON COUNTY MASONIC CONFERENCE HELD AT JEMISON

Last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the town of Jemison was thronged with Masons who had assembled there to attend the annual Conference of Chilton County.

The meeting was well attended and much interest was manifested by al. those present and they were especially pleased by the flattering showing made by the delegates as to the condition of the great order in the county.

The convention was called to order and the several sessions presided over by Col. J. B. Atkinson, W. M.

Officers were elected for the next year as follows:

C. C. Conway, of Jemison, W M. E. N. Bently, of Thorsby, S. W. J. L Johnson, of Clanton, J. W. G. T. Guy of Mt. Creek, S. D. S. F. Shaw, Jemison. J. D. H. A. Harris, Clanton, Sec'y and Treas. Mr. Freeman, of Jemison, was named as Tyler.

FROM TEXAS IN A FORD

Mr. C. G. Massingale, of Mineola, Texas, in company with his son has been visiting the family of Mr. W. D. Speigner for a few days, was in our office Monday and give us some interesting data on automobiling from Texas here in a Ford Coupe.

They travelled a distance of 750 miles in a little less than 3 days. They had absolutely no car trouble, not even a puncture or blow out and took air in their tires only one time. They consummed 38 gallons of gas and 3 gallons of oil and the total expense of the trip for both of them, including hotel bills and so on, was only $22.00

Mr. Masingale moved from Coosa County to Texas 18 years ago and is enthusiastic over the Lone Star State. He is a close observer and saw all the crops from there here and says they average fairly good. He and his son are now visiting over in Coosa and will return home in about two weeks. He is a great booster for good roads.

OUR FIRST BALE

Clanton received her first bale of cotton for this season last Monday. It was grown by Mr. J. R. Powell, who lives about 4 miles east of town and weighed 463 pounds. It was ginned by the Clanton Mill and Gin Co., classed as middling, bought by Mullins and Moore and brought 23½ cents per pound.

Several "first bales" have been sold in towns further south but this is the best price we have heard of one bringing.

This is sorter first fruit of the harvest to come and in a few days now the gins will all be humming, the merchants all smiling the farmers all happy and ye editor likewise rejoicing in the returned prosperity to our section. The prospect is promising for a good yield in this immediate vicinity this year. Let everybody smile.

We do Job Printing.

LETTER FROM N. C.

Murfeesboro N. C. Aug. 14
Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton Ala:

I received my paper today and have just finished reading it. It sure makes me want to see all of my friends again, seems like I have been away for quite a time, but I like this part of the country fine. It is a fine farming country, the people here have three main money crops, Cotton, Peanuts, and Tobacco. You can ride all day and see nothing but large fields of all three. I was working in a field of cotton today, that touched me above the waist and the planter told me that he would gather close to two bales to the acre. They do not know what a boll weevil is up here, and from the peanut field they gather an average of 1200 pounds to the acre and the market is now about .05 a pound. So you see they have another nice money crop that our planters in Alabama don't plant to any extent. And I see large Tobacco fields near The class or grade is mostly cigar wrapping Tobacco.

There is one thing that I am really ashamed of and that is, North Carolina is away ahead of our state in building good roads. Alabama voted a "good roads" bond issue, where is it now? Are they building them, or is the money being paid to high salary officials? And we are not getting the benefit of it in our rural communities.

I intend to make some kodak views of our part of the New road when we get it under construction and will mail them to you. So the Democrats in Chilton county can see what Democrats in North Carolina are doing.

If you think it would be interesting to any of the News readers to read this, you have my consent to publish it.

Best wishes to everybody
R. H. WEEKS

SEWER REPAIRED

The storm of a week or so ago blew down a large tree in the swamp back of the High School, which tore up a section of the main discharge pipe of the sanitary sewer system and effectually stopped it up. Being away out of town and in a dense swamp the trouble was not immediately discovered

Last week Concilman White took it upon himself to make a personal investigation of the trouble and succeeded in locating the cause, as related above.

The sanitary department took immediate steps to have the proper repairs made and also had the entire volume of stagnant water in that part of the swamp treated with a copious dose of lime and coal oil. You could not enumerate in figures the number of embryonic mosquitoes that they then destroyed.

MORE HOMES BUILDING

We notice four new houses in process of construction in the Gowan addition. Among the number we see one going up on the lot where the elegent home of Mr. Guy Higgins burned some time ago.

Hard times, short crops, railroad strikes and so on happen these days and all hurt us some, but these plucky [illegible] go right [illegible] building up and broadening out. Clanton is bound to grow and we should all boost for all we are worth.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER

During the week one of the most important real estate deals that developed was the purchase, by G. C. Polk, of the splendid home formely owned and occupied by Mr. J. [illegible] Thomas and family.

We know none of the details nor what price the place sold at, but we are certain it brought a high figure for it is one of the most desirable homes in the city. We learn that Mr. Polk and family will occupy it at once.

Some of the people in Chilton county can dip their cattle in the river, some have creeks close by and can dip in them, but what are those going to do who do not live handy to either.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR CATTLE DIPPING

In discussing this unfortunate question we want to make it clear in the outset that we hold no brief either for or aginst the dipping of cattle. We do not profess to be able to say authoritatively whether it results in benefit or injury to the cow, or even whether it is essential or not. In fact we are not going into the merits or demerits of cattle dipping in Chilton County or elsewhere. What we want to do is to correct some untrue statements that have been made in regard to who or what party is responsible for the cattle dipping law. We have some politicians in this county, its seems, who have forgotton that there is any other government or law making power out side of Chilton county. Were that true there might be some reasons to "blow off" about who made certain laws and for what purpose they were made.

Now let's proceed to investigate this law. You will all no doubt remember that about 14 years ago the cattle tick first came in to public notice out in Texas. The people were, and are, extensive cattle raisers. It was their main money crop in a large part of the state. These Texas cattle are grazed on the plains until they are old enough for market and then they are shipped to the great grain belt in the north west, where there is plenty of cheap grain, and are fed for awhile and made into what we know as Kansas City beef.

Those people in the grain belt also are large cattle raisers at home and depend on their herds for a money crop.

Well, the tick appeared in Texas in force and the first they knew they were introduced among the cattle in the north west by these Texas herds that were being shipped in. Of course, the cattle raisers there registered a great kick as the tick was rapidly spreading over all their cattle territory.

They had no power within themselves to prohibit the shipping of the Texas cattle into their state, so they took the matter up with Congress, and, while Congress did not have the power to go within a state and make laws for it, they did have the power to make a law that would control interstate shipments, so they passed the cattle quarantine law that w ehave in force today and it is the same law that is requiring the farmers in Chilton county, and elsewhere all over the United States, where ticks exist, to dip their cattle.

The farmers of Alabama, and a great many other states, raise more cattle than they can consume at home, consequently if they dispose of this surplus at all it must be shipped outside of the state. If we have ticks in our state, under this national lawpassed by Congress, we cannot ship our cattle beyond our state lines. So, under that law, each state in the Union, whose people needed to ship their surplus of cattle to markets beyond their borders, was forced to adopt this same law and enforce its requirements or a rigid quarantine would bar their cattle from a free market.

We hope we have made this so clear that any one can understand it. Only a politician who is intending to discount the ignorance of his constituenty would attempt to make the dipping of cattle a political issue in a county, or try to insinuate that cattle dipping is an evil of democracy. The national Congress passed a cattle quarantine law at a time when it was republican. It has been republican now for more than two years and if this law is such an evil why have they not repealed it?

If we are going to have an open market for the surplus cattle in Alabama we are going to be forced to dip our cattle until these United States inspectors who are directing and looking after the eradication of the cattle tick give us a clean bill of health so far as tick infection is concerned. Right or wrong-an evil or a blessing-the tick eradication law of the United States has us in its toils and the sooner we bow to the inevitable the sooner we will cease to be annoyed by this question.

As a local issue in politics the dipping of cattle can not possibly have any part. Our county has already voted against dipping by an immense majority, but what good did it do? Almost the entire state is against us and has already cleaned up. The national government has said we must eradicate the tick or our State must stay out of the cattle market. So there you are. No politics at all, but a very present condition to meet.

WAIT FOR THE STRIKE TO SETTLE

Cotton is opening rapidly now and in just a few days a large amount will be ready fo rmarket. We would not advise farmers to hold for 30 cents but we do think it unwise to put any of it on the market while the strike has transportation lines all out of whack. Spot cotton sholud not get less than 20 to 25 cents for the present crop.

There is an old adage, "If a man has a thousand friends he has none to spare, but if he has one enemy, he will meet him everywhere."

CHILTON COUNTY CATTLE QUARANTINED

As will be seen by reference to a legal notice carried in another column the Chief State Veteranian has again placed the cattle of our county on the quarantine list.

This means, we suppose, that we will either have to consume all the cattle we accumulate at home or else arrange to slaughter here and ship as dressed beef and risk a rigid inspection at the other end of the line.

This is an unfortunate sitiuation for our farmers to be placed in but we see no way how it can be avoided.

Even if the people were in favor of dipping their cattle, which we materially doubt, our county has paid for building vats once, they have been destroyed as you all know, and we doubt the fianical ability of the county to build more at this time. So there you are.

What we want to know is, will the government begin work on the Muscle Shoals dam October the 1st or not. It seems like they passed a bill to that effect but this Congress has pasesd and re-pased so many bills that never became active facts that we are always at a loss to know when they really mean it.

Always send the editor your name along with everything you write for the paper. He won't print it if you don't want him to, but your name is always a guarantee of good faith with him.

Vardaman come very near getting by with a come back over in Mississippi. When the run off is over we will know whether the people over there are consistent or whether they are just folks.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Recent investigations made in to the causes for crime suggest some thoughts that should be given wide and earnest publicity.

It is a lamentable fact, recognized by all thoughtful and observant people, that a new standard of morals is growing, especially among young people, that rather eliminates the idea that Sunday School and Church training is worth anything much or that they have any material or reflex action on the life and career of individuals. These investigations that have been carried on among the various criminal institutions all over the country develope the suggestive fact that 76 per cent of the people now confined in prisons of our country are people who never had any Sunday School training.

Another feature that is worth serious consideration is that 34 per cent of these unfortunate creatures claim to be infidels and atheists. Any sane person who can live to the years of maturity in the world and witness every day of his life the wonderful handiwork of Nature and then profess a disbelief in the existence of a Supreme Maker of those wonders is clearly a criminal at heart.

To the Boys and Girls of Clanton and Chilton county we would earnestly commend a consideration of these facts. Aside from any future state you may enter into beyond the grave, your attendance at Sunday School and church and the reverence you may show for all religious institutions is the best recommendation you can carry when you start out to look for a job. No matter how wicked the man may be who wants to employ help, unless he is a bank robber or something like that, he wants to employ the very best and cleanest help he can get and he always looks among the young men who have Sunday School records to their credit.

A good many people seem to think it looks brave and independentent to scoff at religion and make light of the worship of God, but they don't really mean it. They rarely live up to the idea in every day life and they never die that way. As a rule they are the most pitiful and cowardly people on earth when death stares them in the face. Did you ever stop to realize the absolute truth of the proposition that the very bravest thing a boy or a girl can do is to "dare to do right?" There is more honor, credit and glory in being a boy or a girl of that sort, here and hereafter, than anything else you can do.

Try it out boys and girls, and you will be glad you did as long as you live and then some.

THE CITY ELECTION

For the information of all those interested in the selection of officers for the government of the town of Clanton for the ensuing two years we will state that the date for that election is fixed by the Act of the Legislature for the third Monday in September, so you may all make up your tickets and get ready to vote for them on that date.

So far as we are individually concerned it looks like the present board of Councilmen have been about as true, faithful and efficient servants as it is possible to employ. We have not sounded any of them out, but we feel like, if they can be induced to accept the job for two more years, we could hardly be able to make any improvement.

The proper thing to always do is to get all you can honestly for your money. As we do not pay anything for the servicee rendered by our "city dads," we do not imagine there will be any scramble for the offices but if we can get as much excellent service for two more yaers out of this same bunch we feel like it would be wise to ask them to go ahead with the job.

However, we do not presume to dictate. Every voter in Clanton has as much right to name a ticket as we have. We are merely putting you on notice of the time when theese offices must be filled by law, and now its up to you to elect whom you pelase. Go to it.

Not long ago the Age-Herald carried an editorial advocating a more modern and up-to-the minute plan of salvation. How do they get that way? The Christ who made the plan we have been using for 1922 years said that heaven and earth would pass away before one jot or tittle of his plan would pass away. He also said that sure damnation would be the portion of any individual who took from or added to" His plan. You better play safe, brother, and try your ideas of modernity on some less sacred and dangerious subject.

He says the head of any dog will show bacteria indicating rabies, but in almost every case, these bacteria or dormant. Now and then a dog has brain trouble that might develope these bacteria to such an extent that hpdrophobia would result, but cases like that, he says, or even more rare than spinal meningitis in the human. Building

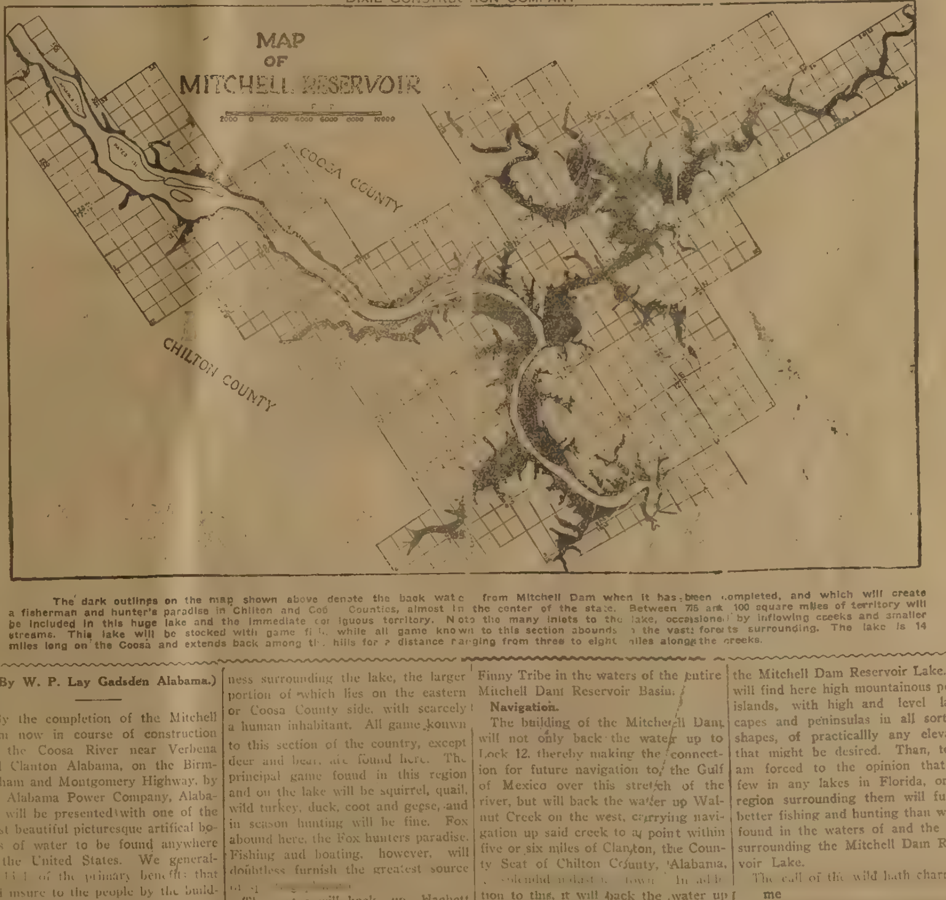
COMPLETION OF MITCHELL DAM WILL BRING TO ALABAMA PITURESQUE GAME PRESERVE

DIXIE CONSTRUCTION COMPANY



The dark outlines on the map shown above denote the back water from Mitchell Dam when it has been completed, and which will create a fisherman and hunter's paradise in Chilton and Coosa Counties, almost in the center of the state. Between 75 and 100 square miles of territory will be included in this huge lake and the immediate contiguous territory. Note the many inlets to the lake, occasioned by inflowing creeks and smaller streams. This lake will be stocked with game fish, while all game known to this section abounds in the vast forests surrounding. The lake is 14 miles long on the Coosa and extends back among the hills for a distance ranging from three to eight miles along the creeks.

(By W. P. Lay Gadsden Alabama.)

By the completion of the Mitchell Dam now in course of construction on the Coosa River near Verbena and Clanton Alabama, on the Birmingham and Montgomery Highway, by the Alabama Power Company, Alabama will be presented with one of the most beautiful picturesque artifical bodies of water to be found anywhere in the United States. We generally think of the primary benefits that will insure to the people by the building of this dam, the improvement of navigation and developments of power, but we rarely stop to think of what might be termed the secondary benefit it will bestow upon the people.

The Mitchell Dam will raise the water about 75 feet high and will back it up 14 miles to the foot of the dam at Lock 12, thereby making the connection for future through navigation over this section of the river to the Gulf of Mexico. The region that will be flooded by the backing up of this water is mountainous and hilly, with several prominent creeks entering this stretch of the river. We have Walnut Creek, Cargyile Creek and Blue Creek entering from the west, with Hatchett Creek, a large confluent, Creek with its several tributaries, Weoguika, Swamp and Pennymotly Creeks entering from the east, all of which the water will back up various distances from two to eight miles, forming beautiful lakes, havens and inlets of all sizes, shapes and fashions, with medium elevations and high mountainous peaks looming up from all directions, while the main body of the lake formed by the channel of the river, from hill to hill, will be from a half mile to a mile and a half wide, 14 miles long Sportmans Paradise.

The lake and region is destined to become a veritable Fisherman and Hunters paradise. There will be about 75 to 100 square miles of remote mountainous forests, a perfect wilderness surrounding the lake, the larger portion of which lies on the eastern or Coosa County side, with scarcely a human inhabitant. All game kouwn to this section of the country, except deer and bear, are found here. The principal game found in this region and on the lake will be squirrel, quail, wild turkey, duck, coot and gegse, and in season hunting will be fine. Fox abound here, the Fox hunters paradise. Fishing and boating, however, will doubtless furnish the greatest source of [illegible]

The water will back up Hachett Creek [illegible] which is a large and very crooked stream. Two miles up from the mouth of Hatchett Creek will be found the little Pennymotely Basin, will be a perfect dream, the mouth of which well be about 200 feet wide between two very high rough hills, with the water at this point about 40 feet deep. Immediately after passing the narrow mouth of this streeam, the basin will be from a quarter to a half mile wide about 2 miles long with many little brooklets, capes and peninsulars leading in from both sides.

The most picturesque basin in this region however, will be that of Weogufka Creek. This creek leads out from Hatchett Creek to the North, with great crooks and bends, practically retracing itself, winding around mountains through hollows and spreading out into beautiful lakes and bodies of water lying from three to six miles out into the interior. This basin is destined to be one of the most unique that eyes of man ever beheld. Another interesting feature in connection with Weogufka Creek, is the dreivation of the name of one of its tributaries, which is Finnycochica Creek. Tradition tells us that the Indians when they inhabited this region were able to make great catches of fish out of this little stream, as a result, the Indians christened it Finnycochia Creek. This is possibly significant of what may be expected of the Finny Tribe in the waters of the entire Mitchell Dam Reservoir Basin.

Navigation.

The building of the Mitchell Dam will not only back the water up to Lock 12, thereby making the connection for future navigation to the Gulf of Mexico over this stretch of the river, but will back the water up Walnut Creek on the west, carrying navigation up said creek to a point within five or six miles of Clanton, the County Seat of Chilton County, Alabama, a splendid industrial town. In addition to this, it will back the water up Hatchett Creek on the east side of the river carrying navigation up this creek to within 7 or 8 miles of Rockford, the County Seat of Coosa County, making possible the development of the mineral and timber resources of this part of said County now lying dormant and would also make navigation more accessible to the busy little town of Rockford and open up the channels of trade in time, from this town and region to all parts of the world.

Lake From Homes.

The Mitchell Dam Reservoir Lake will offer, I might say, hundreds of beautiful lakes from home sites. In Florida land fronting on a lake sells from three to ten times as much as the same class of land back off a lake, and certainly there is not a lake in Florida as beautiful and unique as will be the Mitchell Dam Reservoir Lake. Futhermore, any of the land, even the hill land surrounding the Mitchell Dam Reservoie is richer and more fertile than the average land bordering the Lake Fronts in Florida, and the lands bordering the Mitchell Dam Reservoir will retain most splendidly any fertilizer bestowed upon it, while the Florida lands as a general thing will not.

Lake front lands in Florida are still level and about the same class, with nothing to break the monotony, while one could find almost any kind of a home site the heart could desire: but the Mitchell Dam Reservoir Lake. We will find here high mountainous peaks, islands, with high and level lands, capes and peninsulas in all sorts of shapes, of practicallly any elevation that might be desired. Than, too, I am forced to the opinion that but few in any lakes in Florida, or the region surrounding them will furnish better fishing and hunting than will be found in the waters of and the wilds surrounding the Mitchell Dam Reservoir Lake.

FRANK J. CALLEN.

As Executor of the last will and Testement of William T. Callen, deceased 3 times

Mr. T. M. McSwain, of Route 6 who was operated on some time ago for appendicitis and other complications, was in town Monday. While he is not able yet to do any kind of work, his friends are delighted to see him so far along the road to recovery that he can get out again.

We learn that Mr. Page, of the First National Bank, will occupy with his family the new residence being erected by Mr. Guy Higgins in the lot where the Higgins home was burned some time ago.

The people of Clanton should go to work now and establish a tourist Camp here at once. When the new highway is built there will be at least 10,000 tourist passing through here each season. If we fix them a good camping place a good many of them will stop going and coming. That means that thousands of dollars would be left here in the course of a year that now we never see.

Mr. G. A. Coleman, a prominent citizen of Mapleesville, was in Clanton Monday looking after personal matters.

About that Motor Overhaul Job?

We are turning out several Motor Jobs per day and have added more mechanics to take care of our very large increase in repair work.

We have the only electric driven burning-in-machine in Clanton. Let that next motor job be a Lawrence job.

We appreciate your business.

IT COSTS MUCH LESS TO DO IT NOW

Prices are down. Delay in painting because of price is no longer an excuse.

But regardless of price, it always costs more not to paint than to paint. Decay and rust never let up. And the very next rainstorm may thoroughly soak unprotected spots and start real deterioration.

Suppose that every five years you invest $20 in good paint. That's $4 a year. Neglect will cost you many times that amount some day in building materials.

And that $20 investment in good paint will add several hundred dollars to the value of your home, besides preserving your pride in an attractive place, which in itself is worth something.

Good paint we say. Cheap paint isn't cheap—it's expensive.

Lucas Tinted Gloss Paint, covering 350 to 400 square feet, two coats, costs less to start with than cheap paint which covers 200 to 250 square feet. And enduring much longer, this first cost is still further reduced.

The Reason for this is that the Lucas materials are ground days longer, more rigid laboratory tests are made, and a larger percentage of high grade linseed oil is used—which not only gives a more beautiful gloss but causes deeper penetration and greater durability.

There's only one place in town to get this paint—at our store. We have the exclusive agency for it—and proud of it.

FIRE AT COOPERS

The house of Dr. Eiland, at Coopers was entirely consumed by fire 10 o'clock last Friday night

We learn that the building was partly covered by insurance but that protecton was carriced on the furniture. It is presumed the fire accidental in origin.

We have no estimate of the lost but know it was quite heavy.

[illegible] has been visiting among friends here a few days.

When it comes to painting decorative show window signs we to hand it to Marvin Marcus. He a home product but some of the he has recently done around would be a credit to Broadway York

LAMPTON'S

When your house needs painting use a paint that will withstand the elements. The sun, the rain and general changes of climate work havoc with an inferior paint and make a newly painted house look as though it had not been painted for years. To avoid this use Lampton's house paints which are made of pure white lead, zinc and linseed oil thoroughly ground and mixed in scientific proportions and fully guaranteed by the makers, the old reliable firm of Lampton, Crape & Ramey Co., Incorporated, Louisville, Ky. This paint looks better, wears longer and preserves your property.

Come to us for a free color chart of Lampton's house paint or anything you want in the paint line.

City, thence to Niagara Falls, Cleveland, Chicago, and other eastern cities. It will be recalled that Mrs. Curry owns a large department store in the Capital City. She has not returned but is still making purchases of a large stock of millernery goods for the coming season. The Misses Jones the one having returned to her home in Taladega, the other to her home in Montgomery.

MORE ALABAMA DEVELOPMENT

The Alabama Power Company filed this week an application with the Federal Power Commission for permission to construct four dams on Tallapoosa river to develop hydro-electric power.

This project will develop a 140,000 horse power, all of which will be taken up by textile and other interest located in Alabama. The work will go foward, if the necessary permit is granted, as soon as Mitchell Dam is completed. This means continued work for a number of years to quite a large number of men.

OUR STATE HIGHWAY

The government engineers have agreed to accept the L. & N. bridge for the new Federal and State highway. The railroad proposes to donate it free and so we suppose the Commission will have no futher cause to consider the diverting of the road over among the sand hills of Autauga

Engineers are now making the final survey and will be in Clanton in a few days locating the road northward from Montgomery. The contracts will be let this fall and work will be taken up soon thereafter.

PUBLIC SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

The Clanton Public School will open next Monday at 8:30 o'clock. We will appreciate it if the patrons will pay the incidental fees this week so that we may start in "paid up." Pay at Alred Drug Store.

There has been some wondering as to raising of the amount of the fee It is argued that some schools are being run for six or seven or maybe eight months with no incidental fee, in districts where there is a three mill tax. I do not know. I can not say. I do know that we can run the Clanton school for nine months without charging any fee and still not come out at the end of the year in debt. But we can not TEACH the Clanton school in a way that would give satisfaction to a majority of the patrons without charging a fee. If there is anyone who thinks he can do it, or if there is any group that think they can do it, let him or them put up bond to the extent of the budget for the year and I will gladly resign and will at the same time ask the Board of Education to resign and give anyone a fair chance to try his system of economy.

Mr. Pickens will tell you of his efforts in that respect. When Mr. Gore asked me what I would accept for this year, I told him I would not have accepted one cent less, nor did I ask one cent more. The people in Clanton expect good work from their teachers. To get good work one must pay a good price. Mr. Gore made his report last spring that showed how every dollar was spent to whom it was paid for what purpose. A similar report will be made next spring.

It is too much to say that there will be no hazing this year. I do say that there will be none with my permission. Those caught will receive corporal punishment of the most severe kind that I know how to lay on. Hazing is a cowardly practice and tends to develop the mob violence spirit in children. The Ban is on at the Grammar School.

REV. EZELL BE HERE SUNDAY

New Pastor at First Baptist Church to take Hold

Rev. S. J. Ezell of Eatonton, Ga. has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church here and will fill the pulpit there next Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Everybody invited to come out and take part in these services.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS

Last Tuesday at 2 p. m. the Chilton County Dem. Ex. Committee met in the parlors of the Hotel Wilson.

A large attendance was on hand and a very enthusiastic spirit was manifested.

Mr. W. W. Fox was re-elected as chairman and Col. L. F. Gerald secretary for the next two years without opposition.

Routine business was attended to and a special committee, consisting of the democratic candidates, was appointed to meet at the store of Bowen L. Jones next Wednesday at 10 a. m. to complete the final arrangements for the campaign.

Will print a more complete report of both meetings next week.

DIED

Mrs. Mollie Belle Jones, aged 23 years, died at the Hospital Thursday night August 24 and was buried the following day at Mountain Springs.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. William Wesley Jones and a 7 month old infant.

O. L. Davenport, of Mulbery, was in town Monday.

Prof J. A. Mullins, Route 5, was in town Monday.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Hugh F. Mullins who was taken to a local hospital in Montgomery last week is doing well and it is thought that he will soon be well again.

MOVING DAY COMING

Mr. Joe W. Littlejohn, who has just had completed out on North 10th street a nice bungalow home, has moved his family there this week.

We learn that Mr. M. B. Arant will occupy the house left vacant by the removal of Mr. Littlejohn.

It is a wonder why poor people want to live, but they do. To have to go half clothed and half fed with debts one can not pay haunting ones footsteps by day and making horrible his dreams at night looks like it would make the prospect of the grave restful and inviting. But it does not. Hope springs eternal in the human breast and the uncertainty beyond the grave makes cowards of us all.

WELLS—BURNETT

Mraried last Sunday at 10 a m. Mr. Oscar Wells and Miss Bessie Maye Burnett, Rev. A. C. Wells, grandfather of the groom, performing the ceremony.

Both of these young people are well known in the county and have many friends who wish for them a long prosperous and happy life.

Mr. W. W. Fox is on the job again regulary, almost good as new, and everybody is glad.

We do Job Printing.

TO CALL A LONE HAND

The striking railroad shop crafts have worn out all the machinery that the ingenuity of the Washington politicians could invent and still they are likely to stay out. In plain words, they have lost out. Union labor was bought with a price before the present administration went in. The operators paid $12,000,000 for the breaking up of labor unionism in the United States, and Mr. Harding and his pals have got to deliver the goods. In less than twelve months the locomotive brotherhood that has always staid by the operators in every fight to crush other unions, will get their dose in the [illegible] and these very machanists whom the engineers are watching go down in defeat today, will replace the enginemen at the throttle when the roads get ready to call down that autocratic bunch and no one will blame them History does not tell of a time since the inception of union labor in the United States, when the locomotive brotherhood ever so much as raised a finger to aid any other union order when it got in trouble. They have played a lone hand a long time, but their game is going to be called pretty soon

Some interesting developments are going to result when the Republican State Convention meets in Birmingham on September 7.

We have a few democrats in Chilton county who would do the party a great deal more good if they would come out openly for the republican ticket.

The eighth wonder of the world would be a professional politician who would honestly try to do something that would benefit the common people.

Political boomerangs are getting to be real common in Chilton county. Cold facts react rather disastrously on the flimsy propaganda of a careless politician

We are informed that the former quarantine of cattlein Chilton was raised conditionally. If those conditions had been complied with we would not have been quarantined again now.

Sooner or later the war between labor and capital is going to become the real thing in this country unless capital can be induced to be less greedy and labor be given a show at decent living

Vardaman has false teeth and high blood presure and can not make stump speeches but he manages to lead the ticket for Senator in Mississippi. Perhaps this fact indicates that the people are fed up on "hot air" stump oratory and the silent sow is getting the slop these days.

The Chilton County democrat who indulges himself in dismal wails of certain defeat in November is himself contributing to that defeat more, perhaps, than if he were to openly take the field in opposition to the democratic ticket.

The administration at Washington claims that Ford is not going to close down his works for a lack of coal, but because he is overstocked with cars and wants to sell out this surplus before he makes any more. If that is true, why is it you can't buy a Ford car for spot delivery? If you order a Ford car you will probably have to wait three months before your order can be filled. They have been preaching a coal shortage and have appointed Hoover to portion out the supply, why could Ford not be hit the same as anyone else?

The bidding off of the Jefferson county oil and gas contract by the Standard Oil Company is real ammusing. Three other oil companies put in bids but all were a little above the Standard. They go through all that monkey business to be in line with the law, but everybody knows there was no actual competition. All of those big corporations have their own particular "Zones of Trade" and Jefferson county belongs in the Standard Oil zone. The others bid as a blind to the public. They know exactly how much to bid and not get in the way of the Standard. These are wonderful days for trusts to thrive and hold up the public with impunity. We have plenty of law but it wont bite anybody but the consumer.

ARE YOU DOING YOUR PART?

As a Chilton county democrat are you doing your part, are you erally doing anything for the success of the party in November? Do you want to win and if so, are you willing to help win?

From our point of observation it looks exactly like there was mighty little interest being manifested and mighty little effort being put forth by the party to win out this fall. If you really do not want to carry the election in November we can easily understand your attitude. But if you do wish to be successful your absolute lack of interest is beyond our comprehension. If a winning campaign can be waged by any organization or party without either interest or effort, then we have lived all these years and failed to learn how it is done.

The policy of everybody sitting down and waiting for the other fellow to do it all has put the party in Chilton county where it is today. We must be united absolutely as a party, and we must every one put up a fight to the finish if we either expect success or deserve it. The effort to work tricks within the party lines for the sake of a little patronage from Montgomery later on is one of the surest plans to insure our defeat in November. We want to impress this fact on the minds of every democrat in the county, for this is another dangerous rock that has been disastrous to the party in this county in days gone by. No real true democrat, worthy of either a name or a place in the line up of the party, will inject such an issue into this campaign before the election. If he wishes to aspire to an appointment he can at least make himself worthy of that appointment by working whole-heartedly for victory for the party now and then wage his claims on the grounds of his fealty to the cause and the party in its time of need.

There is not the slighest doubt but what you can make this fall election a winner if you really want to do it. If we loose in November the absolute failure of the party to do its duty to the cause will be the only reason.

The prospect right now is bright. Victory is within our grasp, but unless the men and women who claim to be democrats will manifest enough interest in the party to engage in an earnest and ceaseless campaign until the last ballot is polled, that victory can very easily slip through our fingers.

The question is. will you do it? Upon your decission rests the fate of your party this fall.

Cotton is beginning to come in quite lively and the face of the average merchant wears a hopeful smile.

Some people are born with Millionair instincts and pauper pocket books. Such individuals are really to be pitied.

That 20 per cent raise in wages at the seel plants and coal mines sounds mighty good. The trick in it all will develop later.

If Harding leaves the strike situation up to Congress, judging the future by the past, it will be at least two years before they will ever do anything about it.

Tom Hefflin and Oscar Underwood are on opposite side of the Soldier Bonus Bill. Tom got on the "opposite" side of the Reserve Banking system also. It looks like he is forming that sort of a habit.

If the professional politicians could all be extradited along with the anarchists and, other undesirable aliens this country of ours would cease to mourn in hunger and poverty for the blessings of life so long denied them. Strikes would trouble us no more. Peace would reign. Millonairs would be a home instea of a hovel.

We would like to suggest to some car drivers that they should remember that they do not own all the road all the time. Other people have some right too. Only half of any road belongs to you at any time and that half is not yours if the other fellow happens to occupy it first. Try to always remember that the invention of the automobile did not entirely abrogate the bill of equal rights.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

The political and governmental situation at Washington is not eliciting widespread admiration. Delays are usuably desirable in legislative work, but they hardly ever win applause form the oulookers. The making of the Underwood Tariff in 1913 was a rather clean-cut. The new schedules, carrying a considerable reduction of duties, were put throught the House by Mr. Underwood, and through the Senate by Mr. Simmons, within a brief period after allowing a proper time for debate. The business world settled down to that new tariff with suprisingly little protest or confusion. By way of contrast, the Fordeny-McCumber tariff does ont impress the country as a well-devised measure. The makers of the Underwood-Simmons tarift did not have the benefit of the labors of a permanent Tariff Commission. The existing Commission was created by virtue of clauses in their legislation of 1913. Chairman Fordney, and his colleagues of the Ways and Means Committee, made very large use of the researches of the Tariff Commission as they formulated the tariff measure, which was sent fully a year ago to the Senate. Average rates were considerably advanced in the Fordney bill on the plea that industrial conditions in Germany and elsewhere abroad required a higher tariff wall to protect our home market. The principle of American valuation was adopted, because of the bewildering variety of conditions under which production is now carried on in European and Oriental countries. After the Fordney bill had been subjected to practically a full year's study and revision by the Senate Finance Committee, it emerged some weeks ago as the McCumber bill with American valuation dropped, and with almost innumerable changes in rates and details when compared with the original Fordney bill.

The prevailing opinion about the pending tariff seems to be quite as unfavorable as it was a month. ago Some of the foremost Republican newspapers of the country are criticing it severely, and very few are endorsing it with any display of warm conviction.—Review of Reviews.

Mr Ed Giles a good citizen of route 2, was in town Saturday.

John Thompson and family, of Selma were here Saturday and Sunday visiting friends and relatives.

If your county had completed its program of cleaning up the cattle tick as they agreed to do when the former quarantine was raised all of this stir and confusion would not have occured now. It is rather an easy matter to put yourself in the position of being in contempt, of a United States law and they have a very impressive way of making you realize it sometimes.

Some people vote with an eye single to the best interest of the country. Some vote like they are told by political friends without taking time to study the issues, and some stop their ears and shut their eyes and go it blind on prejudice. If men and women would only learn to be free American citizens this county would cease to be torn and troubled by so much strife and confusion.

September 7 will be a big day in Democratic circles in Montgamery. The Machine gang is going to try to do away with the primary and go back to the old convention plan. That gang dies hard but we hope the delegates to the meeting in Montgomery will take time to effectually kill them and then complete the job by burying them on the Emmett O'Neal plan "so deep that the arms of the resurrection can never raise them."

A shortage of coal to operate with has forced Henry Ford to close down his vast automobile works on September 16. This puts 105,000 people out of a job. He made every effort to lease a short line of railroad from the Louisville and Nashville so he could operate it and haul coal, not only for his own use, but to supply the people at Detroit with winter fuel. They turned him down because they knew he would have no labor troubles and could operate the road at an advanced wage and reduced freight and still make it pay. An object lesson they did not care to face.

CONGRESSMAN JEFFERS EXPRESSES THANKS

Editor Chilton County News,
Dear Sir:—Through your columns I wish to express my thanks to the voters of Chilton County, and the 4th District, for the splendid vote given me in the Democratic primary August 8th.

It was very gratifying to me to receive the nomination without opposition. It was an expression of confidence that I appreciate deeply and sincerely, and it encourages me to redouble my efforts to serve the whole people of our district faithfully and conscientiously. I feel that I have made progress in the work since I have been here, and I will continue to apply myself diligently.

Although I was without opposition in the primary, I received a very large complimentary vote in every county, for which I am truly grateful.

I urge everybody to work and vote for the success of all the Democratic nominees in the November election.

Cordially and faithfully yours,
LAMAR JEFFERS.

If other towns in Alabama do as much car repairing as is done in Clanton, the upkeep cost of automobiles in the state would astonish the world if you could get it in dollars and cents.

To Our Friends and Customers

We wish to take this opportunity, through our County Papers, to thank our customers for the business they have given us in years past. We feel sure that no one could appreciate your business any more than we, and in return we do our best to give you the best service that can be had.

We have installed another battery of the latest improved Magnolia or Gullett Gins which will give us now a capacity of one hundred bales per day, thereby saving you lots of time by not having to wait at the gin for your cotton to be gined. We will also give you the best sample that can be made from our cotton here.

We again want to thank you for your past favore and ask that you still continue with us and be sure to bring a new customer with you. We will give you the best price for cotton seed that can be had.

Yours very truly,

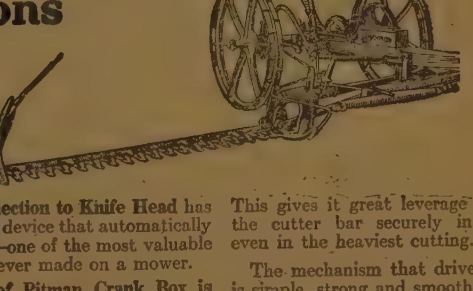
Valuable Features of "Champion" Mowers

Now owned and manufactured by

B. F. Avery & Sons



Pitman Connection to Knife Head has a self-adjusting device that automatically takes up wear—one of the most valuable improvements ever made on a mower.

Outer End of Pitman Crank Box is closed and an oil chamber is provided that holds enough oil for several hours' cutting.

- Coupling Yoke that attaches the cutter bar to the frame is unusually wide. This gives it great leverage so it holds the cutter bar securely in alignment even in the heaviest cutting.

The mechanism that drives the knife is simple, strong and smooth running.

Champion steel self dump rakes and Champion side delivery rakes are worthy running mates for Champion Mowers.

MOVIES URGE TICK ERARICATION

Motor Driving Machine Tours South in Interest of Profitable Live Stock

Washington, August 26.—Carrying a message of better agriculture and hopes of improved and more profitable livestock, a single motionpicture outfit of the Department of Agriculture is reaching thousands of people in the South. The meetings are held chiefly in school houses, but owing to the small size of many buildings the shows are often put on out of doors. To many persons it is their first motion-picture entertainment. The project of which this outfit is a part, is officially known as preliminary work in tick eradication, and results have shown the practicability of using the silent drama to suppress the serious livestock, disease Texas fever.

Cattle ticks which are the villians in the picture, spread the costly and raving disease against which a large area in the South is still quarantined. Motion pictures have been found to be an ideal method for explaning the life history of cattle ticks, the difference in size and value between tick-infested cattle and healthy animals, and, finally, the many benefits which follow the eradicatian of ticks by systematic dipping. Short talks and the distributions of literature supplement films on the subject.

Miss Delean Watson gave a singing Sunday night, which was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Mr. Editor what are you doing since tomatoes and watermelons are about gone, but think turnip greens will soon come to be big enough to eat.

PICK-A-NINNY

DAUGHERTY'S RESIGNATION NECESSARY

(From Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

President Harding is under no obligations to keep the Attorney General in his cabinet; the moment that Mr. Daugherty becomes a liability instead of an asset, out he should go. The political debt that Mr. Harding owed to Mr. Daugherty has been paid and the administration's interests should now be the first concern of the President.

* *  * * When Mr. Daugherty now says he never received any fee from Morse, he says it with his tongue in his cheek. He well knows that he was double-crossed by a scoundrel whom he had helped out of the penitentiary, and whom he had helped to keep out even after he knew that fraud was alleged to have been practiced on the pardoning power.

There are other reasons to distrust Mr. Daugherty as Attorney General and to desire his retirement. But his connection with the Morse case has become so notorious that his usefulness is greatly impaired and that fact alone serves to make his resignation necessary to the government.

REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION WITHOUT POLICY

(From New York Globe (Rep.)

The three principal pieces of legislation in the present Republican Congress are the bonus bill, the ship subsidy bill, and the tariff bill. Of these three measures it can be said that Congress has been afraid not to pass them. Each of them is a vote-getting measure, although there is danger that each of them will also cause a loss of votes. No attempt has been made to reconcile them to one another They are not parts of a unified economic policy. At neither end of Pennsylvania Avenue is there a least suggestion of a coherent policy.

George M. Adams, of Birmingham, came down Saturday and remained over Sunday with his many friends.

Mrs. Guy Higgins and daughter Francis have returned after several days visiting to Alabama's Metropolis.

Charlie Cox is at home this week from Albertville Ala.

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the general election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 35—Cliett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may levy and collect through their duly constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in, or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their consideration at the next general election, to-wit: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany, and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constitute governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municpal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shal be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election on the amendment proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided, the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for". Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the electors shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. That the votes cast at said election shall be counted, canvassed and tabulated and return made to the Secretary of State in the same manner as in elections of representatives to the Legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendment voted in favor of the same such amendment shall be valid in all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of Alabama. The result of such election shall be made known by the proclamation of the Governor.

Approved November 1, 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 8th day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

THOS. E, KILBY,
Governor.

By the Governor:
WM. P. COBB,
Secretary of State.

READY FOR THE CROP

All three of the large gin and warehouse companies in town have had their eyes on the situation, it seems and from the preparations they have made it is evident they are looking for a bumper crop this fall.

The Planters' Gin and Warehouse Company have just completed a most excellent and modern warehouse on the same site of the one that burned down last winter. It is floored throughout and no cotton in storage will touch the dirt.

Mr. Maddox, the manager of the Clanton Gin and Warehouse Company has also installed new machinery and doubled the capacity of his ginning department. Their warehouse has been entirely overhauled and is prepared now to take care of all business entrusted to them in first class shape.

The Wade Gin and Warehouse Co. has also renovated from top to bottom and are in first class condition to render perfect service to their patrons.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

As mile stones that mark the march of progress of our county towards an era of better times we note with pleasure that those good and hustleing people who have made of. Jemison a thriving mart of business and enterprise, are now building a splendid Junior High School. Their needs for school facilities had become urgent on account of their rapidly growing population. They are to be congratulated and we extend to them our very best wishes. May prosperity ever continue to bless them.

Over in the Western part of the county this same spirit of educational advancement is also being manifested in a tangible form. Our neighbor town of Maplesville, is now having constructed a large and modern building in conformity to state plans, to accommodate the demand there for a Junior High. They propose to have their house ready to organize their new school in the fall

Th spirit is also moving in the minds of the good people in and around Pletcher and indications point to a speedy development over there of plans that will materealize into a large new school building in the very near future.

The educational spirit is what we need and we are glad to note such a splenidd and fruitful awakening along that line. No better evidence could be afforded to prove the truth and sincerity of this spirit of progress than these modern school buildings that are springing up over the county.

A flapper caught millionaire Chandler, of Atlanta, just as easy. She cajoled him in to her state room of a steamer and, of course, "hubby" come in on them. Now they are suing him for $100,000 damages. He ought to pay something for being caught by such a transparant trick, but you could hardly call the award damages for evidently there was nothing he mailers.

What has bcome of the presidential boom launched some weeks ago to make Henry Ford president? They must have filed it away in cold storage for preservation until the time is nearer at hand. We believe Henry would run alright if he would line up with one of the dominant parties, but independent tickets don't thrive in this country often.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENING

The county High School will open Monday, September 4th. All students who expct to attend should enter on that date if possible. Delinquent students usually find it very hard to make up lost work. All students should be prepared to pay their fees the day of entrance. A student cannot be enrolled and properly classified until this is done. Monday will be devoted to the registration and classification of students. Assignment of lessons will be made on Monday also. Regular class room work will begin on Tuesday.

IT COSTS MUCH LESS TO DO IT NOW

Prices are down. Delay in painting because of price is no longer an excuse.

But regardless of price, it always costs more not to paint than to paint. Decay and rust never let up. And the very next rainstorm may thoroughly soak unprotected spots and start real deterioration.

Suppose that every five years you invest $20 in good paint. That's $4 a year. Neglect will cost you many times that amount some day in building materials.

And that $20 investment in good paint will add several hundred dollars to the value of your home, besides preserving your pride in an attractive place, which in itself is worth something.

Good paint we say. Cheap paint isn't cheap—it's expensive.

Lucas Tinted Gloss Paint, covering 350 to 400 square feet, two coats, costs less to start with than cheap paint which covers 200 to 250 square feet. And enduring much longer, this first cost is still further reduced.

The Reason for this is that the Lucas materials are ground days longer, more rigid laboratory tests are made, and a larger percentage of high grade linseed oil is used—which not only gives a more beautiful gloss but causes deeper penetration and greater durability.

There's only one place in town to get this paint—at our store. We have the exclusive agency for it—and proud of it.

Mesdames Luckie and Alverson Entertains

One of the most delightful affairs of the season was the "42" party given by Mesdames Luckie and Alverson at the pretty new home of Mrs. Luckie last Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. George Nicholinson. Arriving the guest were served delicious fruit punch by little Misses Luckie and Minor from a beautifully appointed punch table buried in flowers. The tables for the interesting games were placed in the reception room and dining room which had been made more attractive with mid summer flowers. At the conclusion of the games the hostess assisted by Mesdames McSwain and Simpson served a delicious ice cream. About twenty friends enjoyed this lovely hospitality.

Miss Jonnie Davis has returned to her home in Montgomery after a pleasant visit to friends here.

Miss Sula Mae Speer returned to Birmingham Sunday afternoon after visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Seals and little son have gone to Mississippi after a plesant visit to Mrs. Seals' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Davis.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. M. L. White was the charming hostess to the Methodist Missionary Society. The spacious porch was attractive with pot plants and roses which made a lovely setting where the guests were entertained. The meeting was opened by the president Mrs. J. C. Jones and prayer by Mrs. B. M. Roberts. The president read a chapter on the life of John which was interestingly discussed. After the regular business, the meeting closed to meet with Mrs. N. A. Kicker on Sep 18th. The hostess assisted by Mesdames Roberts and Nix served delicious sandwitches and tea to the followin Mesdames Luckie, Nix J. C. Jones Kicker, Armstrong McDaniel, Erving Wilson, B. M. Roberts, Broadhead, B. L. Jones, Robert Jones, O. O. Roper.

STROCK—ANDERSON

A card to the business Manager of the News from Mr. Judson Strock, of Verbena, contained the information that he was on his way to Caryville, Florida, to wed Miss Rosa Anderson, of that place.

He added however, that the bride-to-be was an Alabama girl so that makes it all right.

The editor joins with the many friends of Mr. Strock in wishing him a long, prosperous and happy trip on the matrimonial sea.

THE NEW BAPTIST PASTOR

Last Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and again at 8:00 p. m., Rev. S. J. Ezell, the new pastor of the First Baptist Church filled the pulpit there.

The morning hour was taken up by Rev Ezell in a heart to heart talk with the church in regard to what they wanted in a pastor and also what he conceived to be his duty as pastor.

We unhesitatingly pronounce his summing up of the situation the best we have ever listened to from a minister under simular circumstances.

A SUNDAY OUTING

Last Sunday the families of Mr. W. E. Maddox and Mr. H. E. Robinson, one of our next county commissioners, together with a few friends went out to Lock 12 and spent the day most pleasantly.

An elegant dinner was carried along and was agreeably taken care of by the crowd about 12 o'clock.

The entire day was one of quiet pleasure and enjoyment to every one present and will bring many happy memories back to each one of them in the days to come.

DOG DAYS GONE

To all of those who are interested in the matter we will state that what is known as "dog days" came to a close for this year at midnight, last night. The small red star that has been noticeable just above the southern horizen since July 28 has passed below the line of our vision, or "set" and will not come in to our view again until next July 23, when "dog days" will begin again.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL

Last Sunday the attendance at the Baptist Sunday School was 161. That is a pretty fair showing, but it ought to have been not less than 250. There is plenty of splendid material here to swell the roll to at least that figure.

They have a first class Bible class presided over by Mr. J. J. Pickens who is one of the livest Sunday School workers in this part of the state. The membership of the Bible class is also away below what it should be. The exercises in this class are always especially interesting and the lectures by the teacher are brim full of facts in regard to the Bible that we all should delight to learn. A special effort is going to be made by the class to get up an enrollment of at least 50 members.

GLAD TO WELCOME HIM

We were glad to welcome Mr. Emmett Powell, a former successful newspaper man and expert machine operator of our town, back on a visit this week.

Mr. Powell is now connected with the Tuscaloosa News and is loud in praise of his new home. He has been over there for two or three years. He also brought Mrs. Powell and "the boys" along. They are visiting the father of Mr. Powell here who is a successful business man of Clanton.

They are returning this afternoon to Tuscaloosa and we hope Emmett will not make it so long between visits in future. Good luck to him and his.

PROF. PEGUES WRITES

Clanton, Alabama, Sept., 1922.

Dear Patrons and Friends:

If you were in business and had a large number of employees and if those employees should be late getting to the place of business, would you think them very good busienss men? Moreover if the same employees should go absent frequently, would you think them efficient? Do you realize that the habits of regularity or of irregularity that your children are forming in school are going to have a strong influence in shaping the success of their lives?

Last year there were 1750 tardies and 3474 absences. This number is too large. The waste is too great. The percentage is too high. Help us reduce that waste. If your child or your friend's child is absent, see what you can do. Counting each tardy at ten minutes the total would equal 48 days for one child; the absence would be equal to 19 school years for one pupil. Just think of it. The excuses brought me last year showed that nearly nine tenths of the tardies could have been avoided.

The pubilc school is your school. If you can help make it better it is your "bounding" duty to do so. If you have any complaints to make, make them to me personally. I am always glad to listen to you if you come at me in the proper spirit. Put yourself in my place and you will know what is the proper spirit.

There were a large number of failures last year in one or more subjects. The fault was not altogether the teacher's. If the pupils are made to do some good honest to goodness study at home every day, there is not much failure. How about exerting a little special effort this year? The game is won by team work.

It is gratifyng to know that a good deal of repair and improvement has been done on the building. Much more needs to be done. We need steam heat. Our library is just beginning. We ought to have an adequate indoor drinking fountain that would accomodate all the pupils with ease. We do not hope to have all these this year, but what can be done, let's do it.

Trusting you to put your shoulder to the wheel and pull together with us, I am

Yours sincerely
IRA PEGUES
Superintendent.

TOURIST CAMP

Clanton Ought to Build One Now. Best Investment the City Can Make. Also Should Have Landing Field

There is no one thing that would be as paying an investment to the business men of Clanton right now as a neat and convenient camping ground for tourist.

The new highway is definately located now and the final survey is under way. Work will doubtless begin on it this fall. The route through Clanton will be to enter from the south by the present highway and turn north at the Mullins & Moore corner without crossing the railroad as at present.

When this road is opened up people who are in a position to have facts and figures on the tourist travel claim that not less than 10,000 people will pass through here each fall and spring in their emigration to and from Florida for the wnter.

We have been informed by some of the officials who are connected with this road project that geographically Clanton is exactly located in the right place for a convenient camping ground from the far north by autos. It is claimed that coming or going either way a good days drive from here will tally out precisely with other good camp grounds already established.

The same people tell us that statistics prove that an average of $2.00 is spent by every tourist who can secure camping facilities where he can buy such supplies as are needed on the road. They also claim that not less than 2,000 of this emigrating bunch would camp here going and coming or a total of 4,000 campers for the fall and spring. According to this low estimate we would get $8,000 in business that at the present we do not touch. The profits in this volume of trade for just one year would easily equip a suitable camp to start with and this business will go on, year after year, and increase in proportion as the time goes on.

Besides that, you bring people to stop among us who are out looking for new homes. Looking for a place to buy and build and to invest their money in any enterprise that promises fair return. To this class Clanton and Chilton County are prepared to especially appeal. There is no better country for diviersified farming than Chilton County. We have any quanitity of hard wood timber We have untold deposits of the best graphite in the United States by actual analysis. We have almost unlimited supplies of brown ore that fluxes into perfect steel.

We have what is given up to be the finest strata of brick clay anywhere in Central Alabama.

Then we have hte very great advantage of unlimited electric power in reach of every part of the county so that any kind of machinery can be driven without the expense and fire risk of a steam plant. This is given up to be the best location for a cotton mill in Alabama. It is equally as promising for any number of other industries such as brick yards, cement plants veneering mills, canning factories heading mills and so on.

With all these manifest inducements it is perfectly reasonable and natural that out of this great throng of tourist looking for locations and business opportunities, we should be able to show some of them that we have exactly the climate, the soil or the business location that they are looking for. Another thing that we should especially arrange for at once is a landing field for airplanes. This may not look so very important to you right now, but the navigation of the air is going to become a fixed and integral part of the business life of the future, and if you ever expect to get the best and first fruits of any business it is essential that you get in 'on the ground floor." Don't have to prepare for your business after it arrives, but be ready to welcome it when it comes.

There is an urgent necessity for prompt action in these matters. If we do not arrange to take care of this splendid opportunity, some of our close neighbors will, and then it will be too late for us to get in. Now is the accepted time. Tomorrow may be too late. Just a little bit of the right kind of hustle will put both of these projects over.

Let the Commercial Club, or some other individual or civic organization interested in the material progress of our town and county, take this matter up and push it to success.

Why sleep over your golden opportunities and allow some other wide awake community to take the plums out of your mouth.

W. B. CORLEY

JUST OUR LUCK

The other day, by the biggest accident you ever heard of, we actually got hold of a real full grown dollar, After we had kissed it a few times we tenderly deposited it in the very deepest and darkest corner of our northwest pocket intending to see how it woudl feel to have real money in our pocket

Just a few brief hours necessity forced us to let it go and we sadly dived into our pocket intending to get this beautiful and lonely dollar out and kiss it a sad farewell before we sent it on its journey again in exchange for a little handful of eats, when, alas, and alack, it had faded away and the place that knew it for a few brief moments knew it no more forever, for it was gone: Lost! even like the beautiful vision of some illusive dream

The blow was a sad one but we are bowing to it submissively for, who knows, if we had been allowed to keep it for a day or so we would have taken the big head like some other people do and then we would have despised our own self.

If you wanted to buy a little real high class, considerate politeness where would you go to make the purchase

The fool killer has retired now. He is not needed any longer. The autoist who races trains to crossing has taken his job.

There are some real good seeming people who love money so well that one little silver five cent piece can entirely hide all view of heaven from them.

We would like to have radio connection with the republican convention hall in Birmingham today. The fight up there is going to be to a finish between Street and Long.

A dismal idea of that place of torment beyond the grave would be a place where unmuzzled automobiles were constantly stopping and starting.

Harding is trying out the Grover Cleveland plan for handling the railroad strike. He might greatly improve his administration if he would pattern after Grover in some other respects.

Don't forget that your subscription may be one of the 600 that expire today. We need money to keep the paper going and hope you will be sufficiently interested to send in your renewal promptly.

The tick question can be settled in Chilton county with very little trouble and expense if it will be taken out of politics and attended to as a business matter like it should have been at first.

They tell it on our Business Manager that he ate all around the dinner table on the outside and then all round on the inside at Shiloh last Sunday and then, with a sad far-away look, said, he would be all right if he only had a large, ripe, lucious tomatoe.

The fashion notes say that the ladies are going to hide more of their lower limbs and bring their ears back into prominence. In these dull times they want to hear even the faintest whisper that has the word marry in it.

A disregard for the aged, a disposition to torment children and a tendency to torture dumb brutes are three unfailings indications that a person is headed straight for a climate that is one hundred times hotter than these recent sizzling September days.

If the 4,000,000 men composing the affiliated railroad crafts finally walk out, this country will be in close touch with a most serious revolution. Our entire industrial life is tottering on the brink of a volcano now and an eruption is likely to occur at any moment.

The Chilton County News, so we have heard, has been requested by "Resolution" to furnish more information on the tick question. Being always anxious to accomodate, we shall endeavor to do so, from time to time, so subscribe for the News now and learn the truth.

ONE YEAR OLD TODAY

The Chilton County News Passes Today Its First Mile Stone.

Contrary to the predictions of some of our friends, The Chilton County News completes, with this issue, fifty-two visits into the arena of public journalism.

Sometimes the road has been rocky and rough. Sometimes the lowering clouds of despair almost totally dimmed our star of hope, but here we are today, with our own job outfit and a bran new Linotype to do all the typesetting we may need.

As we look out down the vista of the future we feel the prospect is much more radiant than it was twelve months ago when we begin to issue a paper that had to be entirely printed away from home and we were at the mercy of any greedy shark who cared to make us his victim Today all of this has changed and we are now able to take care in our own shop of all business that may be presented

In policy we have consistently tried to be honest, fair and truthful and we believe our readers will testify to our success in that line. We never have desired to be the enemy of any individual while our duty to our conscience has made it necessary for us to be at enmity to certain conditions.

As long as the present editor is in charge of the conduct and policy of the paper he will continue to endeavor to be absolutely fair to everyone, no matter what their religious or political faith may be. At the same time he will strive to induce others to see, know and depend on facts before they pursue any policy that to him seems ruinous and suicidal.

We sincerely hope to be able to return the friendship of all fair-minded people everywhere, both democrats and repubilcans, at the same time it will be necessary for us to defend our principles and to stand steadfastly for what we conceive to be right.

Now just a word about business. With this issue we have aprpoximately 600 subscriptions that expire. Our expenses are heavy and go on even while we sleep. Now we earnestly hope that every single subscriber whose time goes out today will send us promptly his dollar for another year's trip with us. Please do this promptly and do not make us sad by having to drop your name and bid you good bye as we start out on the battle for another year.

Come and go with us and bring along a friend or two with you.

Human nature is the same in politics as elsewhere, only more so. When a fellow flagrantly fails to do his duty he begins at once to make arrangements to shift the burden of blame to the other fellow. Sometimes, however, he fails to make it stick.

Labor day orators in some of the large labor centers Monday boldly ignored the blanket injunction and violated its edicts fore and aft. We are wondering if they will be jailed and punished now. It will take several thousands arrests to cover the violations.

David Lawrence is of the opinion that Federal control of the railroads will be the ultimate outcome of the strike unless some peaceful settlement can be made with the strikers. He don't think "government by injunction will amount to anything. No matter what the final settlement may be, you can be assured of the fact that the public will have to foot the bill.

Congress has taken an unfair advantage of the President. They have passed the soldier bonus bill with the understanding that he kills it with his veto. They realize that he has no political future so they will try to shift the blame off on him hoping to catch the soldier vote by claiming that they did all they could for the boys but Harding killed it. That is awful cheap and thin but that is all the kind they can deal in this time. Before the fall elections they will saddle him with the tariff bill too.

Mr. C. E. Gulledge and wife, of Birmingham, recently spent a week with Judge and Mrs. J. W. E. Gulledge the grandfather of the former Mr. Gulledge is purchasing agent for the Crane Supply Company, of Birmingham. The visit was greatly enjoyed by the older couple.

MORE TICK INFORMATION.

We have been informed that at a recent political meeting at the Court House, which was originally supposed to be called for the purpose of discussing the unfortunate tick situation in the County, that a "Resolution" was passed calling on the Chilton County News to back up certain statements made in a former issue in regard to why it was we were forced to dip our cattle and under what law, whether state or Federal, the tick eradication movement was being handled.

We have waited patiently until the hour of going to press for a copy of that resolution to be forwarded to us, but as it has failed to make its appearance in our office, we naturally conclude that our first surmise was correct, and that the parties who put that Resolution over were not seeking for information but were making a rather childish effort to distract attention from the facts that the News had already put before them. We would not presume to reflect on the intelligence of any citizen in Chilton county sufficiently to even intimate that they needed any proof of the statements contained in the article refered to. But while we are on the subject of Chilton county tick eradication, it might be well to go into some of the facts which are responsible for the present unfortunate situation.

We do not suppose it will require any "resolution" from some little political faction to convince the people of this county that once before the county cattle were placed under quarantine on account of the presence of the Texas Cattle Fever Tick. We believe the trouble and expense of having to go through a long series of dipping will be well remembered, likewise the reasons for which those dippings were ordered.

After several months of dipping the United States Inspector pronounced the county clear with the exception of perhaps two or three small isolated spots. This being the condition, in regard for the convenience of the large number of people who had "Cleaned up", we are informed on what we consider good authority, that an agreement was made between the Board of County Commissioners and the officers having charge of the tick eradication movement, that if the Commissioners would go ahead at once and clean these still infected areas that the quarantine would be lifted immediately To this proposition it is alleged the commiissioners Court agreed and promised to effectually attend to the matter without delay. On the strength of this agreement the quarantine was called off.

Did th Commisioneres Court go forward in good faith and fullfill this ageement? The facts do not show that they did. In one lone instance perhaps, owing to the honest intergrity of a man they employed an effort was made to do the work and we have heard that the effort was successful. But according to the United States Inspector, in the other areas a most lamentable failure has been made and instead of having reduced the infection it has been permitted to spread. For the failure of the Commissioners Court to carry out their part of the agreement, and for that cause alone our County, has passed under quarantine again.

As evidence of the fact the Department is willing to co-operate, even yet, with the people of Chilton county in this matter we print the following letter from Dr. Cary, State Veterinarian written September 2nd, to a citizen of our town on the subject.

Dear Sir:

Your letter came while I was absent from the State and I send this reply to it as soon as possible. It would be possible for the inspectors to localize the dipping in the infested and exposed areas. If the county authorities will furnish the dip and the pay for the inspectors and enforce the law we will arrange to require only the infested and exposed animals to be dipped and permit all other cattle to be shipped out with as little inconvienence as possible. I am sorry about this delay in reply and I hope the whole matter can be adjusted by the county commissioners. I hope you can talk to the Judge and the county board and I hope they can arrange it. I will write a letter to the Judge at once.

Yours truly,
C. A. CARY,
State Veterinarian.

Now good people, the Chilton county News has no desire to mislead any one on earth, but we desire fair play and a square deal. Let every tub stand on its own bottom and shoulder its own load. If we fail at any time to give you the facts in the case it will be an error of the head, after diligent search for the truth and not with a desire to muddy up the waters of truth that we may escape the meeting of any and all issues.

To Our Friends and Customers

We wish to take this opportunity, through our County Papers, to thank our customers for the business they have given us in your past. We [illegible] could appreciate your business any more than we do and in return we do our best to give you the best service that can be had.

We have installed another battery of the latest improved Magnolia [illegible] gins which will give us now a capacity of one hundred bales per day, thereby saving you lots of time by not having to wait at the [illegible] cotton to be gined. We will also give you the best sample that can be made from our cotton here.

We again want to thank you for your past favore and ask that you still continue with us and be sure to bring a new customer with you. We will give you the best price for cotton seed that can be had.

Yours very truly,

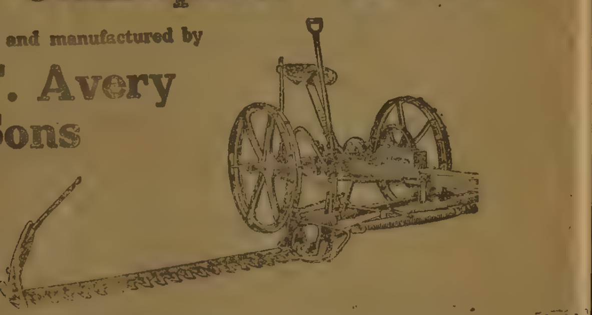
Valuable Features of "Champion" Mowers

Now owned and manufactured by

B. F. Avery & Sons



Pitman Connection to Knife Head has a self-adjusting device that automatically takes up wear—one of the most valuable improvements ever made on a mower.

Outer End of Pitman Crank Box is closed and an oil chamber is provided that holds enough oil for several hours' cutting.

Coupling Yoke that attaches the cutter bar to the frame is unusually wide. This gives it great leverage so it holds the cutter bar securely in alignment even in the heaviest cutting.

The mechanism that drives the knife is simple, strong and smooth running.

Champion steel self dump rakes and Champion side delivery rakes are worthy running mates for Champion Mowers.

Come in and look these machines over.

REPUBLICAN RANKS AGAIN IN DISCORD

A merry fight is being waged in the Republican ranks of the state between the supporters of O. D. Street, national committee man, on one side, and the supporters of Pope M. Long, chairman of the state executive committee, on the other.

The fresh outbreak came about when Mr. Long certified to the secretary of state that he was the only accredited candidate for chairman of the state executive committee in the primaries of seven counties of the state. This action brought forth severe criticism from Charles B. Kennamer secretary of the state executive committee, who characterized Mr. Long's action as "political trickery," and asserted that Mr. Long had agreed to conventions in these counties instead of primaries.

Charges and counter-charges are being hurled back and forth. Mr Kennamer, stated that he waited until the last day to file his name as candidate, in order to give Mr. Kennamer all the time possible under the law to make known the name of his candidate, s othat he might certify the name of Mr. Kennamer's candidate with that of his own.

"I could not certify the name of his candidate. If he has one, for the reason that he is keeping him hid out, or has his name in his 'vest pocket' and no one except himself knows who he is," said Mr. Long. I even went so far as to write a man in East Alabama, who was reported a candidate for chairman and he replied that he was not a candidate for chairman, or any other office," he added.

Mr. Long stated that he urged a state-wide primary, so that all Republicans might pass on the matter, and to give the young men and women an opportunity to express their choice in their own precinct without going to state and county conventions, and being forced to take part in the old hand picked- machine methods,. He deplored the conditions, which he said existed at the conventions in several counties of the state.

"The young men and women will not take part in the old hand-picked machine methods, in view of conditions existing in some of the counties," said Mr. Long. "In Mobile County they have a negro county chairman and in 1920 their county mass meeting was held in a negro hall, in a negro section of the city, with a negro doorkeeper and negro presiding officer The conditions in Montgomery County are just as rotten, and it is this condition that I am trying to remove," said Mr. Long.

Characterizing this condition as a cancer on the party, which must be cut out if the party hopes to grow Mr. Long stated that a state primary would "clean up such conditions and make the party clean and white." He denounced the convention plan of selecting party officers, and stated that the primary is the only remedy, in asserting that Mr. Kennamer, himself, was responsible for not having a state wide primary.

The state chairman should be selected by the Republican party and Mr. Kemmamer is not the Republican party, though he may think so, continued Mr. Long. "It would seem that, as he and his three brothers have each received good federal positions, and Mr. Sneed, his close friend, appointed to the best place in the state with its 50 deputies or places to be given to the chosen, that Mr. Kennamer ought to be willing for the other 75,000 men and women to select their state chairman," said Mr. Long, and charged that "Mr. Kennamer is drunk with federal patronage and federal power, which is the cause of his attack on me, the result of which is bound to bring discord in the party when harmony is needed."

Mr Long stated that he had no desire to be chairman unless he was the choise of all thee Republicans of the state and pointed to his past record and work in behalf of the party He stated that he has always supported Mr. Kennamer and worked for his appointment as United States attorney, and termed the attack on him as "base ingratitude."

Declaring that he favored a plan whereby persons holding the office of national committeeman and state committeeman are ineligible for any federal position, which will devorce the machinery from office-holding and go a long way toward curing the evils that now exist. Mr. Long stated that the usual fight over federal patronage so disgusts the masses that the party not only ceases to grow, but wanes in power.

Speaking of his application for the United States marshal's office, to which Thomas J. Kennamr was appointed, Mr. Long said: "It is true that I was an applicant for this position, and in doing so I made an error, but I am reconciled to not obtaining my desires. No other position has any attraction for me, as my time is occupied otherwise."

"I have no desire to stand in the way of party harmony and am willing to make any reasonable sacrifice to this end," concluded Mr. Long. I know that turning the party over to federal office-holders will neither bring harmony nor growth, and show my faith. I believe all will concede that those who go out and battle for the party, and are elected to office, have the real good of the party at heart. I am willing to leave the matter in the hands of the elective judges, solicitors, tax collectors and assessors, and members of the legislature, and agree to abide by their decission, if my enemies will do likewise, and all that I ask is a fair deal."

WANTED: AT WASHINGTON TODAY

(From the Boston Transcrip (Rep.)

Leadership is our greatest present need, and it is there that the party system has played us false. To manipulate its vast and intricate machinery there arose a great demand for expert mechanicians, and these have evolved in rich profussion. But in a crisis like the preesnt mechanicians will not serve our purpose. The real need is a Man, who by the example of his own courage, vigor, certainty and steadfastnes will draw out the higest qualities of the people; whose resolute sense of duty will brush opportunism aside: whose sympathy and truthfulness will stir the heart and hold fast the conscience of the nation. Leadership of this sort we have lacked —From Oliver's "Ordeal by Battle."

Leadership of this sort we lack today. The party in power has failed as yet to raise up such a leadership. On that account and to that extent it is guilty of betraying the people who put it in power by an overwhelming majority less than two years ago. The spirit of the people is sound and true. It "can do much but it cannot do everything." One of the things it cannot do is to take the place of a Man—the Man that is wanted at Washington today.

INJUNCTION OBTAINED AGAINST RAIL STRIKER: SAME AS THAT OF 1894.

Washington, Sept. 2.—History repeats itself—the injunction order obtained by Attorney-General Daugherty from the federal courts in Chicago against the striking shopmen follows almost exactly th perocedure of Attorney-General Olney, in President Clevcland's second administration when the famous Pullman strikes of 1894 was virtually squelched through the action of courts against Eugene Debbs and his union associates.

In the pullman strike a court order was issued which enjoined the railway employes from interfering with the operation of trains, but many of them hooted the reading of the order and continued their acts of violence whereupon federal grand juries were especially summoned and indicments and arrests made. The strikers capitulated to the courts after it was veident that the federal government would back up its marshals with all the regular troops needed to enforce the law.

Situation Indentical

The same situation exists now. If the temporary injunction or a permanent order should be violated by any of the men named in it, they can be arrested for contempt and indicated. It is true that Samuel Gompers and other labor leaders are claiming that the Clayton anti-trust law gave them immunity from prosecution, but the Department of justice does not consider that the Clayton law exempted any individuals from the conspiracy statutes or the statutes which forbid interference with interstate commerce. The Clayton law exempted labor organizations as such from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law

It is the Sherman law under which Mr. Daugherty has just obtained his restraining order, but the attorney-general has been careful not to name a labor organization as a whole or any union but simply individuals whose influence or leadership may possibly be the indirect means of causing other individuals to interfere with railroads trains or cause acts of violence. There is no immunity to the individual even though the organization as a whole may not be held culpable.

The difference is going to mean lots of hair spliting arguments in the courts. The Department of justice has been working on exactly this point for many weeks and feels it is prepared to meet the issue. The effect, at any rate, of the issuance of the injunction will be to interfere seriously with the smooth operation of the strike and it is hoped by the government will bring an end to the reign of terror which has been going on in so many sections of the country.

DOES THIS MEAN CIVIL WAR?

From being merely a strike of some 400,000 railway shopmen, endangering the transportation system of the country, the issue has now been manifested to the point where it threatens to affect all organized labor and engulf all business and industry, labor leaders privately declared Saturday.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, representing between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 workers, will meet in the national capital one week from Saturday in what promises to be the most momentous gathering of the labor leaders witnessed in years. While the council has not the power to call a general strike itself, it is the governing body of the federation and its advice usually is taken by the rank and the file of the federation. The council will decide whether to "recommend" a general strike to the hundreds of unions that make up the American Federation of Labor.

If the meeting were Sunday instead of next week, it is possible that a recommendation for an immediate general strike would go foward, so hot is the present temper of the national officers over the Chicago injunction proceedings. Whether these tempers will cool off before nxet week remains to be seen, but it was apparent today that the Daugherty injunction has solidified the sentiment of all labor leaders behind the striking shopmen.

There is a growing sentiment in the rank and file of union labor for a general strike, it was asserted Saturday by Samuel Gompers. Almost daily since the present industrial trouble started last April with the strike of the United Mine Workers, there has come to American Federation of labor headquarters, he said, resolutions passed by local unions in varied industries calling for a general strike to check the "deflation of labor."

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the geenral election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 35—Cliett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may levy and collect through their duly constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their consideration at the next general election, to-wit: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany, and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municpal corporation to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election on the amendment proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for." Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the electors shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. That the votes cast at said election shall be counted, canvassed and tabulated and return made to the Secretary of State in the same manner as in elections of representatives to the Legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendment voted in favor of the same such amendment shall be valid in all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of Alabama. The result of such election shall be made known by the proclamation of the Governor.

Approved November 1, 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 8th day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

THOS. E, KILBY,
Governor.

By the Governor:
WM. P. COBB,
Secretary of State.

SCHOOL BUSSES.

Something new in the industrial annals of Clanton fell under our notice yesterday.

Mr. C. R. Waters, the variety shop man, has an order and is now constructing ten School Busses to be used in the consolidated schools of the county.

Some of the conveyances will go to Verbena, some to Maplesville and some to Jemison, and are to be used to convey the school children formely taken care of by several small schools, to one common center where all of these smaller schools will be consolidated into one large institution.

The children will be carried to and from school without cost to them and can secure many advantages in the consolidated school that was not possible in the many smaller institutions.

As we see it, this is a foward step toward better educational advantages and we are glad to see Chilton county people availing themselves of every improvement possible in order to better educate the rising generations.

J. W. MOORE WRITES

Auburn, Ala.,
Aug., 30, 1922.

Editor Chilton County News:—There are millions of pebbles on the shore, but only here and there a diamond. I notice you have at your Mast Head the name of Rev. C. D. Messer for Probate Judge. I have known Mr. Messer intimately thirty or more years I think I have never known a man of purer motives or of more up-right character. He is a fearless defender of the right at all times and under all circumstances, I fully believe, if elected he will fearlessly do the right as he sees it regardless of friend or foe. There are always, in a county like Chilton, enough indepentent voters to carry any election; they are the balance of power. If these independent voters wish a clean man for the Judgeship I feel sure they can not do better than to vote for Messer. He is a friend to all and I feel sure no one who votes for him will ever have cause to regret it. I am sure he will faithfully serve friends and foe alike.

If the democrats put forth the necessary effort this time I am sure you will win in Chilton county. The republicans have no defence for their present administration. Carelessness or a state of indiference will loose any election, no matter who is on the ticket.

Fellow democrats, awake, shake off your lethergy, bestir yourselves and win this election fairly and honestly. It can be done. Will you do it. Make a special effort and elect the whole ticket, then let those elected show that they are worthy. Do not stoop to petty trickery and small meaness; do it fairly and openly, win it.

With best wishes for the whole ticket, I am yours,

THE ACCOUNT OF MISS LAURIA SCCROGGINS

Visit to her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Scroggins.

Lauria arrived in Clanton Aug. 19 on the 5:17 train. I met her tho she was a stranger to me it did not take me but a few minutes to fall in love with her. At 7:30 that same night we attended the picture show. Messers Irwin Williams and Lester Jones and Miss Era Mims, thanks the two young men for the ice cream set up after the show.

On Sunday P. M. to Liberty we went to attend the singing. Sunday night to Miss Eula Culpeper's home to a singing. She paying compliment to Lauria. A nice time was had by every one present. On Monday p. m. to town and of course to the Drug Store. On Tuesday Mrs. Cox came to see Lauria and Wednesday night I entertained for [illegible] and jokes was enjoyed until a late hour when cream cakes and fruits was served to about 40 young people. Here I will thank the boys and girls for their nice be-havior while at my home Lauria sure enjoyed meeting you every one. On Thursday p. m. we went out to Mitchell Dam, here we had a splendid time it was so interesting to stand and watch those busy men at work, some of them in places so dangerous that it looked as if they mad just an inch misstep they would have met death. We returned home and Lauria, Mr. Scroggins, myself and children, James and Nancy Dunla Eugene Driver, Mr. Vance went ou to Walter Wards to enjoy eating wa tremelons. On Friday afternoon we went to Lock 12, of course here aga we had a nice trip Lauria stpped ov for a few days visit to her aunt M Mat Mahan. Her visit was very much enjoyed. She and her cousins attended church every night and going to Lock 12 and other places in the d Laura returned back on Wednesd morning and we left at 8:00 for a days visit to Mrs. Jim Cox who liv at Vida Camps near the river. Wo cannot tell the good time we had th day climbing mountains and playi in creeks walking on R. R. trus all but me I prefered to walk and to get to wade through creeks altho I did have to walk one to get to M Cox's house. The dinner she had p pared for us was fit for a king. We returned home tired as could be ived in town we was treated to cream by Laura. Not withstand the fact we was to tired to cook supper. On Thursday Misses Bula and Nancy Dunlap spent the day with Laura. Laura left on the 5:30 t for Verbena to visit her aunt f day or two she returned to Tho Saturday p. m. to see her aunt, back to my home Sunday p. m. w we left early Monday mornin Maplesville for Lauria to catch train for home so this ends the weeks of the best time I ever h and a heart full of love and best wis and hopes that Laura will only to come back to Clanton next mer. Laura and I sure wish to th Mr. Vance for his very reason charges and courtesy shown us in ring us to the different places, thank you, Mr. Editor for this s

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 2 — CLANTON, ALABAMA, SEPTEMBER 14, 1922. — NUMBER 1

OUR SOCIAL DEPARTMENT

The other duties of Mrs. McSwain have induced her to resign from her position of social editor, a place she has splendidly filled since the inauguration of the News.

We will be glad to carry each week a report of all the local social events, and we invite any or all of the social set to send us in a write up of any social function that may occur. We desire to cover the news field to the best of our ability and especialy request every reader of the News to send us promptly a notice of any special news feature that may occur in their community.

CITY ELECTION

Remember that next Monday Sept. 18, is city election day. The citizens should turn out to the last voter and select just such officials as they want and then get behind them and insist that they give us a strict rule of law and order. There will be but one voting place in this election and that will be the Court House.

So far as we can see the officials who have served us for the past two years would be hard to improve on. They have made a wonderfully successful career, so far as we can judge and if they can be induced to continue in service we will be glad to see them retained on the job.

GOT THERE AT LAST

Some people might have presumed recently that his satanic Majesty had been a resident of Birmingham for quite a while, but it seems that was a mistake. From the Age-Herald we quote the following:

"Satan arrived here from Bremen Germany, last Monday."

Shall we look for an improvement in morals and general behavior up there now?

It might be well to add that the "Satan" refered to by the Age-Herald is a police dog and he made the entire trip from Germany alone.

KILLED ON THE RAILROAD

Settling down on the railroad track for a nap seems to have become quite a popular fad with some of the young negroes who migrate like birds of passage from job to job these days. It is also a most successful way to secure a one-way ticket to that "bourn from whence no travelers return."

Just a few days ago a negro undertook to take a siesta on the track near Cooper. A heavy freight train came along and he woke up in that unknown land. Saturday night, about one mile south of the city, three other young negro men tried the experiment of a nap on the rails. Sunday morning found two of them in the morgue of Undertaker Martin here and the other one in a hospita lin Montgomery with little chance for recovery.

For a sure, certain and speedy process of "shuffling off this mortal coil" that plan is undoubtedly a success, but if you care particularly about the personal appearence of the body you leave behind, it is not altogether the route we would choose for the trains are usually in too much hurry to be very careful about where or how they hit you.

Sometime swe wonder if a crap game dosent precede some of these unfordosen't preceed some of these unfortunate naps on the rail.

SOME POLICE CHANGES

During the past week Mr. Burton, the night Marshall resigned and returned to his home in Mt. Creek.

The day Chief has been temporarily transfered to the place made vacant by the leaving of Mr. Burton, and Mr. Tom Pyron, who for a number of years was on the force here, is holding down the day job.

The city election comes next Monday and we guess there will be a reorganization of the police force under the new council, so we guess most all of these changes are only temporary.

COMING TO CLANTON

Mr. M. W. Lamb, National Business Agent of the United Farmers of America, will be in Chilton county next week.

While here Mr. Lamb will make several addresses in various parts of the county and we bespeak for him a good audience on every occassion.

JEMISON SCHOOL OPENS.

Last Monday the Jemison Accredited High School, together with the consolidated public school, held their opening exercises at the Baptist church. Large and enthusiastic audience were on hand.

Prof Buford Lawrence who is in charge of the school presided and made an opening address that was timely and to the point.

The Business Manager of the News also addressed the audience along educational lines.

Editor Wyatt, of the Union-Banner came next on the program with a short though instructive address appropriate to the occassion.

Rev. L. H. Brannon concluded the exercises with an able talk along the lines of educational work and responsibilities.

The educational sentiment displayed by the large and intelligent audience was superb to the extreme. We predict a great success for the future of Jemison as an educational center and heartily congratulate those good people on the splendid start they have made toward an advancement in the higher grades of learning. They have in process of construction an elaborate High School building that will comply favorably with all the requirments of the state School laws.

Rev. L. H. Brannon had prepared dinner for the business Manager of the News and also Rev. D. M. Pearson Since Brother Pearson failed to show up we proved "Our Faith by Our Work" at the noon hour.

VERBENA W. M. S.

The Verbena W. M. S. is progressing nicely.

The President, Mrs. Stonecipher is a very live member of the Baptist church here and is ever ready to do her work and finds something for members to be doing all the time. Mrs. Will Strock is our treasurer and also the Sunbeam Leader. Mrs. Horace Davis has made us a splendid seace Davis has made us a splendid secretary, but owing to ill health she has been prevented from holding this important office any longer. Mrs. H. B Oliver is chairman of the enlistment committee. Mrs. Guy Caffee is chairman of the committee to look after those who are sick.

The last business meeting was held at the Baptist church September 5th The president called the meeting to order by reading the 24th Psalm. Mrs. Effie Vinson was chosen to serve as secretary until the regular election of officers. Those present at this meeting were Mrs. Stonecipher, Mrs. Effie Vinson, Mrs. H. B. Oliver, Mrs. W. H. Strock, Mrs. Guy Caffee, Mrs. Deramus, Mrs. H. Williams, Mrs. Birdie Bland and Mrs. Valley Howard.

A QUICK HARVEST.

The unusally hot and dry weather of the past few weeks has rushed the opening of the cotton crop wonderfully.

We believe three fourths of the crop is already open and the entire picking season will be practically over by Oct. 1.

We can remeber back when cotton picking lasted up to and beyond Christmas every year and in a good many instances we have seen the plows preparing for another crop while on the same farm cotton picking was still in progress. Commercial fertilizer has worked wonders in shortening the cotton season.

BUSINESS GOOD.

A survey of the business being done Saturday by the merchants of Clanton reminded us of those flush times during the war.

Almost every place of business had extra help employed and we found them all busy as bees and the cash registers were making almost continual music to the bosse's ears.

With cotton going at 20 cents and up the purse strings have loosened and the public is buying quite liberally the things they need.

Will we remember all of these blessings on Thanksgiving day in November.

We don't reckon there would be much fun in the world if everybody saw the situation just alike, but, honestly, under the circumstances existing right now, we can't see why all southern people don't agree absolutely that the Democratic party is the only ark of safety for the south.

UNION SERVICES

Rev. W. D. Parrish, Lawyer—Preacher, of Nashville, will lecture Sunday at 11 A. M. in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church on the subject: "The Salvation of American Civilization."

He has a nation wide reputation as an orator and comes to us with the very highest endorsements as a man well worthy of our closest attention.

Everybody is invited to be on hand and we predict that Clanton will pack the large auditorium to capacity and them some. Don't miss this opportunity of listening to a learned and capable man.

FIDDLER'S CONVENTION AT SOLDIERS HOME

According to previous announcements a fiddlers convention was held at the Soldiers Home last Saturday evening.

Dr T. J. Fowler, the efficient Commandant at the Home, presided. Dr. Geo. W. Randall, of West Blocton, was Master of Ceremonies and made an excellent address to open with.

Quite a bevy of young ladies from West Blocton were in atttendance and furnished some very sweet and appropriate music. Little Misses Edith Morris, Estelle Phillips and Elna Merrell rendered each an ammusing and interesting recitation.

Two prizes were given in the Fiddler's contest. The first prize was won by Mr. Lee Hays of West Blocton, the other by an inmate of the Home whose name we failed to get The occassion was most enjoyable and netted a neat sum for the promoters.

tle Miss Atkinson are away this week visiting friends and relatives at Vincent and Sylacauga.

Mrs. W. W. Earnest and Miss Vennie Fox of Maplesville, were among those who came to Clanton Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson and lit-

Not many days ago Mr. J. W. Tippette who lives at the Tom Kemp place found a good coat in the public road near his home. The owner can get the coat by calling for it and giving the proper description.

It takes an awful time these days for a pupil to graduate in the schools of the day. But it takes years upon top of years to graduate form the school of experience.

Messers O. H. Mastin and E. D Holmes are busy at the headquarters of the United Farmers of America located in the building between Weldon's Drug Store and Wyatt's Garage.

Wonderful stories can be told. Wonderful pictures of dire infamy and rottenness, and then breaks forth the sunshine of the truth and these calamitous wailings fade into nothingless like a mirage in the desert. Weigh well your actions and wait for the truth.

Prof E. M. Manning, brother of D O. Manning, was in Clanton Monday on his way back to Denton, Texas where he holds a position in the State Collge of the Lone Star State.

The fleecy staple is coming into market rapidly. The hunters horn is often heard and the "Opossum" had better look out lest he have potatoes packed around him.

The school days are here and it makes life seem like it is worth living to see "Young America" going to and from school. The more highly educated a nation is, the nearer perfect is her DEMOCRACY.

Prof. H. A. Harris opened school Monday morning at Maplesville with a flattering enrollment. They have in progress of construction a splendid Senior High School Building and we feel sure that they have a bright future.

Mrs. R. S. Gilbert and little son Jimmie, of Atlanta, are here this week as the guests of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Curlee.

If we had more Democrats like our worthy friend, E. G. Caldwell at Pletcher, DEMOCRACY would come into her own in this county.

Prof. G. C. Weldon, of Billingsley, was in Clanton Tuesday. He will teach at Enterprise this next year.

VERBENA SCHOOL OPENED SEPTEMBER 11

Verbena Consolidated schools opened September 11 with an initial enrollment of one hundred forty-eighe, and with a large attendence of patrons at the opening exercises. The exercises were in charge of Mr. J. C. Pattillo, trustee of the school; Rev. Roberts conducted the devotions, and short addresses were made by the principal, W E. G. Sutton, Mr. F. A. Gulledge, Mr S. L. Gibson, Mr. Pattillo, and others The prospects for a much larger attendance of pupils in the near future her good, as the crops of the section will soon be harvested and parents who are needing the help of their children will be free of the necessity and can give their children the advantage of every day possible in school The faculty this year is as follows: W. E. G. Sutton, of Linden, Principal, Miss Lucy E. Strickland, of Montgomery, Miss Ida Mae Hull, of Birmingham: Miss Essie McLeod, of [illegible]ark: Miss Irene Jones, of Clanton, Miss Anne Lynne Strickland, of Montgomery: and Miss Parnell of Billings- [illegible] and domestic science department will be added this year, and additional interest is being manifested on them

On Friday evening a reception was given at the school building so that the [illegible]ons might get acquainted with the [illegible] the Misses Strickland Miss McLeod, and Miss Jones being here for their first time. The auditorium was well filled with those interested, and a general get-to-gether spirit was evident. Mr. R. E. Ledbetter, of the department of Rural School Inspection, of Montgomery, was present, and delivered an adderss which contained a strong appeal to the citizens of the district that they at once begin the work preliminary to the erection of a modern school building here. It is believed that in the immediate future a definite building will not long be deferred. The crying need for a modern building at Verbena will not much longer go unheeded.

The new wagons have been put into service on the several routes, and one truck is being [illegible]ed, for the transportations of the pupils from a distance Another room has been added to the [illegible] will be begun on [illegible] science and music

Remember there will be an old time Harp [illegible] all day singing at Baker School House next Sunday, September 17

Rev. J. D. Deason, Maplesville route 2, was in town Tuesday.

We are glad to see Hubert Gardner out again after being confined several days on account of sickness.

We regret to learn that Mr. G. O Weldon, of Billingsley had his home destroyed by fire last Friday.

Mr. I. M. Deason, Route 3, was here Tuesday on a business mission.

Mrs. T. C. McSwain, Mrs. Napoleon Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Browder accompained Misses Sally and Jean Johnson to Montgomery Monday returning Monday night, and the Misse Johnsons went on to Danville, Virginia to attend the Randolph Macon Preparatory school, this being Miss Sally's second year.

Mrs. P. D Wilson went down to Montgomery Monday with her daughter [illegible] a Mullins. Mrs. Wilson returned Monday afternoon and Miss Sophia by this time is a student of the Randolph-Macon Preparatory school at Danville, Virginia.

JOIN THE NEWS FAMILY.

We stept out this week on the first stride of the journey through our second year.

For twelve long months we have tried to give you the news as it happened and the political situation as it was.

Now, we are going to start out with an effort to do the same thing only better for another twelve months.

If we have made any enemies during this last year we are sorry and supprised, for no one can say truthfully that we have been either prejudiced or unfair.

We are going to win the fight if possible in Chilton county this year but we are NOT abusing any individual or telling any lies.

Now, Friends send us a dollar and join the News family for the next twelve months and you will never regret it.

Remember to keep the Sabbath day holy—likewise wholely.

Too much "pussy-footing" is like too much water used to be in a long toddy, it kinder neuteralizes the whole thing.

The base ball season is drawing to an end but the long haired foot ball slugger is looming up in the offing.

Go to Sunday School once and to preaching twice on Sunday and the chances are that you may keep the day fairly well.

We predict that the political plum tree at Montgomery will bear a real short crop next year comparatively speaking.

We don't notice any movement on foot to establish that tourist camp. All right, our neighbors will attend to that matter for us and we will pass up that source of income.

When you see it in the Chilton County News you know it's right. We never shoot until we have the ammunition.

Democrats oppose cattle dipping as intensely as anybody in the world but how are you going to dodge that republican Federal law that says you must dip?

There will be a few hours now for five days in the week when the small boys will have to cease from troubling at least so far as the School [illegible] is concerned.

There must have been something radically wrong with the State Republican Convention in Birmingham last Thursday. Even the daily papers laid off of it.

Some people can get by and live in style without ever doing an honest days work. Others work six days in the week, with a few hours extra on the side, and then can't even live decently. Why is that.

Whenever the present administration gets in a tight and needs a specific law for some special occassion all they have to do is to call on a Federal District Judge and he fills the order on short notice.

It's some satisfaction at least for us old fellows to sit back and laugh in our sleeve, knowing as we do, that in a few years some of these young guys who think they know it all now will be looking backward and wondering how on earth they ever could have been so folish.

Ex-Govenor O'Neal died at his home in Birmingham last Thursday. So passes from life's stage one of the most fearless and brilliant political debaters of recent years. He was a man who made many political enemies as well as many warm political friends. His was a disposition that brooked no half-way measures. You could always tell where he stood on any issue. Alabama has lost an able defender in his passing away.

PROCRASTINATION THE BANE OF DEMOCRATS

The Democrats in Chilton county wake up now and then, meet in committee and formulate some splendid working plans. They lay out all the details, prepare all the necessary machinery and then adjourn with the understanding that some rather indefinate "committee" will proceed to turn the steam on in a "few days" and put the machine in operation. Possibly this sub-committee will meet and discuss the situation, pro and con map out, perhaps, an excellent program. Finally they will select another "Committee" or two to attend to the business, adjourn and go back to their daily avocations, with their minds perfectly at rest and a feeling of entire satisfaction, content that they have done their full duty and passed the buck.

In the meantime the days come and go and the 7 day of November draws on apace. Before you realize it, to morrow will be election day and your well laid ylans will still be passing from hand to hand with no real work done in the line of winning votes.

A scant 7 weeks lies between us and the day when it will be too late for you to do that work. If we are going to put on an organized campaign at all it certainly is high time it was done if you expect to accomplish anything.

Procrastination is one of the most subtle and dangerous foes that the human family have to combat in every walk of life from the cradle to the grave. It has ruined more brigt and flattering prospects in life than any one thing. Are you Democrats in Chilton county going to allow this silent and insiduous distroyer to wreck our bright prospect for a victory in November.

BACK TO BED ROCK

The Democratic party of Alabama after several years devoted to coquetting with new fads and foiabls, got back to bed rock in Montgomery at the state convention last Thursday and returned to the real principles of government of, by and for the people.

The tax adjusting system, with all of its expensive machinery is to go. The primary stays with us with a majority rule provision and the second choice delusion cut out.

Real Democracy is in the saddle again and the future for our state look bright.

BRIEF TRIP TO SHELBY.

Last Monday the editor made a brief visit to Columbiana, the capitol of our neighbor county on the north.

Crops up there are like they are here, badly cut off by the late dry weather. Cotton seems to be not so foward there as it is here as we were told that it had just begin to come in.

Politics are developing some action and the democrats say they are going to put up a stiff fight in November. Heres hoping they win out.

General business seems to be good with a tendency to better conditions just ahead.

The national republican party was in favor of cattle dipping away back in 1890 when Benjamin Harrison and his pals were running this country. They also favored it in 1905 when the lamented Roosevelt was president. And they especially favored it in 1911 when Taft was head man in the ring for they passed at that time the law we have now and put plenty of teeth in it to make it bite. This law carries a provision that if you in any manner shape or form interfere with the dipping of cattle in the United States, you are subject to a fine of $1,000 dollars and five years in the pen. That sounds like it meant somethnig don't it? We have all of these statues on file in our office call and see them.

Judge Brandon announces positively that he will not make any appointment, nor promises of appointments until next year. The Judge is more than apt to always be right. There will not be near so many plums to give out under his administration as has been under the one just closing out for all of which the people are duly thankful.

Rev. W. H. White of Mulberry was in Clanton Monday.

COME AND GO WITH US

Laying aside all prejudice and looking the poiltical situation in our state squarely and fairly in the face we can not honestly see how the platform adopted by the Democratic Convention at Montgomery last Thursday can fail to appeal to and be absolutely satisfactory to every voter in the state.

This expensive system of gathering in the taxes of the state has been absolutely eliminated and we return to the old plan where the people seelct their own tax collector and they are required to do the work without aid or interference. If things go wrong the people will know who is to blame and exactly how to remedy the evil. No real democrat has ever believed in any kind of a law that takes any of the governing power out of the hands of the people. The very thought of such a system is undemocratic.

The primary election law has also been prevented of many of its objectional features. The second choice voting priviiige has been removed because the evils it led to in the hands of unscruperlous politicians more than counteracted the saving it made in obveating the necessity of a "run off." The mode of returning absentee votes will also be changed so that even the appearance of crookedness will be removed.

A large number of useless and unnecessary parasitic office holders by appointment will be relegated to some other walk in life where their phyisical existence will depend on the amount of honest toil they are willing to expend. The burden of taxation will be reduced to the very lowest point possible that will permit of efficient service.

The people all over Alabama know the character of "Plain Bill Brandon" and know that as governor he is going to see to it that efficient service at a minimum cost will be the policy of the state Department while he holds the reins. In other words, true Democracy has put her feet back on the solid rock of a rule of, by and for the people and is going to march foward again under a banner of equal rights for all and special priviliges for none.

How any voter in Alabama can find anything wrong in this platform we can not possibly see, and upon the basis of this wise, fair and uncompromising statement of policy we most cordially invite every friend to good government and every adherent to a belief in the absolute necessity for white political and social supremecy in the South to come and help us to uphold these ideals by a vote for Democracy in November.

GET ON A HIGER PLANE

One of the greatest evils that has ever befallen the good county of Chilton is the custom and habit of certain office seekers to stir up strife and bitterness. It is a pitable fact that the honor and pelf that goes with holding office.

[illegible] a condition of campaigning here that has caused the reputation of our county to be sadly abused abroad and the good people suffer wrongfully because office seekers have been willing to sacrifice our good name abroad that they may win, for a season, the and pelf that goes with holding office.

Sooner or later this plan of campaigning must inevitably succumb to the march of progress and education, and this class of office seekers be reiigated to the oblivion they deserve. The day is going to dawn, in fact, is already dawning, when the "rough neck" process of going after votes will be a sign manual to defeat for any candidate who adopts it. The good people of Chilton county are looking for cleaner methods and higher ideals than a jangling mass of vulgerity and vituperation.

Recent events in State as well as National politics are purifying the atmosphere and making plain the road to a higher and safer walk in political affairs. The hand of destiny is at work, slowly, perhaps, but surely and the real clean citizenship of this great Republic is going to take over the steering wheel from the dirty hands of the demigogs and guide our ship of state into an ocean and atmosphere where honesty, and statesmanship will have a chance.

Prepare yourself and get on board for the voyage is about to begin.

United States Attorney General Daugherty got out an injunction against the strikers to keep them from talking, writing, dreaming or doing anything to interfere with the railroads. The strikers have gone him one better and got out an injunction enjoining his injunction not to injunct. Did anybody say anything about a government by injunction?

Glory be! After mourning in sackcloth and ashes for several years we have lived to see the day in Alabama when real old fashioned Democracy has got in the saddle again and we all may rejoice that a reign of reason has returned and the people will rule once more.

We are proud of the fact that Chilton county democrats have two prominent minister sof the Gospel on their ticket this year. Both of them are consecrated men and no one would accuse either of them of lending themselves to any cause that was not clean and righteous. You can't be far wrong when you are in company like that.

Always remember that the party a man belongs to can not possibly have a thing to do with his moral life. Either a democrat or a republican can be honest and either can be a crook. We have some of both kinds in both parties in Chilton county.

To Our Friends and Customers

We wish to take this opportunity, through our County Papers, to thank our customers for the business they have given us in years past. We feel sure that no one could appreciate your business any more than we, and in return we do our best to give you the best service that can be had.

We have installed another battery of the latest improved Magnolia or Gullett Gins which will give us now a capacity of one hundred bales per day, thereby saving you lots of time by not having to wait at the gin for your cotton to be gined. We will also give you the best sample that can be made from our cotton here.

We again want to thank you for your past favore and ask that you still continue with us and be sure to bring a new customer with you. We will give you the best price for cotton seed that can be had.

Yours very truly,

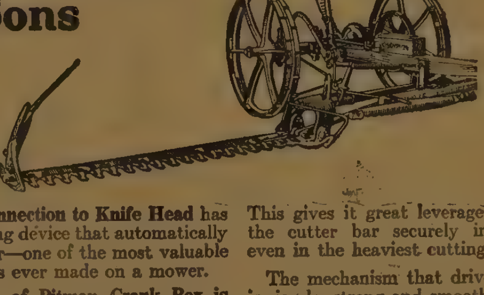
Valuable Features of "Champion" Mowers

Now owned and manufactured by
B. F. Avery & Sons



Pitman Connection to Knife Head has a self-adjusting device that automatically takes up wear—one of the most valuable improvements ever made on a mower.

Outer End of Pitman Crank Box is closed and an oil chamber is provided that holds enough oil for several hours' cutting.

Coupling Yoke that attaches the cutter bar to the frame is unusually wide. This gives it great leverage so it holds the cutter bar securely in alignment, even in the heaviest cutting.

The mechanism that drives the knife is simple, strong and smooth running.

Champion steel self dump rakes and Champion side delivery rakes are worthy running mates for Champion Mowers.

Come in and look these machines over.

"LIIY WHITES" AND "BLACKS AND TANS."

To the Editor The Birmingham News:

Anent the unseemly war being waged among Republican statesmen in this State about party control history in recent years, "lest we forget," may help settle the dispute as to who are "Lily Whites" and who are hybrid "Black an dTans," and the other mooted question as to who is and was and will be "Lily White," in principle or through policy. A real "Lily White" is a Southern white man who firmly believes that his race alone should dominate and control social and political affairs in the South without hindrance from any other racial element of our citizenship, and in political conventions to the exclusion of all others; and that through this policy alone is it morally possible for the Republican party, at least in Alabama, to become one to be reckoned with in the State affairs, and there by a wholesome check upon vicious legislation and inefficient administration of State and County affairs, a consummation devoutly to be wished for the material welfare of our beloved State and its future progress. Of the eighty odd thousands voters in Alabama, who, two years ago, cast their ballots for Judge Reynolds for United States Senator—some forty per cent of the whole vote cast-all were "Lily Whites" and he was nominated by a white convention.

The writer has often been blamed and sometimes commended for having white chairmen of the Republican State Committee, transformed the Republican into a white organization. Then Hon. Julian H. Bingham ranked next in blameworthiness. This indictment so far as it went told the truth, but not the whole truth; we were the instruments, and soon the victims, of a policy which President Roosevelt was the chief conspirator, though later a convert to the other cause, through the infulence of negro preachers and Prof. Booker T. Washington (who claimed never to interfere in political matters.)

Soon after thePresident's inauguration, following the death of the beloved McKinley, on the same day that the writer was reappionted United States Attorney, President Roosevelt, with hand on the writer's shoulder, said, "Go back to Alabama and organize a strong, vigorous, white Republican party, one that stands for something", and upon my asking him "if he would stand by us," he replied with an ephithet, that he would do so, to the limit. Returning home, I told our party leaders of this conversation and we prepared to make the next convention a white man's party, the leaders practically all concurring, except Barker and Weickersham, of Mobile. Before the assemblage of that memorable gathering of 368 delegates, I believe, the State Committee had selected a committee of credentials with the avowed understanding that none but white men should be placed on the role and seated in the convention,, in which scores of former Democrats were delegates. United States Senator Pritchard, of North Carolina, was the guest of honor and delivered a great and memorable address in which he stated that the President urged him to be present to further our movement; and received a great ovation. Similar action was taken by the party throughout the South. The result was a storm, was raised by negro politicians all over the land and a big delegation of colored preachers stormed the White House. As the Southern Conventions met and inaugurated the dawn of a new day for the party in the South, the President hesitated, then weakened, then turned a double back action somersault, put us alll in his "Annallas Club," of which he should also have been permanent chairman. The axe fell first and furious and our nine federal official heads in Alabama alone filled a large White House hamper, and the party had a grand saturnalia of a funeral pyer. The most pathetic sight ever witnessed was the grand procession of hybridized lily whites scrambled for seats at Booker Washington political pie-counter, for nobody could eat without his approval, directly or indirectly exerted. Not even a federal judge could ascend the Bench unless he visited his passport; and this is known allmen among the higher-ups.

The party became again "Black and Tan" through the cringing timidity of the pie-hunter and pie eater.

Now that the party is "Lily White" again is it not amusing to hear the pot call the kettle black?, Many of those leaders caliming credit now for standing again for a party of white men and women, were the first to trail in the dust "the white plume of Naarre," and disown their "Lily White" child to their everlasting discredit. There will be no negroes, as twenty years ago, in the State onvention next week. [illegible] History often repeats itself; will it in this instance? I know how they all feel; I hear how they all talk. They talked the same way in 1902 but gosh! how they flopped. Is this [illegible] that the State convention next week will launch the race couse for the fleetest of political feet unless too much mud-slinging, as now, spoils the track and unhorses the riders. Which leader will ride to his fal, Long or Street? It is easy to tell.

CHILTON COUNTY MEN ATTEND NATIONAL CONVENTION OF UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA

Four States Represented

Chilton County made a bood showing at the National Convention of the United Farmers of America held at Blytheville, Ark. Aug. 28, 29 and 30. Those attending from this county were O. H. Mastin, county business agt. J. M. Smith and A. Y. Williams, local business agents and members of the county board of directors; C. C. Williams and E. D. Holmes.

The meeting was called to order Monday morning at 10 a. m. by President Blythe. After a few introductory words by the president, mayor F. C. Douglas of Blytheville was introduced. In the course o fhis address, Mayor Douglas expressed himself as believing that the "United Farmers of America is the greatest and most beneficial organization ever attempted for the betterment of all society"

Among the other speakers of the day were G. Goodman, county business agent of Pemiscott County, Missouria; C. B. Critchfield, county business agent of Lauderdale County, Tennessee; A. B. Baxley, state manager of Alabama; T. G. Johnson, state manager of Tenn. and J. B. Ball, member of the National Executive Committee

Monday night all of the deelgates attended a meeting at Ekron School House, the birthplace of the organization, where Mr. Lamb organized the first local of the United Farmers.

All three days of the convention were filled with work that furnished much information and inspiration to those attending the meeting and when the convention adjourned at 1:45 a. m Thursday morning all felt that the meeting had been well worth while.

Officers and member from Arkansas, Missouri, Tennessee and Alabama were at the meeting and all got acquainted with each other and perfected plans which will enable the members of the organization to market their produce more satisfactory.

The delegates from this county were especially well pleased with the national officers of the organization. They found them to be men of high character who have devoted themselves to this work without reserve and who have placed the welfare of the members whom they serve above their own selfish interest.

The following extracts from the Convention Address of the General Business Agent, W. M. Lamb, serves well as an example of the vision of the greatness which this organization is destined to attain and also these officers are devoting themselves to formulating and carrying out plans with the sole purpose of improving conditions in the rural districts and thus certain to build up our whole country.

The following extracts constitute but a very small part of the convention address of Mr. Lamb:

"My Friends I can truly see today the absolute need of organization. I can understand today, much better than I could yesterday, the great possibilities that are in reach of all well planned, and well manned organizations. I have a much better and bigger vision of the things of this world today than I had yesterday. An organization of individuals can accomplish more in one years time than individuals could accomplish in a life time without organization. I see today the need of an organization for the protection of our interest in the marketing the products. Heretofore we farmers have been content to look after the production end of the game only This has proved to be a very expensive oversight on our part. In fact it has almost bankruped the entire South, and been the direct means of throwing a panic into the legitimate business enterprises of the world. Until we farmers take the matter into our own hands, the conditions of this country will always be uncertain. I see the need of an organization, in order that we may to a cetrain extent control production in order to stableize prices and make permanent our prosperity. . . I see the need of an organization that will stand squarely behind the brawn and bulk of agriculture three hundred and sixty five days every year, and protect their interest in every way possible.

"My friends, I see in the United Farmers of America, just such an organization as I have just metioned. In the United Farmers of America, I see an organization that absolutely fill the bill and meets every requirement that is necessary to attain our desires. Competently organized. Ably constructed. Phenominal in power. Philanthropic in action. My friends, with all due prosperity, I make the statement today, that no organization under the heavens has more lofty ideals, is magnanimously inclined, or is better able to achieve, than the organization you are here to represent.

"My friends, we are engaged in a great work, the work of raising our standard of citizenship, and protecting that citizenship against the encroachments of wrongs calculated to enrich the few and pauperize the many Let us then as such, conduct ourselves in as becoming a manner as possible. Let each of us always remember that the building which we erect, is only as strong as we make it, and the strength of the building to stand the onslaught of the enemy is dependent on the foundation upon which the building is erected. In my humble judgement, if the foundation upon which we build is right, the storms may come, the enemy may fume, grovel minded may howl, and obstructive ones growl, but all to no avail. For the growth of this organizaiton shall continue unabated, and the good work which we may be able to accomplish will at all times stand out as a living monument to our forethought, our patience, our perseverance, and our determination, all things born of a Godly desire to help in rendering unto Caesar's or in other words, secure a more equitable distribution of the proceeds of our labor."

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the geenral election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 35—Cliett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may levy and collect through their duly constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their consideration at the next general election, to-wit: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany, and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municpal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election on the amendment proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their considera tion, to be held as herein provided, the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for." Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the electors shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. That the votes cast at said election shall be counted, canvassed and tabulated and return made to the Secretary of State in the same manner as in elections of representatives to the Legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendment voted in favor of the same such amendment shall be valid in all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of Alabama. The result of such election shall be made known by the proclamation of the Governor.

Approved November 1, 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 8th day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

THOS. E. KILBY,
Governor.

By the Governor:
WM. P. COBB,
Secretary of State.

MR. BLAND ASKS SOME QUESTIONS

Editor Chilton County News:

If you will allow me the space I would like to ask a few questions that are of interest to me as a non-partisan independent.

First what becomes of all the public money? Why can't a statement of receipts and disbursements be published every quarter?

Second: What becomes of the road Tax and Automobile Tax? Why should not the public be informed through the papers quarterly how much is collected and what disposition is made of it.

Why can't we get a law passed that when a person is convicted of robbing or defrauding in any manner another person, he be given a sentense sufficient to work out the amount he has injured this party with interest and when this sentense is worked out let it be paid back in full with interest to the party defrauded?

Why not publish quarterly a statement of all the fines and forfeitures collected and the disposition that was made of the money.?

The people are vitally interested in these matters and would be much better satisfied if they knew exactly what is going with all the cash paid in.

Yours Truly,
A. J. BLAND

MACEDONIA

It has been quite a while since we saw any news items from this place, in the Chilton County News; Maccedonia is still on the map and we would like to be heard from once and a while, in fact we would like to see short news items from all communities in the county. Come let us make our paper what its name implies "Chilton County News."

Health in this section is good, and every one is working hard. It seems that our people are on a race picking cotton, hauling to the gin and to market; and everyone proud that he is making more cotton than for several years and getting a fair price for it.

Quite a number of we Macedonians attended preaching at Mulberry last Sunday and then to the hospittable home of Mr. D. O. Manning and in the afternoon back to the church to hear the beautiful music rendered by the Clanton Quarett or Vaughn Quartett No 2. The music and the talk by Prof. Johnson was an insperation to us so we enjoyed the day very much.

Mr. Marvin Nix, of Docena visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nix recently.

Dr. Nix, and Wife together with Stanley Hayes and wife stopped over a few hours with the formers parents on their way back home from a visit of one week, at the Wilson dam, and report an enjoyable trip.

Our Sunday School is moving along nicely now, fifty four present last Sunday we ought to have at least twice that amount and I believe if we will all work as hard at getting others to come as we are working in the cotton patch we might accomplish something in the Lords work.

ALABAMA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION.

Last Tuesday Mr. Chas. E. Massey, who is a farmer from Calhoun county and also field agent for the Alabama Farm Bureau as well as Field Agent for the Bureau Cotton Association met here with a number of farmers and discussed the system of marketing of farm crops being carried on by this Association.

They have a plan, as we understood it, that seems to be safe, fair and reasonable and we certainly hope that some plan can be devisied by some kind of an organization that will successfully enable every farmer to price and sell his own stuff the same as all other people who market their wares.

BAKER SCHOOL HOUSE

Hey Mr. Editor:—Wake up from your evening nap and put these few dots in the paper just to let the people know what we are doing.

Some are picking cotton some cutting hay, some pickIng peas and most all are going to town with the cotton.

Health here is still good. Everybody went to church Sunday.

Quite a crowd of the young people gave Miss Nancy Dunlap a supprise party Saturday night. All say they had a good time. Among those present were, Misses Leona and Myrtle Smith, Evelyn Grey, Addie Mae Weldon, Delean Watson, Arthur Watson Gannan Grey, Wallace Cox, J. E. Easterling.

Arthur Cox and family of Montevallo spent Sunday with Mrs. Cox's parents Mr. and Mrs. Will Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Blackman spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Scroggins.

They report a good time ice cream and a big dinner. Twas Mrs. Scroggin's birthday.

Mr. N. G. Ward spent Sunday with C. C. Ward and family.

We are glad to say that the little boy of Mr. Billie Foshee who had the misfortune to get his face badly cut, is doing well the Doctor taking the stitches out Saturday.

Henry Carroll and family spent Saturday night and Sunday with Eason Carroll and family.

Miss Eula Culpepper spent Sunday with Miss Evelyn Grey. They with several others spent the p. m. Fording.

Lucion Baker and Wife spent Sunday with Charlie Ward and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudely Tippett of Clanton spent Saturday night and Sunday at T. J. Baker's.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Blackman are spending this week with their daughter Mrs. Rossie Ward.

There will be an all day singing at this place this coming Sunday, the old books will be used.

Good luck to all.

JUST ME

STROCK—ANDERSON

The marriage of Mr. Judson Strock of Verbena Ala. to Miss Rosa Anderson of Ramer Alabama was solemnized at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hinson of Caryville Florida on Wednesday morning Sept. 6th. The bride entered on the arm of the groom and stood before a beautiful improvised altar of ferns while Rev. W. M. Bush of Hartford Alabama performed the ceremony.

The bride was beautiful in a navy blue canton crepe with taupe accessories and a blue taffeta hat with jet trimmings. Her only adorment was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Those witnessing the nuptial ceremony were:

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hinson of Caryville Florida, Mrs. S. C. Stutz and son S. C. of Slocomb Alabama, Mr. R. C. Lassiter of Hartford Alabama Mr. A. B. Canton of Montgomery Alabama Mrs. Lance Johnson and Miss Hilda Mae Johnson of Caryville Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Strock left immediately after the ceremony for a trip on the coast. After this they will go to Verbena where they will make their future home, Mr. Strock being a prominent business man of this town.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Strock have a wid circle of friends throughout Alabama who extend congratulations and best wishes.

MR. GENTRY WRITES

SOME INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE LETTERS

Clanton Alabama, Sept. 21,1922
Editor Chilton County News.
Dear Sir:

I am handing you herewith a letter from Mr. Kelly Gentry addressed to me and also one addressed to the Unino-Banner and has requested me to deliver these letters to you for publication.

I saw Mr. Wyatt in person for Mr. Gentry and he stated to me that he would not publish the letter. As I was present at the State Convention of the Republican party on the date mentioned in Mr. Gentry's letter and personally know of the facts stated in his letter, I feel, as he does, that these facts should not be suppressed and withheld from the voters of the county.

Very Respectfully,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE

Hon. Howard L. Foshee
Clanton Ala.,

Dear Mr. Foshee—Last week I wrote a letter to the Union-Banner for publication in which I endeavored to show up the perfidity of a crowd of miscreants and intriguers of Chilton county.

Although I am a subscriber to that paper. I am told they did not publish it, and strange to say I failed to get any paper from them last week. Do you suppose they thought I would not know it was not published, if I did not receive my copy?

I do not know if there is any other paper published in Chilton county, but, if there is any other newspaper there would you be good enough to carry the copy of the letter which I am sending you, to the editor, and see if you can get him to publish it?

Also have him publish this letter along with the article as an explanation. With Best wishes.

Your friend,
KELLY GENTRY

Montgomery, Alabama, Sept. 11 1922.
Editor Union-Banner,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

I was born and reared in old Chilton County, near Cane Creek Church, at the Gap of the mountain, the son of Jack Gentry. I have for several years lived in Montgomery, being employed by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company as a flagman between this city and Mobile.

I have always been a Republican and always expect to be. I do not knowanything else. My father and mother taught me the principles of Republicanism.

On August 8th of this year, the Republicans of Montgomery County, in mass Convention, nominated me for Circuit Clerk, the first man nominated in this County by the Republican party since 1886. I was also elected as an alternate delegate to attend the State Convention at Birmingham, which was held on September 7.

The delegation I was on was composed of two white delegates and was contested by another crowd, which elected a negro, George Newstell, and a white man named J. I. McKinney, both of Montgomery.

The negroes of Montgomery County sent them—the white folks sent us.

Newstell is a Republican, but J. I. McKinney voted in the Democratic primary election in Ward 5, Box 2, on August 8th, the same day he claimed to have been elected as a delegate to contest my seat.

I want the Republicans of Chilton County to know that your Probate Judge Lewis Reynolds, voted in the State Convention to deny me and the other white delegates a seat in the Convention and I also want you to know that Marion Foshee, who was my own father's alternate, stood up by the side of Reynolds and voted with him to deny myself and the other white delegate their seats, notwithstanding the fact that while Foshee did this, he represented my own father, being his alternate, and my father not being there to protect my interests. I saw them both stand up and be counted.

I also wish to state that we had such a clear cut case against our negro constestant that J. I. McKinney, after we proved by the signed statements of the Democratic election Managers in Montgomery that he had voted in the Democratic primary on August 8th. actually withdrew his action in withdrawing his contest, I, and the other white men were not seated.

I secured a ticket from Walker County through a friend and sat through the entire proceedings, and saw with my eyes Reynolds and Foshee vote against me, and also saw that State Convention nominate the same J. I. McKinney for the office of State Game and Fish Warden for your Republicans of Chilton County to vote for, after he had acknowledged on Sept. 6th to the Republican State Committee that he had voted in the Democratic primary on August 8th, which also nominated a man for State Game and Fish Warden and this, after McKinney had, with his negro colleague, George Newstall, withdrew their contests against the white organization in Montgomery County.

The Street forces in the State Convention after they saw they could not seat their negro, would not let us have a seat, because we were against their slate, and actually appointed P. E. Alexander on the Credentials Committee to decide the contest, although the same Alexander was an attorney, representing the negro organization in Montgomery County at this Convention.

It might also be of interest to you Republicans of Chilton County to know that this P. E. Alexander for eight months has been an applicant for the appointment as United States Attorney for this District, and is still an applicant, and that Street has during all this time, worked and worked and worked, until his tongue almost stuck out, to have him appointed, but up to the present time has not been able to fool the Attorney General of the United States into giving him the job.

Now, I hear that Mr. Street is fixing if he cannot land Alexander, to switch his endorsement to Judge Reynolds' son, Grady Reynolds, who also stood up in the State Convention with his daddy and Marion Foshee and voted to deny the white Republicans of Montgomery County any representation in the State Convention because they were afraid to let the white delegate in after they could not seat the negro delegate, who had withdrawn his contest, and which action should automatically have seated us.

I make two hundred a month and do not want any federal job.

Yours truly,
KELLEY GENTRY

SAD DEATH.

Some five weeks ago Miss Mamie Edwards, who lived with her parents near Billingsley, had the misfortune to be run over by a motor truck.

She lingered along under medical attention until three days before her death when she was brought to the Hospital here and an operation performed, but it was too late and she died last Tuesday evening.

The interment followed the next day at Shiloh cemetery, Rev. Parrish conducting the services.

Miss Edwards was 34 years of age and is survived by her father, mother and several brothers and sisters.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

On Sunday P. M., Oct. 1st we will have our district Sunday School Convention in tha Methodist Church at Verbena.

We urge every Sunday School of all demoninations in district No. 5, to be present. It is the first meeting since our County Convention and we have some business we would like to bring before the convention and we need every school represented especially we invite the superintendents for Mr. J. J. Pickens, our administrative Superintendent will have something good to tell us.

Don't fail to come.

MANUAL DUBOSE SHOT

Word came to the city Tuesday morning that Mr. Manual Dubose, who lives down at Mitchell Dam, had been seriously shot.

The bset informaiton we have been able to obtain is that prohibition officers raided his place. When they burst in he seized his revolver and jumped behind his ice box to protect himself. While he was facing the man who was entering he claims that a shot fired from outside the building and behind him took effect in his back, passed through his body and came out near his neck.

Dr. Gragg attended him from here and advised his removal to the hospital which, we learn has been done.

It is also stated that Mr. Dubose has had considerable trouble with prohibition officers before. We have not heard what his condition is at present.

W. M. U. TO MEET HERE

The womans Missionary Union of the Unity Association will convene with the Clanton Baptist church on Tuesday Sept. 26th.

Program begins at 10:00 A. M. Miss Mary Northington will be present. She is one of the regular state workers and a most popular one.

Miss Blanch White will also be present to assist in the work.

We look for a good and enthusiastic meeting on this occassion and all members are urged to be on hand.

CURLEE—MAXEY WEDDING

The many friends of Mr. J. C. Curlee will be glad to know that he was married last Thursday to Miss Lillian Maxey in Birminugham, Ala. Mr. Curlee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Curlee of Clanton while the bride belongs to one of the prominent families of the Magic City. She is an accomplished young lady. The News extends them the best wishes for a long and prosperous journey down the pathway of life.

* * * *

So far as we know Henry Ford is not from Missouri, but he has a way of "sighting" people that is sure and effective.

* * * *

When you want anything done you beter do it yourself. The habit of "passing the buck" to the other fellow hardly ever gets you anywhere.

Barnum must have been right. The American people delight in bieng humbugged. About everything we have anything to do with these days is a humbug.

If you know anything good about a man or a woman, tell it. If you know anything bad keep your mouth shut. It will be found out anyhow and your conscience will be clear.

The democrats are going to put on a whirldwind campaign in all the doubtful counties of the state this year That will be fine if they don't put it off until after the election.

We hope the next legislature will provide for narrow footpaths for pedestrains. Some people have to walk yet and as we have no protection from reckless auto speeders in the public roads we need a narrow foot path to walk in.

The tougher and sorrier a man is the closer some women will stick to him. Is'nt that strange?

Before you pass judgement on the other fellow, did you ever try putting yourself in his place and see how you would perform? That's a mighty good rule. Try it.

You better take mighty good care of your fliver now. Henry is not going to make any more for a while

The government work on Muscle Shoals is not attracting much notice so far. A few bass men and pets can assimulate all of that $650,000 in a month or so without employing any outside labor.

If there were more instances of prompt law enforcement like the recent case in Tuskegee, lynching would soon become only an unpleasant memory.

Before the War Germany imported annually 150,000 tons of nitrate from Chilli for fertilizer. Now they make at home out of the air 500,000 tons. Our country could be doing the same thing if they would quit playing politics and get down to business. Politics are responsible for at least four fifths of the "hard times" we have over here.

The date of the general election in November is fixed by the law and it most positively will not be postponed. If you intend to interfere the results of that election any, you will have to do so before that time. If you are content to sit down in idleness and let things take their course don't raise a howl after it is all over and say "I told you so."

For the benefit of our reputation with strangers who come among us, some kind of a traffic law should be enforced here. Cars passing through our business streets at from 30 to 40 miles an hour are not only a menance to life and limb, but are disgraceful in the eyes of people who are used to methods more safe and sane.

According to medical statistics 85 per cent of the adults in the United States are afflicted with some kind of stomach trouble. The adulterated food that is put off on us in cans, boxes, cartons and packages is responsible for it too. There is hardly a baking powder or any other self-rising process but what is poisonous. Also all canned goods are packed with poison to make them keep. We eat anything to save time and trouble.

The L. & N., the Central of Georgia, and a few other Southern railroads, refuse to sign up at all with the striking shopmen. They claim they have already secured all the help they need. From the engine trouble they are having and the number of trains running late 'owing to faulty equipment" it looks like their "help" must not be very efficient.

The deciples of "Higher Art" are advocating the idea that bathing suits should be done away with and both sexes bathe together in nudity. Some of the female sex might try that out but we materially doubt if any of the male sex would face the music. Not with a beach lined with observers at any rate.

Show us a young man that is mean to his sisters and abusive to his mother and we will show you one who is a coward at heart and is not fit to have even a wife.

FORD WORK CLOSE DOWN.

The most far reaching and disastrous effect of the labor troubles that have been going on practically ever since the present National administration went into power, was the closing down last Saturday of the vast Manufacturing industries of Henry Ford.

This shut down puts 100,000 laborers out of employment at one blow being those in the direct employ of the Ford plant, and it is claimed that between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 will ultimately be affected by this cessation of work.

Mr. Ford claimes that the coal and steel supply of the country have soared in price until both are absolutely out of all reason so far as a basis of first cost is concerned. In consequence of this fact and believing as he does that this condition of affairs is connived at and rendered possibly by a collusion between the operators and the Washington administration, he declines to be robbed by any such combination

The effort of the Harding administration to deliver the goods for that $12,000,000 slush fund has retarded the return or normalcy more than any one thing.

UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA IS GROWING

The membership of this organization is growing rapidly in our county and they have established a business office in Clanton that is getting results. The members are packing their cotton samples there in great numbers and direct market quotations with connection with an organized buying agency is believed to be partly responsible, at least, for the fact that our market is holding a price about equal to New Orleans quotations.

It is also a noticable fact that the "Diamond Sign" indicating a trade membership in the order, is becoming very common in the show windows of the merchants.

Organized efforts is what counts and we hope the farmers will line up to a man and stand together for better prices and fair dealing.

Women are usurping all the jobs that men can handle. We notice one woman in New York is leading a gang of yeggmen in cracking safes and bank vaults. Another woman in Chicago has been arrested with three men under the charge of train robbing. Emancipated woman is making her work right along.

The little war between Greece and Turkey is about to draw England France and Italy into the scrap.

DELIVERING THE GOODS

A $12,000,000 slush fund was put up by the railroad and mine operators to finance the last Republican campaign. This is public knowledge and was widely advertised at the time.

Now this class of our citizenship did not become multi-millionairs by giving away their dollars without good and safe hope of return, and this instance was no departure from that rule. They made an investment of that capital with a distinct and definate consideration in view and they have not been disappointed in the deal. The good shave been, are being delivered according to contract.

Under the fair and equal administration of government for the previous eight years, labor, all over this country, got on its feet and bright hopes for the future possibilities of a chance to live and rear their families in decency and comfort dawned iin the hearts of these men of sweat and toil but the operators could not stand for this living wage and decent plans of living, so they went into a $12,000,000 deal with the republican party to aid them in destroying the spirit of organized labor and to break up the strength of this nation-wide amalgamation of the laboring class.

The history of the past few months tells only too clearly the story of how well the administration has lived up to its part of the contract.

What is the condition of that one time great and powerful organization the United Mine Workers of America, today?

They have been shorn of their cooperation and as a potential fact in the future destiny of the miners their influence has absolutely disappeared They could not stand up and fight the battle of labor with the whole power and influence of the government against them. They exist now in name only and their membership is working under whatever conditions and wages the operators are willing to offer.

The Federation of Labor was another powerful organization that was being felt all over this country. Look what has happened to it. In the recent railroad strike some 400,000 employees of all the railroads in the country, who formed an important and integral part of this Federation, protected by the strike against wage reductions and other conditions they did not deem fair and equitable. They had the encouragement of all the other brotherhoods and the positive sanction of the Federation.

What was the result? They put up a game fight and now they have absolutely lost out. The government rose in their might and by injunction not only crushed them in the dust but they made it a criminal offense for any of their brothers in the Federation to aid them either financially or otherwise.

The American Federation of Labor is a loud sounding title that still exist, but this administration has shown how utterly powerless they are to handle the labor situation when both capitol and the government combine against them.

The only hope there can possibly be for the laboring class to get a hearing, or to influence or control the conditions under which they live in this country is by a united appeal to the ballot box. They hold the balance of power politically and could dictate conditions if they would only turn their organized efforts in that direction.

NEW CORPORATION

Last week a new incorporated company was formed and launched in Clanton. It is known as "The Planters Gin and Warehouse Company."

The following well known and substantial business men of Clanton compose the company:

W. L. Popwell, President; J. R. Mullins, Secretary and Treasurer; J. B. Atkinson, M. C. Broadhead, H. F. Downs, Walter Popwell and J. C. Jones are the incorporators. The capital stock of $6,000 is all paid in.

The company primarialy will engage in a general gin and ware house business, but they are organized with the privilige of taking on other lines, such as lumber and building material if they see fit.

The gentlemen are all known and recognized as big broad-minded business men and anything they go in to will be pushed sucessfully and honestly. We predict for them a splendid future and wish them unlimited success.

Burns Goodgame has recently had a nice residence constructed in the Gowan addition near the high school building.

LOST THEIR NERVE.

One of the most startling acrobatic feats of recent years was performed by the republican lower house of Congress last week.

After laboring practically without ceasing for 18 months in attempting to frame a tariff bill that would be satisfactory to big business and at the same time be ambiguous enough to deceive the common people, they finally passed what they call the Fordney tariff bill. It went up to the Senate and received their unqualified approval and also the endorsement of the president. So far so good, but last week it came back to the lower house, and to the utter suprise of both democrats and republicans, (those fellows who have to go back and get the home folks to endorse their credentials for another two years, stalled flatly and sent the bill back to a committee for revision and the general impression with all parties is now that it will never see the light again.

These fellows found out that the folks back home were dead on to that monstrous attempt to deliver the country bodily into the hands of the money sharks, and that their meal tickets in Washinton were going to be cancelled if they allowed that shameful piece of onesided legislation to get by.

Folks are beginning to sit up and take more notice than they formely did of the deeds done by their servants in office and they are also getting to where they don't mind giving a fellow the Kibash when he turns traitor. This is the brigest hope that our country has for a speedy rehabilitation and a return to normalcy. When the masses rouse up and put their hands to the plow the work is always done and done thoroughly.

The common people of the United States can always be trusted to do the safe and sane part. The crooked politician is where the danger lies.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC?

Chiropractic is the science and art of adjusting by hand the displacements of whatsoever character that may occur in the human body. These three hundred articulations of the skeleton frame being prominent, but especially the articulations of the vertebral column commonly called the backbone, to remove acclusion of stimulus from the nerve which should furnish vitality, sensation and motion.

The very important and far-reaching fact that displacement of vertebrae occlude stimulus, causing functional abnormality, and that adjusting such displacements permits stimulus to quickly restore normal functions.

Chiropractic is the most exalted of all mechanical sciences, since "the greatest study of mankind is man," and let it be understood once for all that it is truly a mechanical science, and has absolutely nothing whatever to do with medicine, rubbing or faith curing method. It's entire purpose and object is accomplished when the displaced element are restored to place, occlusion removed from nerves and stimulus has had time to restore normal size and power to muscles, ligaments and other tissues. Incidentally when this condition has been attained no sickness, disease or pain can exist.

A chiropractic mechanic is called a doctor of Chiropractic or a Chiropractor, and either of these terms rightly used with relation to the name of an individual signifies that he knows the law of displacements, occlusion of stimulus and adjusting to remove the same.

Chiropractic teaches that all sickness or abnormal functions can be removed so long as displacements can be adjusted occlusion of stimulus removed from the nerve, the nerves are not destroyed and the brain is in condition to transmit normal nerve energy, provided that the morbidity is not of such a maligant chracter that its eliminations will produce such grave motor reaction as to result in occlusion that can not be controlled in time to save life.

Chiropractic teaches that when occlusion is removed nerve stimulus puts in operation the machinery to establish normal circulation, normal vitality and to rebuild and to restore normal tissue and form, in other words begins the corrections of injuries that have been done to the system by interference with the life current. It is unnecessary to say that when the restored processes have secured normal eliminations and assimilation health will be the result.

Investigation will show you that Chiropractic is what you are looking for. Call and be convinced.

MOUNTAIN CREEK ALA.

The Pastors and Workers Conference met with Chestnut Creek church on September 11th with a very good attendance. A number of subjects were discussed including the supplimental 75 millionn campaign which was presented by Rev. S. J. Ezell and spoken to by others.

A very vital subject that received due consideration was The advantage and disadvantage of the independent call but it seemed to be a one sided question for all agreed that about the only advantage there was to the annual call was that some persons would attend church that day who never attend any other time, and generally go vote for a new pastor.

Everyone present both men and women expresesd themselves as being heartly in favor of the indefinate call of pastors which was reconized as God only plan.

The conference will meet Oct. 9th with the Clanton Church.

RADIO STATIONS WILL [illegible] ERECTED BY ALABAMA POWER CO. [illegible] STATE FAIR

Radio is the newest invention of science.

And, keeping step with the march of progress, and making the Alabama State Fair stay abreast with modern times, the management of Alabama's Annual Show has arranged to have a complete radio exhibit at the fair which gets going October 2 and closes October 7.

Complete exhibit is meant in the truest sense of the word, too, for arrangements have been made with the Alabama Power Company for the installation of a huge broadcasting and receiving station on the Fair Grounds. These affairs will not be toys or models, but stations that cost thousands of dollars to install.

With these outfits working visitors to the Fair may drink in the wonders of radio and marvel at the forward sweep of science. The broadcasting station erected at the Fair Grounds will send concerts to the furtherest outpost of the United States' borders, and the curious may see artists sending their talents to the four corners of America.

At the receiving station which will be constructed at a prominent location in the Fair Grounds, happy throngs may assemble and drink in the programs as broadcasted by New York, by Detroit, Pittsburgh, and other points. It is surely the first time that a State Fair has attempted so through an exploitation of what has been accomplished in the radio field. Radio was just coming into prominence last fall, but it has swept over the land with a popularity that is bewildering. The Alabama State Fair management, realizing the interest in radio, and cognizant of the fact that there are many Alabamians who have never enjoyed snatches of programs picked out of [illegible] from cities a thousand [illegible], went to work and induced [illegible] Power Company to install [illegible] exhibit for the enlightenment [illegible] the thousands of visitors who will flock to the Alabama State Fair [illegible] October 2.

[illegible] the broadcasting and receiving [illegible] will be features, but those [illegible] of the Fair have arranged with every radio supply dealer in Birmingham to put on display [illegible] the State Fair Grounds. [illegible] Secretary J. L. Dent [illegible] from the exhibit features [illegible] interested in radio [illegible] to purchase radio supplies [illegible] peopel right on the [illegible] Grounds.

Lectures on how to avoid static, hints on how to set up your radio outfit so that it will tune in on the programs of the bigger eastern cities, diagrams showing how chrystal sets for local programs may be built at small cost and little trouble, suggestions for the building and placing of capable serials—all these and a hundred or so other features will be brought to the attention and cleared up for the radio fans, who are as thick in Alabama as mosquitoes in Jersey City.

It's quite a progressive step on the part of the Fair Association and be- [illegible] educating the state's citizenry up to what has been accomplished in the foremost scientific development of the past year.

It goes without saying that when our people visit the State Fair at [illegible] the radio st[illegible] [illegible] and knowledge of the latest miracles—that of picking voices out of the air.

FIREWORKS SPECTACLE AT ALABAMA STATE FAIR TO PROVE REVELATION

"Pyrotechnically perfect."

That's the verdict of fireworks' experts who have looked into the great "explosives program" for the Alabama State Fair, which gets going in Birmingham October 2 and closes October 7. The Fair management this year has expended thousands of dollars for the fireworks feature, and is offering the most elaborate spectacle of this kind ever presented to Southern peopel.

The fireworks display at the State Fair has always proven a great attraction, but this year's spectacle is so far superior to others that have gone before in splendor and magnificence that Fair visitors will forget about past programs as they sit and revel in the wonders of this year's program, which will be a nightly feature in front of the grandstand.

Bombs bursting in mid-air, changing the pitch black of the skies into a myrid of gleaming lights; high-powered rockets sweeping across the heavens and leaving a trail of gleaming sparks like unto the tail of Halley's comet as it swept across the horizon; gleaming gyrating wheel of splendor; noise enough to rival the din of the bombardment of Berlin; artistic photographe of the world's celebreties done in flames and combustive ingredients; roman candles spitting their messages to Mars; patented features making their bow to a Southern populace for the first time.

This year's big burning spectacle is a tribute to science. It represents what the hand and mind of genius has accomplished through years of untiring experimental work. It surpasses the fondest hopes of fireworks manufacturers of a few years ago. Secretary Jim Dent, who superintends the work at the Alabama State Fair, and who has seen fireworks spectacles ever since he was knee-high [illegible] written the Edito[illegible] fireworks display [illegible] achievement of all [illegible] are treat is in [illegible] of this section when the State's metropolis th[illegible] [illegible]er 2, and drink in the [illegible] bama's annual show.

[illegible] not confine his praise [illegible] ks feature, however. [illegible] that the Fair this year [illegible] and grander in every de[illegible] than ever before and that [illegible] the enormous expendi[illegible] by the Fair officials [illegible] the greatest attractions [illegible] exhibits ever brought to Birm[illegible] he felt safe in predict[illegible] wd records for all time [illegible] and that this year's at[illegible] [illegible] would far surpass any [illegible] ever threaded its [illegible] ive gates of the Al[illegible] Fair Grounds.

[illegible] points out, the Alabama State Fair is a State institution and one that should receive support and encouragement from the [illegible] the State Fair and drink in the wonders of its agricultural, industrial [illegible] exhibits, to see what [illegible] plished in all lines of [illegible] education within itself. And, on top of those valuable features, [illegible] are the entertainment attractions of the midway, the free acts in front of the grandstand and various and sundry pranks of tomfoolery to add spice and laughter to one's visit.

R. A. Brown, who has been President of the [illegible] anization for years—the man [illegible] brought the institution [illegible] mire and put it on the [illegible] it now enjoys, says [illegible] with pride to the won[illegible] Fair offers to its thou[illegible] tors this year.

PRODUCTS OF FARM [illegible] FOR FAIR FROM [illegible]ER STATE

Agricultural exhibits at the Alabama State Fair, which starts in Birmingham, October 2, and lasts through October 7, will be a revelation this year. Visitors to Alabama's annual show will see a panoramic display of the State's agricultural resources, the like of which they have never before seen. From the lowlands of South Alabama to the uplands in the northern part of the State will come exhibits picturing Alabama's great wealth from a rural standpoint.

These wonderful exhibits in conjunction with farm machinery displays will show the farmer, who has gone into the business of farming on a small, unscientific scale, just what may be accomplished on a broader, more modern method of farming.

The Alabama State Fair brings before its visitors this year, just what may be accomplished in Alabama in the way of growing things on the farm. It shows that Alabama enjoys fabulous resources in the way of climate, soil and the like.

Those of our own community, who [illegible] the week of [illegible] in the wonders of the State's [illegible] al show will probably con[illegible] surprised and more [illegible] nded than ever before, after learni[illegible] the things that are being [illegible] from one end of the [illegible] to the other.

[illegible] state's annual show must carry its [illegible] ment end, and it is bigger [illegible] ertainment features [illegible], booking the largest number of attractions of this kind ever brought South. At the [illegible] cials recognize the [illegible] facilities of a [illegible] exhibit, and it [illegible] preparing such in [illegible] es of the state [illegible] may become [illegible] thoroughly familiar with w[illegible] is doing along these lines, [illegible] hat is being accomplished [illegible] onward march of progress [illegible] sweeping through the rural districts as well as the urban sections.

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the geenral election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 35—Cliett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations; Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may levy and collect through their duly constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their consideration at the next general election, to-wit: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany, and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municpal corporatons to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election on the amendment proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided, the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for." Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the electors shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all [illegible] in accordance with the law [illegible] general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. That the votes cast at said election shall be counted, canvassed and tabulated and return made to the Secretary of State in the same manner as in elections of representatives to the Legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendment voted in favor of the same such amendment shall be valid in all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of Alabama. The result of such election shall be made known by the proclamation of the Governor.

Approved November 1, 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 8th day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

THOS. E, KILBY,
Governor.

WM. P. COBB,
Secretary of State.

BAKER SCHOOL HOUSE

Hey there Mr. Editor:

I am asking you for a small space in your paper for a few happenings of this much a-live place.

Cotton picking is still all the go but if this pretty weather continues on for a few days we will all soon get through.

The singing here Sunday was the best ever, the Lomax class being with us and you know every where they go the singing never fails. The two Sanders sisters directed. Surely the singing in heaven can not be much sweeter than the singing of those two girls. They were called on more than once to sing. "I don't care to stay here long" The dinner that the good ladies had prepared shows that the larder of none of them is empty. I know that table farly groaned under the load of fried chicken, chicken pies, Beef, cakes, custards. If any one left that table hungry twas their fault.

Miss Leona Smith spent Saturday night with Miss Nancy Mims of Clanton.

Miss Eula Culpepper attended the party at Mrs. Wards Monday night. She spent the night with Miss Nancy Dunlap.

Miss Mamilla Littlejohn spent Saturday night and Sunday at home.

Mr. Editor news is just wee-bit scarce this week.

JUST ME

We are glad to learn that Mr. G. C. Edwards has purchased the farm of Mr. James M. Popwell near Clanton and will soon be near town. However, we regret to loose so valuable a citizen as Mr. Popwell.

Mrs. J. M. Curlee has gone to the Magic City to visit her five sons.

Mrs. J. Smith and Miss Lila Hester, of Lomax, were in town Monday shopping.

Mr. W. T. Franklin, one of the Good Old Time Democrats, of beat 15, was in town Monday.

A LOVELY BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Sept 18 Mrs Walter Ward gave a party honoring her sitser Miss Nancy Dunlap. This being Miss Nancy's birthday. The nurmous beautiful gifts she did receive shows the love and esteem her comrades has for her.

Several different games were played until a late hour when the hostess assisted by Mrs. D. Baker and Miss Etta Baker Mrs. Kate Smith and Mrs. Scroggins served delicious cake and fruits to the following young people:

Misses Nettie Culp, Bula Dunlap, Evelyn Mims, Eula Culpepper, Flora Thornton, Leona and Myrtle Smith, Gertis Baker, Delcan Watson, Gracie, Flora Annie Mas, Foshee Marie Morris, Kattie Lee Wells, Sanara Culp, Meda Sanlin, Verdie Dee Williams, Annie Tippitt, Auclean Littlejohn.

SINGING AT BAKER SCHOOL HOUSE

In company with our clever and genial business manager, Mr. J. L. Johnson, we had the pleasure of atatending the Harp and Harmony singing at Baker School House last Sunday.

The occassion was a revilution to us in some respects. One thing especially impressed itself on our mind. Those good people were offering one of the most earnest and sincere devotional services that we have had the pleasure of being in for a long time. From the beautiful and humble prayer of invocation offered by Mr. Zack Jones, chairman, to the last song that brought the occassion to a close in the afternoon, the order was absolutely perfect and the spirit of devotion to a Higher Power was sublime.

A very large audience was on hand, many more than could find room in the building. Following is a list of the leadres furnished us by the accomplished Secretary, Miss Era Sanders:

Lewis Henderson, T. J. Jackson, J. D. Hodgens, Miss Era Sanders, T. J. Baker, W. J. Morris, W. C. Sanders, Mrs. Sarah Bates, Mrs. Essie Cleckler, W. F. Culpepper and M. Williams.

Each one of those did splendidly and the large class worked with everyone in perfect harmony. The music was simply fine and these good old time songs awakened many fond memories in the hearts of a largepart of the audience.

An ample and excellent dinner was immensely enjoyed especially by our Business Manager.

We congratulate the people of that community on their hospitality and especially on the wonderfully good behavior of so large a crowd.

Fashion declares htat the bobbed hair of the flapper is no longer in style. Just as nearly all the women get their hair bobbed off the style goes out. As they have cut off their own the sale of false hair will boom again. You better be dead than out of the fashion.

S. E. Bruce went out to the singing at Baker School House Sunday. We, the business manager of the News, are going to indict him because he failed to take us that tomatoe which he agreed to take for us. However, we did the subject justice about the noon hour.

BRANDON STAMPS POST AMENDMENT WITH HIS APPROVAL

Next Governor Predicts Great Impetus to Industrial and Commercial Alabama Through State Development of Her Seaport.

Birmingham, Sept. 16.—Judge W. W. Brandon, of Tuscaloosa, who was recently nominated for Governor of Alabama by the largest majority ever given a candidate for office in this State, has come out in one of the strongest endorsements of the Port Amendment to the Constitution yet given it by any one.

In a letter to Chairman Sydney J. Bowie, of the Alabama Seaport Committee, Judge Brandon says he unqualifiedly endorses and approves the Amendment and pledges himself as Governor to see that the interests of the State and of the people are thoroughly safe-guarded in every way. His letter follows:

"Tuscaloosa, Alabama, Sept. 12, 1922.

"Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, Chairman, Alabama Seaport Amendment, Birmingham, Alabama.

"Dear Sir:

"Answering through this letter to you numerous inquiries which have been made as to my view and position with respect to the Alabama Seaport Amendment to be voted on in the November election, I make the following statement:

"1. I unqualifiedly endorse and approve, and will vote for, the said Amendment.

"2. If the Amendment be adopted, I, as Governor, will approve only a conservative plan of development, the money raised upon the State credit to be used only for acquiring facilities as needed, the issuing of bonds to be limited to the amounts necessary to secure such facilities, no excessive prices to be paid for any property, and the State's right to condemn needed property to be always available.

Only Business Men Selected.

"3. As is contemplated by the proposed amendment, all property acquired in the development will always be owned absolutely by the State and remain under its control through such board, commission, or other agency as the Legislature may designate, and I assure that in making all appointments to such positions, I will select only experienced business men of outstanding ability and unquestioned character, ignoring entirely politics, politicians and all political considerations.

"4. My endorsement of the said development is not in conflict with my platform of retrenchment, reduction of taxes and rigid economy in the administration of the State's affairs, because full investigation of the present volume and character of traffic has convinced me that State owned and controlled terminal facilities at Alabama's only seaport, acquired and developed in keeping with the principles here stated, will be self-sustaining; that the income therefrom will not only pay the interest on the money invested, but also will be sufficient to build up an ample sinking fund for the retirement of the bonds at maturity: and that such income after the retirement of the bonds, will afford large revenue to the State.

Mobile Port Best Serves State.

"5. Inquiry into the matter has further convinced me that water transportation to, from and through our seaport carries distinct advantage to every portion of the State; that the cheapest possible transportation from either the East or West Coast of the United States to any point in Alabama is by water to our seaport and thence by rail to point of destination; that enormous quantities of merchandise in daily use throughout the State may be so handled; that this advantage is multiplied as to all points on our splendid river system where an all-water route may be used; that shipment either to the East or West Coast of this country, or to foreign countries, of our vast surplus of agricultural, mineral and forest products is facilitated and cheapened by reaching water transportation at the nearest possible port; that the difference just mentioned is well illustrated by the fact that the all-rail rate from the Birmingham district to the Pacific Coast on cast iron pipe is $27.00 per ton, while the rate by barge to Mobile and from there to the Pacific Coast by Steamer is $12.50 per ton or $14.50 per ton less than the all rail rate, which saving is sufficient to keep our furnaces going when otherwise they would be forced to shut down; and that the building up of a great port in this State will add largely to taxable values, increase our population, supply better markets for our products, and give us liberally of the manifold benefits which accrue from progress along safe and conservative lines.

Publicly Owned Ports Successful.

6. Several other states, notably California and Louisiana, have met with splendid success in owning and controlling terminal facilities, and I am quite sure that we are at least equal to them in relevant natural resources and in the integrity and business ability of our people. What they have done, we can do, and in the near fu-

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 2 — CLANTON, ALABAMA, [illegible] 1922 — NUMBER 3

S. M. EDWARDS WRITES LETTER

W[illegible] you al[illegible] me to come in for a chat as the time is drawing near when [illegible] to elect the officials in the [illegible] another term.

[illegible] first vote I cast was with the [illegible]pulist Party. Then I lined up with [illegible] Lilly White Republican Party. Then I went in to the Black and Tan Republican Party. Then I went into the Bullmoose Party. From that party I returned to the Black and Tan again. I was following Reynolds all these rounds. I guess if all those rounds we went were straightened out [illegible] would a'most reach around the wor[illegible] and it was all because Reynolds [illegible]oved the office. So now, I am like [illegible] old man at the prayer meeting, I have sturck a stump. I can not follow him any further. I am going to line up with the independent forces until something better shows up.

I have given this matter careful con[illegible]deration. I have looked over what both parties have to offer for their various offices in the county, and I find that the Democratic party has nominated some as good men as Chilton County can produce. Now I have never believed that politics changed a man's principles. A good man is a good man no matter what his poiltics [illegible]. It don't take a democrat to be a bad man nor a republican to be a good man. There are good men on both sides as to that.

I am going to support three of the nominees on the Democratic ticket: Messer, Jones and Adams. I am going to support the reaminder of the Republican ticket as nominated. I have several reasons why I am going to support C. D. Messer. First his moral standing is without question. I have got my first man to hear say anything against him in that respect. Second his qualifications are good and I have not heard that questioned. Third, he is a farmer and actually does farm work. Hence he [illegible] the value of a dollar by the [illegible] it reaches the farmers purse. He [illegible] the need of the farmer because [illegible] right off the farm. No, we will [illegible] believe that this good man will [illegible] his back on working class of people. He will not heap loads of debts on us. No, no, I have too much confidence in him to believe that.

Last but not least he has fought the battles for his Lord for a number of years in Chilton county and on the 7th of November he is going to his reward from the people he has served with the welcome plaudit you have been faithful in making us a better people we, the people, now proclaim you our Probate Judge.

Brother Adams another good man. He made Chilton County one of as good probate judges as she ever had. He now offers his services as State Senator. I do not think the people can do a better thing than put it on him to go down there.

Mr. Jones has been our sheriff once. He made a good record. Let him try it over, and make us a better one this time.

Some of the candidates want to get up a row about dipping cattle. I believe it nothing but fair for those who have ticky cattle to dip them. I also believe it is the height of folly to ask a man to dip his cattle who has no ticks nor have not been exposed to ticky cattle. I have not seen a tick in at least five years and I would kick like a bay steer if I was asked to dip my cattle. This law was made to protect cattle raisers against this pest and not for politicians. Probate Judge Reynolds was the first man to talk dipping to me. He was in favor of dipping and he pointed out to me the advantages it would be to dip. He had also a public exhibit of dipping his own cattle in his own vat. Now that we have went to forty thousand dollars expense to get rid of the tick it is unwise not to finish the job. If ticks are allowed to remain in a small territory they are certain to spread and in a very few years the entire county will be infested again and then all the money and labor that has been spent for that purpose is absolutely lost. Let us look at this matter as a business proposition leave rotten politics out of it.

Yours for a fair deal,
S. M. EDWARDS.

WALTER GILLESPIE ON THE JOB

Last week Federal Law enforcement Officers, Walter Gillespie, who now has headquaters here, decided to do a little scouting around up in Shelby. He went up and cast out his drag net and made a wonderful sucessful catch the first dash out of the box.

He landed James Owens and Melvin Pate charged with operating a still but not satisfied with that he also captured one 200 gallon copper still; one 100 gallon copper still; one 50 gallon copper still; 5,000 gallons of beer 3 bushels of corn meal and 2,100 pounds of granulated sugar. All of this was accomplished in the run of one day's work and in an area not exceeding a mile square.

Then over in Coosa he made a little drive and got a 120 gallon copper still and 40 gallons of the real notorious Coosa county tangle foot.

The moral of this story is plain. If you want to make or sell moonshine liquor you better locate in a territory where Walter Gillespie don't ever roam and if you don't you have just bought yourself some trouble when you make the start.

Tuesday Mr. Gillispie and his helpers made another trip to Shelby and captured 2 100-gallon stills, 2500 gallons of beer and 5 gallons of booze. They also arrested Mr. Dock Lowery and Mr. Arthur Ellison who were the gin mill operators.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

Now is the time for Chilton County and Clanton to Get on the Map. Organize an American Automobile Association Motor Club at Once.

Below we print a clipping from the Montgomery Advertiser that we want to call your special attention to. Read it carefully and see what a wonderful opportunity we have right now to get in touch with a potential situation that means thousands of dollars to us annually.

The Chamber of Commerce is already moving in the matter of a tourist Camp. They are doing exactly right and by pushing this movement to a successful culmination the[illegible] have accomplished for this [illegible]tion one of the most certain [illegible] stantial sources of revenue that has come our way in years.

You will see from the article belo[illegible] how another most essential and profitable organization can be formed to still further push this same matter to a successful finish. The forming of an Auto Club under the auspices of, and connected with the American Automobile Association, gives us direct touch with the tourist both at home, before he migrates south in the fall, and also we put the advantages of our section before him while in the "Land of Flowers" and invite him to visit us on his return trip home.

This is a wonderful opportunity to advertise our section and to make a financial success at the same time. We have in Chilton County 734 automobiles owned and operated here. That is a splendid showing for a strong and influential organization to be formed from.

Now is the time to act. Don't put it off until the opportunity pa[illegible] [illegible] is knocking at our doors today. Tomorrow may be too late. Speed up both movements and let both the Chamber of Commerce and Auto Club work in harmony and to one end—that we may capture our part of this golden stream.

Statistics complied by the American Automobile Association show that during the past winter over 30,000 motor cars entered Florida. Most of the cars belong to Northern and Western tourist, who spent the winter [illegible] Florida to escape the rigors of [illegible] North.

There are three practical routes leading into Florida. One route lea[illegible] from Washington D. C., through Richmond, Raleigh, Columbia, Augusta, and Savannah to Jacksonville. A route leads through Atlanta, [illegible] Valdosta, to St. Petersburg and other points in Florida. The third route [illegible] on an average, just as good roads, [illegible] is used less than either of the other two routes just described. The third route leads through Louisville throu[illegible] Nashville, Birmingham, Montgom[illegible] Dothan and into various points [illegible] Florida.

Facts at hand show that over 32,000 of the 36,000 cars that entered Florida traveled over the two so called Eastern routes.

Many tourist that have travel[illegible] over all three routes are unanimous [illegible] their opinion that the route thro[illegible] Montgomery, taken as a whole, is ju[illegible] as good if not better than the ot[illegible] two routes.

The question arises then, why sho[illegible] tourists prefer to enter Fl[illegible] fall and return northward [illegible] the spring over the eastern routes.

The answer to this question is found in the fact that Florida has nineteen A. A. A. Motor Clubs. These clubs are aware of the fact that practially all the tourist that come to Florida are members of some A. A. A. Motor Club. They also know that these tourist desire to travel on the routes having the largest number of A. A. A. Clubs, so that they can receive the benefits of the services that these clubs give to all A. A. A. member[illegible] such as accurate and dependable road information; free mechanical service, and free legal advice if needed.

Naturally, the various Motor Clubs in Florida, as well as the clubs along the two eastern routes give out all the publicity they can by sending out thousands of maps showing the two eastern routes leading into Florida.

That fact makes it absolutely necessary for Montgomery to have a live active Motor Club. The A. A. A. in a short time, will have an unbroken chain of motor clubs leading from

WHERE WAS YOUR GIRL LAST NIGHT?

The following was handed us with a request to publish.

Isn't my child having a grand time", muses the proud mother, as she contemplates the popularity of her daughter. "She is so popular with the boys that she is out every night with some boy and does not get in until after midnight. It is wonderful."

Does her popularity cause the boys who call to stay at home in the parlor?

"No, they always take her out for a ride."

Poor old mother—your daughter is having a "grand time." Sure she is but how?

Out every night on some lonesome road with the car parked.

Most of the popularity of these days is born of promiscuous love. The young libertiness flock where the cheap love is the easiest.

"My little girl is different," is what you say; that is what you all say; that is what they all think and feel. Let me tell you something. You are not raising your girl right when you permit here to go long auto rides into the night. You are not giving her the chance she deserves. Your little girl is made up of the same flesh as of anybody else's little girl; your little girl has the same impulses and emotions as anybody else's little girl and is no different from anybody else's little girl. Every girl that drops to shame and degradation was once just as sweet and innocent and pure minded as your little girl, the difference being she wasn't given the protection she should have been given. She was permited to run at will with any man she met in autos late at night. That's the difference between your little girl and the bad little girl. They are all good to start with. They all want to do right, every one of them. And the decent is always gradual and follows long auto rides into the night.

It is inevitable!

I am going to break up the auto riding down darkened lanes.

I am going to present the facts to your mothers, with full projectile force of its naked hideousness.

I tell you only the truth. The facts are worse than any fiction yet conceived by imaginative writers.

You may get mad with me. I don't care. If you don't want to know what's going on don't read this. Throw it away. I am writing for those mothers who want to know exactly what is going on.

Let me paint you a picture, a real picture, and you had best frame it and hang it on the wall of your memory. I am going to break up this night auto parking and you had better help me.

The nice boy calls and sits in the parlor a few minutes and then says to the girl he has come for, "Let's go." The nice boy and your girl depart into the night.

This story refers to the habitual night rider.

It is as true as Holy Writ.

Thy are barely out of sight before his arm slips snugly around her waist and she pulls up close to him to make the hugging more convenient. He does this unless he is a "positive stick" or a "human pill." If he is a regular he proceeds to pull a lot of cuss words. No young man is on dot unless he can sling 'em dirty. The greater his assortment of expletives the more he impresses the popular young thing with his worldiness.

If that isn't so I'll quit right here.

They bowl around the city for a short while, maybe to a dance or to a salacious picture show.

And they sail out into the night. He has a favorite spot where he generally does his parking. If your girl is accustomed to parking there is no argument. If she is not, he will find some excuse for parking. His has been on nothing else since he sat in the parlor and conversed with you. He may have engine trouble or has to look for a flat, or is just simply tired of driving and "we may as well sit here as in the parlor." Sounds reasonable Doesn't it?

And they sit there.

Overhead the stars wink knowingly at each other and the fence posts stand dismally out in the night like gaunt sentinels.

Fragrant breezes to toy with the curls that cluster on her pretty forehead and the nice boy holds her closer in his arms. Why not? Not a soul is near and it is nice to be held tightly by one you love. Why not? They are going to the pictures and no one thinks wrong of it. The story books are full of stories of girls in the arms of the ones they love. Why not? No one will ever know.

He vows of love that is tender and enduring. He whispers sweet nothings into rapt ears. He presses a long ten-minute kiss to her lips. Her cheeks grow warm. There steals over her a strange feeling that comes to a maid when she is alone with a man and held in his arms. He kisses her again and again—these hot warm kisses Her head falls back limp in his arms—that is your little girl and the nice boy who just left your home.

This is a true picture of the girl who habitually goes night riding down shady lanes as God Him-self can paint.

It isn't exaggerated one bit but every girl who has been out that way, would say the same thing, if she were frank.

I didn't go as far with my story as that couple could go if those rides are permitted to continue.

Where was your little girl last night?

"Why my little girl was at a dance."

Sure she was there for a while.

My girl wouldn't do such a thing as that!"

That is what they all say, but nightly thousands of cars are parked out on the public roads with the lights out Somebody's little girl is out there wrapped in some one's arms. Where was your little girl?

Don't go making alibis. Just ask yourself if you really knew where she was.

Just reason with yourself a little while.

I am talking about the habitual night rider.

Where was your little girl last night.

Was she in the vast army of parked automobiles that flock the land after nightfall.

Every road leading out of every city is flocked with parked cars and in many cases some libertine is seeking the downfall of some inocent girl.

And they say the world is getting better.

Don't take my word. Go and see. The sight is awaiting you any night on earth you see fit to go out and investigate.

Thousands of little girls are out there in those parked cars. Girls just as innocent as yours.

Where was your little girl last night? Are you sure? —Mayfield Weekly. Houston Texas.

The News publishes the above because many innocent girls are near a dangerous abyss. Do you permit your girls to go night joy rides.

MOBILE PORT AMENDMENT

Dr. B. F. Riley, of Birmingham was in the city last week working in the interest of the Mobile Port Amendment. He reports the prospect for the pasasge of the amendment very bright.

During his stay here a county campaign organization was perfected with Dr. V. J. Gragg as chairman and a systematic effort will be made to put the facts before all the voters in time for the November election.

LAMBERT—SMITH

Mr.Walter Lambert and Miss Gladys Smith motored into town last Friday evening, halted near the Hotel Wilson, secured the services of Rev. A. C. Wells and in about 2 minutes were made man and wife.

The bride and groom are both Chiltonites and have many friends who wish them a long and happy future.

Harding killed the Bonus bill according to program. The lower house passed it over his veto by a good majority but the Senate let it die. The members of the lower house can now go back home and tell the soldier boys they done their best for them. That is pretty slick business but it won't fool anybody this time. The scheme was too transparent.

PLEASANT G

Sunday was a well spent day with people of Pleasant Grove. We had Sunday School at 10 o'clock preaching a eleven. On account of Rev. Dyke [illegible]ing absent Rev. Lawrence of [illegible] filled his place and he indeed delivered us a fine sermon. After preaching we all took dinner at the home of Mr. Newt Childress. And all enjoyed together, a most excellent dinner. The people were indeed good to us. About 2 o'clock something near 55 of us all loaded up on two trucks and some few cars and started to Oak Hill where all enjoyed together with the Oak Hill singing a most excellent singing It was indeed worth our trip to all of us. We could have never went to a place where we could have been treated with any more kindness. We al enjoyed ourselves. Was glad to visit them and want them to visit us. After the evening was spent in good singing we all returned back to Pleasant Grove church to preaching. Rev. Dykes delivered to us another good sermon So you see all you who was not wit us missed something good.

ONE OF THE LEAST OF THESE

(By Rev. J. T. Williams.)

The method of attack used by missionaries in trying to conquer the forces of darkness in China, is to entrench themselves in one place until it is fairly well forufied and then go out on scounting expeditions looking for other places to attack. Thus new stations are opened up from time to time. All around these stations where missionaries live there are what are called out-stations which are manned by native evangelists. In the beginning these were few, but now there are many thousand of them. It is about one of these stations and the preacher that I wish to tell you.

In 1916 the writer happened to be in charge of what is called the Bamboo River Field in South China. My predecessor in that field had made arrangements for opening Koo Shui, a rather important market town, but no preasher had been secured for the place. I began looking for a preacher but could not find one. There were several men from Kwang Si province graduating from the seminary. I finally wrote to the one in charge of evangelistic work in that province and asked if I might have one of his men, mentioning the names of the ones that would be suitable to me He wrote that he had need for all of these men, but that there was another I might have and welcome to him sniMomnorp xnpamfw f fwwkwkwkwk

Lau Po Wai was a little dried up looking fellow whose appearance as a preacher was not promising to say the least. He was not bright though by hard work he managed to finish his course in the seminary. He was not eloquent, but could quietly tell the story of Jesus. He was quiet and knew what was going on in his heart.

When no other could be found this brother was finally employed It was thought that even such an unpromising fellow as he was better than none at all. After receiving some instructions from the missionary and after a prayer for God's blessing upon his labors, he set out for Koo Shui, about one hundred and fifty miles from Canton.

He found two or three Christians in the town who had heard the gospel and believed at some other place. Aside from these there was a town of several thousand people and all the surrounding country that was rank heathen either openly hostile or passively intolerant of the gospel of Christ. What could be expected of such an unpromising preacher in such surroundings? He was up against quite a different proposition from what the young preacher just out of the seminary in America meets.

However insignificant looking Bro. Lau was, he went to his post with two things that were in his favor. He had the love of God in his heart, and was willing to witness for Christ any time and anywhere. He began to hold services in the little rented chapel. Only a very few people came and they were only curious to see what the fellow would do. He began to visit the men in their stores and to make friend with them. Every third day was market day when people came in from the country villages with their produce. Bro. Lau mingled with the crowds on the streets and told them of the Christ. He made friends of the officers and soldiers, teachers and students. By servancewso - mtmalmthm mhthmth daily labor, much patience, and perseverance he has gained a hold on that town which must be well pleasing to the Master.

Along with this joyful service there have been trials and hardships one of which is worthy mentioning here. Once when Bro. Lau was returning to his station after attending a preachers meeting in Canton, he was captured by the robbers and taken to the mountains to be held for ransom. When the robbers had him, along with others safe in their mountain retreat, he told them that he did not have any money and that it would be of no benefit to them to hold him for money. "I am a preacher of the Jesus Doctrine and have no money except a very small salary." One of them said: "Are you really a preacher? Well, if you are preach some for us to prove it." Then it was that the little insignificant looking preacher opened his heart and poured out a fervent message about the love of God. He told how good loves men and wants them to love one another and if men really did this there would be no robbers and the country would be a safe place to live. His message thoroughly convinced the robbers that they had made a mistake in taking him. The next day they released him and gave him enough money back to pay his expenses up the river to Koo Shui. Perhaps his message will some day bear fruit in the heart of those robbers and make of their den a Christian village

Is Bro. Lau's work worth while? In 1918 he started a little Sunday School and had only ten to twenty to attend. It has grown slowly until now he has from fifty to seventy. During his six years of service twenty six have been converted from heathenism to Christ, and four of these have become preachers. Some may say that is a very poor showing but when we consider the tremendous odds against which this young preacher had to labor, weare compelled to thank God for this enviable record.

ßmthar raht rahtr him rtmthar tm . Truly God can use all those who are willing to witness for him. In China, as in other parts of the world, it is often the unheralded and little known servants of Christ who are doing most for building up the Kingdom of our God. In the great beyond when the final reckoning comes many of God's [illegible] the brightest crowns. Thank God for this one of the least of his servants and all like him in China. May their number increase.

LETTER FROM OLD TIMER

Elmore, Alabama,
Editor Chilton County News:—

After looking over a copy of your valuable paper a short time ago seeing names in the News that reminded me of days gone by years ago when you could see no Rail Roads no Clanton but plenty of wild game. Where Clanton is now shows a nice little city. If Probate Judge M. Robinson, the [illegible] Judge Collins, Jim Dunlap, Sheriff could wake from their long long sleep [illegible] They are good men gone for all time to come. Mr. Joseph Williams that did live near Mr. Hugh Jones Bill Walker [illegible] ed all of Clanton 57 to 68 years ago all in timber there except a small farm east of Clanton about one half mile. All have crossed over the river years ago are resting about Mulberry church [illegible] yard. Before Chilton County and Clanton, Andy Cooper's was the town [illegible] in that community Uncle Rube Pon-[illegible] Zack Carwile, Dave White, Mose Pinson John Dennis, Kin Wells, George Floyd, Dr. Wise, John Alf Teaf and [illegible] Poley Mims Joe and Joe Proctor Foshee. Today you see none of them but you can see their children and grand children about Clanton. Bill [illegible] Williams [illegible] and others. I first saw the light in Chilton county. Bowen L. Jones nominee for Sheriff. I think is a grand son of Mr. Hugh Jones whom I knew 68 years ago. I shall soon cross over the river and meet the older men metioned above.

Mr. John Hays one of the most ardent lovers of music in Chilton County was at the singing Sunday at Baker School house.

BAPTISTS ARE BUILDING NEW INSTITUTIONS.

The benevolent as well as the missionary and educational work fostered by Alabama Baptists has received a great stimulus from the 75 million campaign it is announced by superintendent of the various institutions involved in the benevolent program. The orphans home which is being removed to Troy where a number of excellent permanent buildings have been erected, has received a total of $142,016,13. The new buildings that have been provided are fire proof and up-to-date in every respect and the site is said to be a very beautiful one.

As a result of the Campaign the Alabama Baptist Hospital at Selma has been erected and opened and is now rendering a large service to humanity Inspired by the Campaign the Baptist association at Birmingham has purchased a well equipped hospital in that city at a cost or $250,000 which is now being operated under the Baptist auspices.

Through the contribution of approximately $60,000 by the Baptist of this state to the Relief and Annuity Board of the Southern Baptist Convention at Dallas, Texas, a number of retired dependent ministers in this state are now being aided along with their families. But contributions to these institutions represent only a small part of what they have done since the $75 Million Campaign was put on in the fall of 1919. During the Supplemental Campaign that is now being put on [illegible] hope all individuals and churches [illegible] up with their pledges and that their new members may make a contribution to the work.

TRIP TO BIRMINGHAM

Last Saturday Prof. Pegues extended an invitation to us and the business manager to accompany him in his car on a trip to Birmingham. We both accepted and leaving Clanton at 5:30 that morning the Professor landed us safely at the Tutwiler Hotel at 9:45

If there had been a road to travel all the way we would have made much better time than that, but from just this side of Calera to Cahaba river, a distance of some 18 miles, we had to follow what seems to have been a road but of former generations The onl reason it is not rougher than it is, i because there is not room enough on the ground to get in any more holes and bumps

Mr. Johnson and the editor attended a meeting of the State Democratic Campaign Committee at the Tutwile while our clever friend, the Proffessor went over to see old friends at the Birmingham Southern College.

All of us having attended to the business we had in hand, at 3:30 in the afternoon we loaded up for home. The entire trip was made without the sligest accident or car trouble and, considering part of the road we went over, we feel like this is a high testimonial to the skill and carefullness of Prof Pegues, who handled the steering wheel all the way around. He has our unqualified thanks for his kindness and courtesy.

Well, the Turks have murdered a few more thousand innocent women and babies and now they are dictating terms of peace to the civilized world. If that is not enough to shame all christendom we can't imagine what it would take to do it

PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the geenral election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 35—Cliett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may levy and collect through their duly constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their consideration at the next general election, to-wit: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany, and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election on the amendment proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for." Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the electors shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. That the votes cast at said election shall be counted, canvassed and tabulated and return made to the Secretary of State in the same manner as in elections of representatives to the Legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendment voted in favor of the same such amendment shall be valid in all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of Alabama. The result of such election shall be made known by the proclamation of the Governor.

Approved November 1, 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 8th day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

THOS. E, KILBY,
Governor.

By the Governor:
WM. P. COBB,
Secretary of State.

A GOOD IMPROVEMENT

Engineers of the L. & N. railroad have been in the city this week and have perfected all the arrangements for putting a 24-foot bridge, or viaduct, over the railroad where it crosses 4th avenue.

We already have there a bridge which has taken care of the traffic for years past, but Clanton has grown so rapidly for the past year or so that the old structure can no longer care for the traffic in safety.

They are going to build us one now that will be up to date, and when it is completed most of the congested condition that frequently occurs at the 2nd avenue grade crossing will be eliminated.

The railroad is to construct the bridge and the city is to build the approaches on each side. Work will begin on this job as soon as the proper material can be put on the ground.

Clanton is no longer a villiage, but is rapidly emerging into a real live city and the railroad recognizes this fact and steps forward promptly to keep their place in the general advancement.

REV. J. W. SHOFFNER PREACHES AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH

Last Sunday at 11 a. m. the congregation were treated to a splendid sermon by Rev. J. W. Shoffner, of Brewton, who is presideut of the Dowling industrial School at that place. His masterly discourse was greatly enjoyed by the large crowd in attendance and the speaker made many friends and admirers in Clanton by his brief visit.

CLANTON GROWS.

The L. & N. railroad has always taken pretty good care of Clanton so for as depot facilities have been concerned, but in the recent months the town grew and increased in business so rapidly that the railroad got behind their job.

They are coming through. They have a crew of men at work this week adding a large addition to the freight department, nearly doubling their cotton and heavy freight platform.

This is concrete evidence of the fact that Clanton is marching rapidly forward as an important business center.

As long as the christian world sits supinely down and allows the most villianous race of blood suckers on earth to murder, rape and rob christians with impunity just so long is the battle of Armageddon going to loom imminently on the horizen of the future.

BAPTIST W. M. U. SOCIETIES CALL THEIR MEMBERS TO PRAYER

The Baptist Missionary Societies over the state are asked by their leader, Miss Mary Northington, Secretary of the W. M. U., to give from October 1 to October the 8th to prayer for the success of the work with special reference to State Missions. The idea is in keeping with the plan of the Supplemental Campaign which is now being put on all over the Southern Baptist Convention. Hence all the members of the Baptist Churches are urged to give attention to prayer during the week. October is designated Stewardship Month among the Baptist churches and their pastors will present the doctrine of Christian giving as both a privilege and duty. November will be known as re-enforcement month and November the 26th to December, the 3rd will be designated loyalty week. At this time they hope to enlist all new members and those who have made no pledge to the 75 Million Campaign in their foward movement.

NEW FURNITURE HOUSE

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 2, 1922

To My Friends in Clanton and Chilton County:

I take this means of announcing to you that I will be ready to open my furniture store in Clanton about the 2nd of October. I have some nice suites of furniture that I will sell at a bargin as an opening sale. You are invited to come to see me.

If I haven't got what you want I am in a position to get it for you at the right price. But even if you don't want to buy anything come to see me anyway. I always enjoy seeing any of my old friends and talking with them. I went to the market myself and picked out my stock of Furniture. I know that the stuff I have is something that I can sell to you and stand behind it as being all right. I didn't buy any "cheap" stuff. It is well made up and well painted, and will not have to be made over after you get home with it.

Remember my place is located in the new building next to Dr. Arthur Johnson's office.

Hoping you will come around to see me when you are in town. I am as ever

Yours truly,
G. D. RETHERFORD

ODD FELLOWS BANQUETT

Last Thursday evening the Odd Fellows Lodge of this place treated themselves and some of their friends to a high class social function and banquet.

The festivities were inaugurated by Noble Grand J. Z. Mims, who called the audience to order promptly at 8 o'clock.

The first thing on the program was an address by J. B. Atkinson. His theme was Friendship and Love, he handled the subjects in a manner not only delightful to his hearers but also impressive and instructive to all.

He was followed by Rev. Wil [illegible] pastor of the Presbyterian church, who gave a splendid address on the subject of "Truth."

Then came the banquett, and it was a royal one in every sense. If there was any real good appetizing or delightful delicacy left off of the menu [illegible] can not recall it now. Everybody present seemed to especially enjoy those good eats and ye reporter did not fail to become personally acquainted with everything in sight on the table.

After the [illegible] Mrs. C. O. Jacob of Birmingham, spoke on the work and duties of the Rebeckah branch of the order.

Prof H. A. Harris came next with a splendid and appropriate address on the principles of the Order and Encampment work.

It was [illegible] and to be happily remembered.

VOLUME 2 CLANTON, ALABAMA, OCTOBER 5, 1922. NUMBER 4

HOWARD L. FOSHEE HAS SOMETHING TO SAY

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 3, 1922
Editor Chilton County News:

I am enclonsin herewith a letter addressed to the republicans of Chilton County and ask that you publish same in this week's issue of your paper and charge expense of same to me.

Yours truly,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 3, 1922.
To the Republicans of Chilton County.

Since the Editor of the Union-Banner in last week's issue of his paper charges me with going to the democratic party, in the same issue a letter signed by W. H. Hayes records some spasmodic political predictions, and O. D. Street, J. A. Bingham, L. H. Reynolds, and M. D. Foshee "explaining" the letter of Mr. Gentry, which I mailed to the Chilton County News for publication at the request of Mr. Gentry after he had failed to get same published in the Union-Banner; I deem it necessary to call your attention to a few facts and at the same time ask these gentlemen a few questions.

It was not charged in the Gentry letter, which was published in the Chilton County News, that Judge Reynolds or anyone voted in the State Convention to seat a negro. I call upon Judge Reynolds to show the Republicans of this county where Gentry made such a charge, either directly or by insinuation. I ask Judge Reynolds, M. D. Foshee, O. D. Street, and J. A. Bingham each to read Gentry's letter and tell you republicans what part or portion of same is untrue: Also what effect the result of their voting against the seating of Mr. Dimmick and Mr. King and their alternates had on the republican organization in Montgomery County? I ask them to tell the republicans of Ch[illegible] county,—Who is now chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Montgomery County? Is Geo. [illegible] King, who was elected by the white republicans of Montgomery County, now Chairman of the County Executive Committee, or is Geo. Newstell (colored) chairman? If the Republican State Convention had voted to seat the Gentry delegation wouldn't that have recognized the white organization in Montgomery County headed by Mr. King? When that Convention refused to seat them didn't that recognize the Newstell (colored) organization? It is demagogy for the white republicans of Montgomery County to form an organization entirely stripped of the negro element? I wish to ask Messers Street and Bingham how many members of the State Executive Committee voted on Sept. 6th to seat the King-Dimmick delegation? How many voted not to seat them? Didn't Mr. McKinney admit before the State Committee that he voted in the democratic primary on August 8th last? Wasn't he, after this admission, nominated by the State Convention for a place on the State Republican ticket?

I want Mr. Bingham to tell the republicans of this county if he and Mr. W. T. Bean of Clanton, Ala. were not beaten by substantial majorities for membership on the State Executive Committee in a meeting held by the delegates of the 4th Congressional District on the morning of Sept 7th, which meeting was called by chairman Grady Reynolds for the purpose of selecting four members from this district? Wasn't the following named gentlemen selected in that meeting for membership on the State Committee; Mr. Brown of Cleburne County, Mr. C. R. Barker of Calhoun County, Mr. J. A. Jackson or Shelby County, and Mr. J. B. Atkinson of Chilton County? Is it not a fact that Mr. C. R. Barker and Mr. J. B. Atkinson, after being duly elected in the above mentioned meeting by a majority vote of the delegates selected by the people, in which you and Mr. Bean participated, were, regardless of this action and the wishes of the majority of the declgates of this district, left off the Committee and you and Mr. Bean put on in their places? Why were Mr. Barker and Mr. Atkinson so objectionable to Mr. Street and others, that they could not permit them to serve on the Committee? Was it because they were original Harding men from this district?

There are a few questions that I would be glad for Judge Reynolds to answer for the satisfaction of the republicans of this county. In your letter last week stated that Mr. J. B. Atkinson was a member of the State Committee and you heard no objections from him as to the Gentry matter going as it did. Wasn't Mr. Atkinson present when you voted not to seat the Montgomery delegation? Did you ask him one word about the merits of their case? Who told you the action of the State Committee was unanimous? Judge why did you not have the letter you received from Mr. Pope Long printed with that of Mr. Street? Will you please answer these questions, in the next issue of the paper for I want to ask you then some questions relating purely to matters which have happened here at home.

Mr. Wyatt I desire to state to you that if being a man who believes in the right of liberty of speech and the press, being willing for the truth to be known as to the conditions of our poiltical patry and its members, being willing to stand for men who believe that truth, honesty, and morality, are the primary requisites for office holders; if these constitute a traitor, then I am guilty. For I said in the letter that I wrote to the Chilton County News that the statement made in Gentry's letter were true, and I have not yet seen where anyone has shown them otherwise. I wish to again state that his letter was true and that anyone denying the truthfulness of same does so knowing that he is willfully, delibertely, and maliciously falsifying. I ask the republicans of the county to communicate with Mr. John Anderson of Calera Mr. Ralph Callaway of Maplesville, Mr. L. A. Callaway of Cooper, Mr. J. Bice of Thorsby, or Mr. J. B. Atkinson of Clanton; or even Hon. Pope M. Long of Cordova as to the truthfullness of the above statement. Mr. Wyatt I wish to say further that your refusal to print Mr. Gentry's letter bears out the opinion held by a large number of republicans of this county that you print in your paper only such things as receive the O. K. of Judge Reynolds. Also I wish to say that if believing that the republican party should nominate men by the majority rule constitutes discord, I am also guilty. Is it now a matter of the party being given control or that of giving Judge Reynolds control? Did the majority of the republicans in this county show in the recent primary that they wanted him for their leader? I agree with you heartily that if the republican party is defeated in November it will be due entirely to the false position and intrigue of men within that party, men who place office holding above party welfare.

As for Mr. Hayes, if he will give the republicans of this county an exact account of his political maneuvers for the time he has been a voter, I feel no hesitancy in saying that the republicans of this county will then understand why he signed his name to the article which appeared in last week's issue of the Union-Banner. As to what Mr. Hayes concludes about my writing the letter to the Chilton County News, I wish to inform him that I have always voted the republican ticket as a matter of principle, with a view of voting for men who stood for a square deal and not "one family rule or ruin policy." Mr. Hayes, I am not a democrat and you and the one who wrote your letter knew at the time that you were telling a malicious falsehood when you stated that I had gone to the democrats. When I go to the democratic party, Mr. Hayes, it will be for matters of principle and not for Cash I ask you, Mr. Hayes to tell the republicans of this county how many times you have ever voted the entire repubilcan ticket. Will you tell the republicans what you know about the Gentry Letter. Can you tell them whether you know that it is true or untrue? If it is false wherein is it false to your knowledge? Mr. Hayes do you believe in giving the people out in the country a full knowledge and account of the condition of affairs of the republican party? Do you think these people ought to know about Gentry's letter, if not why? Answer these questions for I want to ask you a few more when these are answered about what has kept you in the ranks of the republicans.

In conclusion I wish to say that I am unable to see why the truth about our party and its candidates should be banished. I believe that the people are entitled to the truth at all times and any and all men should not do things that they feel would injure their party if it were told on them. I believe the honest republicans of this county see this matter as I do and that they will agree that the truth is never out-of-place.

Respectfully,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE

P. S. (To letter addressed to republicans of Chilton County).

The foregoing letter was by me submitted to the editor of the Union-Banner for publication in his paper on the 3rd day of Oct., and he positively refused to publish same in his paper notwithsaanding the fact that in last week's issue of his paper he and others consumed at least one page in an effort to belittle my standing as a republican and to squirm out of the predicament caused by the action of some parties at the recent State Republican Convention and which was exposed by Mr. Kelly Gentry in a recent issue of the Chilton County News, and further from the fact that I have always been a supporter of his paper, both morally and financially. As the executive officer of the Board of Education of Chilton County I have given all official printing and advertising to his paper, all of which was done in an effort to build up and support a republican newspaper in this county through which the republicans might communicate to the public their ideas and stands taken upon political questions or matters relating to the conditions of their party.

Beleiving that the facts enumerated in the above letter should be known by the republicans of this county and that if true answers are made to the questions asked therein will prove of benefit to the party and will have a wholesome effect in an effort which is being made by a majority of the republicans to have a party in this State entirely stripped of the negro element and "boss rule". I am therefore, at my own expense, having this letter published in the Chilton County News. Republicans, what kind of condition would we be in, what kind of government would we have, and what right of defense would we have, if the Union-Banner were the only paper published? Republicans, where are we driiting? If the things said in Gentry's letter and mine are true then are we republicans responsible for them? Should the facts be suppressed or should the light be turned on the places of darkness? If the truth is given you, don't you believe you are big enough and broad enough to control your actions in a political way? I think so, and further I believe that you are willing to gvie everyone a fair and impartialj hearing and a verdict that shall speak the truth.

STILL WE GROW

While it is a fact that a dwelling house can not be found for rent in Clanton and everything in the semblance of a human habitation is occupied. New buildings are springing up every day [illegible] if by [illegible]

For instance, here are just a few that are even now in process of construction, or to be commenced as soon as material can be put on the ground, and this list is nothing like complete for we did not have time to gather information from all patrons of the city.

[illegible] is building a splendid bungalow house which will be an elegant adornment to the city when completed

Mr. J. Watts Moore has a superb home that [illegible] about finished and it is not only imposing in size and beauty, but as an elegant and comodious home it could hardly be surpassed.

Mr. J. T. Koelet has also just added another nice home to the list in Clanton.

Mr. M. C. Culver has just about completed a ince dwelling for Mr. S. E. Bruce.

Mr. R. E. Luckie, we learn has completed his bungalow and has moved in. This [illegible] little modern home [illegible] avenue.

The splendid new dwelling being built by Mr. Guy Higgins has about been finished and is an added adornment to that part of the city.

Mr. F. B. Goodgame is just completing one real and tasty home and is preparing to put up another one right away.

Mr. Joe W. Littlejohn has finished his new home out in north Clanton and moved in.

Mr. C. D. Thomas has had work started on a home for himself and family this week

Mr. C. Reese Mullins, who is always doing things, is beginnlng work on another home to be added to the bunch he has just recently put up.

Mr. Jno. T. Ellis will also proceed to build him a spacious and permanent home as soon as [illegible] can complete the work on his businesshouse down in town.

This is just a few of the improvements we can remember off hand. There are numerous other jobs of building and repairing that we can not recall right off the bat.

Then say C[illegible]ton is not putting off its swaddling clothes and taking its place among the coming cities? Clanton has arrived and the only thing we need is more house room.

One of the solid citizens of the town tells us he is thinking seriously of putting up a block of 50 houses in the near future as an investment.

MOUNTAIN CREEK VISIT

Last Friday the editor sneaked out bright and soon and, thanks to the courtesy of Dr. Steele, caught a seat in his car to our old home town, Mountain Creek.

The hearty welcome of those friends down there of other days was something to warm the heart and cheer the soul.

Business seemed to be splendid and our good friend T. J. Henderson, who has a jam up general store there was kept so busy we hardly had a chance to get in a word edgeway.

The Flaketown Graphite mines, which have been closed down for two or three years, have opened up now and are running on full time.

The brown iron ore trade that has done nothing for a long number of years is moving again and a car per day is being shipped. All of this keeps money moving and business good.

The crops in that section are reasonible fair and we heard no complaint. Some extensive improvements are going to be made at the Soldiers Home right away and that will help keep a smile on the face of those old carpenter pals of ours down there.

W. C. White is not dealing now in 'long leaf" lumber any more nor farming to any great extent as of yore. He learned all there was about it and lost interest in the game.

Dave Norris has quit contracting since the great war run both labor and material crazy, but Dave always keeps somethings stirring. He now is doing an extensive vegetable business.

All inall, old Mountain Creek looks as good as ever and feels just like home the same as in other days. For good people and good neighbors the world can't beat 'em. May happiness contentment and prosperity always abide with them.

BIG REAL ESTATE DEAL.

A large real estate deal closed last week will mean much to the business and financial interest of Clanton.

The old gin and Fertilizer property west of the railroad, that has lain for years in silence, a grim testimony of hopes of the past that were never realized, has been bought out, lock, stock and barrel, by Mr. W. C. Robinson.

He secures something like 500 feet frontage on the railroad, all of which is splendidly adapted for shipping purposes. His holdings also are over one block deep and we judge there must be close to four acres of land included in the property.

Quite recently Henderson and Hosey had put in a large planing mill over there and had over half a million feet of lumber stacked on the yard. Mr. Robinson also bought them out Mill, lumber anl all and took over the entire business Monday morning.

Mr. Robinson is one of the most extensive lumber dealers in Central Alabama and he informs us that he will probably concentrate all of his business here. If so, he will greatly enlarge his planing mill, put in steam dry kilns and work quite a large crew of men, all of which means another good Saturday pay day for Clanton.

GOING TO HAVE RAIDIO SERVICE.

Mr. J. Hance Alred is having put in at his residence a raidio receiving station.

When it is completed, if it proves as successful as it has been reported, he will also install one at their splendid drug store down in town.

We hope to see both of them in operation right away, and the public will especially appreciate the service of the one at the drug store.

KELLY GENTRY WRITES AGAIN

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 29, 1922.
Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

There have been so many letters published in the Union-Banner of last issue, belittling the efforts of the Republicans of Montgomery County that I want just a little more space in your paper and then I am through.

The fact is, that on August 8, the Mass Convention in this county was called and presided over by a negro, George Newstell.

We had to respond to his call in order to have any semblance of regularity. There were a great many negroes in the meeting who were not qualified voters. One negro after the meeting told me that it would take thirty six dollars to pay up his back poll tax. There were seven negro women, one white ex-convict, and four or five postoffice clerks in their crowd.

Newstell, the chairman called upon a negro preacher to open the convention with a prayer.

Immediately after the prayer we split, owing to the fact that the chairman ruled and ordered that all qualified voters come inside the railing, and only about a dozen of their crowd went in, although there was room for more than two hundred. Our crowd of 23 white men went inside the railing and took seats in the jury box and organized the first white Republican Committee Montgomery County has had since the Civil War. We then carried our case to the State Convention and presented our evidence to the State Committee on September 6, and made out such a clear cut case that the negro delegation withdrew and left us unopposed

We routed them and ran them off the field of battle, but the State Committee, dominated by Mr. O. D. Street seemed to fear that if the negroes were not seated, and that if we white men were given our seats there might be a howl set up that would have a set of Referees appointed as was done in 1902 against the Lily-Whites, and therefore, they decided to satisfy the negroes of Montgomery County, by agreeing not to seat the white delegates, thereby leaving our County without any representation at all.

We appealed of course to the Convention proper the following day and when a motion to table, which as every one knows is undebatable. We had to sit there and be deprived of the privilege of even debating our case.

As I stated in my previous letter, the eleven delegates from Chilton County voted. Six of them, including L. H. Reynolds, voted against us and five good men on the delegation voted to allow us our seats. This was all done mind you, after the negroes had withdrawn and left us unopposed, and for fear someone might not get a Federal appointment, the County of Montgomery was not allowed any representation in that Convention.

Now Mr. Editor, notwithstanding the allegations made in the Union-Banner by Lewis Reynolds, M. D. Foshee, O. D. Street and J. A. Bingham why did Lewis Reynolds publish the reply he received last week from Hon Pope M. Long? He wrote him as he did Street and Bingham, and he received a reply from Mr. Long. Why not publish that Mr. Long wrote him as he did Street's and Bingham's?

Please Mr. Editor copy the following which appeared in the Montgomery Advertiser on August 9th, which is a correct account of our Montgomery County Republican Convention. Kindly do this and remember also that it has not been very many years, since Chilton County did not have any more Republicans than Montgomery County now has.

Yours Very truly.
KELLY GENTRY.

P. S. after the split came at our county convention, Mr. S. C. Dawsey, a white man, presided over our side as chairman, and I acted as secretary of the meeting.

KELLY GENTRY

Montgomery Advertiser, August 9, 1922.—The white republican wing took charge of the Montgomery county republican organization at a meeting of republicans of the county Tuesday. The representation was divided the white section outvoting the negro element on all questions.

If the organization perfected at yesterday's meeting is recognized by the state republican convention the republican organization of this county will be in complete control of the white element. According to the report there were seven negro women in the negro section.

The meeting agreed upon candidates for circuit court clerk and sheriff of Montgomery to run in the November election. W. Kelly Gentry, flagman on the Louisville and Nashville road and formely from Chilton county, was nominated for circuit court clerk. George M. King, a merchant of North Montgomery and formely of Clay county, was made the party's nominee for sheriff. A resolution adopted gave the executive committee authority to place candidates in the field for other county offices.

Delegate to the state convention elected at the meeting are: Joseph P. Dimmick and George N. King, regular delegates; W. Kelly Gentry and John T. Wheeler, alternates. Mr. Dimmick stated after the meeting that in accepting a delegate's place he does so without a desire to seek an office of any kind and that he is not an applicant for any office or promoting the interest of any other applicant.

The new county committee is as follows: George N. King, chairman; F. O. Duddley, J. H. Lunsford, J. T. Wheeler, S. C. Dawsey, J. H. Holliday, W. Kelly Gentry, Thomas J. Scott, J. B. Reynolds, J J. Holliday, J. P. Dimmick Five additional members will be added at a later date.

During the meetings the following resolutions were adopted:

"Be it resolved by the republicans of Montgomery county, in mass convention assembled, that we heartily endorse and approve of the administration of President Warren G. Harding. We point with pride to the evidences of returning prosperity all over this great country, as the surest vindication of the economic, domestic and foreign policies pursued by this administration in the interest of all the people. While we deplore the industrial crisis, which menaces the happiness and prosperity of a considerable portion of our population, we have confidence in the ability of our president to bring about a settlement of these deplorable industrial entanglements satisfactory to all parties concerned.

"As patriotic Americans citizens in their efforts on this behalf, we wish the president and his advisers Godspeed.

"Whereas, federal patronage has always been a scorce of weakness to the republican party in this state; its distribution has usually resulted in engendering bitterness and dissention among our leaders and the offices have not always been awarded to the worthiest and fittest members of our party, therefore,

"Be it resolved that we denounce as pernicious and detrimental to the best interest of the republican party of the state, an effort on the part of office holders or their employes to control the state, district and county committees.

"Be it further resolved, that [illegible] heartily endorse the efforts of the Hon. Pope M. Long, our state chairman, to set up such organizations in the various counties of the state as will be inviting and attractive to the electorate of Alabama."

Resolutions Passed By Teachers Institute,

Whereas the effective administration of any school system depends to a large extent upon the unqualified loyalty of the entire personel; and

Whereas we are now in the midst of the greatest educational awakening in the history of Chilton county; and

Whereas this awakening has been brought about mainly through the untiring and the unselfish devotion to duty of the county board of education and its executive officer, the county superintendent of education; and [illegible] feel the need of still greater advancement;

Therefore, by the teachers of Chilton county in session assembled on this the 29th day of September, 1922, be it resolved:

1 That we commend the progressive spirit of the county board of education in bringing about the dawn of a new era in education in Chilton county.

2. That we oppose the injection of politics into our county system, thereby hindering the progress of education.

3. That we as teachers of this county pledge to the county superintendent and the other administrative officials our whole-hearted-co-operation.

4. That a copy of Resolutions be sent to each of the county papers for publication, a copy to each member of the county board of education, and a copy to the county superintendent of education.

Signed: 134 Chilton County Teachers.

LOCAL LADY APPOINTED

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Sept.28—Mrs. Victor Heard of Clanton has been appointed chairman of the women's committee for the University of Alabama Million Dollar Campaign in Chilton County, according to announcement by Mrs. Frank B. Clark of Birmingham, State women's chairman.

Active interest in the success of the campaign which starts October 5th, is being taken by the alumnae of the University, especially since the announcement that it was necessary this year to refuse admission to the University to fifty young women. Lack of dormitory space made it impossible to accomodate them.

Rev. Buford Lawrence, of Jemison, filled his appointment at Verbena last Sunday.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Montgomery, Ala. Oct. 2.—With the opening of public schools, the protection of health in the various counties of Alabama depends largely upon the watchful care of the teachers in charge, according to health authorities.

A number of county health officers have given teachers instruction relative to the handling of communicable diseases, or rather the best method of preventing the spread of such disease These instructions include the following:

"Children suffering with the following diseases must be excluded: Infantile paralysis; meningitis; scarlet fever; diphtheria; smallpox; measels; whooping cough; itch; sore eyes."

"Children exposed to disease or living in the home with them, shall be excluded as fololws: Scarlet fever, meningitis, smallpox, for ten days from date of last exposure. Children living in the home where one of these diseases exists must be excluded whethe rthey have had the disease or not, unless otherwise authorized by the health officer. Measles, chicken pox and whooping cough, for ten days from last exposure. Mumps, three weeks from last exposure. Children who have had these diseases may continue in school even though such disease exists in their own home.

"No child having had any of the quarantinable diseases shall be readmitted to school without the approval of the health officer."

Watchfullness and prompt action on the part of the teacher can prevent not only the unnecessary spread of disease in the community, but may prevent conditions which could necessitate the absolute closing of the school for a time.

BAPTIST WORKERS REPORT PROGRESS ON SUPPLEMENTAL CAMPAIGN

Secretary D. F. Grenn and Rev. S. H. Bennett who are giving their time to visiting the Baptist associations this fall, report that the Baptist churches of the state are lining up for the Supplemantal Campalgn the churches are putting on this fall.

Secretary Green presents a kind of birds-eye-view of the work as follows: October is to be stewardship month. Beginning the first Sunday in October was the W. M. U. prayer week and all the congregations urged to pray in a special way for the work. During the month pastors are requested to preach on stewardship and instruct their people on the Bible giving.

It is reported that November will be re-enforcement month and loyalty work has been designated November 26 to December the 3rd. During that week all the full time churches are expected to make their canvass. But the one-fourth and the one-half time churches are asked to make their canvass at any time to suit their convenience between Sunday November the 5th and Sunday December the 3rd.

In this way it is reported that the 75 Million Campaign will be supplemented by contributions from their new members and those who have made no pledge, but no contribution will be asked from those who have already given.

MORE HYDRO ELECTRIC POWER

The Alabama Public Service Commission has granted a certificate of convenience and necessity to the Alabama Interstate Power Company, for the construction of three hydro-electric projects on the Tallapoosa river to develop, when completed, approximately 120,000 horse-power. In addition to this, the commission has granted a certificate of convenience and necessity of construction of a power line from Lock 12 in Chilton county on the Coosa river to East Alabama points, touching such thriving centers as Opelika, LaFayette and Lanett.

Mrs. Ida Trotter who has been teaching school at Lock 12 for several years and who is now teaching there for another year, was here last week attending the teachers institute.

ISABELLA SCHOOL OPENS

Last Monday morning the Junior High School at Isabella had their formal opening exercises.

Mr. T. L. Leeroy presided and gave the large audince an excellent address along educational lines.

He was followed by J. L. Johnson who, being an old time teacher, was happy to be on hand.

The principal, Prof. J. D. Griffin closed the exercises with a splendid and instructive address.

A large and representative audience was gathered there, testifying to the spirit of cooperation manifested by these good people in the future progress of their children and their community.

Prof. Griffin has organized his school this year with a faculty of five competent teachers as follows:

J. D. Griffin Marbury, Mrs. Jesse Harmon of Montgomery, Misses Gussie Dennis, Cooper, Lena Standley, Wetumpka, and Exa Jones, Highland Home.

They have recently added two large rooms to their building and have purchased new equipment.

This is one of the most progressive communities in the county and their vision peers for into the future.

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the geenral election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 85—Cliett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may levy and collect through their duly constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their consideration at the next general election, to-wit: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany, and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municpal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election on the amendment proposed by this act be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for." Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the electors shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. That the votes cast at said election shall be counted, canvassed and tabulated and return made to the Secretary of State in the same manner as in elections of representatives to the Legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendment voted in favor of the same such amendment shall be valid in all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of Alabama. The result of such election shall be made known by the proclamation of the Governor.

Approved November 1, 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 8th day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

THOS. E, KILBY,
Governor.

WM. P. COBB,
Secretary of State.

JAIL DELIVERY

Two prisoners made their escape from the county jail here last Wednesday night. One of them was young McComick, from near Maplesville, who shot and killed Mr. Bearden some time ago. The other was a young man named McKinnon who was charged with burglary.

The evidence against McCormick is very serious and he will be more than apt to get as far away as possible and is hardly liable to be caught now.—

It is claimed they had outside assistance, shop having been broken into and tools stolen and furnished them.

Up to now they have evaded all pursuit and we expect, by this time, they are dodging Mexican bullets across into the land of revolution and banditery.

No fish in the river and no game in the woods. What are our sportsmen going to do.

Talking about droughts—one always follows in the wake of Walter Gillispis.

Next Friday night there will be a box supper given at the school house in Maplesville for the benefit of the school. The Parent Teachers Association will have charge of management of the supper. We hope a large audience will attend and enjoy the occasion as well as the amusement in buying his girl's box.

Just received a big line of sweaters for the whole family.

OUR CITY DADS

At 12 o'clock on Sunday night the former officials of our city government ceased to rule and the reign of a new administration began.

The old board must have given very good service for the voters sentenced the same bunch to two years more service. They were sworn in Monday night and recognized as follows: Committee of Water works and Sewerage, M. L. White, J. B. Atkinson.

On Lighting:

Dr. N. S. Johnson and J. Watts Moore.

On streets

J. B. Atkinson and Tom Kemp.

Public Health and Santitation: Dr. N. S. Johnson, M. L. White and J. B. Atkinson.

Police Commission

Dr. V. J. Gragg and J. B. Atkinson.

J. Mell Martin was re-elected Clerk and T. L. Williams Engineers.

We have experienced a very peaceful and prosperous term of two years under this same board of officials and we can confidently look forward to a continuance of like conditions. Let's all co-operate with them and see how much we can do in the next two years.

HAS MADE GOOD

It is with unlimited pleasure that we are able to announce this week that the Central Alabama Hospital has already justified the confidence of its friends and promotors, for the Board of Directors at a meeting Monday decided a dividnd on the stock of 12 per cent. which shows that the enterprise has been able to pass the trying days of its infancy as a decidedly paying investment.

It is especially pleasing to know that the broad minded men and women who put their faith and money into that institution, primarily for the benfit of those who were not able to go to the distant city hospitals, have not only accomplished their main purpose and given us a hospital second to noe, but have also made a splendid investment financially.

We heartily congratulate the entire management and wish and predict for them an ever increasing success for them as the years go by.

It will be too late to pass and enforce laws governing the safe and sane handling of automobiles on the streets here after some innocent person, or perosns have been butchered ruthlessly at the hands of a speeder or reckless driver. The time to lock the stable is before the horse is stolen.

Thomas Gragg, Wallace Cox, Jack Hayes left Monday for Mebane N. C. where they are going to enter Bingham's Military School. We are expecting these three young men to some day be as prominent figures in life as Clay Calhoun and Webster were in their day and time.

The political and social equality of the negro will not be tolerated now, nor in the future, by the white people of the South. Any party that undertakes to tote that burden down here will always find itself over loaded.

CHILTON COUNTY AND MRS. BRUCE WINNERS AT THE FAIR

A telegram from Mrs. S. E. Bruce, who has a farm Exhibit from Chilton County, at the State Fair in Birmingham, brings the pleasing news that she has taken second prize on her display.

She will also capture a number of special prizes on single articles of farm produce.

A few more citizens like Mr. and Mrs. Bruce could have Chilton county in first place at the Fair every year. We have the soil and climate, all we need is to push it.

FOR SALE or Exchange. Brand new Ford ton truck. Will take good Ford roadster as part payment liberal teerms on balance.

VOLUME 2 — CLANTON, ALABAMA, OCTOBER 12, 1922. — NUMBER 5

HOWARD L. FOSHEE WRITES AGAIN

Says he Proposes to give the facts and leave with the people the [illegible] to who they wish to elect

[illegible]

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF CHILTON COUNTY.

In last week's issue of the Union-[illegible], the Editor, Mr. Wyatt, very [illegible] stated that he will not admit the columns of his paper for [illegible] of anyone to express a view as [illegible] and his political henchmen [illegible] that when they [illegible] "Judge" that they have [illegible] the entire Republican party, and who are willing to suppress any [illegible] that has a tendency to enlighten the people as to the true political condition in the county. I did not state to Mr. Wyatt that my sole aim and purpose in asking him to print my letter was to defeat L. H. Reynolds, but I asked him this question: "That if he thought a man nominated by a minority and a man who continually fought other Republican officials was entitled to the support of the Republicans? I also stated to Mr. Wyatt, in that conversation, that I would support any man who was nominated by a majority of the Republicans, and I wish to say now that I am willing to help defray the expense of another primary wherein the two candidates for the same office did not receive a majority in the August primary might run off the race and determine who the majority wants.

In connection I wish to answer the direct questions Mr. Wyatt asked in his editorial last week. He asked the following question: "If Judge Reynolds should be taken out of the race, who is it that is more entitled and better fitted to have it than he? In answer to this I will say that any republican who can read and write, who has convictions and believes that he [illegible] will not use the o[illegible] for personal [illegible] who will not seek to place in office the remaining members of his family, who is willing to give every man the privilege of expressing his convictions, who has never advocated and went over the county begging the people to vote for a nefarious tick dipping law and upon discovering that it is unpopular change his convictions for the sake of getting reelected, who will not pose as a Moses and the ONLY man qualified to hold the office of Judge of Probate who will not permit a commissioners court composed entirely of Republicans to appoint a Democrat County Treasurer when he is chairman of the Court and use his office in endorsing democrats for federal appointments who will not brand every republican who disagrees with him as a traitor to the party and a democrat, who will not force the county into needless lawsuits in order to give members of his family a fat fee for representing the county in same, who will not advise the Commissioners Court to turn down claims against the county and later when the same claim is presented by his son as representative of the claimant recomend that same be paid, who will not try to get legislation through the legislature increasing his salary as Judge of the County court from $300 to $1200 per year when the court is only in session from one to a very few [illegible] per month, who will not place the [illegible] condition he has brought about, any man possessing these qualifications is as much entitled to the office and just as well fitted to hold same as is L. H. Reynolds.

In answer to your question, "Is Mr. [illegible] Mr. [illegible]?" [illegible] Not only are these two men more acceptable but dozens of good men in this county would be more acceptable.

Mr. Wyatt why did you, after being given the office of County Treasurer, decline to accept? Tell the people whether or not you turned it down because the commission you get out of the county for printing was larger than your salary as Treasurer would have been. How much has Chilton County paid you during the past twelve months?

Mr. Wyatt, since when did the Republican party, through its court house "ring" be vested with the power of dictating who could and could not be a member of the Republican party? Who could attend meetings in the court house and who could not? Whose property is the Chilton County court house? Why has M. D. Foshee the power to say who may or may not have a seat in same? Do you as a candidate endorse the action of M. D. Foshee in requesting me to leave the court house last Saturday? Is M. D. Foshee a member himself of this Committee?

Mr. Wyatt, in regard to your pert remarks last week in reference to the men and women engaged in teaching in this county and their actions at the recent institute, I wish to tell you that as a class these people are engaged in a work which commands the confiden[illegible]ement of our citi[illegible]ship and their [illegible] you and others that you have greatly under-rated them in your predictions. You have taken on a burden when you attempt to sneer the teachers of this county and you may find this burden hard to lay down. The teachers of this county know of your ideas as to education, your plans for reactionary legislation should you be so fortunate as to reach the legislature they know that you are [illegible] against education and its system, and even tough they are only 154 strong they have, no doubt, some influence.

Mr. Wyatt, you are continually refering to "leaders" and "followers" and I want to tell you that such terms are some of the objections we have to the present management of our affairs. I am not a leader and neither am I a follower. We are all men and women with intelligence enough to do our duty without being led or forced to do so.

I may be a "mad and irresponsible fanatic" also a "raving fool" as Mr. Wyatt accuses me of being but I am willing to leave the decision of the matter to the people of this county to determeine and not to Messers Wyatt, Reynolds, and M. D. Foshee. I am also willing for my past record of party work and my work for the [illegible] Wyatt and [illegible] matter. The people also know that he accused me of being a traitor to the party, being a democrat, going to the democratic party purely because I accommodiated a fellow republican [illegible] complying with his request to send [illegible] letter to the Chilton County News for publication. He accused me of these things before I wrote one word against him or any other candidate on our ticket.

Respectfully

HOWARD L. FOSHEE

BACK FROM THE FAIR

Mrs. S. E. Bruce is home from the State Fair and brought with her $600 in prizes on Chilton County farm products.

Mrs. Bruce is a live wire in working for our county and has probably done more than any other one citizen to bring our agricultural possibilities to the notice of the public. She richly merits the gratitude of every citizen within our borders. May she live long to carry forward this good work.

CALLAWAY—POPWELL

Last Sunady at the home of the bride's parents Mr. Joe Callaway and Miss Gertrude Popwell were happily married Rev. D. M. Pearson officiating.

The groom is a Chilton county product and has a large number of warm personal and business friends here. He is now living in North Carolina where he and his bride will make their future home.

The bride is also a Chilton county girl and during her incumberency of [illegible] and her splendid efficiency.

The many friends of both parties wish for them long years of unalloyed happiness.

We learn that Miss Gertrude will continue her service in the Probate office until after the election when she will join her husband in North Carolina.

THE PEAK HAS BEEN PASSED

Reports from the various ginneries located here indicate that we have passed the peak of the cotton harvesting season and that the bulk of the crop has already been ginned.

Prices have been ranging fairly good and, although the crop is nearly all in, the yield has been reasonable fair, the hot weather hastening the work of gathering. All in all, the farmers are in very good shape finiancially and we hear very little complaint. They are not all discouraged and are already looking forward to another crop [illegible] spirit of optimism.

When the farmers are allowed [illegible] prosper the whole world moves along in peace and harmony. When the farmers fails to score, the whole world suffers with him. We rejoice that things are as well with him this fall as they are on his own account in the first place, and a selfish interest in the rest of us secondly.

BUILDING BOOM STILL ON

In a survey over town Sunday afternoon we were agreeably surprised to find so many new buildings being started and so many extensive additions and repairs in progress.

There is no quarter of the city but what has caught the infection and new work going on and piles and piles of building material being placed shows that the urge for more room is so insistent that some arrangements has to be made for Clanton to stretch out her accomodiations to take care of the influx of people and business that is daily and hourly clamoring for room to move in and participate in the march of progress that has set in here.

Clanton has already out grown her incorporated limits, but her that's alright. Build more houses and let the people come. The matter of corporation can take care of itself.

We want to live clean and associate with clean people, and the chronic mudslinging will continue to meet. at our hands, only the merited contempt his methods deserve.

STAR CHAMBER METHODS

Every political party that history tells us about met its Waterloo when a crowd of Bosses got in control and began to make their slates and lay their plans in secret meetings and behind doors closed to all but the elect.

The spirit of freedom and personal equality that naturally pulsates in the bosom of every true American abhors the methods of the star chamber-the secret caucus.

The democracy that we esponse and that the people desire is the kind that comes with clean hands and no hidden meanings and no secret processes and appeals openly to the people on a certain and distinct platform of principles. The people know what they want and it only breeds suspirion in the minds of all honest people when you get behind closed doors with a sacred few self-determinded individuals who lay plans and devise schemes that the people know nothing about.

The day of boss rule has passed. The day of the "convention" system is only an unwholesome memory. The day of the "Star Chamber" with its rottenness and stench has also passed into the everlasting discord and this good day that has dawned means that the people shall rule.

A HERO WANTED

When the bottom of the flour barrel stares you impudently in the face and the meal tub looks like it had been swept and garnished; when the last grain of coffee has been ground and its succulent nector been distilled and drank; when the sugar sack has callapsed upon itself, and the place that knew its contents is vacant; when the lard bucket gives forth the empty sound of a forsaken tin can; when the frosts of winter begin to kiss the flowers to sleep and the woodpile looks like a deserted graveyard; when little bare toes begin to peep out from among the wreckage of what was once a pair of shoes and the landlord begins to glower at you with a stony glare and your pockets are as empty as a last year's bird nest: then it is that it takes a person cast in a heroe's mould to sit down on a nail keg at the battered old editorial table and write optomistic stories, live editorial and amusing anecdotes for his readers. Ask the average country editor if this is not so.

CITY CLERK MARTIN RESIGNS

Although Mr. J. Mell Martin was unanimiously re-elected Clerk of the City council at the last meeting, he decided that the press of his other businese would render it impossible for him to hold the job further, so he tendered his resignation effective last Saturday.

For the present the office of City Clerk will be located at the law office of Col. J. B. Atkinson. No definate arrangements will be made until the Council meets next Monday Night.

A universal regret is felt all over the city at the loss of Mr. Martin in that position for he has certainly given the muncipality most efficient service during the term of his incumbency as Clerk.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT VERBENA LAST SUNDAY

Last Sunday afternoon the Sunday School Convention of the first district was held at the Verbena Methodist church.

The convention was called to order by the president. Mr. W. A. Callaway who is one of the very best Sunday School workers in Chilton county.

Mr. J. C. Patillo made an interesting talk bearing on the "Indifference" of people in Sunday School Work in general.

Rev. Buford Lawrence was present and added greatly to the occassion by giving us an inspirational message. Rev. Lawrence is fast gaining ground and in the not far distant future he will rank as one of Chilton's leading ministers.

The business manager of the News was at the convention and the spirit of the occassion although there was no prepared program, we can truthflly say the impromptue talks were timely and to the point.

Mr. P. F. Mitchell, closed the convention with a talk that was full of the proper spirit and proved that he fully understands the neccessity of a Community Spirit, in Sunday School work.

The world owes us all a living but its like a lots of other hard boiled folks, you have to hustle if you succeed in collecting it.

From the amount of new prison rooms being built in the State now, Alabama must be expecting to put about half the population in jail.

Don't allow the weather to keep you away from the polls in November. Rain or shine, cold or hot, get there and induce your neighbor to go with you.

We want to see every real democrat in Chilton county appoint themselves a committee of one to get their neighbors out to the polls on November 7.

It is reported that bids will be let right away to build the new highway across Sselby county. God knows they need it bad enough, but what is the reason that Chilton county is getting no attention.

The Harding administration has delivered the goods. Union Labor has been put to sleep, the soldier boys have been turned out to grass and capitol has written a tariff that will rob every poor man, woman and child in the United States.

The Republican party, both State and National, must surely be on its last legs. Their tricks to fool the people are the crudest they ever used and their absolute alligiance to the money power is so plain that a "fool though a wayfaring man can not help from seeing it.

Governor Brandon, we want to remind you that a large number of, possibly useless office holders, in the State are still drawing the inflate salaries put on in war times. The rest of us who have these salaries to pay, have been stringently deflated and we feel like they might, at least, come down to pre-war rates. How about it?

Oh, for a spirit that will take no denial to get behind the Cotton Mill movement and enable us to spin our own cotton at home next year. The time is ripe for action and all things are propetious for success. Put your shoulder to the wheel and help to land this sadly needed enterprise.

We have too many laws, hence people grow careless in obeying any of them. How many laws do you see flagrantly violated every day of your life? People are innocently made criminals by the operation of our laws. Rub out two thirds of them and enforce the balance and times would be much better.

The United Farmers of America are winning out in a hurry in this section because they are able, willing and anxious to deliver the goods. If the farmers will stay with that order and keep the professional politicians out in a year or two they wil lbe absolutely independent just like they ought and deserve to be.

It looks now like the Moslems and Russian Bolshevists are going to soon dominate the entire world. All of the so-called Christian nations are bowing, begging and praying for peace before the Sulton of Turkey. That is a spectacle that must cause the angles in heaven to blush with shame.

The political pretentious and religious creeds of all the nations are now being bartered and sold to the heathen Turk for a slice of infield trade.

Mr.Foshee Hurt.

Mr. L. E. Foshee of Clanton is under sergical treatment at the Dixie Construction Company Hospital near Mitchell Dam suffering from a broken leg which occured October 6, 1922. He seems to be getting along quite well at present. He expects to be up in six or eight weeks.

Seeveral of Mr. Foshee's friends and relatives visited him last Sunday. He also received a [illegible] of [illegible] from one of his girl friends which he greatly appreciated.

Mr. J. A. Burke, a prominent farmer of route 7, was in Clanton Tuesday.

W. H. Killingsworth, of Jemison, is in town today associating with his many friends.

J. N. Wooley, Mulberry, is here to-day. Mr. Wooley belongs to the thriving communtiy of Mulberry that always brings up things as they should go.

Mr. J. M. Philpot, of Jemison, was in Clanton Monday. He has charge of the work being done on the new school building at Jemison. We understand that Mr. Philpot knows his business and when he does a peice of work it is well done.

STENOGRAPHER—Would be glad to do your work after school hours and Stturday's. Address Pauline Kittrell 107-3rd avenue Clanton.

ELECTION LAWS

nted from the Code of Alabama d must be Enforced at November Election

e Democratic party of Chilton ty has endeavored to conduct an utely clean, fair and honorable aign. We believe all good, hon- eople in the county will agree that ave succeeded.

w, we intend to demand that we an election conducted by all par- along those same lines. We de- d an absolutely clean and legal bal- nd a fair count exactly as provi- by law and we intend to see to it the law is properly respected and rced in every beat in the county. low we print the most important ons of the Code and shall repro- the same each week until the el- n, that every one may hav an op- unity to know exactly what their ts are and be prepared to demand n.

he Code provides that the Judge robate, the Sheriff and the Clerk he Circuit Court, when not dis- ified by law, shall appoint the el- n managers for each election.

ction 349, page 327 says that "when Judge of Probate, Sheriff, or Clerk he Circuit Court is a candidate for ion to any office at that election, shall not serve on the appointing d. The Judge of Probate shall ify to the Register in Chancery facts of the candidacy of any mem- of the appointing board imme- ely after the certificate of nomi- ."

ction 350 provides that the Regis- in Chancery shall appoint a quali- elector for each place on the ap- nting board thus made vacant.

ction 352 provides, that "Each po- al party or organization may, by the irman of its state or county execu- committee or nominees for office, ish the appointing board a list of less than three names of quali- l electors from each voting place, from each of said lists an inspec- and clerk shall be appointed for h voting place.* * * **

ection 353 provides, that "Each po- al party or organization having didates nominated may, by the irman of its county executive com- tee, or nominees for office or t committeemen name a watcher o shall be permitted to be present at place where the ballots are cast m the time the polls are opened til the ballots are counted and cer- cates of the result of the election ed by the inspector. The said wa- er shall be permitted to see the bal- s as they are called during the nt. The watcher shall be sworn to hfully observe the rule of law pre- ibed for the conduct of such elec- ns."

Section 370 provides that, "Any el- or of the precinct in which any son proposes to vote shall have the ht to challenge such person so of- ing to vote whom he may know or pect is not entitled or duly quali- d as an elector to vote at the pre- ct where he offers to vote. The allenge shall be communicated to the pectors before the person is per- ted to vote, by the sheriff, or some her person in attendance and in arge of admission to the polling ce, where his right to vote must determinded as provided by section 8 and 409 of this Code."

Section 371 provides that; Except as ctors are admitted to vote and per- ns to assist them as herein provided, d except the sheriff and his deputies, e inspectors, returning officers, clerk elections, and watchers, no person all be permitted within thirty feet of e polling place."

Section 384, provides that; "If the ector desires to vote a split ticket, at is, for candidates of different par- es, he may make a (x) mark in the ting space before the name of each ndidate for whom he desires to vote whatever ticket he may be."

Section 400 provides that; "Any el- tor applying to vote who shall state any of the inspectors that by rea- n of his inability to write the Eng- h language, or by reason of blind- ss or the loss of the use of his hand hands, he is unable to prepare his allot, may have the assistance of any erson he may select. In such case aid elector must remain within the olling place and the inspector shall end for the person selected; if the erson cannot be found, then any other erson such elector may select. An lector who prepares his ballot alone with the assistance of another shall e permitted to prepare it at any point n the polling place. Any person cal- d in to assist an elector in prepar- ng his ballot, shall retire when the el- ctor retires. No more than ten elec- ors shall be allowed in the polling lace at the same time." * * * **

Criminal Code

Section 6779 provides that; "Any inspector, or marker or helper, or assis- ant who willfully decives any elector n preparing his ballot, must on con- iction be imprisoned in the penetenitary not less than one nor more than five years."

Section 6780 provides that "Any elector who takes or removes, or attempts to take or remove any ballot from the polling place before the close of the polls, or any person who interfers with any elector, when inside the polling place, or when marking the ballot, or unduly influences any elector in prepartion of his ballot,; or any elector who remains longer than the time allowed by law in the booth or compartment after being notified his time has expired, must, on conviction be fined not less than ten or more than one hundred dollars."

Section 6781 provides that; "Any inspector of election who willfully fails or refuses to advise any elector, entitled thereto, that he is entitled to an assistant or refuses to let him select an assistant as required by law, must, on conviction, be fined not less than one hundred nor more than five hundre ddollars."

Section 6792 provides that; "Any persoon who, on election day, disturbs or prevents, or attempts to prevent any elector from freely casting his ballot, must on conviction, be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and also sentenced to hard labor for the county, or imprisioned in the county jail for not less than six months nor more than one year."

We have given you the most important parts of the law and, as democrats we are going to see that they are strictly complied with in the November election. Read them all and be wise. Demand your rights and avoid violating the law.

POPLAR SPRINGS SINGING SOCIETY MEETS

We are glad to report the results of the meeting of our singing society that met Oct. 8 here.

A large congregation was on hand and Mr. Grover Gilland, our leader, gave us some splendid selections which were nicely rendered.

Miss Juell McDonald was the efficient organist for the occassion.

We will meet again on the 4th Sunday in October. Come and bring 1922 song books.

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words.

Health of our community is good. People are about through picking cotton Everthing is moving along nicely

There was a large crowd at Prospect church last Sunday p. m. at the singing. The singing was good.

Mr. W. H. Williams went to Bethel church last Sunday.

Mr. A. A. Baird went from Evergreen to Prospect last Sunday in the aftrenoon.

The United Farmers of America are preparing for an ALL DAY RALLY November 4th, and we are expecting some good talks on interesting subjects. The speakers we are expecting are:

Messers. J. L. Johnson, W. T. Bean, O. H. Mastin. and A. B. Baxley. We cordially invite members from other Locals and every body who can do so to come and be with us and enjoy the day. Music will be furnished by the Enterprise Quartette with Mrs. J. W. Cagle as organist.

I will close for this time and if this letter misses Mr. W. B. I will come again.

The sweeping injunction granted by the Chicago division of the United States court has been made permanent. Unless the United States Supreme court reverses and sets it aside, labor in future will find it impossible to carry on a strike and stay out of jail. The issue was clearly made between "big business" and labor and, of course, the present administration had no other choice but to hand the whole situation to "big business." They had to deliver the goods they had already been paid for.

Our live and hustling friend, E. G. Caldwell of Pletcher, was in Clanton last Thursday. If we had more citizens like Mr. Caldwell, people in other parts of the state would know we were on the map.

TATE AND WHITE FORM LAW PARTNERSHIP

Alexander City Man Comes to Wetumpka—Firm Among Best In State

Wetumpka has a splendid new law firm, the partners are Hon. Henry P. White, late of Alexander City and Judge F. L. Tate of the local bar. They are located in Judge Tate's same office in the Johnson Building and are now ready and practicing in all of the Courts of the State and the higher courts.

Mr. White was born in Marion, Perry county forty one years ago. After finishing his literary education he graduated with honor from the Law school of the University of Alabama and was admitted to the bar in 1902 and has been successful in the practic. He was a member in the State Tax Commission under Governor O'Neal and held the office of Assistant Attorney General of Alabama in 1920-21. Mr. White is a lawer of the higest type, with a keen regard for the ethics of the profession and all that it stands for, his ability is unquestioned. He specializes in Probate and Chancery practice though he is none the less a fine trial lawer. He is a Mason and he and Mrs. White are active members of the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. White is the daughter of Capt. H. Clay Reynolds, founder and first president of the Montevallo Girls School. They have no children.

Judge Ttate is too well known to our people to need any introduction at this time. He is undisputedly one of the leading lawers of the local bar and of this circuit. Since coming to Wetumpka some twenty years ago, he has risen to the top in the legal profession. He served this circuit as Solicitor and was considered among the best in the State. He has also served Alabama both Attorney General and Supernumerary Judge with credit to himself and the public, and practiced law successfully with a large Montgomery firm for more than a year. But all of this time Judge Tate has continued a resident of Wetumpka and is now devoting his time entirely to the practice of his profession. He is one of the best trial lawers in Alabama, having a wonderful gift of oratory and a clear analytical mind.

The New firm of Tate and White is a strong one and is headed for success in all phases of the legal profession.

MITCHELL DAM.

(By Ralph Whitaker)

Verbena, Alabama October—(Special) The Mitchell Dam Atheletic Club have an interesting program for the night of October 9. There will be one main bout and three preliminaries. All negro boxers.

Much interest is shown in the forthcoming boxing match between Kid Leming, of New Orleans and Pappy of Mitchell Dam. Their respective weights are 160 and 159 pounds. Pappy is the Mitchell Dam favorite of that weight. While Kid Leming of New Orleans is an experienced boxer with many victories to his credit, the Mitchell Dam Athletic Club believes Pappy will hold his own against the visitor. This will be the main bout, and the fans are assured in advance that it will not be an easy victory for either. It will be a ten round bout.

The preliminaries will be put on by local boxers. Mathew Howard will put on a six round bout with Turner Williams. Lightning will put on a four round bout with Albert Smith. Claude Grimes will put on a four round bout with John Kinard. All of those in the preliminary are well matched, and promise to be of great interest to the fans.

Bob Lawson, of the Mitchell Dam Athletic Club, light heavy weight boxer, has returned after filling two engagements this week, one in Birmingham and one in Nashville, having secured a victory at each place. Within the next few weeks the club hopes to match him against one of the best boxers in his class, to be staged at Mitchell Dam. Announcements will be made later as to date.

With the approach of cooler weather, the club is taking renewed interest in boxing events which are staged on the reservation from time to time.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the general election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 85—Cliett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may levy and collect through their duly constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their consideration at the next general election, to-wit: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany, and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election or the amendment proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for." Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the elector shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. That the votes cast at said election shall be counted, canvassed and tabulated and return made to the Secretary of State in the same manner as in elections of representatives to the Legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendment voted in favor of the same such amendment shall be valid in all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of Alabama. The result of such election shall be made known by the proclamation of the Governor.

Approved November 1, 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 8th day of August, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

FARMERS MEETING FRIDAY

United Farmers. of America Filled the Court House to Overflowing, Notwithstanding the Down Pour of Rain

Had not Jupiter Pluvius seen fit to claim the day for his own last Friday, Clanton could hardly have made room for the farmers and their families that would have been here to attend the meeting of the United Farmers of America.

Although the rain began before day and lasted until late in the afternoon, great crowds gathered any way, and the Court House could not accomodiate all who wished to get inside.

The local Chamber of Commerce had made ample arrangements to care for the crodws, which they did in splendid shape. The general assembly of the U. F. of A. passed a unanimous resolution of thanks to them for the courtesy which also included the personal thanks of Mr. Lamb and Mr. Banks.

Mr. E. N. Lamb who is the founder of the Order and also Business Agent of the General Association, spoke Friday at 2:00 p. m. He is in absolute touch with the needs of the farmer and his speech was clear cut and easy to be understood and was enthusiastically received by the large audience that succeeded in getting room in the Court House.

We have heard large numbers of most favorable comments made on his address as well as on the organization he had founded.

Chilton County has already a large and influential membership in the U. F. of A. and the list is growing larger every day.

The News rejoices to see this spirit of cooperation among our farmers and we wish them unbounded success.

Mr Hughes, of Billingsley, former secretary of the Unity W. [illegible] was at the conference Monday in Clanton.

KING AND GENTRY WIN RIGHT TO PLACE UNDER REPUBLICAN EMBLEM

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

Under the provisions of an order handed down by Judge Walter B. Jones in the Montgomery Circuit court Tuesday, the names of Geo. N. King, as candidate for sheriff, and W. K. Gentry, as candidate for circuit clerk, will be printed under the republican emblem on the official ballot for the November election. Judge Jones ruled that the pleadings, in the case contained nothing to show that different factions were claiming the right to use the republican emblem.

Hearing in this case was held Tuesday morning. It was brought out in the evidence that a certificate stating that King and Gentry had been nominated a srepublican candidates for sheriff and circuit clerk at the mass meeting on August 8, was filled with Judge of Probate D. W. Crosland on September 30, by S. C. Dawsey and Felix O Duddley, as chairman and secretary of the meeting, respectively. Protest against the placing of the two names on the ballot under the republican emblem was later received by Judge Crosland from E. E. Winters, chairman of the republican executive committee of the second congressional district.

Following this protest, Judge Crosland took up the matter with J. M. Adkins, of Heflin, state chairman, who advised him not to place the names on the republican ticket. Mandomus proceedings were then started in an effort to require Judge Crosland to include the names on the ballot under the party emblem.

COURT IS ASKED TO SETTLE DISPUTE IN REPUB. PARTY.

Court adjudication will be asked to settle the republican controversy over the question of whether Geor. N. King and W. Kelly Gentry are entitled to be listed on the official ballot under the republican emblem as candidates for sheriff and circuit clerk of Montgomery county, respectively, in the November election.

Mandamus proceedings seeking to require Judge of Probate D. W. Crosland to include these names on the party ticket were instituted Monday in the circuit court by persons who had previously filed a certificate stating that King and Gentry had been nominated as such candidates. The hearing has been set for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Protest against the placing of the two names on the ballot as candidates under the republican emblem was made to Judge Crosland by E. E. Winters of Montgomery, chairman of the republican executive committee of the second congressional district. After receiving this protest, Judge Crosland communicated with J. M. Adkins of Heflin, chairman of the state executive committee of the republican party, asking his position in the matter. Mr. Adkins also expressed disapproval of the inclusion of the names on the balolt as candidates under the republican emblem.

Thereupon, persons desirious of having the names listed on the ballot restored to the circuit court. According to information obtained, it seems that the matter is an outgrowth of a division in the repubilcan ranks in the county convention last August. Delegates appointed by the [illegible] nominating King and Gentry were not admitted to the state republican convention in Birmingham in September, it was stated Monday night.

Mr. King is a Montgomery grocer and Mr. Gentry is a railroad flagman also residing in Montgomery.

As a result of the controversy, the printing of the official election ballots is being delayed. It is understood that no appeal will be taken from the decision handed down in the Montgomery circuit court following the hearing Tuesday.

MARRIED

We learn that Mr. Hughes and Mrs. Revell, both inmates of the Soldiers Home were happily united in wedlock last Monday.

The News extends its very best wishes to this old young couple and may their years together be lengthened and their happiness increase each day.

If every democrat, man and woman, in Chilton county can't see the absolute necessity for voting this time, they certainly have shut their eyes and stopped their ears. If you fail this time your sleep ought to be troubled for the next six years.

GRAND JURY SCORES NIGHT JOY RIDING

Selma, October 8.—Scouting the existence of immoral houses of Selma the grand jury in its final report today went after automobile joy riding at night, saying this pleasure contributed to most of the immorality said to exist in this city. The jury in its report also scored "gun toting," and said a law should be passed by the legislature which would cut down the sale of firearms in the state.

The jury did not mention the liquor [illegible] the numerous indictments handed down for alleged violations of the prohibition laws showed that the jury did consider the strong charge on liquor made by Judge S. F. Hobbs last Monday. The jury returned [illegible] indictments with its final report.

Proof of th [illegible] Union-Banner in an article si Mose Thomas wherein the writer [illegible] facts sufficient to convict him [illegible] boss of everything which I charged in my recent letters.

[illegible] your reason for signing that [illegible] panned by you and the [illegible] letter in the second p[illegible]aph of [illegible] wherein it is stated. "We are g spot cash for the work WE do County and the material We it." I know a few more besides ho are for this same [illegible] orth political thunder in be [illegible] master, but neither of you are criticised for same for the Great of Books tells us: "The ox eth his owner, and the ass his er's crib* * * *", and I am sure n an animal has thi instinct of eciation, that [illegible] man and [illegible] al genius as you [illegible], would not be ungreatful.

you say. 'You know if an in- [illegible] do exactly opp[illegible] that you we- [illegible] trust him a [illegible] the following [illegible] is: Didn't Reynolds pr[illegible] the people [illegible] would elect [illegible] then he would [illegible] for the office again? Didn't Reynolds promise that if he elected six ye[illegible] ago that he [illegible] out of debt? W. T. Bean op[illegible] lic- [illegible] before the prim[illegible] the Reynolds administration the had gone deeper in debt? Is true or not? Why does L. H. olds seek to hold the office of of Probate again? Is it be- e he can then control the finan- affairs of the county?

Mose I remember the history edict Arnold and I know that etrayed a band of men and wo- who were then fighting to throw e yoke of one-family-rule, bur- ome taxation, and a government which did not dispense jus- thout fear or favor; but would the weak and innocent, and te at sunrise any who criticised outrageus form of government official acts, and our forefathers to seek foreign lands to avoid penalties and in search of a where they would have the liber- free speech and the press. Mose to tell you that the tax rate ilton County is the higest that it has ever been, and is up to the Constitutional rate limit; we are threatened in this country with a set of political tricksters who have the audacity to believe that they are immune from being criticised for their public acts; who will brand any man a traitor and a Benedict Arnold that [illegible] the people facts in regard to [illegible] who will deny the people the right to express through their paper any statement that does not coincide with their views; and who will deny anyone who does not agree with them the privilege of sitting in the party councils. Now mose if fighting these conditions constitutes me a Benedict Arneld, I am guilty.

[illegible] Mose why don't you have O D. Street, J. A. Bingham, L. H. Reynolds, and W. M. Wyatt answer the question that I asked them in my letter [illegible] ch Mr. Wyatt refused to print, but which was published in the Chilton [illegible] Las but not least to [illegible] ve that we are not mistaken and that the Republicans of the county be fully informed. I want you to tell them in next week's issue of the Union-Banner whether or not you are the same or a different Mose Thomas than was recently incarcerated in the Chilton [illegible] Jail on a charge of ravishing a girl, the daughter of a Chilton County [illegible]

HON. F. A. GULLEDGE SPEAKS PLAIN

At the request of some democrats friends I am writing to refute (deny) [illegible] I am going to knife the democratic ticket by voting against it.

It is indeed strange that a report to such effect exist. Those who know me would never doubt me. From Andrew Jackson's election for President to this date my immediate family have "fought the good fight and have kept the faith" and will for all the future so help me Woodrow Wilson.

Never doubt us nor any Verbena democrat for they are "the stuff Roxy."

A VOTER WANTS TO KNOW A FEW THINGS

Editor Chilton County News:

Judge Reynolds stated last week that people did not know what the Democratic party stood for.

From the number of changes he has made from party to party, and the disconnected and meaningless campaign dope he is putting out at the present time, how could even a mind reader tell where he is at or what he stands for? I doubt whether he could honestly tell you what he stands for except he wants to be Judge of Probate for life and then will the office to one of his heirs along with his other personal belongings.

Judge, how come you to be such a red hot supporter of cattle dipping and put yourself to so much trouble in getting it introduced in our county, and then, when you found it was unpopular with the people, why did you try to lay it off on the democrats.

No matter whether you are Probate Judge or Mr. Messer is Probate Judge, if Uncle Sam says, boys dip your cattle, we are going to have to dip. Don't you know that we republicans know that the democrats in Chilton county oppose cattle dipping just as strongly as we do? Of course you know that, then why not be honest and quit trying to fool the people?

If my wife would vote for you I'd quit her sure.

Mr. Editor
Dear Sir:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in behalf of Rev. C. D. Messer who is a candidate for Probate Judge in your county. I have known Mr. Messer for forty years and have always found him to be considerate, honest, and truthful. In his young manhood he had few equals. And in his ministery he had great success and was held in high esteem by quite a number of the most cultured people in Shelby County.

All who know him are loud in the praise of him as a man and as a preacher. If you elect him you will have a judge to whom you can point with pride because of his fairness and sound judgement.

One of the unwritten cardinal principles of our American government is Rotation in office not placing a man in office and then keep him there, making him a Czar or King, and until be becomes saturated with the feeting and imbued with the idea that the office belongs to him and his interest, and not to the common masses.

So on the 7th of November vote for Rev. C. D. Messer.

FOUR NEGROES KILLED BY TRAINS

Last Sunday seemed to be an ill fated day for the negroes near Verbena.

The early Pan American sp[illegible] which passes along by there on it north bound journey about dawn, ran over and killed a well known negro of that section known as Arthur Pelham. Another was in Verbena the night before and was pretty well loaded with corn juice and it is supossed that he walked up some half mile north of the station and undertook to take a nap on the railroad. His body was badly cut to pieces.

In the afternoon, as second No 1 was flying southward on its belated journey to New Orlaens, it crashed centrally into a Ford car containing Bob Clark and his wife, wll known negroes of Verbena, and J. S. Adkins, a negro preacher living here.

All three were instanly killed and the car absolutely demolished. The body of Adkins was brought here on No [illegible] Sunday evening and buried by his friends Monday. The other two bodies were taken to their home, which was a very short distance from the scene of the accident.

The crossing there is in an open place with nothing to obstruct the view and it is strange that the negores in the car failed to see the approaching train before driving on the track right in front of it.

Civilization has undoubtedly fallen to a very low ebb when it humbly bows before the throne of the Sultan and akes it orders where to get off

A news item says: "Gains for Democrats all over the country." They must have had their eye on Chilton county.

Remember that the republican ticket nominated in Chilton county is openly affiliated with the Street and Kennemar "black and tan" party. Can you support it?

Trailing skirts and Massive hats will now take the place of the knee hikh dress and no head gear. Police will have no further trouble with the curb stone male masher if this fashion edict becomes a fact.

Turkey has appropriated everything he wants in the near east and has kindly agreed to spare the rest of the world for a time at least. Let's all get one more good, deep, long, breath and rejoice for the reprieve may only be for a brief period.

As soon as a law becomes a dead letter and people no longer regard it, it should be either repealed at once or stringently enforced. Too many laws remain on the statue books that are absolutely ignored by every one and the ignoring of one law with impunity breeds the habits of ignoring others.

Let's make a city law that it will be a violation, subject to heavy fine, for any one to operate a car in the corporate limits with a muffler on, with lights at night, or at a rate of speed less than 50 miler per hour. We can then have the satisfaction of knowing that the law is not being violated on purpose.

Surely there is not an adult person in Chilton county silly enough to believe that the next Probate Judge can either make you dip your cattle or keep you from it. The laws that govern that question are out of the reach and control of the most "inflated" Probate Judge in Alabama and they all know it if they can read and write.

The republican party in Alabama will have to follow the lead of Hon. Pope M. Long if they expect to keep up any kind of a political organization. The white men and women of the South will not ever agree to affiliate with the negro. The Street black and tan wing will never get anywhere —even in Chilton county.

We would hate to believe that a majority of the voters of Chilton county are in favor of the political and social equality of the negro. The issue is clearly drawn here this year and on November 7 you are going to vote either for or against that issue. You can not dodge the question this time. Your vote in November will tell the world where you stand.

STENOGRAPHER—Would be glad to do your work after school hours and Sturday's. Address Pauline Kittrell 107-3rd avenue Clanton.

DON'T YOU WANT TO VOTE FOR THESE?

The incoming Democratic State administration, that is going to have charge of the political affairs of the state for the next four years, is pledged, among other notable reforms, to the following specific features that it seems to us should appeal to every honest man and woman voter in Alabama.

Under the guidance and direction of "Plain Bill" Brandon these reforms are as certain of accomplishments as that the sun should continue to shine. He made the campaign on these issues and now they have all been incorporated in the regular platform of the part.

The Democratic party is pledged to a reduction of taxation. Don't you want to vot for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to a reduction in the expensees of government, and the cutting to the bone of all departments and economizing in every possible way. Don't you want that?

The Democratic party is pledged to the total abolishment of the tax adjusters and all unnecessary employees of the State. Don't you want to vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to the strict enforcement of the prohibition, as well as all other laws. Don't you want to vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to keep the State government in the hands of the people, and removing, as far as possible, the tendency to centralize government. Don't you want to vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to no reduction in Confederate pensions. Don't you want ot vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to liberal appropriations for education. Don't you want to vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to a liberal policy towards the State necessary institutions for its unfortunates. Don't you want to vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to the maintainance of white political and social supremacy. Don't you want to vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to the taxation of all water power companies and other special public or private interests the same as every one else. Don't you want to vote for that?

The Democratic party is pledged to so annul the present Primary law that every candidate must have a majority of the votes cast before he can be declared the nominee. Also other amendments to simplify and render absolutely fair the nomination by primary. Don't you want to vote for that?

These are some of the things we are going to have nuder the next administration. Have you any objections to any of them? If not, why not vote your wishes in the only ticket in the field that can possibly do anything for you?

Make up your mind how you want your ticket fixed before you go to the polls and then have it fixed just that way.

The law says you belong behind the bars if you sell or buy a vote. Look out! Somebody will find you out and the next grand jury will attend to you. We are going to do it right this time or see that the law does its perfect work.

SINGING AT OAK HILL

There will be an all day singing at Oak Hill church next Sunday, Oct. 22, and all lovers of music are invited to come and bring their 1922 song books and well filled baskets.

Come out and let's all have a good time together once more, eating singing and praising God.

We hope to have the Clanton Quartette with us and many other good singers from all parts of the county, including Profs. Gore and Culp.

GOOD TIMES AHEAD

For two months now trade conditions have been on the up grade. The improvement has come on slowly and surely until now this immediate section is back to a solid normal basis of business and Clanton is today doing a larger and more substantial volumn of trade than at any period in history.

The same is true throughout our neighboring towns and the encouraging feature about it all is that the business being done is not a light and flimsy nature like we had in the flush days of the war, when everybody lost their head and went into a wild orgirie of extravagance and waste, but the money is being spent wisely and carefully for things of real value and with a prudent eye to the future.

There is no reason why this prosperous condition should fail us in the near future. Our farmers, who are the main spring of prosperity, are going slowly and husbanding their visions for another year. More debts have been paid and more people are out of debt than has been true for years. The majority of them have corn, meat, potatoes and syrup enough to carry them over another season, so the necessity for spending the next crop before it is made is almost entirely obviated.

The visible supply of cotton in the world is lower than it has been for years and it stands to reason, with the added benefits the farmers are receiving from their marketing organization that the next crop of cotton will be at least a 20 cent seller. So the future looks bright for continued prosperity and no one has an excuse for complaining.

WHOLESALE STORE BREAKING

Last Friday night some party or parties went out on regular rampage of store breaking in town.

They must have been of an extremely fastideous type of burgular, for in all their rounds they did not seem to have been able to find anything they wanted, as they failed to appropriate anything so far as the owners could discover.

The front window in the store of Mullins & Moore was broken in but if any one entered the store no trace could be found of where they had been.

The same was true at the store of Miner & Easterling. The show window was broken in and one track made on the floor of the window as though the party had gone in, but nothing was missing.

At the office of Dr. Arthur Johnson a hole was broken through the top sash and the sash lock opened and the lower sash thrown up, but if the miscreant entered the office he left no trace of his presence.

The back door of the Bottling works was also opened but no evidence left to indicate that anything had been disturbed.

Such a visitation as that is rather pecular and some sinister motive other than robbery must have prompted the miscreant who did the work. We would suppose that such depredations are too risky for any one to attempt them just for fun.

We are glad to learn that Mr. G. W. Duke who had the misfortune of loosing his left arm is now doing well and is able to be at home.

One or two splendid sites for our cotton factory have been suggested to us, with acreage enough to fill the bill. We shall pass them along to the Chamber of Commerce that is working on that proposition.

FOR SALE—A lot of good houses both in Coosa and Chilton Counties all near Higgins lower ferry, all well built out of good heart lumber, all in fair to good condition and at reasonable prices, also several good fresh Jersey cows.

Rev. M. F. Lett, route 3, and Mr. C. B. Bryant, route 2, were in Clanton last Thursday. While here they demonstrated with a liquid how to destroy the boll weevil. Beyond a doubt if the liquid they have can be used by spraying on the growing cotton it will kill every boll weevil that it hits. We see no reason why they can not be successfull in convincing the government of the truth of these statements. The trouble with the most of us is; "We thing that the end of the rainbow is over yonder." when something like thi sis invented by one of our home folks.

Criminal Code

Section 6779 provides that: "Any ...spector, or marker or helper, or assis...tant ... who willfully deceives any elector in preparing his ballot, must on conviction be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than five years."

Section 6780 provides that "Any elector who takes or removes, or attempts to take or remove any ballot from the polling place before the close of the polls, or any person who interfers with any elector, when inside the polling place, or when marking the ballot, or unduly influences any elector in prepartion of his ballot,; or any elector who remains longer than the time allowed by law in the booth or compartment after being notified his time has expired, must, on conviction be fined not less than ten or more than one hundred dollars."

Section 6781 provides that; "Any inspector of election who willfully fails or refuses to advise any elector, entitled thereto, that he is entitled to an assistant or refuses to let him select an assistant as required by law, must, on conviction, be fined not less than one hundred nor more than five hundre ddollars."

Section 6792 provides that; "Any persoon who, on election day, disturbs or prevents, or attempts to prevent any elector from freely casting his ballot, must on conviction, be fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and also sentenced to hard labor for the county, or imprisioned in the county jail for not less than six months nor more than one year."

We have given you the most important parts of the law and, as democrats we are going to see that they are strictly complied with in the November election. Read them all and be wise. Demand your rights and avoid violating the law.

PARRISH—MIMS

Sunday last Mr. Clarence Parrish and Miss Hattie Mims were happily united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents some 6 miles north of Clanton.

The groom is well known and a poplar young man in this section and has many warm friends. He is now making his home in Birmingham.

The bride is also one of the lovely and popular young ladies of our county who has scores of friends who will follow her with thousands of good wishes.

The young couple will make their home in Birmingham and the News, together with their many other admirers extends them the best we have in hopes for their united happiness and success.

HALLOWEEN AT VERBENA

On Halloween, Tuesday October 31, will be held at the Verbena school building a street fair, carnival, oyster supper, and practically all the numerous things that pertain to the full enjoyment of that festive occasion. There will be fish ponds for the children, and the regular side shows of the usual street fairs—fat men, slims, biggest babies, ugliest men, prettiest ladies, fortune telling, grab bags, prize cakes, prize candies—'n everything.

In addition to all the above there will be a regular show of high class magical and slight of hand tricks, done by a performer of abililty.

All attractions will be separate and distinct, and nominal charges will be made. The public is cordially invited to attend and partake with us of a throughly enjoyable time, with the assurance that the usual goodness of Verbena's entertainment will be maintained. The affair is being given by the Parent-Teachers Association, and the proceeds will be applied toward the purchase of school equipment. Watch for further announcement of this event, and get ready to attend.

The school is enjoying a very healthy growth at present. There were present today 238, equalling the total enrollment of last session. The present enrollment is 254 with prospects of further increase.

A number of new desks were added last week. The buildng for the music department and domestic science is nearly completed. The New school piano, especially designed for school work, arrived Thursday and is quite an addition to the school equipments.

The Lanerian Literary society held its third meeting Monday afternoon

The program consisted of a study of the life of Sidney Lanier, and reading from some of his works.

The high school boys have been putting in some basket ball practice on the new court just across the street from the bank, and are about in shape to turn out a winning team. There will be a majority of last year's men in the game this season, and with the addition of the new material the team expects to give a good account of it-self.

Mr. J. B. Marlar, route one, was here Saturday. He is very enthuastic in regard to having a cotton factory located here. He has a fine farm in one mile of town.

Judge S. M. Adams, Democratic nominee for the State Senate from this district, is in Prattville this week. The Judge will see the "Boys" in Autauga this week.

D. L. Huston and Miss Lena and Lennie Foshee, of Stanton were in Clanton Monday.

PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the general election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

[illegible]FORE, I, Thos. E. [illegible] of the State of Alabama [illegible] give notice, direct [illegible] general elec[illegible] [illegible]er, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places [illegible]ired by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 35—Cliett

[illegible]

To [illegible] submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may l[illegible] and collect through their duly c[illegible]ted governing authorities a [illegible]ation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in [illegible] one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by [illegible] or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise, affect, limit, mod[illegible] abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Be it enacted by the Legislature [illegible]

Section 1. That the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama is hereby proposed to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama for their con[illegible] at the next general election, to-wit: The following munici[illegible] corporations, Jasper, Cordova, [illegible] Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, [illegible] Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municipal corporatons to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks [illegible] hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this [illegible] the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

Section 3. That at said election on the amendment proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided, the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following, viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for." Following the proposed amendment on the ballot shall be printed the word "Yes" and immediately under that shall be printed the word "No." The choice of the electors shall be indicated by a cross mark made by him, or under his direction, opposite the word expressing his desire.

Section. 4. That the officers to hold such election shall be the same, and shall be appointed in the same manner and by the same officials as provided by the election law of the State for the appointment of officers to hold general elections in the State, and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections and with the constitutional provision concerning amendments to that instrument.

Section 5. Walker County Talks

A Concise History of the Republican State Convention.

(From the Mountain [illegible]

Last week's issue of The Eagle contained an effusion from Mr. H. Ance Barton, of Birmingham. Mr. Barton seems very much peeved at my "write up" of the recent republican state convention, at Birmingham.

Mr. Barton seems to be very heated and indulged in some rather strong language. In plain words he calls me a liar. And he also intimates that I am only partially white. My understanding is that it takes 100 per cent of white blood to make a white man. Maybe some of the present republican bosses have more than 100 per cent white blood— Idunno. Iam addresing this to the WHITE republicans of Walker County. I am not going to call Mr. Barton a liar—he might be bigger than I am.

But I am going to give [illegible] hot facts, and YOU can decide which one of us is the liar. The democrats of Walker county don't care a darn how many negroes take part in the councils of the republican party in Alabama. But I am sure that the white republican of Walker county are 100 per cent white. [illegible] I am equally sure that they are just as much opposed to political equality with negroes as the democrats are. No white man in Walker county whether he be democrat or republican, will tolerate political equality with negroes. It is needless to mention our women. But the present bosses of the republican party [illegible] Alabama or encouraging and fostering that very thing. I am surely glad they came from Marshall county instead of Walker.

I am going to give you some facts. They will taste like epsom salts, but the effects will be beneficial.

When I read Mr. Barton's article impugning my veracity as a newspaper correspondent, I naturally wondered who in hail columbia Ance Barton was. And I also wanted to know what he [illegible]. Well, I investigated. You folks who know me, say that my middle name is Buttinsky.

H. Ance Barton is a former resident of Walker county who moved up about East Lake in Birmingham a few years ago. Well, he lived and had his being until the railroad strike, July 1st. Then T. J. Kennemar appointed him a special deputy, to protect the railroads. Now, his job has expired and he wants a steady job at the pie counter. So he undetrakes to champion the cause of his benefactor, and tell the Walker county republicans what an awful liar The Eagle correspondent is. You've took on a man's size job, Ance, for I have sure got the goods on your bosses.

Now, lets quit fooling, and get down to brass tacks. Follow me: T. J. Kennemar, (the man "whiter" than C. J. L.) in 1920, appointed W. B. Driver, (a negro) as chairman, to preside at a republican beat meeting, in beat 37 (Birmingham). This meeting was held in the city hall, Birmingham, and the negro, W. B. Driver served as chairman. Several young, white republicans of Birmingham, who were anxious to participate, became disgusted when they saw a negro chairman, withdrew and refused to take part in the meeting. Among them was Earl Powell, 1201 ave. B. Birmingham, Ala. Any white republican of Walker county, who doubts this statement can write to Frank R[illegible], secretary republican club of Alabama, room 501, Lyric building, Birmingham. He will give you the facts.

N. H. Freeman, republican candidate for congress, in the 10th congressional district, in 1916, against W. B. Bankhead, in an open letter to the Birmingham News in August said that the negro, Driver was appointed, and served as chairman! In beat 9 in Jefferson county in 1922, with T. J. Kennemar presiding, N. H. Freeman was defeated for delegate to the county convention by Chas Smith, a negro!

Freeman is an absolute 100 per cent white—lily white—republican.

Pope M. Long, of Cordova, [illegible] an open letter to the press of Alabama, published August 1st, 1922 said:

In 1920 T. J. Kennemar was chairman of Jeffeson county. He had the authority and did appoint chairman to preside over the beat meetings in that county. In beat 37 at the city hall in Birmingham, the richest and most populous precinct in Alabama, he appointed as chairman, Wm. B. Driver, a negro.

That was Pope Long talking to his party—not me.

Mr. Kennemar has never denied Pope Long's charges, or Freeman's either.

Yet, Ance says he was a delegate to the 1920 convention. He surely can't see, or smell.

In 1920 five negroes were elected from Jefferson county to the republican state convention. This so outraged the white republicans of the state that they seated the Jefferson county delegation in one corner. Every motion or resolution introduced in the [illegible] tion was defeated.

Hon. J. M. Pennington, now circuit solicitor of Walker county, was a delegate. Mr. Pennington, a 100 per cent white man, refused to sit in the convention with negroes, and returned home! Ask him?

Ance doesn't deny that W. H. Armbrecht, chairman of the 1922 republican state convention, was elected as a delegate in a negro hall in Mobile the call for which was signed by a negro, T. A. Belsaw, an dthe notice published exclusively in a negro newspaper, The Mobile Forum.

1922 in Montgomery, the place hallowed by memories of the inauguration address of Jefferson Davis, a republican county convention was held, composed of 41 negroes, and 9 "white men," (percentage of whiteness not stated). J. I. Mckinney, white, and G. E. Newstell, negro, were elected delegates to the state convention. On the same day the white republicans of Montgomery, in a white convention, elected Joe Dimmick, capitalist, and George King, merchant, as delegates. The Street-Kennemar crowd were afraid to seat the white man and nigger, but as a sop to the coons, also refused to seat the two white delegates, Messers, Dimmick and King. I was present as spectator and news gatherer and saw and heard W. B. Ford, of Marion county, when he arose and moved that the white delegation be seated. Every county in the 10th, except Franklin, voted to seat the white men. Jefferson county and T. J. Kennemar voted against seating them!

Ance says he was a delegate to the 1920 convention. So he pleads guilty to helping elect five negro delegates to the state convention.

Since the state convention was held, Mobile county republicans have elected a white county chairman, and a negro secretary. Why?

In the Chilton County News, a democratic paper, Kelly Gentry, secretary of the white convention, held in Montgomery, flays the caterers to the coons. Ance, you send for a copy. I didn't write it, a white republican did, though.

Speaking about Kennemar being born in Marshall county, but living in Birmingham 18 years. You are right. He has been sitting at Uncle Sammy's pie counter 18 long years. He ought to back down, and let some of "the faithful," who are hungry, sit awhile. But, will he? You know he won't!

One other item; On August 8th, in Florence, the Lauderdale county republicans held a convention, with 15 negroes participating. Those 15 "shines" voted with the Street-Kennemar faction, on every motion, but were out voted by the 100 per cent white delegates, who were aligned with Pope M. Long.

Now Walker County white men, here's my offer: If Ance Barton will disprove anything I have stated in this letter regarding the negroes power in republican politics in Alabama, I will buy and pay for a $50.00 suit of clothes for him, to be selected by him from [illegible] stock of any merchant in Walker county.

I am willing to leave the question of the truth of any statements to Judge C. J. Curtis, J. M. Pennington, Chas. Sactain, of Jasper, Pope Long and S. L. Studdard of Cordova, and the rest of the Walker county delegates to the republican state convention.

One other thing: The republican nominee for sheriff in Mobile county, [illegible] ashamed of the actions of his party, that he refuses to allow his name to appear on the ballot under the republican emblem, and he is running as an independent. And, say, out here in Walker county the republican candidates are in same fix, for you don't see the word "Republican" on their cards or printed announcements. Not by a jugful. They just say "Candidate for so-and-so, in the general election.

Now, white folks of Walker county, I have written the truth. I know that all of you are white before you are either republicans or democrats. We all stand together for white supremacy and my advice to H. Ance Barton is to quit eating the husks with the swine, and come on back to old Walker county and be a white man—although a prodigal.

And don't call a stranger a liar unless you are sure he is.

Grace be with you, brother. And you white republicans of Walker county, ascertain which one of us is the liar. Then join hands with your democratic brethern (and sisters—I forgot and let's make old Walker one hundred percent white forever.

Respectfully
C. J. LANGSTON

The only real issue that can possibly exist between honest men and women in a local campaign in the south is the question of white supremacy. We all agree that we need honest safe and economical administration of local affairs and no one realy believes that the political creed of a man makes him either incapable or a crook. The person who claims otherwise brands himself either as an imbecile or a fraud. The democratic ticket is the only one in the field here now that stands forever pledged to white supremacy.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 2 CLANTON, ALABAMA, OCTOBER 26, 1922 NUMBER 7

Howard L. Foshee

Replies to the Editor of the Union-Banner in Open Letter to His Republican Friends.

Clanton, Ala., Oct 25, 1922.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

As stated heretofore the Union-Banner will not submit its columns for use to anyone to express a view as to the political situation in this county, unless such view is in high praise of L. H. Reynolds. A fair example of this is to be found in last week's issue of the "Reynolds organ", the Union-Banner wherein the editor himself consumes entirely the first two pages in an effort to defend the Judge and at the same time to mislead the people as to the real issue and facts in the case, for instance, Mack says the Judge is "smart" and able to "paddle his own canoe" and I suppose that he is, but he is not smart enough to yet answer the questions that I propounded to him in the recent issue of the Chilton County News nor has he told the people of this county whether or not the things that Kelley Gentry wrote were true or not; and I now again ask L. H. Reynolds to tell the republicans of this county whether Kelley Gentry lied or told the truth in his letter which the Union-Banner refused to print and if he lied wherein did he lie or what part or statement of his letter was a lie. I further ask L. H. Reynolds, who claims to be so loyal to the republican party, to tell the republicans of this county why it was that the commissioners Court, of which he is chairman, appointed a democrat as County Treasurer after W. M. Wyatt declined to accept the position with its measly salary of seven hundred dollars." I also ask L. H. Reynolds why it was that he did not cor[illegible] his son Grady [illegible] "lawyer" Treasurer during the campaign year, didn't Grady successfully fill the place for the two years preceding 1922? Isn't it a fact that the first year Grady held the Treasurer's job that it was at a salary of less than $500? Then why couldn't you persuade your son Grady to keep the job this year at the "measley" salary of $700?

Mr. Wyatt says the Union-Banner is not "toting the skillet" for Judge Reynolds and this statement is really amusing after we read the reason why Mr. Wyatt declined to accept the office of County Treasurer at the "measley" salary of $700". and since we find that to have accepted the same would have deprived the Union-Banner from sucking the "BIG TEAT", which furnishes it with revenue, without which the Union-Banner would "have virtually closed its doors" and would have deprived the families of Mr. W. M. Wyatt and his brother of "a reasonable living." No, [illegible] "toting the skillet" for Judge Reynolds for the simple reason that the "skillet" was placed on the fire six years ago and you and the Judge have since let it remain and have continually baked the bread, fried the [illegible] eat same at the expense of the tax payers of Chilton county. The thing you don't want now is to be forced away from that "skillet".

Talk about one-family and ring gang rule, if you please, but when it comes to Chilton County we take the prize, and behold they are not satisfied, they want a Senator in the family. At present Hon. W. A. Reynolds just succeeded a democrat Trea- noldsis Judge of Probate, Grady Reynolds just ureceded a democrat Treasurer and he and his brother [illegible] have heretofore represented the county as its attorneys and now the son-in-law of W. A. Reynolds is a candidate for Senator. Mr. W. M. Wyatt who admits that his living comes out of the county treasury, is the candidate for Representative; the Judge is trying to get his brother Charlie appointed as a deputy Revenue Collector and his son Grady appointed U. S. Attorney for the Middle District of Alabama. Four years ago W. A. Reynolds introduced and succeeded in passing House Bill No. 762 which provided for the raising of the salary of L. H. Reynolds from $300 to $900 as Judge of the County Court, this Court only being in session from one to two days a month. What will happen if we elect and appoint the whole-family to office?

Now Mack I want to tell you what actually happened the morning I carried my letter around to your place and requested that you publish it. I TOLD YOU THAT MY PURPOSE WAS TO GIVE THE PEOPLE [illegible] FACTS AND TURN THE LIGHT ON THE DARK PLACES AND LET THE REPUBLICANS OF THIS COUNTY KNOW THE TRUE CONDITION OF AFFAIRS AND [illegible] THAT DEFEATED LEWIS-REYNOLDS. LET HIM GO. I further said I DID NOT RECOGNIZE HIM AS THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE for that he had not received a majority of the republican votes in the primary and I further said to you that I would bear my part of the expense of a run-off primary for Reynolds and Harris to determine which one would receive a majority of the republican votes. I told you then that which ever one received the majority, I would support. I therefore, did not say my sole aim and purpose was to defeat L. H. Reynolds but my aim was and is as stated above. I say again I do not consider L. H. Reynolds as the moral nominee of the republican party for this further reason: He went over [illegible] to vote the escond choice, vote stating that a man would kill his first choice by doing so and said that the law was a trick; but now you and [illegible] defeating the intent of [illegible] people from vot[illegible] claim him to be the legal nominee of the republican party. I say further that if the people had not been advised against voting second choice and had voted same, [illegible] would have received a majority under that [illegible] voter cast both first and second choice vote and thereby eliminate a run-off primary and the ex[illegible] It's a GOOD law now but was a BAD one when the Judge saw that it meant defeat for the people to vote a second choice.

Mack you need not go to the trouble of getting witnesses to prove that my purpose was to defeat Reynolds I did not state to you then that MY SOLE AIM AND PURPOSE was to defeat L. H. Reynolds but I say to you now that I feel that he should be defeated unless he shows to the republicans of this county a reasonable excuse for his actions at the State Convention in Birmingham last September as stated by Kelley Gentry in his letter, and for allowing the county Treasurer's Office to go into the hands of the democrats, also for his acts and efforts to make his family the recipients of every office in the county, and for his having assailed the republican members of the Board of Education in the primary for their official acts and attempted to prejudice the people against the two candidates who were running for re-election when he knew that the School Board had put forth untiring efforts to run the schools so that the people would receive at present and in the future the very best results possible from the money paid as school taxes.

Mr. Wyatt I want to tell you that I did not bring Mr. Atkinson around to the Union Banner office with me on the morning that I asked you to publish my letter. When I arrived at your office you were out but your brother said you would soon return so I waited and in a short time you and Mr. Atkinson arrived at the office at about the same time, whether you two were together I do not know or whether Mr. Atkinson arrived just before you or just after. As for his purpose in being there you seem to know more about it than I do but I will say this to you that I do not falsify what happened on that occassion and I do not have to have anyone to go along with me to substantiate my statements. You know it is a fact that I have been to your office several times since that day to discuss business of like chracter and without anyone being with me but should the occasion arise where I felt that I needed someone who would tell the truth about any matter and become a witness to same, it would be very gratifying to me to have Mr. Atkinson along. In the first place I am not going to tell a lie and in the next place if Mr. Atkinson were to hear me tell one he would not substantiate me in telling same, and where did you get the sup[illegible] should I tell one Mr. Atkinson would substaniate it? I want to say further that you need not worry about getting both Mr. Atkinson and myself together to face you as to what was said on that occasion for I feel quite able to hold your feet to [illegible] an repeat what I said in YOUR presence as [illegible] nce of the "smart" [illegible] dle his own canoe."

Mr. Wyatt tries to lead the people to believe that I started a fight on him but I want to remind him of the fact that I did not say or write anything about him until I had been called a traitor and a democrat by him through his paper and in fact if he had [illegible] L. H. [illegible] ges brought against him by [illegible] and others about his conduct [illegible] Republican State Con[illegible]

From what you say Mack about what you have been receiving and making, a "reasonable living", out of the [illegible] that the "lucrative salary" you would receive out of the legislature is of no importance to you whatever, but would it not be a great pleasure for you to introduce and pass a bill increacing the salary of our "smart" Judge, also that you might change the whole school system of the state to coincide with h[illegible]

Mack in reply to my question, "How much has Chilton County paid you during the past twelve months?" you answer by saying, "I will not only give the TOTAL amount the county has paid us, but will itemize it" etc. Then you give the following:

Supt. of Education	$366.35
Probate Judge	$176.10
County Treasurer	$203.50
County Advertising	$370.00
Election Supplies	$471.50
Tax Collector	$30.21
Tax Assessor	$42.20
Tax Adjuster	$6.00
Circuit Clerk	$156.05
County Solicitor	$10.75
Register in Chancery	$7.50
Sheriff	$26.50
Total	$1,866.66

Now Mack the records in the office of the County Treasurer show that the Union-Banner was paid the following amounts during the past twelve months and on the dates shown:

Nov. 16, 1922	$464.75
Jan. 27, 1922	$6.00
Jan. 27, 1922	$688.59
Feb. 21, 1922	$451.27
May 17, 1922	$612.32
Total	$2,222.93

Will you please explain to the voters the discrepency in your figures? Why do you have it only $1,866.66 when the Treasurer's books show that you received $2,222.93 during a six months period? How much have you done for the county for which you have not been paid since May 17th of this year? Mack tell the people what you had to include in "Supt. of Education, $366.35" to get it to amount to so much. Tell them that you charged as printing for my office the advertisements of the differents District Tax Elections in different parts of the county, these elections being ordered by the Commissioners Court and advertised on the order of the Sheriff but that in order to make my bill sound enormous you charged the printing of these advertisements to my office printing bill. Why not charge me with all stock law elections, primary elections, and general elections? It would be just as reasonable.

Mack you state that Judge Reynolds informs you that there is on file now with the Commissioners Court, an account to the amount of over $300, for stuff that was charged to the county by Howard Foshee, which it is not the duty of the county to pay for. "Mack, if he told you that, he told you either a wilful, malicious, and deliberate falsehood or Section 20 of Article of the School law which says, "The county board of revenue or court of county commissioners shall also provide necessary furniture, office equipment, stationery, postage, forms and supplies required by the superintendent and his assistants" is a farce and not to be relied upon for his Chief Clerk informed me that the claims were for office filing cabinets.

I want to say to you Mack that these cabinets were bought by me in good faith for the purpose of protecting and preserving the records, papers, deed records, and other evidence of the school as required by law. But the trouble Mack is that your "smart" Judge would seem to be very much elated should I be deprived of having any office furniture or equipment but it is perfectly alright for the county's table typewriter to be used in his son's law office and for the Judge to have all necessary equipment with a private office supplied with modern up-to-date sanitary conveniences.

Mr. Wyatt seems to be worried over the report he printed on Oct. 20, 1921 for me which was AN EXACT DUPLICATE OF THE ONE I SENT THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION AS REQUIRED BY LAW. The law requires me to have same published as it is sent to the Department and I did so. Now as to the following items on that report which Mr. Wyatt wants explained:

[illegible]
Liquidation of [illegible]
Refunds $15[illegible]
Supt. Salary and assistants $2,438.18
Compulsory attendance $70.00

First, NEW EQUIPMENT. On [illegible] dow panes, stove pipe and elbows, coal scuttles, putty, door locks, and chains for swings furnished the Clanton Grammar School for the session of 1919-20 Paid from local [illegible] trict No. 65. On the December 1920 payroll C. A. Peterson was paid $50 for water coolers and other equipment in the Thorsby Public School. Paid from local district funds of District No. 66. On the January payroll the Educational Exchange Co. of Birmingham [illegible] paid $672 for 70 school desks furnished the Clanton Grammar School; paid from local district funds of District No. 65; and on the same payroll the Town of Thorsby was paid $131.52 for money they had advanced the school there to purchase heaters and other equipment, all paid from local district funds of District No. 66. On the August 1921 payroll J. C. Page, Treas. was carried for $220 for an equipment fund with which to secure State aid in the purchase of school desks for the Isabella School, paid from local district funds of District No. 37; E. W. Butler was carried on same payroll for $17.90 for desks he had furnished the Thorsby Public School, paid from local district funds of District No. 66. TOTAL [illegible] EQUIPMENT $1,134.72.

Second, LIQUIDATION OF DEBTS On the December 1920 payroll the First National Bank of Clanton was carried for $770.50 for a loan made by the City School Board of Clanton to finish paying the city teachers the preceding term, all paid from local district funds of District No. 65. The Bank of Thorsby was carried on the same payroll for $148 for a loan made to pay teachers for month of September 1920, all paid from local district funds of District No. 66 TOTAL FOR LIQUIDATION OF DEBTS $918.50

Third, REFUNDS. On the August 1921 payroll J. D. Collins was carried for $150.59 from the following funds: General funds $105.75, District No. 10 $1.96, District No. 13 $3.48, District No. 15 $15.68, District No. 37 $7.76, District No. 66 $15.96. Mr. Collins did not keep his books accurately and when the Examiner of Accounts checked them he found that he had overpaid the above funds and requested that the Board refund the amounts as shown.

Fourth, SUPT. SALARY AND ASSISTANTS. Of this amount I received $1778.18 and the stenographer received $660.

Fifth, COMPULSORY ATTENDANCE. With this $70 we enrolled 5152 white children in the schools of the county and 1072 colored children. The white children attended a total of 428,853 days and the colored children a total of 78,808 days. Since there are so many I do not feel that it is necessary to give your each ones name but will be glad to furnish you with same if you will call at my office. Now Mack if you want any of my official acts explained I will be glad to do so for you at any time.

Mack says, "He 'SUPPOSES' all the people have heard what happened to Prof. Wm.R. Baker the other day at the hands of our wonderful superintendent of education." He says, "Mr. Baker was refused a contract to teach school in this county just because his political activities happened to be offensive to the superintendent of education. This in the face of the fact that Mr. Baker's application was for a school where he has taught for several years, and was endorsed by every patron of the school district." Mack, your suppositions disclose not only your willingness to grasp at "hearsays", but demonstrates thoroughly that your entire article was written while you were under the influence of "100 per cent Reynolds beverage." For [illegible] Baker, that you make is false from beginning to end and was indeed made by you for no other purpose than to mislead the voters and to prejudice the people against me. Wm. R. Baker was only refused a contract for the school at Macedonia or Flint Hill school in District 49, and then only at the expressed request of local officials that bear me out in this statement and the following statements that I will make in reference to Baker's application for that school. WM. R. BAKER NEVER TAUGHT AT THAT SCHOOL IN HIS LIFE AND WAS NOT ENDORSED BY EVERY PATRON OF THAT DISTRICT. [illegible] BY [illegible] MAJORITY [illegible] the school and then after Baker had been tried for three years under my [illegible] found entirely incom[illegible] as far as any political activities of Baker's arousing my animosity toward him is concerned, I want Mr. Wyatt [illegible] wanted too, make a "rittle on the waters" politically. If the people want to know anything about Baker's record as a teacher then ask W. D. Burnett of New Cerdron or R. E. Jones of Cane Creek whether I was right or wrong in refusing him a contract.

Mack in your statement that "there is no such thing in existence as a court house ring in Chilton County" is true then I want to know when L. H. Reynolds, M. D. Foshee, John Gore, Tom Rockett, Grady Reynolds, Lewis Easterling, and yourself, the Charter Members of said organization, disbanded; or is it a fact, as has been charged, that L. H. Rynolds constitutes the "whole cheese" and that you boys recognize him as such. The thing you boys need is a good through of "roborant".

Mack you asked me to tell the people who is my candidate for Representative from Chilton County and then in the next line you say you know I am against you but that is just another of your "suppositions". There is no understanding between J. L. Johnson and myself as to his candidacy and, in fact, there is none between myself and any other democratic candidate and YOU need not attempt to lead the people to believe that I am not going to support, in the general election, the candidates on the Republican ticket who were nominated by a majority vote If you KNOW that I am against you then give us some proof other than your own "supposition" that I am. It would be useless for me to tell the people that you are with the "Reynolds crowd" and the "court house ring" because they are aware of that fact and if they were not, your article in last week's issue of the Union-Banner is sufficient to convince the most skeptical.

The Resolutions adopted by the 134 teachers was an expression of their own ideas toward the administration of the schools in this county and although the things said therein may not have met the approval of the "canoe paddler" and the editor of his "official organ", I want to say that I appreciate the things set forth in the Resolution very highly for the reason that the Resolution was prepared, intorduced and passed without any solicitation, suggestion, aid, or assistance on my part. It may have been a "bone" and may leave in its wake a condition, as far as "ring-gang politicians" are concerned, something similar to that portrayed of Samson and the Phillistines.

Mack you talk about what you are going to do to the school laws "IF" you go to the legislature. From the display of your ignorance as to local school conditions and needs, qualifications for teachers, and your zeal to believe "hearsays", I haven't very much doubt but that some advocate of real honest-to-goodness school laws will hold an umbrella over you while another pours a little water on it and you will come home "supposing" that it rained on your "local bill" for the benefit of the schools of Chilton County and then you will go over this county preaching the old gospel that "It rains on the just and the unjust alike".

Respectfully,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE

The Sunday School aim is for three hundred and fifty present. It can be done if we have the will to work.

Adult men aim for eighty present. Dr. V. J. Gragg will lecture to the men on the subject: "The Salvation of the Physician" Will win. The adult women aim for Eighty present. They will have them too.

Senior young men aim for twenty seven present. Can they reach it? Senior Young Women aim for forty one present. Is there a doubt? No. Intermediate Boys and Girls aim for [illegible] three present. Easy enough [illegible] Primaries and Beginners aim for ninety present. The faith of a child never fails.

Faith without works is Dead. Work! WORK! WORK!

It sure is an easy matter to find an excuse to do a thing when you already want to do it anyhow

Some tender footed people remind us of a real mean mule. They can find plenty of reason to kick-even at the Bible.

The democratic ticket in Chilton [illegible] who wants clean officials, and the platform of the party is pledged to every [illegible]

If every [illegible] calmly go to the poll Nov. [illegible] their ballot without prejudice or [illegible] lice times would be so much better [illegible] us all.

We hear of a good deal of oat planting [illegible] now [illegible] too. That it the way for our farmer to keep out of debt and be independent.

Rev. Sam Adams will have no opposition in Autauga county and if the democrats down there will only go out and vote his "calling will be an election sure."

A good many political teats are going dry at Montgomery next year and several over grown, half-breed calves are going to be w[illegible] of thoroughbred democra[illegible] calves given a show.

Don't ever try to solve your conscience with an excuse for doing wrong by laying it off on the other fellow. You are in no sence responsible for what the other fellow says or does, but you are fearfully responsible for what you say or do.

Did you read that article we printed from Walker County last week? It looks like the people all over the state know the truth about the Republican Convention in Birmingham every where except Chilton county. How did some of our people get mislead.

It is always a difficult matter to get real clean christian people to enter politics because the game of office seeking has degenerated into the v[illegible] and filthiest scramble that can be imagined. We have some life long christians on our ticket this year and we feel just like the clean christian people of this county are going to stand by them. You will say at the polls November 7 whether you want righteousness to rule or not.

The life of a country editor is indeed a dream—one of the nightmare kind. In most instances he is underpaid, under fed, under clothed. He is cussed for all the sins of ommission and commission known in the decalogue. If he gets off a joke some oing faced Pharasee gets peeved, and if he leans a little towards the sacred things of life they say the paper is dull and the editor has turned preacher. If he ever is instrumental in doing any good in the community he is absolutely ignored and some [illegible] gets the credit. Oh! [illegible]

Be sure to read the ELECTION LAWS Printed in another column and then demand your rights.

VOTING A SACRED PRIVILEGE

The principles upon which our government is foundedl are absolutely safe and sound. The people could, if they would, control [illegible] fairs of our country to the best interests of those who finance the sch[illegible] re behind every achievement our country has ever [illegible] either in war or peace—the common people.

There is no d[illegible] all in allowing the untrammeled will of all the people to rule. The masses of the people, when let alone and not warped [illegible] and selfish spleen of [illegible] politician and not predjudiced by the lying and misleading statements of greedy, grasping office seekers, are almost sure to vote right and for the best interest of the country at large. They have an intutive understanding of what the people real[illegible]d and they know exactly how to [illegible] these benefits when they occasionally rise in their righteous indignation and kick out the profes[illegible]

This very thing took place in Georgia about 30 years ago, when the people came together [illegible] sweep of the chronic politicians and political grafters. Much s[illegible]cism was wasted upon them and they were ad[illegible] the "woo[illegible] known [illegible] with [illegible] on le[illegible] where even the railroads bow the kn[illegible] to local authority and know to obey the law. That is what a rule of, by and for the people done for our sister state.

Now, take it home to yourself. Don't you feel like it is the sacred duty of every voter to weigh well all the facts [illegible] mind calmly and dispassionately what is the right ticket to vote and then [illegible]

In Chilton county we have very little div[illegible]at is best fo[illegible] one [illegible]ll. There can not possibly be any reasonable or valid ground for our people to fight and scramble over. The lust of the chronic office seeker has been for years and [illegible] to our county and an impediment to our social, as well as financial progress. You all know this is true. Go away from Clanton and listen to what leading business men will tell you. Try out some large cotton milling company [illegible] putting in a plant here and the first answer you get is, "Yes, you have a fine location but your people are too badly divided." And so on. That is the way the situation appeals to people abroad. Why Can't you [illegible] sity of getting together and putting ourselves in touch and sympathy with the vast reigon in which we are centrally located and from which we have willfully ostracized ourselves. Inexcusable scrapping among ourselves is like a mighty millstone tied about the neck of our social, financial and political progress. Don't you all agree with us that these things are all true? Then why not vote your next tic[illegible] calmly and without prejudice for [illegible] you realize to be the only way [illegible] which we can hope to obtain a fair, just and equitable recognition abroad? Will you do it? Will you help to redeem your splendid county from the sad unfortunate conditions that have predominated for years?

The world is entering a new era of progress. The scars and heartaches of the great war have been tenderly ministered to by the soothing fingers of time. Providence has smiled on the land and we look forward into a season of prosperity again. Now, for the sake of this future. For the sake of our homes. For the sake of an opportunity to take our rightful place in the ranks of other counties going forward in peace, prosperity and amity. For the sake of our women and children and for the sake of future generations yet unborn, let us beg of you to use your ballot on Nov. 7 as a sacred privilege by which you register your determination to go forward in to a new era as one of those who has confidence in the common people and an abiding faith in a government "of, by and for the peop[illegible]"

VERBENA ALABAMA

As announced last week, there will be given at the Verbena school building, on Tuesday evening, October 31, or Halloween, a school Street Fair. This entertainment will be entertaining to young and old alike, as there will be features provided for every age. Fish ponds for children, side shows of various kinds for th older boys and girls, shows for men, and women—something for all. Oysters will be served during the evening from six o'clock, as will other refreshments.

We feel assured that you will have genuine pride in old Chilton when you have viewed with wonder and admiration the "Biggest Babies" exhibit; that you will have a better love for home when you have passed through "Going to China." And then—but why tell you more? You will be there and will enjoy it all the more by the surprise that await you.

The affair is gived for the benefit of the school. You are requested to be present, with your best friend—your wife, your best girl, or your neighbor's friend, etc.—Only come out and find how Verbena will celebrate the festive occasion.

A SCHOLAR

We can truthfully say that we do not harbor a single sentiment of personal malice towards any man on the republican ticket. We are politically opposed to them all because we know so well that our county will be much more prosperous and happy when we get in touch and sympathy with the rest of the State. We have slandered no one nor villified no one, nor do we intend to. But we do expect to do our best to defeat them all because we believe they should be defeated for the good of the county.

The biggest joke we know of now is a railroad time table that undertakes to tell you anything about when passenger trains will be due. If you want to catch a train now, the best way is to carry your camping outfit and rations with you to the depot and wait until a train happens along.

Can you get down on your knees with a clear conscience, look God square in the face and ask him to let your ticket win Nov. 7? If you can't, you better think twice before you vote.

Every democratic man and women in the county is earnestly begged to go out yourself and get all your neighbors out to the polls November 7. Won't you be loyal to your party just this [illegible]

A jury trying a woman in Arizona for killing her husband was composed of 5 women and 7 men. A mistrial resulted, the jury being tied up on a vote of 5 for guilty and 7 for not guilty. Evidently women know each other better than men know them.

JUDGE S. M. ADAMS

Below is an unsolicited endorsement by the Montgomery Journal of our candidate for State Senate, Judge Sam M. Adams.

We thank the editor of the Journal for these kind things he says about our next Senator and we especially enjoy the opportunity of extending our thanks in this instance for every word the Journal says is absolutely true.

The democrats in the Fifteenth Senatorial District composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, have nominated S. M. Adams, of Thorsby, as their candidate for senator, and having known Judge Adams for many years, knowing him to be a man of sincerity, and firm convictions, and naturally for the people, we commend him to the voters of the district as in every way worthy the honor and on whom one can rely. He always stood out in the open on all public questions and is frank, open and honest.

The rule of his life has been to be upright and in the stormy days of Kolb is was understood by the people that Adams could be depended on to give the facts and we never heard any man, friend or foe, question his honesty and purity of purpose.

When democratic disaffection and division occured in '92, Adams aligned himself with the Peoples party. He always believed that the Peoples party stood for true democracy, and he was so firm in this belief when the People's party of his countty went into the republican party, Adams refused to go, and then it was, he realigned himself with the democratic party, taking the position that he was not a republican in principle.

And at that time he could have gone with his former associates and not a man would have opposed him for Judge of Probate of his country for the simple reason that he had filled the office and had given perfect satisfaction and, to this day, not a criticism is heard of his official work as Judge of Probate of his county.

The people of his district will be represented and pleased with their senator if Judge Adams is elected and there would seem to be no reason why all the people should not vote for him, men and women, democrats and republicans, for he is not a bitter partisan in his ripening years, but a true patriot, a true man, and loyal to his people and to his country's best interests.

BOX SUPPER AT SHILOH

There will be a box supper at Shiloh School House next Saturday night Oct 28th. Begins at 7:00 o'clock, everybody invited. Look for a good time. Proceeds to be spent for the interest of the school.

If a woman is a good looker and a good dresser she is absolutely safe in the hands of a jury composed of men no matter what she has done.

A COINCIDENCE

Last Monday Uncle Dock Wells conducted the funeral services of Mr. Hence Rhodes at Mt. Springs cemetery.

Just about 40 years ago, when he was just commencing his ministerial work, he officiated at the grave of Mr. Jas. Retherford at the same cemetery and the body of Mr. Retherford was the first one to be buried at that place.

Since these days so long ago many others have been placed to rest there and Uncle Dock has seen many of the ups and downs of life, but he is still faithful to his trust and fills his regular appointments every Sunday.

POPLAR SPRINGS SINGING

The Poplar Springs Singing Society met last Sunday at 2 P. M.

Owing to the absence of Mr. Grover Gilliand, our president, Prof Duff DeVaughn was asked to take the chair, which he did. After singing a song Brother W. F. Gilliand offered prayer. The presiding officer then led in several splendid musicial selections and he was followed as leader, by Messers. Newton Gilliand, Luther Little, and Hardy Jones. The exercises were closed by Mr. Ed Giles.

The Society meets again the 2nd Sunday in November, at 9, A. M. and we invite all who are interested in good music to come and be with us.

Mr. Grover Gilliand has just returned from Montgomery hospital where is was found necessary to remove one of his eyes. He is doing fine and we all hope he will soon be well again. All sympathize with him in the loss of his eye, but rejoice that it was no worse.

GLEN DALE

In time of war the death penalty is on any citizen who "gives aid or comfort to the enemy." If the democratic party in Chilton County was in war a few executions might take place.

You are cordially and urgently invited to go out and join the men's class at the Baptist Sunday School.

Loyd George, the greatest premier England has had since the days of Gladstone, has been unseated. We predict that Loyd George will be called back in service when the people speak over there on November 15th.

ANOTHER MONTGOMERY LETTER

October 12 1922

Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton Alabama
Dear Sir:

A negro in cleaning out a garbage can in Montgomery this morning found a copy of this week's Union-Banner which he handed me, containing an editorial in which was said "If Kelly Gentry and his friends in Montgomery County are so eternally beset on having a white Republican party, why did they go into a county convention that was called by a negro chairman?" etc.

I hereby inform you, Mr. Wyatt, that we now have as white an organization in Montgomery County, as you have in Chilton county, but we had to go to Court to get it recognized, and our nominees on the ticket.

I am glad to say to you, Mr. Wyatt, that the courts of Alabama are run differently than the Street Kennamer-Reynolds-Bingham Republican State Committee, and that if you read the daily papers, you will find out.

Yours very truly
J. J. Headley.
Member of Montgomery County Executive Committee.

WHAT CHIROPRACTORS DO.

This is a mechanical science and not a system of medical or faith cure.

They repair the different organs of the human machine like a mechinist repairs the different organs of the Mechanical machine.

They do not do their work by guess, but like a trained machinist, they have to possess exact scientific knowledge of the work to be successful.

They learn the business of repairing the human machine at scientific Institutions thoroughly equiqqed to teach, and must be perfect in this intricate and exact science before they are given permission to go to work.

By repairing the worn or defective parts of the human machine they cause it to function properly, and when it does that disease can not exist and perfect health results.

They treat successfully, without knife or physic all such diseases as, appendicitis, paralysis, high blood pressure, fevers, female troubles, kidney affections, rheumatism, flue, hay fever, asthma, tuburcular affections, stomach and intestinal troubles, headache, and all other abnormaitics of the human body.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in 1921, has ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, to be held at the general election in November, 1922; and,

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor;

NOW THEREFORE, I, Thos. E. Kilby, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that at the general election in November, 1922, an election will be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, in the manner, form and places required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz.:

No. 48) (H. 35—Cllett

AN ACT

To provide and submit to the qualified electors of the State of Alabama, at the next general election, an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, whereby the following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa, in the State of Alabama, may [illegible] constituted governing authorities a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the [illegible] in any one year of one per centum of the value of such property as assessed, as provided by the Constitution and statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, [illegible] affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, [illegible] ed in or con [illegible] school taxes [illegible] of said one per [illegible]

Be it enacted by the Legislature [illegible] amendment to the Constitution of [illegible] pal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle [illegible] ing in the total in any one year one [illegible] Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment, shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority, or right of any of said municipal corporations to levy and collect the special school taxes, now or hereafter vested in or conferred upon them under the Constitution or any amendment thereto which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum herein provided for.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Governor to give notice by proclamation, to be published in one newspaper in each county in the State at least eight successive weeks next preceding the day hereby appointed for such election on the amendment hereby proposed by this act to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration together with the proposed amendment.

[illegible] to be submitted to the qualified electors of the State for their consideration, to be held as herein provided, the qualified electors shall vote upon said amendment, and on the official ballots printed for such election there shall be printed the following viz., "Shall the following be adopted as an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama: The following municipal corporations, Jasper, Cordova, Dora, Oxford, Talladega, Citronelle, Girard, Albany and Tuscaloosa through their respective constituted governing authorities may levy and collect a rate of taxation on the property situated therein, not exceeding in the total in any one year one per centum of the value of such property as assessed as provided by the Constitution and the statutes now or hereafter enacted pursuant to the Constitution; provided, that the adoption of this amendment shall in no wise affect, limit, modify abridge or impair the power, authority or right of [illegible]

W. E. MARTIN DEFENDS TEACHERS RESOLUTIONS

Owing to the fact that there are so many misrepresentations abroad in the county concerning the resolutions adopted by the teachers of this county [illegible] recent Teachers Institute, [illegible] nothing [illegible] of the county [illegible] facts in connection [illegible] present during entire meeting and shall state [illegible] as I understand [illegible] County [illegible] of Education [illegible] with the teachers on afternoon of [illegible] day. Each member of the [illegible] I made a short pointed talk, which met with loud applause. The resolutions which have been so much c [illegible] read by Prof J. L. Harris, principle of the Thorsby Public School. After a brief [illegible] by Rev. Buford Lawrence, [illegible] of the [illegible] on High School, [illegible] Prof Ira P [illegible] the resolution were adopted by the 134 teachers. [illegible] olution was then offered [illegible] sed that we sign our names to the resolutions.

At no time during the adoption of these resolutions was there any evi [illegible] that Mr. J. L. Johnson did not have one word to say [illegible] the entire meeting, and if he was present I did not see him. The fact is that the steam roller that put these resolutions over has been rolling for several years in the administration of the schools of this county. Any other body or citizens in this county would have done just what we ignorant teachers did except a crowd of politicians. I declare upon my honor that this is a true statement of what took place in connection with the adoption of these resolutions, and offer the evidence of 133 other teachers to verify the same.

I want to say right here that if our people were as well satisfied with all our other county officials who are well [illegible] for what they do as they are [illegible] Howard Foshee, Billingsley, Callaway, Littlejohn, Dykes and Vines that it would not be necessary for them to be running around over the county begging the Republicans not to split their ticket. The most logical thing that most of our Republica nnominees could do would be to let our people know that they would appreciate their vote even though it might be on a split ticket. Who knows whether they want you to vote for them unless that you can hit it straight?

Yours truly,

WALTER E. MARTIN

JOHN H. ANDERSON WRITES

Calera, Ala., Oct. 26, 1922

Editor Chilton County News:

So much has been said about what happened at the Republican State Convention in Birmingham last September and as some seem to deny the statements made by Mr. Kelly Gentry as published in his letter to your paper, I will appreciate your giving me space to tell the people a few things about the Gentry matter

I was present at the State Convention [illegible] I have been hearing heretofore that the Judge was accustomed to pulling off such stunts in the conventions of our party and then come home and deny them but I did not believe the things they told on the Judge until I was present and saw his actions with my own eyes.

I am now reliably informed that the Judge says I am "two-faced" and I know of no reason for his making this statement except the fact that I am not willing to withhold the truth as to what happened at the State Convention. It was my purpose to remain silent except when asked directly as to what happened at the Convention, but as the Judge seems to be willing to cast aspersions at me and insinuate that I am unreliable, I am, therefore writing this letter that the people of the county may have the facts before them and if anyone doubts what I have said and would like to have further proof as to the truthfulness of Gentry's letter, if they will write Hon. Pope Long, Cordova, Ala., Ralph Callaway, Maplesville, Ala., L. A. Callaway, Clanton, Ala., and J. B. Atkinson, Clanton, Ala. they, I am quite sure, will substantiate my statements.

I want to say to the people of Chilton county that I believe in a fair deal to every man, in politics as well as in business, and I would like to know whether I am "two-faced" or the Judge. He went over this county a few years ago advocating a tick law but now says that he is against it. I told the truth about the convention. Who is it that is "two-faced"? The Judge found out that the tick law was unpopular and to make himself a complete political "band-wagon-hobo" he is not [illegible] to express his honest conviction on the issue and has left his "first-love" for the time being, but what would happen about the dipping business and who would be the next County Treasurer if the Judge were to [illegible]

The Judge said six years ago that he would never ask for another county office if the people would elect him then, he probably didn't mean that when he sair it and he might be mistaken again about this tick dipping business, and might change his mind and need a lawyer for county Treasurer.

THE PORT AMENDMENT

The following letter is self explaratory. Col. Middleton is here in the interest of that ammendment and we feel like it is a wise move for the people of Alabama to go into this thing.

It will not add to the taxes and will be one of the greatest possible assets in putting our farmers in direct touch with foreign markets for their cotton

We don't see how any voter can go wrong in supporting this ammendment Think it over and make up your mind to vote for it Nov 7.

Oct. 23, 1922

Mr. W. B. Corley,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Mr. Corley:

I wish you would be good enough to bring to the attention of the readers of your estimable paper the great importance of their voting for the Alabama Seaport Amendment on Nov [illegible] I will not ask that you give me space to enumerate all of the advantages that will accrue to all of the people of the State by its adoption, but w[illegible] say that the adoption of the amendment will not add a penny to the tax of any one. It will simply empower the Legislature to develop the State's only seaport, all such development to be and remain state owned and state controlled. The policy back of the proposed amendment is inherently sound, for in this day each State must be permitted to go forward and keep step with the progress of the times [illegible] to the injury and distress of the people.

As we all know, in the port of Mobile, Alabama, possess an asset of the greatest value, and its harbor is one of the finest in the world. Properly developed it will yield untold millions to the benefit of all our people, but this benefit cannot be realized unless the people, by their vote adopt the amendment.

As you know the issue is entirely non-partisan. It has been adopted by both the Democratic and Republican parties and it has the endorsement of both the Republican and Democratic nominees for govenor. I hope very much that the progressive citizens of Chilton county will be alert to their best interest and that they will give to this amendment a splendid majority.

Sincerely,

J. OSMOND MIDDLETON

Howard L. Foshee

Says it Would not be Disastrous to elect a good man Probate Judge

The People Should Select Their Best Men to Serve Them as Public Officials no Office Should be Held by a Political "Trickster" or "Crook"

The people demand a high standard of manhood or womanhood to occupy the places of trust in our government. There is no place for the political "trickster" or "crook" for the principles upon which our government was founded are too pure and sacred to be debauched by that type of man or woman, and therefore our government should not be run by political "tricksters" and "crooks", but by "good men." It is surprising to learn that there are some who would contend otherwise. For instance, in last week's issue of the Union-Banner there appeared an article headed "A COMPARISON OF MESSER AND REYNOLDS" in which there appears the following statement: "MR. MESSER IS COMPARATIVELY AN OLD MAN HAVNIG GIVEN HIS LIFE TO THE CAUSE OF THE GOSPEL. HE HAS NOT MIXED IN THE BUSINESS PART OF LIFE AND HE DOES NOT KNOW OF THE TRICKS AND CROOKEDNESS OF POLITICIANS AND WITHOUT ANY REFLECTION UPON HIM HE COULD NOT BE CAPABLE OF MANAGING THE OFFICE PROPERLY." Have we reached the point that a man before he is qualified to hold office must KNOW THE TRICKS AND CROOKEDNESS OF POLITICIANS?" Must he know these things before he is "CAPABLE OF MANAGING THE OFFICE PROPERLY?" There also appears the following statement in the same article: I DO NOT CAST ANY REFLECTION ON BROTHER MESSER, HE HAS SIMPLY PLACED HIMSELF BEFORE THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY TO BE ELECTED TO THE HIGHEST OFFICE TO MANAGE OUR COURTS, OUR ROADS AND OUR MONEY, AND I ASK YOU FRANKLY DO YOU BELIEVE HIM CAPABLE? YES, HE IS A GOOD MAN SO FAR AS I KNOW BUT I CAN FIND YOU HUNDREDS OF GOOD MEN IN THE COUNTY WHO IT WOULD BE A DISASTER. TO ELECT AS PROBATE JUDGE." Is it to be said that a "GOD MAN" is incapable of managing the affairs of a great county like ours? No reason whatever is assigned by the writer W. N. Thomas, in his article that to elect a "GOOD MAN", would be a disaster, but I say to these "hundreds of good people" together with the good women of this county, who believe in a high standard of Christian manhood and womanhood, that is is now high time for you to awake to the situation, investigate the conditions, and say by your honest and conscientious vote on Nov. 7th whether YOU believe that a man must "KNOW THE TRICKS AND CROOKEDNESS OF POLITICIANS" before he is qualified or is "CAPABLE OF MANAGING THE OFFICE PROPERLY." It is for you to say by your vote whether, that to elect a "GOOD MAN" would be a DISASTER to our county.

Mr. W. T. Bean said before the primary and while he was a candidate for Judge of Probate that the county under the administration of Judge Reynolds, had gone deeper in debt but it is very noticiable now that Mr. Bean is willing and anxious to join his opponent, who he said put the county in this condition, in electing him to office again. Was Bean right before the Primary or now? Is that the "POLITICAL TRICKERY" that Thomas was talking about? Mr. Bean further said before the Primary that he would pay a reward of $50 to anyone who could prove that the financial condition of the county is now in better shape than it was when Judge Reynolds took office six years ago. I want to ask him if he has ever been called on to pay this money? Or was he merely joking when he made that statement.

Mr Thomas in his article says: "I AM SORRY TO SEE THAT THERE WAS A TRAITOR IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY, BUT I AM GLAD WE FOUND HIM OUT IN TIME AND I TRUST HE WILL NOT BETRAY THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AS HE HAS THE REPUBLICAN. I WANT TO SEE PROFESSOR BEAN BACK IN HIS PLACE THEN THE PEOPLE WILL HAVE REGAINED THOSE RIGHTS WHICH HOWARD FOSHEE HAS TAKEN AWAY FROM THEM." I wish to say to you Mr. Thomas that I said in the outest of my entering into the discussion of the political issues of this county that I proposed to give the people the true facts as they exist in our party and I have endeavored to do this to the best of my ability, and if showing up the crookedness of "political tricksters" and giving these facts to the public and being loyal to my government and believing that we should have men not versed in the knowledge of political "TRICKS AND CROOKEDNESS" in office constitutes me a traitor then I am guilty. Yes you want Mr. Bean, back in my place because he will be more submissive to the Judge than I and because he is willing to go out before the people and say that the Judge is not a good manager of the county affairs and then in the next breath say that he is the man for the place in all-respects qualified for the high office of Judge of Probate. Probably Mr. Bean, has a better understanding and knows the "tricks and crookedness of politicians" than I, and is therefore "more capable of managing the office properly." My loyalty to this great government of ours prompts me to ever believe that its best interest demands that I advocate those things which will have a tendency toward putting men in office who are above "tricks and crookedness" and to be frank I think more of my country than of any political party or political office. I believe that when a political party fails to function properly and its officers fail to execute and put into operation the principals of that party, that it is time for the people to take such steps as are necessary to safeguard the best interest of their government.

Mr. Thomas you say that the financial condition of the county is better under the Reynolds administration than under Deason. You like many others have failed to read the figures as published by the Treasurer in his several reports and have taken the word of some fellow who knows the "TRICKS AND CROOKEDNESS OF POLITICIANS" as to what the county's financial condition is at present as compared to what it was at the beginning of Reynolds term six years ago. Bean said that the county was in a worse condition now than it was when Reynolds went in office and I am frank to say that Bean told the truth. Let us take a few facts and see, the taxes and revenues of the county for the past six years is approximately double that received during Deason's administration and yet we are more than $25,000.00 deeper in debt than we were when Reynolds took charge of the office six years ago. The only thing we have to show for this money is the "dipping-vats" which the people themselves were required to build without pay, and the court house which cost "ABOUT" $70,000. But lest we forget there was insurance on the old court house which was paid into the county treasury to the sum of $15,000 and if we deduct that from $34,000, which was the contract price for rebuilding the court house, we find that the county should have been out only $19,000 on the new court house instead of "ABOUT" $70,000.00. Then too remember that the county only furnished the cement in building the dipping vats and then filled them with water hauled by the people without pay and then after Dock Gentry's "bucking" Judge saw all the ticks march out of the county in batallions and regiments, the Judge then comes out and says that dipping cost the county "ABOUT" $40,000.00, and that he is now against the dipping of any more cattle, notwithstanding the fact that his Lieutenant, J. B. Wiggins, could not see those cattle ticks swimming Waxahatchee Creek back into Chilton.

After Mr. Wiggins had failed to see the ticks invade the territory along the northern line of the county, altho ugh he was paid a good salary to scrutenize the same, and the time to elect a Probate Judge approached, the quite recently defeated Commissioner D. H. Gentry says that Judge Reynolds "bucked", and as far as I know he is still "bucking" and has been so busily engaged in his "bucking" that he has not answered any one of the following questions which are very pertinent to the issues of the present time as regards our party and which I have requested that he ansyer.

Did Kelley Gentry charge in his letter that you or anyone voted in the State Convention to seat a negro? Will you show the people where Gentry made such a charge, either directly or by insinuation? What part of portion of Gentry's letter is untrue? What effect did the failure to seat the Gentry delegation have on the Republican organization in Montgomery county? Who is now chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Montgomery County? Is Geo. N. King, who was elected by the white Republicans of Montgomery County, now Chairman of the County Executive Committee, or is Geo. Newstell (colored) chairman? If the State Convention had voted to seat the Gentry delegation wouldn't that have recognized the white organization in Montgomery County headed by Mr. King When that convention refused to seat them didn't that recognize the Newstell (colored) organization? Is it demagogy for the white Republicans of Montgomry County to form an organization entirely stripped of the negro element? Didn't Mr. McKinney admit before the State Executive Committee that he voted in the Democratic Primary August 8th last? Wasn't he after this admission nominated by the Street-Kennamer-Reynolds forces for a place on the State Republican ticket? Didn't you promise the delegates to the County Convention that you would not fight J. B. Atkinson's going back on the Republican State Executive Committee? Then didn't you do this and nominate W. T. Bean in his place? Wasn't W. T. Bean defeated by the regular method of selecting Committeemen in the District Caucus on the morning of Sept. 7th? Then didn't you have his name placed on the list as the member from this county [illegible] the Committee? When his name [illegible] read out on the floor of the Convention as W. T. Bynum? didn't you [illegible] and state that it was meant for [illegible] Bean? Why was Mr. Atkinson objectionable to you and Mr. Street? Was it because he was an original Harding man? Wasn't Mr. Atkinson present when you voted not to seat the Montgomery delegation? Did you ask him one word about the merits of their case? Who told you the action of the State Committee was unanimous in refusing to seat the Montgomery delegation? Judge why did you not publish the letter you received from Hon. Pope M. Long along with that of Mr. O. D [illegible] the majority of the Republicans in this county show in the recent Primary that they wanted you for their [illegible]

I request the Judge to stop "bucking" long enough to answer the foregoing questions or if he is not "bucking" to stop "fighting" or if not that to stop "paddling his own canoe" or if he is not doing that to put the lid on the "skillet" and give the people of this county a true answer to each of the above questions. Don't come out with that "old-line" that someone accused you of voting to seat a negro and that it is a lie. Give the people a fair answer which they are entitled to have

Mr. D. H. Gentry, the recently defeated candidate for Commissioner seems to be very much perturbed over the affairs of our county, however, he does not tell the people that we are now under quarantine and unable to ship any cattle out of the county. If Mr. Gentry is so well informed as to the political condition and is so thoroughly convinced that I could not "be elected a Constable in any Beat in the County by popular vote" it does seem that he would himself have used some of this reasoning prior to Aug 8th 1922 before [illegible] him where to [illegible]

It does seem to me that Mr. Gentry who has so much to say about the Clanton Democrats and their "ring gang" rule would tell the people of this county and especially the true loyal, patriotic, and unde filed Republicans why it was that the Commissioners Court elected one of these Clanton Democrats to the office of County Treasurer. Mr. Gentry you state that I filed a bill for st[illegible] with the Commissioners Court who refused to pay it and that I then brought suit against the county. You then say "We did not have to pay the bill." Do you mean that the county did not have to pay it? If so you are wrong because Case No. 3677 of the Circuit Court of Chilton County styled Howard [illegible] Chilton County contains the following judgment. March 18, 1921. This day came the parties in this cause and issue being joined in said cause thereupon came a jury of good and lawful men to-wit: S. M. Yates, Jr., Foreman and eleven others who upon their oaths say--We the [illegible] find for the Plaintiff [illegible] his damages at $23.17" and [illegible] County paid this judgement. I say further to you Mr Gentry that your other [illegible] with reference to stamps a[illegible] iture bill and my having filed a bill for a football game [illegible] to mislead the people as the one just above regarding the suit against the [illegible]

Mr. Gentry says that the [illegible]

How To Fix Your Ticket

1st. If you want to vote for every candidate on either ticket make a Cross Mark X below the Emblem.

2nd. If you want to vote for every one on one ticket, except one candidate, you may either mark each candidate separately, or you may mark under the emblem and then strike out, by running a line thru the name of the ONE CANDIDATE you do not want to vote for, and then make a cross mark before such candidate on the other ticket.

To illustrate should you wish to vote for every candidate on the Republican ticket, except the candidate for some one office and you wanted to vote for the democratic candidate for that office, you might mark under the Republican emblem and then run a line thru the name of the candidate you did not want to vote for on the Republican ticket and make a mark before the name of the Democratic candidate for such office.

3rd If you want to leave off and not vote for some candidate or candidates, you may mark only such candidates as you wish to vote for or you may mark under the party emblem and then strike out by running a line thru the names of the candidates you do not want to vote for and this has the legal effect of leaving such candidates blank.

The following is a copy of the code sections relative to marking ballots, taken from Code of Alabama of 1907.

381. TO VOTE A STRAIGHT PARTY TICKET. If the elector desires to vote a straight party ticket, that is, for, each and every candidate for one party for whatever office nominated, he shall mark a X cross mark in the circle under the name of the party at the head of the ticket.

382. TO VOTE FOR ONE CANDIDATE NOT ON PARTY TICKET. When only one candidate is to be elected to any office and the elector desires to vote for a candidate not on his party ticket, he may make a cross mark X before the name of the candidate for whom he desires to vote on the other ticket.

383. TO VOTE FOR TWO OR MORE CANDIDATES ON DIFFERENT TICKETS. When two or more candidates are to be elected to the same office and [illegible] desires to vote [illegible] dates on different tickets for such offices, he may make a X cross [illegible] before the names of the candidates for whom he desires to vote on the other [illegible], and must also erase an equal number of names of candidates on [illegible] ticket for the same office for whom he does not desires to vote.

384. TO VOTE A SPLIT TICKET. If the elector desires to vote a split [illegible] for candidates of different [illegible] make a X mark [illegible] before the name of each candidate [illegible] desires to vote [illegible] be

[illegible] TO VOTE [illegible] BLANK FOR [illegible] OFFICER OR OFFICERS ON TICKET. The elector can vote blank [illegible] office on his party ticket by making a cross X mark in the circle at the top of the ticket and striking out with a pencil or pen the name or names of the candidate he does not [illegible]

PROFESSOR IRA PEGUES

Replies to Charges Made by Judge L. H. Reynolds.

Ever since the attack was made upon the Resolutions adopted by the county teachers, I have been besieged by first one teacher, then another to speak out on the subject. If the Judge had not seen fit to indulge in his favorite pastime of calling people names and had not thereby dragged me into the issue, I had no intention to write until after the election. I had planned to explain then the position upon which I stand regarding the teachers Resolutions. But now since the Judge from his high and mighty assumed throne of unlimited power has condescended to look down upon the common walk of life where I am and has made insinuating charges against the school where I teach, I deem it my duty to defend not myself but the school

Personally, I am not moved from the even way upon which I tread by the thunderous epithets of this high and mighty lord who rules or thinks he rules Chilton County with an iron hand. If he gets any pleasure out of his tirade of vituperation I sit back and yell "Rave on." I think though that there is coming a day when he will be made to realize that even the humble creatures who walk on the common plane with me sometimes get tired of the ranting of even the high and mighty lord of Chilton County. Time will tell.

The Judge insinuated and almost said that the Clanton School was getting more of the funds than it was entitled to get I have picked out forty schools in the county, that are scattered fairly well over the entire county Some of these in the communities where the Judge has a strong influence I submit to the people the facts and will let them judge for themselves how the Clanton school stands in the list. Notice that I have given the name of the school district, the number of pupils in the district, the amount spent by the county board from the general fund—not local three mill tax fund, and the amount spent per pupil in the district out of the general fund. Several schools have a local three mill tax which belongs to the said district after the money from the general fund is divided. Notice that Thorsby is the only school in the list that received less than Clanton per pupil, and it is a town school, not one of the neglected rural schools that the Judge is so interested in Verbena, a town school-a consolidated school, receives a higher rate than some of the others, but the reason for that is easily seen

Verbena runs a high school through the 10th grade so as to give some pupils a chance to get a high school education that could not come to the county high school. It costs more to run high school grades than it does the elementary grades. Isabella, a Rural Junior High School is another proof of that fact. The list follows. Read for yourself and be convinced

The high and mighty lord, the self-appointed dictator of Chilton County commonly known as Judge Reynolds seems suddenly to have a deep love for the schools. I wonder if the people of Chilton county remember how much he helped to get the county high school I wonder if they do not have a slight recollection of his trying to get some subscribers to cancel their subscription. I wonder what kind of schools we would have if he should be in charge of them I also wonder what in the "Samhill" the Probate Judge has to do with the school system anyway I wonder if the Judge still thinks the people will believe there was no war, that the boys never went across the sea, that it was all a frame up. I wonder if he thinks the people are going to drink down any kind of stuff handed out to them. Lincoln said that a person might fool all the people part of the time, part of the people, all the time, but not all the people all the time.

This same high and mighty lord of Chilton county seems to think that if a person is a teacher, he has no right to have any voice in the affairs of Nation, State or County. The teacher has as much right as any other person who is paid from the public fund. If a teacher has no right, then the Judge himself has no right, for his salary comes out of the peoples tax money just the same as does the salary of the teacher. If the teacher, who is paid from the public funds, has no right to express his views as a private citizen then every man who draws his salary from the peoples money, or as the Judge might say, the DEAR PEOPLE'S money ought not to have any right to speak his views. The other public servants have been bold enough to go ahead anyway, while the teacher has held back. I just wonder if the Judge would have any objections to a teacher entering politics, if the teacher would work for Reynolds.

I do not know what the Judge meant when he called me a 2-by-4 school teacher. But since 4-by-4 would be square, I am presuming that he meant I am HALF SQUARE. Everybody knows the Judge can not make a political speech without calling somebody names, so I am not worrying. I was trained in a Christian home and taught that because a man said something about me THAT DID NOT MAKE IT TRUE. ALLTHE VITUPERATION THE JUDGE MAY HEAP ON ME IN HIS SPEWING-OUT DOES NOT MAKE ME ANY LESS A MAN THAN I AM BEFORE HE SPEWS FORTH.

So mote it be until JUDGEMENT day, November 7th.

THE REASON WHY

We learn that Judge Reynolds has been manifesting a great deal of wonder and surprise that the democrats did not put out some speakers and assist him in his campaign of misrepresentation and mud slinging. He tries to leave the impression that democrats would be afraid to meet him on the stump in a discussion of the questions of the day. Such a insinuation as that is vastly amusing to all the intelligent people in Chilton county. An egotism like that is simply monumental. What does he imagine he carries in his repetoire of political stump thunder that would make any honest citizen afraid to meet him? The only result that any one could assimulate from listening at one of his fervid efforts at a camouerflage of the truth would be a nasty, dark brown taste in the mouth.

But even that little space is more than we intended to devote to the Judge, so we will pass on to the reasons why we have not made the county ring with oratory from center to circumference.

If you remember when we first entered this campaign we announced more than once, that we believed the people of Chilton county were fed up and gorged on bitter campaigns of vituperation, filth, lies and mud-slinging. We have had no reason to change our mind and we have lived absolutely up to our intentions then formed.

We felt then and we feel yet like the people of Chilton county are competent to look at the facts and issues put before them fairly and calmly and to make up their verdict without being lambasted and disgusted with a lot of oratorical bull that is not intenedd to do a thnig in the world but muddle up the situation and confuse the people until they do not know or care what they do.

A vote of good cool common sense without any personalities or hard feelings is what the democrats want. If any body in Chilton County has fallen out with the democratic party during this campaign it has been on account of misrepresentations of the truth they have listened to and not on real grounds. We have put our platform before you. We have given you a ticket of irreproachable clean men to vote for and we have earnestly pled with you to come and go with us because we believe we are right but we have not called any of you ugly names nor refused to meet you as a friend because you can not see it like we do. You are entitled to your opinion as well as we are to ours and no one recognizes that fact any more than we do.

No one can truthfully say that the democrats of Chilton county have attempted, in a single instance, to deceive any one ni regard to single question or issue. We have refraimed from stirring up strife in every part of the county. We have an abiding confide in the righteousness of our cause. We have faith in the intelligence and justice of the voters of Chilton county and we have striven, in every instance, in season and out of season, to appeal to them as reasonable and rational citizens, and if a campaign of that kind fails to win we shall be disappointed but our conscience will be void of any sting for slanders, lies, calumnies, indecencies and willful insults hurled at people because they saw fit to differ with us.

The democrats are going to close this campaign just as they have conducted it on a high moral plain of truth and honesty. Go to the polls next Tuesday and vote your honest convictions from your heart is all we ask.

W. B. CORLEY.

Owing to a press of "other business" this week our News department is rather shy. Will do better hereafter.

We sometimes almost feel like it is a pity that a man can make his tongue say anything he pleases

Seems like our county is drifting into anarchy when a man is held up on the streets and abused for expressing a truth patent to the world.

It would take a good size catachism to contain all of the unanswered questions certain candidates in Chilton county have been asked to answer.

If the game is running against you don't get mad and want to fight. That's a dead give away. Everybody will know you are a looser then.

As we have said before, the day of the mud-slinging politician in Chilto county has passed. Nov. 7th will see their sun set for the last time.

If living came as easy to some people as lying they never would die, and then this old world would be ruined.

Had you ever thought what a convinent thing it was to be located next to an Undertaker? When any of your objectional friends die you can always be on hand to act as pall bearer.

Us poor old democrats of Chilton county hav'nt done a thing to anybody but the atmosphere is benig kept putrid with the slime and filth that is being thrown at us. But when we consider the source it only makes us laugh.

The fishing season is gone and we didn't get to go a single time. The bird season is approaching and we, dare say, we will not have any better luck there. But that's all right. We used to go in South Florida where both fish and game were plentiful and we can rare back and tell just as big a lie as any of the rest of them.

OUR THANKS

Since last week some of our friends have remembered us again. Mr. W. S. Willis brought us a lot of extra fine Porta Rica Yams that didn't look like either the boll wevil nor the dry weather had done a thing to them. They were as fine as you ever saw.

Then, Mr. J. B. Marlar come along and unloaded two potatoes for us that looked like a whole patch of potatoes might have been moulded into just these two. They were the largest we have seen in years.

Then our next Probate Judge, Rev. C. D. Messer, sent us a bundle of extra fine Sugar Cane. So you see, all is not "gall and wormwood" in the country editors life. Thanks, to you all.

SERIOUSLY SICK

We regret to announce that Mr. Lonza Williams, who lives at the cornor of second avenue and West Street is reported to be quite seriously ill this week.

Mr. Williams has many relations and friends in this section who will be sorry to learn of his condition.

We earnestly hope he may soon recover and be again on the job.

NEW BUSINESS FIRM

We are pleased to note this week that Mr. Foshee, who has been conducting a large sho and dry goods business at Thorsby, has consolidated his stock with Mr. Wiley Littlejohn and is going in business here with Mr. Littlejohn in the future.

They are opening up this week, and have a splendid assortment of shoes, Dry Goods, and Groceries on hand.

We hope they meet with success and we are glad to welcome Mr. Foshee in to the business circles of Clanton.

A REPUBLICAN WRITES

S. M. EDWARDS TELLS SOME PLAIN TRUTHS

Thorsby, Ala., Nov. 1st, 1922
Editor Chilton County News:

Please give me space to say a few words in regard to the present campaign that is about to close. There have been some very hard things said about those that have refused to follow Judge Reynolds and do his bidding but I am perfectly willing to put up with that so long as I feel like I am doing the right thing. I am fighting deception and the deception motive that is involved in this campaign.

Let us see just what has been 'dosed' out to us. Whether we swallowed it up or not the Judge entered the race for reelection with a little pamphlet that told us of the wonderful achievements of his administration and that if we continue this course in a very few years we would be out of debt. Soon after Mr. J. Bice, Treasurer of Chilton County, came out with his report showing the true condition of the county and behold there was a variation of around $50'000.00 between the Peabody report and the report of Mr. Bice. Next comes Mr. Will Bean. I will ask you Mr. Reader to refer to Mr. Bean's letter of August 2nd. and see what Mr. Bean had to say at that time in the Union-Banner in regard to the condition of our county and then decide who was right. Don't you know if Mr. Bean had not been right he would have lost that $50 in gold? Sure he would. The fact is we are at least $25,000.00 deeper in debt than we were six years ago and if the roads and bridges are in as bad condition throughout the county as they are in this section of the county it will take $7,000.00 to put them back as good as they were six years ago. Some are really too dangerous to cross on and somethnig must be done or we will have to go to wading the creeks. Now this isn't a very commendable record for the "old master".

Mr. Bean criticised the Judges figures on the building of the court house and dipping the cattle although I understand he is now lying up to the Judge like a "sick kitten to a hot brick." How he can do this I can't understand unless "old master" has promised him some pie in the future but I think the Judge will be through handing out his pie on November 7th yes he will be a "dead cock in the pit." Messer will spur him to his "gizzard" on the 7th. I don't think I am "sinning against the Holy Ghost" by supporting Brother Messer, if I am I am not by myself by a jug-full for there are lots that are going to do likewise. They can't stand that pole-cat and the pole-cat can't stand Reynolds Now the gentleman in the Union-Banner that tried to tell us about what the letters "R": "M" and "D" stood for. There are a few other things that starts with "R", RING-RULE.

The Judge says it is a great political crime for a Republican to support a Democrat, yet he can appoint a Democrat Treasurer and decline to accept the nomination for Governor of Alabama tendered him by the Republicans in favor of the Democratic nominee Governor Kilby. I don't know whether there was a pole-cat in that nomination or not but any way he declined to accept in Kilby's favor. So we are just following suit. We have as much right to vote for a good democrat as he has to retire in one's favor and appoint one to office.

There has been a lot said about what the Democrats have done to Chilton County, when in fact the Democratic party has not been in power in Chilton County since the days of Callen, the nearest they have been in power was the Probate Judge and one Commissioner. If we are to blame the Democrats, then if we are to be fair we must blame the Republicans for electing the Commissioners that helped Deason to make those debts for it is a fact that the Republicans held the balance of power throughout Deason's administration and it is just as reasonable to say that the Republicans will elect more men that will go wrong as to say the Democrats will eelct another Deason. Why not be fair and just and say both sides went wrong? A commissioner is not worthy of his pay that won't back his own best judgement or as the old saying goes "stand in his own shoes and waive his own hat." We the Republican party put those Commissioners there and I think we are more to blame than the Democrats, although we all enjoyed Judge Deason's good roads and bridges. We cuss him and the Commissioners for building them One thing Judge Deason did, HE GAVE A MAN JUSTICE IN HIS COURT REGARDLESS OF THE "FINE AND FORFITURE FUND".

Three cheers for Howard L. Foshee boys. Everybody go to the polls and vote on the 7th.

Yours truly.
S. M. EDWARDS.

WHO CAN WITHOLD FROM SPEAKING

I am no politician but, I have seen so many things in the papers trying to mislead the people I can not sit still any longer. When L. H. Reynolds announced for re-election the third time he soon sent out a circular stating what he had done and the condition of the County; I was told by a man that was in position to know that it was the most misleading thing he ever saw. Somebody said when L. H. Reynolds left the office twelve years ago he left $10,000 in the Treasury and the County out of debt. Soon after E. B. Deason was elected, he published the condition of the County and showed that the money in the Treasury would not pay the debts that Judge Reynolds had made and nobody denied it. Somebody said that Judge Reynolds had greatly decreased the debt of the County since he came in the last time and it was a shame a while back that the County was $5000.00 deeper in debt than it was six years ago and nobody denied it, but at last the Union-Banner fails to publish anything that brings forth the facts and let the people know the condition, and not try to slip a man into office on false pretense. You may fool all the people a while and some of them all the time but you can't fool all the people all of the time. As to partyism I have long since doubted the reality of a Republican party in Chilton. The people have listened to office seekers whose platform is get there Eli. I do not understand how a southern man can be a Republican if he will stop and think. It makes me sore when I hear anybody wheesing the Democratic party it makes me think of an ungodly boy cursing his mother who gave him birth and took care of him when he could not take care of him self. I do not approve of everything the Democratic party does, everybody makes mistakes. Gentlemen what would have been the condition of this country if it hadn't been for the Democratic party You would have been sending your children to school with the negroes; you would have been sitting on the Jury with negroes; you would have negro officers and if you had a case in Court you would be tried by the negro. I am sure there is but few men in this county who favor these things but when you vote a Republican ticket you are helping the crowd that does just as I said about the fellow who voted against the Prohibition Amendment if he didn't favor whiskey, he helped the fellow who did. I saw in the Union-Banner where Mr. Dudley Collins said he didn't have any confidence in the man who wouldn't stick to his party. I have always given Mr. Collins credit for being a more conservative man than to make such assertions as that. I have heard both Democrats and Republicans say that if the party could nominate a yellow dog they could vote for him. I want to say to Mr. Collins there are plenty of men in Chilton County on both sides just as honest as you are that will not vote for a yellow dog just because the party nominates him. I hope the people will march to the polls the 7th of November and elect a man to execute the moral law in Chilton County whose christian and moral character can not be assailed.

A LOVER OF RIGHTEOUSNESS

C. REESE MULLINS URGES DEMOCRATS TO STAND PAT.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 30,th 1922.
Editor Chilton County News:
Clanton, Alabama.
My dear sir:

On August the 8th the Primary election settled the question of the nominee of the two political parties, in this and other Counties of the State where the same conditions exist as do here. Of coures in most of the Counties, and practically all of them, no such conditions exist, and the Primary ends the fight. Primaries, naturally bring disappointment to many of us, and we are at loss to understand the result many times, but as above stated this settles the question we should not allow our political faith to become contaminated, influenced, or prejudiced, by any religeous faith, independant opinion, or secret organizations.

The Democratic party has given me a thorough purging, and they may wish to destroy this body of mine politically, but if so, I wish to say to them that as it goes down, they can never shake my faith in the Principals of the grand old Democratic party and my faith in Woodrow Wilson, I regret exceedingly to know that some five hundred of our Democratic voters did not vote in the Primary, feeling sure, if they had in all probability I would have been nominated. I want to thank my friends who did support me and extend to them my sincere appreciation of their loyalty. I want to say to those who did not vote that by all means they should not allow this to happen again, we need you, and you know we must have your vote and influence if we ever expect to succeed.

Come out next Tuesday and bring all them good old Republican friends of ours, who are willing to help us. You Democrats, must come out and vote whether you voted in the Primary or not. I have no patience, and but very little respect, for any voter, who will not stand by, and do his, or her full duty at this time. We do not need, as stated before, but the one party in this great and God given country of ours. We should all be marching together, hand in hand, under the great flag of one hundred per cent white.

There is no danger of any man continuing in office in this country who does not prove himself, competent and worthy. Now in conclusion, I want to request you to go to the polls next Tuesday, and helping to land a great victory for good government. That you do not fail to vote for the Seaport Amendment. There is "no ifs, no an's and no buts" about this but it is the proper thing to do, and I will meet you there.

Respectfully
C. REESE MULLINS

A THING OF BEAUTY

The New filling station was put in operation this week and it is indeed a dandy. Art and elegance have been splendidly combined there with ser vice and convenience and the propri- tors have added to the many other at- tractive features of Clanton, a corner that is not only jam up to the minute as an auto service station, but is a thing of beauty to be admired by all.

We congratulate Messers. Ellis and Sons on the splendid achievement of their plans and trust that they may be crowned with a success even greater than their most sanguine expectaions.

THE SAME OLD WAY

Clanton, Ala Nov. 2, 1922

To the editor of the News:

This letter is inspired by the fact that Judge Reynolds tried to play one of his usual crooked tricks on me. He goes strong on telling half a truth to prove an untruth. There is not one sentiment of fairness in his whole system

Nearly a month ago I wrote a letter on the political race in our county. Judge Reynolds instead of playing the game fair and replying promptly and giving me a chance to reply he waits until the last issue of the paper to write his letter. It was only that your paper is out one day late that I have a chance to reply at all.

The Judge tries to leave the impression that it is only because he turned a nigger loose that I was prosecuting, that I am against him. This is absolutely false and he knows it. I wrote him a letter which he published, and which letter stated fully my position on the nigger case. Why didn't he publish that.

This morning I offered to deposit with him $50.00 for the privilege of copying that letter, that the people might know the facts but this he refused. Does he want the voters to know the facts. Certainly not. He as usual is publishing part of the correspondence, thus misrepresenting, as usual, and he is afraid to come clean and let the folks know the truth in this matter as in most everything else.

At one time this year I thought that I would support Judge Reynolds for Probate Judge. I took this stand on his representation that the County's debt was only $190.000.00 and that he was reducing the debt. I found however, that this was far from the facts, and that the debt was at that time right at $250.000.00 and many many thousands deeper in debt than when he took office, even tho the taxes have more than doubled. I think that this one thing-this one misrepresentation is reason enough for any man to drop the Judge and that it is the duty of every good citizen who regards the truth and the interest of the county to Vote against L H. Reynolds next Tuesday.

Yours very truly
S. M. EDWARDS

CHEAPER LIGHTS

Birmingham, Ala. Oct. 27-1922

Mr. Thomas W. Martin, President of the Alabama Power Company, today made the following statement:

"The Alabama Power Company today filed with the Public Service Commission a revised schedule of lighting rates under which the steps in the present rate are so changed that there will be a substantial reduction in the lighting rates of all users over thirty killowatt per month.

"We also filed with the Commission a new schedule for a combined lighting, cooking and heating rate for domestic use which will be a substantial reduction over the present rates now in effect.

We have filed the new rates because of the growing demand throughout the state for the use of electricity in the homes for a variety of uses and especially for cooking purposes. This reduction will apply to approximately 20,000 customers of this Company.

A FINAL WORD FROM REV. C. D. MESSER.

To the Voters of Chilton County.

Upon the eve of the lecetion, I desire to express my gratitude to the voters of the county for the uniform courtesy extended to me by them as I have met them in their homes; in their fields, and at theirvarious places of business, during the campaign which is now about to be brought to a close. If elected Probate Judge of Chilton county, I shall go into the office with not a blot or blemish upon my good name so far as I am aware of, in my own knowledge or from heresay, and when I leave the office at the end of my term, I shall carry with me a record that will not have deprived me of that good name which is "rather to be chosen than much riches." In the administration of the affairs of the office I shall employ but one Counsellor and Advisor, my conscienceness or honesty econmy and justice to my fellow man, and it is upon this platform that I announced my candidacy and it is upon this platform that I shall remain and upon this platform and upon no other, do I seek the aid of every good citizen of Chilton county, regardless of his political faith or creed.

Respectfully,
C. D. MESSER.

WHAT CHIROPRACTORS DO.

This is a mechanical science and not a system of medical or faith cure.

They repair the different organs of the human machine like a mechinist repairs the different organs of the Mechanical machine.

They do not do their work by guess, but like a trained machinist, they have to possess exact scientific knowledge of the work to be successful.

They learn the business of repairing the human machine at scientific Institutions thoroughly equiqqed to teach, and must be perfect in this in[illegible] and exact science before they are given permission to go to work.

By repairing the worn or defective parts of the human machine they cause it to function properly, and when it does that disease can not exist and perfect health results.

They treat successfully, without knife or physic all such diseases as, appendicitis, paralysis, high blood pressure, fevers, female troubles, kidney affections, rheumatism, flue, hay fever, asthma, tuburcular affections, stomach and intestinal troubles, headache, and all other abnormalties of the human body.

and "bucking" Judge is a good financier and is always on the job and that he always takes the side of the tax payers. Prof. Bean was wrong before the primary or else the Judge and his Democratic Examiners fabricated the record. Yes indeed the Judge is always on the side of the tax payers but he happens to be on the "money-side" and is always "paddling his canoe", "fighting," and "bucking" for his dollar for himself and family and if Mr. Gentry would have carried out his pledge that he made four years ago that if he was elected that he would vote to elect a County Treasurer not related to the Reynolds family no doubt his standing politically would have been quite different today. Yes Mr. Gentry, the Judge is some financier He is a "humdinger" for didn't he together with yourself and the other Commissioners pay Grady Reynolds and Thomas A. Curry $750 to bring a law-suit against the Town of Clanton and did not recover one penny and had to pay the cost besides? Don't you know this is the truth and don't you further know that the Town Council offered as a compromise $500? The records of the Town of Clanton show that they secured a lawyer who won their case over Grady Reynolds and Thos. A. Curry for a fee of $175. The Judge was certainly on the side of the tax payers when he was riding over this county begging them to vote to dip their cattle, when he was pending "ABOUT" $70,000 for a court house, when the contract was originally for about one-half that amount and when he paid out "ABOUT" $40 000 for cattle dipping and today we are under a quarantine the same as we were before this money was spent notwithstanding the fact that all along we were paying Mr. Wiggins and others to guard our borders and their salary was sufficient for them to have devoted their entire time to the work if Mr. Wiggins had perfromed his duty instead of campaigning for certain candidates we would not have had so much of this "bucking".

The people of this county have the facts of the condition politically before them and know the past record of the "bucking" Judge, and those who would have us believe that he is THE Republican party of this county have endeavored to convince the people that he is the logical man for Probate Judge and have endeavored to make the people believe that I was fighting him and the editor of the Union-Banner because that I might fear the passage of a bill making the County Superintendent elective by a popular vote. I want to say to the people [illegible] and sincerity that I FAVOR THE ELECTION BY POPULAR VOTE OF EVERY STATE AND COUNTY OFFICIAL. Not only do I favor the election of the Superintendent of Education by popular vote but the County Treasurer and County Solicitor as well As far as being County Superintendent of Education is concerned, the job is one that requires an abundance of work and the salary is smaller than that of any county official that is now elected by the people. Mr. H. A. Har[illegible] advocated the same thing during [illegible] campaign for Probate Judge and I supported him. My motive in fighting Judge Reynolds has been stated several times and that I may be specific and clearly understood I again repeat that I am not in favor of him being eelcted Probate Judge because he is inclined to be dominering toward those who do not submit to his dictations politically; because he strives to keep the political and county offices in the hands of his family and [illegible] whom he can control; because the old figures show that his administration has not been beneficial to the tax payers of the county because his actions in the recent State Republican Convention were such as would convince any reasonable man that he was willing for the sake of getting his own son Grady Reynolds appointed U. S. District Attorney to sacrifice the best interest of the Rpublican Party and deprive a white man, who was fighting a negro organization, a seat in that convention; because he as Chairman of the Commissioners Court appointed a "Clanton Democrat" County Treasurer; because he told the people six years ago that he would not again ask for office; because he advised the people prior to the Primary that if they voted a second choice vote that it would kill their first choice, when he knew that it would not do so because he was not nominated by a majority of the Republicans in the Primary; and because I do not believe in perpetuating any one man in office.

As far as my fighting Mr. Wyatt, I also want to say to the people that I had no fight to make on him whatever but that he preached his own political funeral when he refused Kelley Gentry and any other Republican the right to express their views through the columns of his paper.

Much has been said with reference to my acts in writing these letters and I have been branded as a traitor and compared to Benedict Arnold and that I was posing as a leader or bolter but I want to say in conclusion that I have my own convictions and ideas as to political principles and the qualifications of men for public office and that I have a right to express them. The future welfare of our county depends largely upon the type of manhood and womanhood whom we shall place in the public offices and the selections of these officials is to a certain extent left with the good women of the county. The officers you select are the examples that you hold out before your boys and girls and their future life and best interest demand honest and mature consideration on your part in making this selection. The duty devolves upon your shoulders and not mine. I am endeavoring to discharge my duty to the best interest of the people and I can do no more than that. Who will YOU select, a "GOOD MAN" or a man that knows the "TRICKS AND CROOKEDNESS OF POLITICIANS?"

Very respectfully,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE

H. T. LITTLEFIELD BEAT 1

I hear that the report is being circulated that the Democrats of Chilton County are paying me to use my influence against Judge Reynolds in the present campaign.

While I am a full blood Republican I am not going to support Judge Reynolds this time as a matter of principle because I do not honestly think he is the choice of a majority of our party and do not approve of his methods of Campaigning either now nor before the Primary.

So far as being in the employ of the Democrats, or anyone else politically, it affords me pleasure to be able to brand that statement as a full grown falsehood made out of whole cloth. There is not a word of truth in that report no more than there is in the person who put it out.

H. T. LITTLEFIELD

WHY WE ARE DEMOCRATS

Clanton, Ala., October 17 1922.

We wish to say to the Voters of Chilton county through The Chilton County News that we have heard the Tick question discussed in this County and some people say we will have to dip our cattle again.

Judge Reynolds says he will go to jail before he will agree to dipping cattle again in Chilton County. We want to say if the Judge feels this way about the dipping question after pending thounands of dollars out of the County Treasurer, and getting the County clear of ticks, why did Judge Reynolds and The County Commissioners allow the County line between Chilton and Shelby to become tick infested again.

We understand that Mr. Wiggins has been drawing a salary from the County treasurer this year to look after the north side of Chilton, and protect it from the cattle tick, and see that no cattle come in to Chilton from Shelby County which is a tick infested County, and we live on the Chilton side up and down the line, and Mr. Wiggins is hardly known in this work, and drawing a salary to look after it, from the County, and the records will show that he has drawn a salary this year.

We were all opposed to dipping cattle a few years ago when it was forced on us, and are opposed to it yet, but to comply with the law we took our cattel and dipped them, and now cattle has been allowed to come in to our County from Shelby, and infested some of our territory and who is to blame for it?

Mr Wiggins was a good political friend of Judge Reynolds, and for this reason he was given the job, drawing the Counties money and now it seems that the entire County must suffer, financially and even deprived of shipping their cattle to market causing a loss of thousands of dollars to the cattle owners of Chilton county.

We want each citizen of Chilton county to know just why the Quarantine was put on in this county; Judge Reynolds would have you believe the Democrats did it, but we want to inform the Republicans of our county that it was not done by the Democrats this time.

We have always voted the Republican ticket, and worked and supported the Nominee, but in November we are going to make some changes. We cannot follow this administration any further, and endorse their actions.

Our side of the County is not very good farming but a very fine cattle range, and now we are deprived from shipping our cattle to market, and having to suffer on account of negligence of the County officials. Think well before you cast your ballot, and vote for the good of the county.

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

The reporter has one regret. That he can not write 400 present. Looked like it until secretary Ross announced only 322 present, "Failure" you say but was it? Yes in desired numbers, but not in spirit. Several classes confessed that they forgot and fell down on the job. Here we may see the meaning of the clause "If we only had."

We need to realize the truth that "not failure but low aim is crime". Next Sunday we have an opportunity to do our duty. Bear with us again to repeat "WORK WILL WIN."

I forgot, you forgot, we forgot is why Ross reported only 322 present.

CLANTON NEEDS MORE HOUSE ROOM

You would all be surprised if you knew how many inquires came to us in regard to house room in Clanton.

It is almost a daily occurrence for us to have applications from people who want us to assist them in getting a house to live in here. There is a wide spread desire among people away from here who wish to move in.

One hundred new houses could be filled up almost as fast as they could be built.

Everything inhabitable in and around Clanton is filled up. What are we going to do?

MRS DOCK FOSHEE DEAD

We are sorry to announce this week that Mrs. Dock Foshee, age 31, who lived about 2 miles south West of Clanton, died at her home last Saturday and was burired the following day at Samaria. Rev. Murphee officiating.

WHAT ABOT THE SMALL POX?

We keep hearing it rumored that small pox was prevalent in some of the rural districts and that a case or so had shown up in town. Is there anything to it? The general public should be informed.

WHY NOT BE HAPPY

Cotton is worth 25 cents. The Democrats have swept the country. Possums are ripe and a full crop made. Taters are large, sweet and plentiful. The sun is still shining and the Lord still rules-except in Winston and maybe Chilton. Whats the use to worry?

THINK OF IT.

Syrup boilings are in order now. Candy pullins are on the string The soft southern breezes and lovely harvest moonbeams that are in evidence now make spooning, billing and cooing a dream. Go to it, boys and girls, you will never be young but once.

All you had to do Tuesday night to get on a good comfortable jag was to walk down second avenue and inhale the fumes being exhaled by some of the interested election crowd. There was no disorder, however, so we imagine the booze did not come from Coosa. They make fighting stuff over there.

JUDGE S. M. ADAMS A BIG WINNER

The race for State Senator from this district between Judge S. M. Adams, democrat, and Col. Percy Pitts, republican, seems to have been very one-sided.

Judge Adams carried both Shelby and Autauga counties by good majorities and the result in this county is known to be close.

The next Senate will not have a cleaner nor more fearless man in its make up than Judge Adams, nor one who will more consistently stand up for the people against all corporate greed. We are proud of our Senator

A NICE CURTESY

Mr. Wade, proprietor of the Wadesonian Theatre, put on a splendid show Tuesday night and without additional cost to the audience, he had the election returns from Chilton county flashed on the screen as they came in from 7 to 11 o'clock that night.

This was a service that was up-to date and a great source of convenience and pleasurer, especially to the ladies, who could sit in comfort and read the returns in the first general election they have participated in. We owe Mr. Wade thanks.

There is a United States law on "Just Weights and Measures" that is pretty drastic. It says when you sell anything by the pound it must be certain to weigh the full number of ounces or you can be sent up for a term of years and find heavily besides. A sack of flour must weigh out the full number of pounds marked on the sack, or you are guilty. A block of butter must weigh 16 ounces if you call it a pound and so on. It is well to remember this for somebody might turn you up and then you would have some trouble.

BE SURE you get the right man to mark your ticket.

BAPTIST SOON TO ASSEMBLE IN TWO GREAT STATE WIDE MEETINGS

The Baptist State Convention will convene in Cullman, Alabama, November 14-17 inclusive, and the State Baptist W. M. U. Convention convenes in Dothan, Alabama, November 21-23

It is said the entertainment committee of the church at Cullman is making elaborate preparations expecting as many as 500 people from all parts of Alabama to visit their city at that time. The Cullmanites, who claim to have the only "white city in the state", have been put on tehir mettle and it is said they propose to entertain the big meeting just a little better than any other city has ever done.

From Dothan comes the report that the local W. M. U. of the First Baptist Church has been preparing for some weeks to entertain the Baptist women of the State in a happy way. At both Cullman and Dothan many able speakers, both from within and without the state, will present the work of the demonination, it is said.

It is also reported by D. F. Green, secretary of missions, and Miss Mary Northington, secretary of the State W. M. U., that much progress has been made in the Supplemental Campaign looking to Loyalty Week, which will be November 26 to December 3, inclusive, at which time the Baptist churches hope to enlist all their membens in their benevolent work.

HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY CONTEST A GREAT SUCCESS

It was great. That Library Contest. The Tutwiler Society finally won out by a very small margin. A total of $97.20 was raised for the purchase of new books for the high school library. Publishers are now being asked to submit bids upon the books which the school desires to purchase. In addition to the above through state aid we have recently ordered about 30 new volumes. The Manual Art class will make extra bookcases at a very nominal cost to properly shelve the new books. It is very gratifying to the student body to know that we wil lhave more than 100 more good wholesome books for supplementary reading. The factulty is well pleased with the use that the students are making of the present library. A great majority of the enrollment of the school raised their quota—one dollar, and many exceeded this amount. No finer spirit has been displayed by any student body than shown in the hearty cooperation given in putting over this successful contest. Every student who worked and every person who contributed is heartily thanked for the splendid help rendered.

The Laboratory equipment for the Science Department has recently been doubled and fine work is being accomplished. Practically every student in school has elected some Science work and with the facilities now in hand they are being offered very interesting and profitable work.

The faculty is well pleased with the average of work being done. Very few are doing brilliant work but the average is unusually good. Watch for our Honor Roll in next week's paper.

THE ELECTION

On the face of the election returns to date it looks like Judge Reynolds and his following have won out by a small majority.

The results being so close it will take the official count to be final and even then, a recount of some of the boxes at least may be necessary to finally determine the result.

The Democratic gains in the county are quite gratifying and clearly demonstrates the fact that Chilton county is slowly but surely heading back in to the ranks of the only party possible in the South.

One thing we can all be glad of together and that is that the election is over and the strain is off. Now quit talking politics awhile and talk religion and better times. As we said last week, we feel disappointed but we are glad that we have told no lies nor tried to beg, buy, borrow nor steal a vote.

And yet the law provides a penalty for interfering in any manner with a voter while he is fixing his ticket.

The horn of the possum hunters is now heard nightly in the land. Goober and cane patches better look soon.

"Be sure your sin will find you out." Likewise the casting of an illigal ballot. Selah.

The ways of the absentee ballot are mysterious and past finding out. Who can know it?

Wonder how many extra helpers the Recording Angel had to put on to take care of the situation during the election.

[illegible] is out but still we hear no blanket stretching storries of impossible shots and law breaking Kills.

What is the idea of a dress dragging the ground on one side a split up above the knee on the other?

Don't let the rabbits find it out but we intended to get out among them with a double barrel shotgun in a few days.

The preaching services at the Baptist church are drawing splendid crowds now. Rev Ezell is a pleasant forceful and logical speaker.

If lies told in love making and politics really count on the books of the Recording Angel, it will take an awful amount of figuring to balance up the accounts of some folks.

Syrup making is getting to be pretty general now. If we had as good a [illegible] for renting out a cane mill as Walter Gillispie has for a moonshine still we'd get us a bait of cane juice before Saturday night.

There are two prespective new enterprists to start up here right away. Good. Come on and go with us. But the greatest thing we need is a few more plants in operation that put out weekly pay days.

Clanton has fine schools, splendid church organizations and facilities excellent health and some of the best people in the world. Do these kind of inducements appeal to you? If so come ahead and live with us. We'll treat you right.

Oh. Well, in a hundred years from now we won't care much about how the election goes this time—unless we happen to be doing time in hades to square up some of our meanness done last Tuesday.

We regret to note that Dr. P. T. Hinkle has been under treatment at the hospital for several days. His conditions now is so much improved that we hope to se him on the streets again in a day or so.

We learn that Mrs. C. Reese Mullins is in a hospital in Montgomery for treatment. Her many friends sincerely hope that she will speedily recover her usual good health and be back among them again.

The W. C. Robinson Lumber Company have put their planing mill here on two shifts. Any hour of the night you can hear the music of his planer. He has close to a million feet of lumber on the yard ahead of the machine now.

The Democrats in Chilton county have made wonderful strides in the last two years. They cut a republican majority of about 1250 down to the vanishing point. Two more years and the work will be completed and the republican county machine will go into the scrap heap.

There are some vacant rooms at the new Kilby prison and the law says an illegal voter is qualified to draw one of them.

If all reports are true the election last Tuesday, at some of the boxes, was the most polite occasion of the kind that was ever pulled off. It seemed to be run on the plan of "whosoever will let him come and" cast his ballot.

THE SOUTH MORE SOLID THAN EVER.

Election returns from all over the country, east, west, north and south shows the greatest democratic victory on record.

The republicans have lost almost every where. The majority in the House and Senate has dwindled almost to the vanishing point and we are not going to have any more one-sided captitalistic measures put accross in Washington.

The places in the "Solid South that had cracked and broken up in the last election have come back with overwhelming majorities and the South to-day is more solidly democratic than ever before. In two more years the last vestige of Republican control in the entire country will pass away and the democratic party will come back in to their own and the people will again get a show.

In Alabama the result was even more striking. In Shelby county, where the republican ring has ruled for 30 years, the democrats took everything. The bench of the Circuit Court was even purged in that district and Judge Longshore got what was coming to him.

Winston is the only county now in the State that is under republican rule and unless Mr. Wyatt wins out in our county the representative from that county will sit in solitary confinement when he goes to meet with the legislature. If Mr. Wyatt goes from Chilton county he and the Winston man will have to run the entire republican end of the game down here. They will cut some ice in that body. won't they?

The result in our county is yet in doubt and a recount may be necessary to straighten out the crooked places and winnow out the real wishes of a majority of the qualified voters from the mess that seems to have mixed up in the game. We stand for a clean, legal ballot no matter who wins or who loses. Suspicion is always around when ever mystery seems to shroud the result.

All in all, this is the greatest time or rejoiceing in the democratic party that has ever come in our day, even if our county has really failed to align with the mighty forces that are sweeping a rule of republican capitalistic satraps off af the slate for good.

Thank the Lord, the people of this great country are coming into their own even if Chilton and Winston have postponed their day of redemption for a little season.

THE ABSENTEE BALLOT GAME.

"Balolt, ballot, who's got the ballot?"

This is quite a new game. Have you ever learned how to play it yet?

THE COUNTY ELECTION

It has been impossible to get up anything like an accurate statement of the vote cast in the county Tuesday.

The republicans claim to have carried the county by safe majorities. The official count will be made tomorrow and then more can be told about the situation. One thing is known to be a fact, if Mr. Mesesr is defeated at all it will be by a margin so small that it will surprise our republican opponents.

A good deal of crookedness is being charged by both sides and it is a decided question of doubt whether the official count will be taken as final or not. A contest may be made and the matters sifted out before the courts. We do not know.

One thing we do know, and that is unless a contest is made a great many people are going to be dissatified and the democratic party is going to loose some support for the future.

All over the United States the democrats have made great and substantial gains. They did not loose a single member of the house, so far as known yet, but have gained over thirty. Two years hence the county will be alright again.

Mr. C. I. Mullins is having extensive repairs and improvements made to his spacious home on second avenue.

BAPTISTS REPORT $35,000,000 CASH

CAMPAIGN HAS MADE POSSIBLE VAST ENLARGEMENT OF EVERY PHASE OF GENERAL WORK

GAIN 500,000 NEW MEMBERS

Effort Will Be Made to Enlist These and All Other Baptists In Share In Forward Movement During November

Total cash collections on the Baptist 75 Million Campaign up to May 1, 1922, had reached the sum of $35,152,211.69, according to the general Campaign headquarters. This represents an advance of nearly $20,000,000 over what Southern Baptists did for their general missionary, educational and benevolent work for the three years preceding the Campaign.

DR. L. R. SCARBOROUGH
General Director Baptist 75 Million Campaign.

The contribution of larger gifts to religious work has been accompanied by larger spiritual results in the local churches, it is pointed out. For instance, Southern Baptists baptized 150,000 more converts during the first three years of the Campaign than they did in the three years before, gained 3,000 new Sunday schools and 400,000 new pupils, enhanced the value of their local church property by $33,000,000, enlarged their contributions to local causes by $22,390,000, and increased their contributions to all causes by $43,480,490.

Baptist Institutions Grow

Some other phases of denominational progress made possible by the Campaign include increasing the number of Baptist hospitals in the South from 12 to 19, with three others under construction and four more definitely planned; strengthening of 17 Baptist orphanages and the establishment of two new ones, lifting $3,000,000 indebtedness on 119 Baptist schools, colleges and seminaries, completion and projection of permanent improvements there in the sum of $4,000,000, and the addition of substantial sums to the endowment funds. Over 2,500 ministerial students are enrolled at Southern Baptist schools.

Church Loan Fund Raised

Among the outstanding accomplishments in the work of the Home Mission Board are the aiding of 1,000 churches in building new houses of worship, the completion of the million-dollar Church Building Loan Fund, strengthening the work among the foreigners and Indians and the 38 Mountain mission schools. The Board has employed an average of 1,495 workers during the Campaign and reports for that period 134,832 baptisms, 218,371 additions to churches, 2,276 Sunday schools and 759 churches organized, and 1,409 houses of worship built or repaired.

On the foreign fields the equipment for mission work has been practically doubled, more than 250 new foreign missionares have been sent out, more than 400 new native workers have been employed, and the Board has entered the new fields of Spain, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Roumania, Southern Russia, Palestine and Siberia. The Board reports for the period of the Campaign 117 new churches on the foreign fields, 21,723 baptisms, 211 new Sunday schools, gain of 17,576 pupils, native contributions of $1,003,390.68, and 529,642 treatments administered by medical missionaries.

Another result of the Campaign is that the Relief and Annuity Board, which is seeking to care for the aged dependent ministers and their families, has been enabled to double the number of such persons helped and the amount that is given these beneficiaries. Last year the Board was able to dispense $128,966 among needy ministers. It has invested assets of $1,149,088.

Receive 500,000 New Members

More than 500,000 new members have been received into the local Baptist churches of the South since the Campaign began, and in the hope of enlisting all these in the Campaign, as well as reaching the older members of the churches who have not shared in the forward movement heretofore, the month of November 5-December 3 has been designated as Re-enforcement Month by the Campaign Conservation Commission. During this month it is planned that every Baptist church in the South will call upon all its members who are not already participating in the Campaign and secure subscriptions from them covering the two remaining years of the movement, and cash offerings to the Campaign from all the members. Dr. L. R. Scarborough, of Fort Worth, Texas, who was general director of the original Campaign, has been elected to serve in that capacity for the Re-enforcement program, although the details are being worked out in the various states under the leadership of the secretaries of the state misson boards. It is hoped to secure several million dollars in additional subscriptions and several million in cash as well by December 1.

Prohibition may not prohibit but it lands many a fat job for a slick politician.

Only one fight on election day in Clanton so far as we have heard and we do not know that it was about politics.

When the final roll is called in Chilton politically we hope to be there.

News from Shelby county is to the effect that a perfect democratic land slide took place there Tuesday and that those good people are now back in the ark of safety.

THE WAGES OF SIN

y back in the years that have I knew a family of honest, well- people who lived on a farm in ndid community and not so very miles from a city.

mily consisted of a father- mother and six children. Every- went well with them and the n grew up in peace, plenty and ess. The wolf never howled at their door for the father was a good man, he was an ex- provider for his household.

ears passed along over this family, and finally the oldest a boy, became dissatisfied with me and his family. They were up-to-date enough to suit his mo- idea. Would you like to know his name? It was Thomas Woolfork and he was hanged at the age of 37 at Perry, Georgia. The papers were full of it at the time and some of you older people may remember it. I do for I was there in the capacity of repotrer for a big daily paper and the impres- sion on my mind to-day is as vivid as it as when I heard the the court of the gallous and saw drop from time to eternity as he was paid the awful the terrible "Wages or Sin".

Another picture from life is engrav- ed on my memory in indellible colors that will never fade. This picture is of a young and winsomegirl, little if any past her teens.

She had a good christian home and was the idol of a fond mother's heart. Sometimes I have almost decided that beauty was a curse to a girl. This girl was pretty, vivacious and winning and as she gradually ripened into wo- manhood she numbered her male ad- mirers by the scorce. She become vain and spoiled and her mother, who saw the pitfalls before her, tried to reason with her and show her the dan- gers ahead. But, no, her mother was a back number and could not possibly understand nor advise her. How fool- ish. Times may change and years may come and go, but since the days of Mother Eve the heart, the sentiment the passions of woman have always reacted to the same lure the love of some man.

It was so in this girl's case. She started out, like a modern flapper, to fl and play the game for what was in it with any man, but like so many of them do in these days, the fatal man came along and she was lost.

In her case, unfortunately, the man of her choice already had a wife a poor crippled up wreck of a woman, and she was an impediment in the way that illicit love wanted to run for this girl and her married paramore.

They talked over the situation and finally decided to put the poor afflic- ted wife out of the way and then fly to some other part of the country and live out their dream of illicit love with the shadow of the gallous always shad- ing their pathway and with a con- science forever lashing their souls with the memory of theirdiastorly crime, and with the fires of an eternal hell blazing continually before them.

They jointly put a towel around the neck of the poor wife and one of them pulled one end and the other pulled the other end of the towel until the poor victim was slowly strangled to death. The crime being accom- plished, conscience got in its perfect work and the guilty pair undertook to make their get away. This flight caused suspicion to point to them. A chase was instituted and before they had gone a hundred miles from the scene of their hellish crime the hand of the law reached out and brought them back.

The trial came on and the evidence was so overwhelming that they both broke down and confessed. The man received his "Wages for Sin" on the gallous first and sometime later the writer was present when this one time beautiful and loyable girl also received her "Wages of Sin" at the end of a rope fastened to the same gallous. That was the most awful and grievesome sight I ever beheld.

The name of this misguided girl was Susan Eberhart and she was hanged at Preston Ga. dack in the days before my hair turned gray and ever yet I can see that fearful picture and read in characters of living fire the history of that poor girl.

Boys. and Girls' times have changed since those days some, but not half so much as you imagine. These two extreme cases happened to come un- der my own observation. All boys and all girls who travel that road, of course do not end on the gal'ous, but a great many do as is evidenced by reading the daily press.

Human sentiment and passions do not change and the end of the road is the same whether you die on the scaffold, in a brothel, in a house of ill fame or in your bed. Justice de- mands and takes her own. You are going to receive "The Wages of Sin" in full no matter how successful you may be in covering up your tracks ere

A FINAL WORD FROM REV. C. D. MESSER.

To the Voters of Chilton County.

Upon the eve of the lecction, I de- sire to express my gratitude to the voters of the county for the uniform courtesy extended to me by them as I have met them in their homes, in their fields, and at theirvarious pla- ces of business, during the campaign which is now about to be brought to a close. If elected Probate Judge of Chilton county, I shall go into the of- fice with not a blot or blemish upon my good name so far as I am aware of, in my own knowledge or from heresay, and when I leave the office at the end of my term, I shall carry with me a record that will not have deprived me of that good name which is "rather to be chosen than much riches." In the administration of the affairs of the office I shall employ but one Counsellor and Advisor, my conscienceness or honesty econmy and justice to my fellow man, and it is upon this platform that I announced my candidacy and it is upon this plat- form that I shall remain and upon this platform and upon no other. do I seek the aid of every good citizen of Chilton county, regardless of his political faith or creed.

Respectfully,
C. D. MESSER.

WHAT CHIROPRACTORS DO.

This is a mechanical science and not a system of medical or faith cure.

They repair the different organs of the human machine like a mechinist repairs the different organs of the Mechanical machine.

They do not do their work by guess, but like a trained machinist, they have to possess exact scientific knowledge of the work to be successful.

They learn the business of repair- ing the human machine at scientific Institutions thoroughly equiqqed to teach, and must be perfect in this in- tricate and exact science before they are given permission to go to work.

By repairing the worn or defective parts of the human machine they cau- se it to function properly, and when it does that disease can not exist and perfect health results.

They treat successfully, without knife or physic all such diseases as, appendicitis, paralysis, high blood pre- ssure, fevers, female troubles, kidney affections, rheumatism, flue, hay fever, asthma, tuburcular affections, stomach and intestinal troubles, headache, and all other abnormalties of the human body.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 2 CLANTON, ALABAMA, NOVEMBER 16, 1922. NUMBER 10

CONTEST ELECTION

here is such a widespread and in-ent sentiment of dissatisfaction h the conduct of certain features of recent county election, and such terminded demand being made for test, that at a regular meeting the Chilton County Democratic Ex-ive Committee last Tuesday the stion was finally decided, that, to fy this demand and to allay all of uncertainty it would be best to go a fair and square contest and oroughly purge the ballot box of all gularities possible to locate.

So, we are authorized to say that necessary arrangements have been ade and legal notice of contest will duly filed. We understand that people, no matter what their politi-ith may be, will have an oppor to file any crookedness they have knowledge of.

contest does nothing else, if it operly carried out to its rightful legitimate end, it will have a be-ficial effect on elections in Chilton unty for many years to come.

violation of some of the pro ons of the general election law car-with it some rather disagreable nitentiary service, and, in case any-ing like that should result from this ntest, it is reasonable to imagine it would not soon be forgotten.

We have seen no spirit of malice nifested in this matter, but rather general desire to sift out the wheat m the chaff and to so purge the lot box of the county that all par-will be satisfied that a fair and uare deal has been made and that e legal voters of Chilton county are tting exactly what the majority of eir votes entitles them to.

YOUNG LADY DIES

Miss Clara Geneva Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scott, Thorsby R. 1 died Tuesday morning at the Central Alabama Hospital, Clanton after an operation for appendicitis. Buried Wednesday at Pleasant Hill. She is survived by Father, Mother, three sisters and four brothers besides many other relatives and friends who will greatly miss her.

This young girl reached the operating table just a little too late, all that the Doctors and Nurses could do was of no avail.

A flower budded on earth to bloom in Heaven.

Undertaker Martin of Clanton, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

H. C. BEARDEN DEAD

Mr. H. C. Bearden of Maplesville passed away on the night of November the 7th. Mr. Bearden has long been a prominent citizen of Maplesville and Chilton county for many years. He was for many years a business man and also operated a grist mill in Maplesville. He will be missed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances in this section of Ala. Mr. Bearden was laid to rest in the cemetery at Maplesville Nov. 9, funeral services being conducted by Rev. J. W. Mitchell of Brent.

He is survived by Mrs. T. R. Williams, Mrs. Davis, of Maplesville, and two other daughters whose names we are not in possession of. Also by one son Mr. Shepard Bearden of Selma.

ALONZA WILLIAMS DEAD

Mr. Alonza L. Williams, age 41, died Monday morning and was buried in the family lot at Samara cemetery Tuesday afternoon, Rev. S. J. Ezell and Rev. Buford-Lawrence officiating.

Mr. Williams had been a member of the Baptist church for 29 years and has lived a pious christian life. He numbered his friends by hundreds, in fact, he was liked by all who knew him. He will be greatly missed by the entire town and surrounding community and especially by his church to which he has always been so loyal.

He is survived by a wife, Mrs. Mattie Williams, one, son Irwin, who is with the L. & N. Railroad. Two daughters, Mrs. Louis Mims, Clanton, and Mrs. Ruby Smith, Birmingham. Two step children, Lera Parrish, Birmingham, and Lonnie Parrish, Clanton. Also a godly mother, Mrs. Leila A. Williams. Seven Brothers, Rev. J. Toy, who is Missionary to China, Rev. J.O. Athens, Ala., T. L. with Alabama Power Company, Clanton, T. E. bank cashier at Albany, Ala., J. Harvey, bank cashier at Guntersville, Ala., H. G. Now in Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., and J. D. at Birmingham, Ala., Also two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Wood, Lock 12 and Mrs. Joe Parrish, Lock 12.

The many lovely floral offerings and the large concourse of people at the funeral was evident of the love and esteem in which he was held.

Funeral Director Martin was in charge of the burial arrangements.

I. O. RETHERFORD DEAD

Rev. I. O. Retherford, one of the oldest men in Chilton county, died last Monday from an acute attack of double pneumonia, and was Masonically buried Tuesday afternoon at Mt. Springs cemetery. Rev. D. M. Pearson being in charge of the religious exercises.

Mr. Retherford was born in Georgia nearly 95 years ago, in 1828. He was twice married, his first wife being a Miss Sarah Ferrell and his last wife Miss Nancy N. Mullins. He first moved from Georgia to Macon county, Ala., and then in 1884 he came to Chilton county whe here has resided ever since.

Rev. Retherford was a local preacher of the Methodist church and was one of the substantial citizens of our county.

Besides a wife, the deceased leaves four sons, Messers Jas. Retherford, G. D. Retherford, and C. A. Retherford, of our county and Mr. J. S. Retherford of Gorgas, Ala.

Truly a patriot in Israel has been called to his reward and the world is poorer by his taking away.

The Chilton County News extends its sincere sympathy to all the bereaved relativs and friends.

SOUTH ALABAMA M. E. CONFERENCE

This body will convene in Montgomery next Thursday. We hope they will see fit to return Rev. D. M. Pearson to this field for another year for we will certainly be sorry to give him up. He has a host of friends here who will agree with us too.

W. R. Clements, Jemison, was among the large number of prominent citizens who came to town Tuesday.

MRS. JASPER CALLAWAY ENTERTAINS

Last Saturday evening Mrs.. Jasper Callaway, ably assisted by Misses Eula Mae Vines and Pinson, entertained a number of friends at a lawn festival.

Marsh Mallows were roasted, nuts eaten and other refreshments served on the lawn.

The occassion is said to have been a most enjoyable one.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR RADIO?

A few weeks ago we heard considerable talk in regard to at least two radio sets being installed in our town.

But it seems like the whole thing went "ker flunk". We don't hear anything more about it. What is the matter? Is the thing a failure, unsatisfactory, or what?

The wave of radio excitement seems to have dropped out of the public prints, too, and we rather suspect the service is not what it promised to be.

GONE TO CONVENTION

Rev. S. J. Ezell was detained by the death of Mr. Lonza Wililams and did not get off to the State Convention at Culman on Tuesday.

He left, however, on Wednesday morning and will be in time for part of the exercises at the Convention.

Rev. P. G. Carter, our former pastor, who stopped over with us Monday night went on Tuesday morning on No. 2.

THE HOSPITAL

As the months go by it becomes more evident every day that the promoters of the Central Alabama Hospital planned wisely and well when they decided that this section of the State needed a [illegible] up to-the-minute institution of that kind.

From the day the hospital was opened it has been a success and has proven the truth of the vision of its founders. There has been a steady increase of patronage all the time, and last week, for a day or so, the capacity of the institution was taxed to such an extent that cots had to be arranged to take care of the rush.

While no one with a human sentiment at all would rejoice at the sickness and accidents of any one, at the same time we can feel justly proud that Clanton has an institution where the sick and afflicted can find the best of service, and that a wide territory through Central Alabama is finding it out and coming here for treatment when needed. It is a great help and saving to the people in this section, as they do not now have to carry their loved ones away to get them attended to in a proper manner. They can get all the service here and in as high class a maner, as can be rendered them in the larger cities and they can still be close to home and in quick touch with their family and friends.

The Chilton County News is happy to congratulate the management on their splendid success.

A NICE JOB

Mayor Gragg has had his residence completely gone over and remodeled and now has a beautiful home.

It hardly looks like the same place and is an added attraction to that part of town.

NEW WATER MAIN

We notice that a new water line is being put in running from second avenue north on seventh street far enough to take care of the McCain stock yards on the former Adams property.

AN AWFUL ACCIDENT

One of the most terrible and pitiful accidents that has ever occured in this section happened yesterday forenoon.

Mr. Lige Deason, who is a prominent citizen residing in the western part of the county had the horrible misfortune to run his truck over his little 4 year old son and utterly crush the life out of him.

We have been able to glean only a meager detail of the sad affair and do not know how the accident happened. The only deffinate information we have is that the little boy was killed and that the heart broken father was handling the truck when the life of the little fellow was snuffed out.

Words fail us in attempting to express our sorrow and sympathy for this striken father and family. It is a blow too sad and sorrowful to hardly be realized.

I AM GRATEFUL.

I wish to express my warmest thanks to every voter in Chilton county who saw fit to support me in the recent election.

While I did not win out, I am grateful to realize that so many true and loyal people in the county displayed so much confidence in me.

Once, is not always, you know, and here is hoping for better success next time. I thank you

The election is over now. We guess rabbit hunting will come next.

Don't forget that cutting a republican majority from 1250 to 33 in little over a year is going some.

Have you got a friend to go with you to Sunday School Sunday? Get busy.

We need about five hunderd existing laws repealed and then the enactment of two or three good laws to live by.

A wonderful lot of human energy consumed in this world by people trying to make excuses for various short comings and needless lying.

A man who has tried any number of other callings and made a failure every time dosen't appeal to us much when he turns preacher.

There is not more than one man in hunderd who is able to make a successful liar out of himself. The average human memory can not live up to [illegible]

Congress has called in extra session for Nov. 20. The country better look out now, for with a goodly number of that republican majority [illegible] the fall number next session [illegible] capitalists will speed [illegible] on laying the people

The sacrifice of a little loafing time on Sunday morning will enable every [illegible] and man in Clanton to go to Sunday school. You have four school to choose from. Won't you make the sacrifice?

Cotton at 25 cents sounds mighty good, but don't allow those figures to cut down your fall grain crop. The way to keep the price of cotton up is to plant plenty of feed and food crops.

[illegible] fair and impartial inventory of your own self now and then and you will soon come to the conclusion that your friends are right in not considering you the only pebble on the beach.

One of the dangers in being broad minded is that unless you are mighty careful you will get so "broad" that the first thing you know you will have a whole lot of lies mixed up in your [illegible]

A pound of anything, except apothecary supplies, is supposed to be made up of 16 ounces. It is a violation of law to sell less than that [illegible] a pound to anybody any [illegible] United States.

It is getting to be a mooted question whether the Turks will permit the rest of the world to have any more freedom or not. They have ordered all natives out of Constantinople on pain of death.

W. P. G. Harding, who has been at the head of the Reserve Banking system [illegible] since it was started, has been unseated at last and a New York man put in his place. Score one for J. Thomas.

One of the saddest travesties on our form of government is the fact that it seems to be an impossiblity to conduct an election so that the people can get an honest expression of their wishes at the polls.

In the days of George Washington that little fable about the hatchet and cherry tree might have gone all right, but it would sure be a failure now. The modern George would put all the blame on his daddy in two minutes for ever having bought him the hatchet.

If you want to be popular give a patient and sympathetic ear to all the [illegible] and gruesome tales of woe that your friends want to inflict upon you, but be sure to swallow your own sorrows and trials and wear a grin like an ape when your heart is heavy as lead and the future looks like midnight darkness.

Stanley Hayes, Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Nix, of Maplesville, were here last Monday.

THE PEOPLE DEMAND A SHOW DOWN

As a democrat we feel like we voice the sentimnt of that party to the letter when we say, that neither victory nor defeat in the recent county election, means one half as much to us as the assurance that our election was conducted absolutely in accordance with law and that the results are the free, fair and impartial expression of the wishes of the people. If the principles of democracy stand for anything at all it is that the people rule.

Since the recent election, and even while the ballots were being polled, there has sprung up a wide spread feeling that methods were used not in accordance with fairness and law. A vast number of the best citizens in the county are not satisfied. They feel like the light should be turned on and all the dark spots brought out in bold relief so that every one may feel and know just what happened and just how the election was handled. In other words, a most urgent demand is being made that a real contest be filed in sober, honesty and intensively pushed to the end that the ballots in Chilton county may be purged of all illegalities and that we may look the world squarely in the face and show them that we do not intend to allow a pall of suspicion, nor a shadow of fraud, to hang over the fair name and the honesty and integrity of the good people of this county.

This demand comes from all over the county and seems to be almost universal and is so insistent that individually we feel like a contest should be made and if any crookedness and illegality can be proven, the result should be sifted down to a basis as fair and exact as is possible to be established by a rigid and impartial court investigation.

We feel like the results of such contest will have a very salutary effect on the results of future elections and even if some people may find themselves in bad with the criminal side of the court, it will be a warning to future voters and campaigners that the law is not a dead letter and that it has a heavy hand when it sees fit to reach out and vindicate itself.

Go to it and hew to the line regardless of where the chips fall.

THE WAY IT WORKS

Some two months ago the Alabama Public Service Commission, having thoroughly gone in to the merits of the question, ordered the railroads to reduce their rates on sand and gravel from Montgomery to Birmingham from 74 cents, including switching charges, to 60 cents flat.

The railroads asked for a few hearing which was granted. Now, we notice that the Public Service Commission has reversed itself, and agreed to allow the roads to make a rate of 79 cents with no switching expenses included.

The moral to this story is that the tax payers of Alabama are paying for thousands of dollars worth of service that fails to function.

Have you any recollection of a single time when an order by the Commission to the railroads has been obeyed? If it has no power it sholud be absolutely abolished. If it can not protect the public from extortion what good is it?

THAT FIRE MARSHAL

Mr. Jordon, State Fire Marshal, who was here a couple of days recently, is going to return again now in a few days and see what has been done towards getting in line with the law.

Mr. Jordon is an efficient officer and will insist that the fire laws of the State are complied with.

If you have any arrangements to make before he calls on you again we would advise you to make them for he is liable to drop in any day.

COMMITTEE

SENTIMENT CHANGING

The recent general election developed some rather unlooked for conditions in the country at large.

For instance, the democratic sentiment leaks out in various places in the far north where no one of this generation ever heard of such a thing before. Then in New York State an absolute reversal of form occured and the democrats went over the top in almost unbelievable majorities. In recent years New York state has stood continually by the money power and has invariably lined up on the side of a capitalistic rule. This time they utterly reversed themselves and the vote seems to indicate that the middle class and labor vote dominated the situation.

A decade ago it always required the coalition of the vote of the Solid South with that of New York state to swing a presidential election, but in more recent years the South has made its alliances on a more independent basis and the democratic party made its last national election winning with New York boosting the G. O. P. against us. For several years now it has been apparent to those who watch and study conditions that a natural community of interests exists much more largely between the West and the South than between any other great sections of our country, and the trend of events for a considerable length of years has caused us to hope that this natural community of interest would weld these two sections together politically on the basis of self preservation.

While the recent general election results do not destroy this hope by any means and, in fact, there is nothing to indicate a deflection from that policy on the part of the West, at the same time, the way the pendulum swings in the North and northwest, rather points to the conclusion now, that two years hence the South will find itself again, temporarily at least, alligned with her old time ally in the winning contests of several years ago.

Personally, we hope the alliance between the West and South will continue to grow in strength and amity, for the reason that the interest of these two sections do not conflict, and there is a natural cause for them to pull together. This is not true so far as the North is concerned to anything like it is between our Western neighbors and ourselves.

New York State aspires to be the balance of power, and for many years her title to that honor could not be disputed, but in more recent times she has been shorn of her glory in that respect, and her large electoral vote has been figured in the loosing columns more than once.

Allignments for two years hence will be in the making from now on. The Solid South with her unbroken democratic front is going to inevitably form the nuclus around which the democratic army that is to do battle two years hence must form. It is the only known and unalterable factor that can be put down as an assured basis from which to figure. This being true we should study well and closely the situation and should have a real influence in dictating the plans and platform upon which that next fight is to be won. In plain words the South should demand and have just such recognition in the next line up as she deems the people of our great section need and deserve. The South can rather dominate the situation next time and we hope to see our party leaders do so.

KU KLUX KLAN

Last Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, on the Jones Hardware corner, Rev. F. J. Mashburn, of Atlanta, delivered a lecture to quite an audience of representative citizens on the character aims and history of the Ku Klux Klan.

Although the speaker was sick with cold and had to deliver his address in the open air, he held his hearers spell bound for more than an hour as he related facts and figures going to prove the decadence of 100 per cent Americanism in the United States.

They had asked permission to speak in the Court House, but for some reason the Sheriff had refused to allow them to do so. One thing can be truthfully said, however, and that is that his address with all propriety, could have been delivered in any Protestant church in the United States without, in the slightest degree, desecrating that sacred edifice.

I will not take up the space to give a synopsis of the speech, but there are one or two points I wish to refer especially to.

First, before you can become a member of that order at all you have to solemly subscribe to a full belief in the New Testament and in the Divinity of Jesus Christ as the only Savior of mankind.

Second, you must be absolutely 100 per cent white American. No other race or color of people on earth can qualify for membership.

Third, you must stand for America for Americans.

Fourth, you must obligate yourself to stand by our flag, our constitution and the laws of our nation, state, county and town. To aid the proper authorities in the enforcement of the law and also see to it that these officers do their duty without fear or favor.

These are just a few of the most salient features representing what the Klan stands for.

Do you see anything wrong in any of them? I do not, and I also realize, and have for some time, the menance to our Southland and have hoped for a spirit like this to be aroused in our people before it was everlastingly too late.

THE WADESONIAN

We feel like it is due Mr. Wade, proprietor of the Theatre here, to say that he is offering to the people of Clanton a very high class and moral place of ammusement. All of his films are selected with great care and we should appreciate the fact that he allows nothing dirty or immoral to appear on his screens. He deserves the patronage of the public.

WHEN A FARMER IS INDEPENDENT

Every farmer who owns his own land and is out of debt is independent: Banks may break, syndicates go to the wall, and markets may be in the hands of the bears, and yet the farmer may sit on his back fence and whistle a merry tune, for he has the assuarnce that seed time and harvest shall not fail; that we all must eat and he must help feed them; that when panics come he is out of range and under shelter.—United Farmer

NEW CHURCH ORGANIZED

Last Sunday quite a large audience assembled in the Downs Hall and organized the first Church of Christ in Clanton. A complete notice will be found in another column.

We believe that makes five distinct church organizations represented here. Out of that number every body ought to be able to go out to church service at least once a week.

E. H. Lowe, of East Birmingham, is in Clanton this week visiting friends and relatives.

COTTON CROP FOR NEXT YEAR

We have heard several farmers say that they intended to plant everything in cotton next year.

That will be the most fatal mistake that any farmer can make. It is a fact that to us the prospect for 25 cent cotton next year looks good. All conditions now point to that as a safe outlook, but, even an all cotton crop sold at that price, with your feed to buy for the year fattening, would mean for you all bankruptcy.

Has not your past experience taught you anything? If you raise all cotton and no feed what do you suppose you would have to pay for corn, oats, hay and so on the year following? Don't you know what you have had to do in the past? There is one fact that has been demonstrated in the South until it is as true as Holy Writ, and that is that you can not raise all cotton and have your corn crib and smokehouse in the West and escape utter fiancial ruin. It never has been done and it never will.

The only possible way for you farmers to take advantage of high priced cotton and reap the just reward for your labor in growing it, is to first be certain you have acreage enough planted to feed stuff to carry you safely over the following year and then put in the balance of your crop to cotton. Under no circumstance never cut your hay and green crops down to make room for the fleecy.

Another thing. The short cotton crops of the past few seasons have contributed more towards making a price of 25 cents possible today than any other one thing. If you turn in and grow another 15,000,000 bale crop you will see 8 and 10 cent cotton again at once.

Then, there is another factor that makes an all cotton crop for next year a great risk. The war clouds in the near East are looming luridly every day. Turkey seems determnied to plung the world in war again. Suppose it comes and the nations who buy our export cotton are plunged into another disastrous war. They will not be financially able to buy our cotton, and there you are again. No market means worthless cotton. So you have that imminent possibility to face with a big crop of cotton on your hands next fall.

Make everything you need and then some at home. That is the bed rock of your business and then plant what cotton you can conveniently handle on the side and that is your clear profit.

W. B. CORLEY

You just fill one little nich in the scheme of things. Don't get the big head and think everybody is a fool who don't see things just like you do.

In a few sections of Alabama the corn crop was short this year and they are calling on the Agricultural Department for information as to where they can buy in Alabama. That's the way to do it. Keep all our money at home.

There seems to be no question but what scarlet fever is in evidence in town. Our own little girl is just recovering from a severe attack and we have heard of several others. It all seems to have started at the city school. We do not know, but it used to be customary for some steps to be taken in epidemics like that to check them.

WHAT CHIROPRACTORS DO.

This is a mechanical science and not a system of medical or faith cure.

They repair the different organs of the human machine like a mechinist repairs the different organs of the Mechanical machine.

They do not do their work by guess, but like a trained machinist, they have to possess exact scientific knowledge of the work to be successful.

They learn the business of repairing the human machine at scientific Institutions thoroughly equiqqed to teach, and must be perfect in this intricate and exact science before they are given permission to go to work.

By repairing the worn or defective parts of the human machine they cause it to function properly, and when it does that disease can not exist and perfect health results.

They treat successfully, without knife or physic all such diseases as, app...., paralysis, high blood pressure, fevers, female troubles, kidney affections, rheumatism, flue, hay fever, asthma, tuburcular affections, stomach and intestinal troubles, headache, and all other abnormalties of the human body.

Statistics show that 3000 automobiles were struch at grade crossings in this country last year. In these accidents, over 2000 men, and women and children were killed and over 3000 others were injured. In dozens of instances whole families, numbering from four to six, were wiped out as completely as though a cyclone had struck them.

CHURCH OF CHRIST HOLDS SERVICES IN CLANTON

Last Sunday was a great day. The members of the Church who live in and around Clanton came together and held a unique service in the nice little hall over Smith and Downs whole sale grocery store. The hall was filled to its capacity, with more than thirty members of the church present to make the beginning.

O. C. Dobbs of Fayett, Alabama preached. His sermon was to the point and well taken. In the afternoon a business meeting of the church was held in which Brother Dobbs talked to us about the organization of the church, qualification of elders and deacons etc. Every member pledged him self to work for the establishment of a good congregation in Clanton.

There will be church services every Sunday at ten o'clock A. M. and we most cordially invite one and all to come and worship with us whenever it i sconvenient. To those who do not attend services elsewhere, we especially invite you to come over and help us. You will find a warm welcome and a harty-handshake for all who come.

J. S. Moorse of Wetumpka, Alabama, will preach for us at eleven o'clock next Sunday. Come and hear him.

MULBERRY NOTES

Will you alolw me space in your paper for a few notes from Mulberry.

We are proud to say health in this community is fine onty Jewel Wright has been very sick for the past week but is improving and we hope to see her back in school soon for we have missed her very much.

The teachers of this community spent last Saturday in Clanton attending the reading circle.

Last Saturday and Sunday was our regular preaching days and Rev. B. Lawrence our pastor delivered us two excellent sermons.

Mr. Kirby Summers of Birmingham, spent the week end with his parents here Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Summers. he returued back to Birmingham Sunday carrying his wife who has been spending the last two or three weeks with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Will Wright.

Mr. Abrin Lambert who is boarding on Mulberry hauling tumber went to his home at Cane Creek last Saturday returning Monday to his job.

We were very glad to see Mrs. Lawrence come back down in our community again.

Our principal Mr. J. D. Griffin and three of his pupils Jethro Hays, Messers James and Thomas LeCroy went to Pratville last Friday to attend a agriculture fair and they reported a grand time.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lambert spent the week end at Cane Creek with Mr. Lambert's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davenport and their son Eugene of Thorsby, motored down to Mulberry Sunday afternoon.

Mr. George Wright, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Summers and their daughter Eleanor of Mulberry motored to Jemison last Saturday evening.

Rev. B. Lawrence and wife spent last Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wooley

Messers Will White and James LeCroy motored to Clanton Sunday afternoon staying until after the services at the Baptist Church where they heard an excellent sermon delivered by Rev. Ezell.

Mr. Wilber Veazey of Mitchell Dam was on Mulberry Sunday afternoon.

Thanking you Mr. Editor if you'll slip this by the waste basket, wishing the News great success.

VOLUME 2 | CLANTON, ALABAMA, NOVEMBER 23, 1922. | NUMBER 11

THINK BACK A LITTLE

[illegible] you remember four years ago [illegible] even two years?

[illegible] back in your memory [illegible] realize what our town looked [illegible] then?

Do you recollect how many [illegible] business were in operation and [illegible] they carried and the kind [illegible] business they did?

[illegible] was a live and thriving town [illegible] but make a mental comparison of [illegible] you remember of it then with [illegible] you actually see of it today.

[illegible] you remember the little "general [illegible]" you used to see all up and [illegible] second avenue?

[illegible] here are they today? You can [illegible] them, many of the same people [illegible] there, but go inside and view the [illegible] fixtures. The immense stocks of [illegible] goods. The city like display [illegible] corps of clerks who are special [illegible] in each department, the general [illegible] systematic arrangement of every [illegible] of the business and you will [illegible] to the fact that a new era has [illegible] in our town and that Clanton [illegible] no longer a sleepy county seat alone [illegible] a budding embryonic city the [illegible] of [illegible].

The same people are different [illegible] they are electrified with the sp[illegible] of the age and their vision has broad[illegible] and they are looking forward [illegible] a vista that leads to greater [illegible] to come.

[illegible] is not the idle [illegible] nor the entrance [illegible] promoter, but these are [illegible] actually staring you in the face. [illegible] years ago we had no wholesale [illegible] in town. [illegible]

Take Smith & D[illegible] here in the wholesale trade. [illegible] four years ago Mr. Lee Smith, [illegible] founder of this popular house, just had caught his vision and saw the promise the future held for a whole[illegible] house here. This year they [illegible] sell over $250,000 worth of staple groceries to the trade. This is not [illegible] either, but is the plain truth [illegible] out by them.

[illegible] you read [illegible] appreciate the [illegible] on that one [illegible] you begin to [illegible] come from in four [illegible]

Then there is the large wholesale [illegible] and feed business conducted by [illegible] ton Mill and Gin Company, [illegible] represents another great factor in [illegible] happenings of the past four [illegible] Another splendid demonstration [illegible] fact that Clanton has quit the "[illegible] road" era and has assumed her place among the coming cities of Alabama.

[illegible] A. Gore four years ago did a little [illegible] saw mill feed business. You should [illegible] go around and take a look at what he carries in stock now. He [illegible] an example of what [illegible] here in four years. He is also [illegible] wholesaler.

[illegible] J. Elmore is also doing a large [illegible] wholesale dry goods business that perhaps, you had not noticed, while his retail dry goods emporium has more than doubled its line and style of business. Go in and see for yourself.

While all of this has been done in [illegible] wholesale line, you should walk [illegible] and look at the great and beautiful stocks of goods on sale in our [illegible] stores and then compare them with your mental picture of four years [illegible] It will actually astonish you.

[illegible] This progress has been made without [illegible] effort on our part. It is the [illegible] influx of trade that our lo[illegible] is convenient to. Our town has splendid territory of progressive farmers and to them our advancement [illegible] more largely due than to any effort that has been made by us here.

If you all will take time to make [illegible] retrospect of the past and com[illegible] conditions then and now it will [illegible] you good. It will put more pep [illegible] your soul and the progress you [illegible] will make then in the next four years will be even more wonderful than what has happened here during the past four years.

Some citizens who have lived here [illegible] their lives are dreaming the same old dreams of 20 years ago that Clanton is just a court house [illegible] and a cross roads. Wake up, R[illegible] Winkle and look what has [illegible] in your home town.

A SAD AFFAIR AT THE SOLDIERS HOME

One of the most regretable occur[illegible] that has ever taken place at the [illegible] Home took place last Satur[illegible]

Mr. Cook and his wife have been inmates of the Home almost from the time its doors were first thrown op[illegible] the service of the old veterans [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Saturday Mrs. T. J. Fowler, [illegible] the commandant, and the most [illegible] Matron of the home was [illegible] one of her accustomed visits among the inmates, when Mrs. Cook called her to come into their apartment and see some nice fruit they had bought.

[illegible]

She turned and saw that he was crazed and was approaching her with a drawn [illegible] Before she could escape he struck at her with the knife and inflicted a serious wound over her heart. He then struck at her again and in warding off the blow her left arm was battered between the wrist and elbow. By this time two of the old Veterans who chanced to be near by ran to her rescue and overpowered and disarmed the crazed man.

Mr. A. B. Burton has been employed to guard both Mr. Cook and his [illegible] at night until proper arrangements can be made to transfer them to some other place for safe keeping.

We are glad to state that Mrs. Fowler, who was carried to Montgomery for treatment, is doing nicely and will recover in due course of time.

MOVING TO TOWN

Mr. Bud Alred, who has been living out on his suburban farm for a couple [illegible] going to move his family [illegible] to their town home in a few [illegible]

Mr. Alred has made a success out of his farming venture and will still operate his farm, but is moving back to his town home so the children will be more convenient to the schools.

REV. J. E. HERRING PREACHES HERE.

Last Sunday the Baptist Bible cl[illegible] and at night the large congregation had the pleasure of listening to Rev. J. E. Herring, of Sumterville, Ala.

His handling of the scripture lesson in the class, so far as we are able to judge, was simply splendid and his sermon at night was full of eloquence and truth.

Rev. Herring is a brother of Mrs. J. A. Hester, of our town, and stopped off on his way home from the Baptist [illegible] to visit her.

MARRIED

Mr. Tom Smith of near Thorsby, and Mrs. Carrie Robinson, of Clanton, were married yesterday at the court house.

A TRUE STORY

There is a man you all know who quit public work and farmed this year.

The lure of public work came on him again and he decided to go back to it.

He started to move back here and get him a job, but when he began to check up on what he had on hand to move it rather staggered him.

He had so much corn, oats, hay, potatoes and so on to move that he decided he better stay on the farm and eat it up rather than go to the expense of trying to move it, so he is going to make another bumper crop next year and then we don't have any idea he will want to move.

Have you ever stopped to figure up in dollars and cents the amount of stuff that accumulates around one on the [illegible]

There is not a more miserable and dependent class of people on earth than the public workers, nor a more happy and independent class than the farmers.

We know where of we speak, for we have tried both, and the happiness [illegible] independence we learned on the farm has long since oozed out of our system in our effort to place other people by our work so our meal ticket would hold out until we could find another "job" that is a hateful word to a man who has followed public work for 25 years.

Mr. Jack Grooms, of Mineral Springs, is in town this week serving on the jury.

A CRYING NEED FOR SYSTEM

At the Nivens fire this week the awful need for some kind of system in handling the equipment and fighting fires were made plainly apparent.

Some kind of an organization is absolutely necessary if we expect to reap much of the benefit to be derived from our water protection. Nothing but endless confussion can result at a fire with every man that comes along giving orders. Some one capable man should be in charge and every body else should recognize that his orders are supreme. If no other way can be devised pay some man so much per fire to handle the situation and let him be known as boss.

Another thing. We doubt if there is another town on earth where automobiles, trucks and other vehicles are allowed to drive over the fire hose while they are in service. The hose can not stand the strain and, like it was at the Nivens fire, busted hose will impede the service to such an extent that the fire fighters have no chance to win.

A lack of system is causing in a great many instances, the town to loose a great per cent of the service they are entitled to from their splendid fire fighting water service.

We know this can be remedied in some way and it should be done NOW. The lack of traffic regulations and a fire system in Clanton puts us back in the class of cross road villiages. Let's move up a peg.

DISASTROUS FIRE

Fire Monday afternoon totally destroyed the splendid home of Mr. J. A Nivens, on fourth avenue.

The blaze is believed to have caught either from a defective chimney flue or from a cross up some way in the electric wiring.

By the time water connection could be made with the fire hose two blocks away and then the misfortune of hose busting a time or two the fire had gained so much headway that nothing could be done towards saving it.

Three or four adjoining buildings caught several times but were extinguished before much damage was done.

The barn of Mr. Martin Nix caught and was totally lost being in direct line with the glaze and heat driven by the wind from the Nivens home.

This was, perhaps, the largest single dwelling in Clanton and had just been entirely painted by Mr. Nivens.

The loss, we judge is near $8,000 for the house and furniture probably more than that. We have heard that only a small amount of insurance was being carried but do not know exactly how much.

LOOKING FINE

In a little trip out in the country Tuesday we noticed quite a good deal of fall grain and it certainly looked fine. Some of it was so large that it seems like it needs grazing back before the hard freezes come.

It is always a sign of prosperity to see plenty of grain planted. Crops of that sort is what makes the farmers independent.

The little cold snap this week has given us a faint taste of what we may expect a little later on.

News Gathered During the Week

Breezy Items That Are of General Interest

J. L. Patterson, of Verbena, was a pleasant caller at the News office one day last week.

Remember that Mr. J. L. Williams, Clanton route 4, earnestly solicits your vote in the Premo-Car contest at Thorsby.

Rev. D. M. Pearson left this morning to attend the South Alabama Conference which is being held in Montgomery. We trust that Rev. Pearson will be returned to Clanton for another year. He is an example of, "An honest man is the noblest work of God."

Rev. C. P. Roberts, Verbena, was in Clanton last Friday. He will attend the M. E. Conference at Montgomery this week.

R. L. Davenport, of Thorsby, and P. G. Marcus of our town are busy remodleing the home of Dr. J. P. Hayes. When those two finish a job of work you may rest assured that it is well done.

Clanton lodge number 423 A. F. and A. M. meets every first Saturday and third Tuesday nights in each month. All members are earnestly urged to attend and visiting brethern are cordially invited and will receive a hearty welcome.

A large number of foot ball fans went to Birmingham last Saturday to attend the Auburn-Center game. Mike Donahue's eleven won the game. Auburn now has the strongest team in Dixie land.

Dr. James M. Graham, of Thorsby, is in Tuscaloosa this week in the interest of helping to stamp out T. B. in that county. Dr. Graham is a Georgian by birth and he is doing excellent work in the state of Alabama in helping to stamp out this dreaded malady.

Lucian Duncan and Briggs Crumpton who are engaged in the lumber business at Benton, Ala., spent Saturday and Sunday with home folks here.

Messers Tom Pyron and Renfroe Jones made a business trip to Calera last Tuesday.

FOR SALE:—One thousand acres of land at Mulberry, Autauga County. Will sell all or any part of this farm at $15 to $20 per acre. Call at Mulberry or write me at Autaugaville, Ala.

It is better to be right than to be rich—but we imagine plenty of cash is a mighty comfortable feeling.

We see [illegible] northern capital [illegible] for cotton mill locations in the South. Now is the time to get busy.

It takes a great many different kind of people to [illegible] we could do mighty well without.

If you want to have friends, show yourself friendly. If [illegible] have good neighbors, show yourself neighborly. If you want to get people out to your church show them you appreciate their presence.

People rave and rant about clean sport and decent shows, but a leg show and foot ball battle will draw a crowd when a moral picture or an educational lecture will get only a heavy frost.

Walter Gillispie crossed over into Shelby Friday and got him two more [illegible], and two operators. The week before he got five over there. They must grow on trees over there.

A [illegible] salary for a foot ball coach and only $3,000 for the president of the college looks out of proportion to us. But perhaps, "book larnin," is not what the people really want these days.

Auburn surprised everybody and beat Center in a foot ball battle at Birmingham last Saturday. We have not been able to get a completed causuality list yet, but learn the carnage was sufficient to reasonably satisfy the audience.

Our good friend, Mr. W. A. Candler, brought us some fine potatoes last week. Now and then we get a square feed, owing to the kindness of some friend from the country. Thank you, old timer, long may you live and prosper.

Sunday afternoon there were two blockings of traffic on second avenue in twenty minutes, all because we have no rules for parking, driving nor turning around. This matter is getting to be rather ridiculous for a town the size of Clanton.

AN ELECTION CONTEST

In the past the [illegible] conditions that [illegible] elections in Chilton [illegible] of "rough stuff" that has been pulled off and the slanderous charges that have been made, pro and con, has given us an unenviable reputation abroad and has contributed [illegible] distrust and uncertainty at home that should be [illegible]

In going into a contest of the [illegible] election, the main object and overshadowing reason should be the absolute purging of the ballot box, so far as lies within the bounds of possibility, that people both at home and abroad may see and realize that the good citizens of Chilton county wish [illegible] as having done all [illegible] before the law, to have [illegible] a clean electroate. If [illegible] at the true and [illegible], all good [illegible] should upohld [illegible]

[illegible] ing of all the [illegible] any such are [illegible] king up of [illegible] law, there will have been an effort made, not only to purge and purify the ballot box, but also to satisfy the good people in the county that purity, fairness and [illegible] Chilton county who [illegible] to vote [illegible] had that opportunity, and no one wi[illegible] of their that privilege, but on the other hand, if any illegal voters have pushed themselves in and took a chan[illegible] if evidence is found to [illegible] n of violating the franchi[illegible] should [illegible] Solicitor [illegible] it will be [illegible] to the [illegible] ing on the courts to properly punish such characters, the results of a real contest will live in a county and bear untold fruit for good for years to come. Nothing short of "sight" will convince some people and a few ex[illegible] of criminal voters will go further in securing for us honest and clean elections than all the sermons one could preach in a hundred years.

We take pleasure in inviting all the good people of the county to assist in making the approaching contest honest, fair and legal and to aid us in purging the ballot box in our county [illegible] r suspicion of evil. If you feel any interest in the well being of your county and feel like you are willing to aid in trying to safeguard our franchise for the future, we will be glad of your cooperation. There is no question but what the work is going to be done as thoroughly as the law can do it, and the more cooperation [illegible] brought to bear on the question the more perfect may we expect the results to be.

THE PEOPLE PAY THE FREIGHT

Now, since the general elections are over, is a good time for the people of the whole country to devote a little time to studying the real situation that faces us all economically.

The new tariff law that has been brought into existence by the present Congress will go down in history as the most flagrant and iniquitous piece of public robbery ever written into the organic law of this, or any other civilized country.

When kingdoms were more common than they are now, and when ruling monarchs had the whole say in assess[illegible] people for all the slush money they wanted, even they sugar coated their intentions and made the dose as palatable as possible, but this bunch did nothing of the kind. They had a $12,000,000 slush fund to pay back to the capitalistic barons and they went straight to the point.

They "protected" the beef trust with over $200,000,000 per year out of your pocket and mine. They added from $6 to $15 on that suit of clothes or overcoat you will have to buy. They put an extra $2.56 on your barrel of flour. If you buy lard you pay one cent on every pound to the meat trust for the privilege. If you want your coffee sweetened you will have to contribute 3 cents per pound to the sugar trust or take it straight. There is not one article that the common people use and are compelled to have that is not saddled with a rake off to some trust or comb[illegible]

While all this is going on this same administration is reducing the wages of the laboring man by means of a substantial labor Board.

Unless the people rise up and smite this gang root and branch two years hence the most terrible reign of hard times will come on us that we have ever experienced.

It is time now to begin to look up the facts and see where you are going. When the next general election rolls around be posted on conditions and know before hand how you want to vote.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Next Thursday is the day set apart since early days of the independence of this country, for a general day of Thanksgiving by all the people for the wonderful merices and blesings of God bestored upon us through another year and to see another harvest time.

For a long number of years this custom meant something and the people [illegible] themselves together and [illegible] prayer and praise they spent the day in really giving thanks for the many mercies they had received.

Modern days have brought modern [illegible] though, and in very few communities now do the people observe the day as in by gone times. Those old pioneers, who had to battle with the wilderness of a new world for their very existence felt like in the hearts that they owed a special debt of gratitude to God for having given them a home and freedom even in a new and untried [illegible] our effete civilization has made the wilderness to blossom as the [illegible], but in [illegible] has cultivated such extravagant ideas in our heads as to what real living means that very [illegible] of us feel like we have had what [illegible] our due and, hence, about 90 per cent of us do not really feel like we have anything to be thankful for.

This is not the fault nor failure of God to provide for us, as in other days, but is the fault of an alarmingly abnormal style of livnig that is affected by their wealthy and folishly and imitated by the poor. A spirit of rivarly and envy has grown up in our hearts, and unless we can splurge with the Goulds and Rockafellows instead of being thankful for life and what it does hold for us, deep down in our heart we are ungrateful for even our existence.

One happy thought we should all take to our hearts and ponder is that [illegible] little we have and how hard our lot is, if it was not for the unspeakable mercy and goodness of God we would be in torment with no possible means of escape. Be thankful for a plan of salvation if for nothing else.

UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA

Around on second avenue you will notice some window signs that say, "For members only except on business."

That marks the local headquarters of the United Farmers of America, an organization primarily for farmers by farmers. It was organized here only a few months ago, but already, we are told, its membership almost takes in all of the farmers in the county. One thing we do know, and that is that, so far, it is doing a large measure of good to the agricultural interest of this [illegible]

It is educational in the sense that it teaches the farmer how he may have at least, some hand in working out his own destiny. By cooperation they can price their own products, like all other sales people, and can get the advantage of wholesale buying and selling and not pass this large and important item of cost and profit over to a third party who is in no way interested in the transaction except to pull down all the profit he can get out of it.

Before another harvest time rolls around they expect to be in shape to take care of the marketing of all farm products as well as cotton. The secret of success and independence for all farmers lies in the ability to find good markets for their products as they ripen and come on sale and then facilities for reaching the markets in car-load lots and at reasonable expense.

By the cooperation to be found in this new organization, both of these important factors will be taken care of. Market quotations from all over the country will be kept up by the business office here and the coordination of the crops from any number of small or large farmers can always be made up in to car lots and shipped to whatever point the best price may [illegible]

Whether any one farmer may have much or little of any given commodity, he can ship it in along with any number of his co-members and receive his pro rate of the returns.

The plans is simplicity itself and is one we have hoped for many years the farmers would finally adopt. There is only one reason for it to fail and that rests entirely with the farmers. If they stick to the organization and take advantage of what it can do for them, success is certain. If they loose interest and prefer to peddle out the fruits of their labor at any old price they can get, why failure will follow.

Mr. A. B. Baxley, who is state manager now and Mr. Mastin, who is head clerk in this office here, are devoting every bit of their talent and energy towards making the United Farmers of America just exactly what the farmers have needed for years and we feel just like glorious success is going to crown their efforts.

Our heart, our respect and our sympathy has always been with the man who guides the plow and we have always felt like all the rest of the world conspired to impose on him, and we sincerely hope that this organization will prove to be the Star in the East that will lead them to an existence of independence and recognition that has never been accorded them before.

If the time ever comes to pass in this country when the actual producer and the actual consummer can do business direct with each other it will prove to be the financial salvation of both. There are too many parasites now feding off of the toil of both classes before the product can get from the hands of the producer into the hands of the final consumer.

OFFICES FOR THE YOUNG.

Every time in recent years when a new Senate goes in, there is a group of new senators who make rattling good speeches and haye the faculty of drawing the attention of the public who want to push the old senators aside and run things themselves. Six years ago when the Democrats were in power it was Hoke Smith, of Georgia, who wanted to abolish the old rule of seniority, under which the oldest members of the various standing committees are made the chairman of committees.

Now it is Senator Medill McComrick, who comes forward with the Republican proposition that the old senators should be pushed out of their places to make room for young and clever senators who can push business faster. Hoke Smith's proposal which attracted much attention when he first made it was gradually shelved and the country heard no more about it. The same fate can be predicted for McComrick's revival of it. There are not enough insurgent senators who believe that any custom or procedure which is old is necessarily wrong to make any impression upon the body of old and experienced senators who believe that the old custom has proved its worth.

The fight thus sprung by the new and young senators has always revealed itself as a callous attempt by the young to sidetrack the old and take their jobs away from them. There is nothing intrinsically wrong with an old custom of procedure, merely because it is old. The seniority rule prevails both in the House and the Senate. It was an evolution of human experience. Congress had found by experience that it got the best chairman by giving the chairmanship to the most experienced and the best trained law-makers. It is natural to suppose that the men who had served for the longest term of years in the Senate, would be most familliar with the intricate work of forming and directing legislation. The men of training and experience are given promotion and the plaies of responsibility in the daily affairs of private and business life. But it is seriously proposed now for the Senate, the highest law-making body in the world," to give its responsible places of power to the young fellows of no training so that they can show their mettle.—Advertiser.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Chilton County News:—

Please allow me a small space in your paper that I may through it thank the voters of Chilton county who saw fit to support me in the recent election.

While I did not win out I am grateful to realize that so many true and loyal people in the county dispalyed so much confidence in me. I wish to say to every voter who supported me that I appreciate your kindness beyond words. The book of all books says as the tree falls so shall it lie but when we consider the wonderful gain Democracy has stacked up in Chilton county it looks possible for a resurrectoin.

I again thank you one and all.

Yours, truly,
H. E. ROBINSON

WONDER WHY.

The program of building new higtways under the arrangement of the $25,000,000 bond issue goes merrily forward.

North Alabama has already built several and other parts of the state are accumulating good roads under this benign sustem. The highway across Shelby county is to be let out Dec. 5. So it goes all over the state.

Now, we distinctly remember that state engineer corps camped with us here, off and on, for a year or more. We also remember that the first announcement the Board made after the program was started was to the effect that Chilton county, with her 35 miles of State Highway, was already surveyed, passed on, accepted and would be among the first contracts let.

Now, what we are wondering about is why more than the amount available for the first year has been spent, new roads located, surveyed and built and still we can not get hold of even a whisper in regard to when, if ever, our road is to be put through.

Some information on this subject would be gratifying to a large number of people here.

A satisfied people is always a happy and prosperous people. The reverse of that statement is also true.

For the first time in many years considerable corn will be bought in South Alabama next year. They had a terrible dry sumemr and fall that cut their crop away below normal. Those good people as a rule make all they need and some to spare.

TOO LATE NOW.

Truman H. Newberry, the man from Michigan who bought a seat in the United States senate for somethnig over $200,000, has resigned and retired from whence he came.

The "whitewash" his republican allies put on him in the Senate when they made a strictly party vote allow him to retain his seat in the body, has cost nearly every one of those who voted for him in the Senate and then had to go before the people this [illegible] his job. The Newberry case was made an issue and the democrats won.

Townsend his collegue from Michigan, stood by him in the Senate and then went home in November and was defeated by a democrat.

Newberry did more than any one thing to bring the ranks of the old G. O. P. into disrepute with the people. His act was so bold and so flagrant that the stench of his memory will still linger two years hence, even if he has seen the handwriting on the wall and flown from the wrath to come.

GARBAGE CANS

We suggest that our city dads have garbage cans placed along in the business district.

Cane peelings, and other debris that accumulate, especially around the numerous fruit stands do not add any to the beauty of the sidewalks and banana peels are especially dangerous to pedestrains.

PREACHER HELPS BOY CRIP- PLED 5 YEARS; HE NEEDS NO CRUTCH NOW.

Alton Green, twelve years old of Pletcher, Ala., now walks without crutches. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Green, of that place, poor but honorable people.

The pastor of a Montgomery church was at Pletcher, not long ago. He saw that Alton was suffering from an injured right foot and was told that the little fellow had been going on crutches for the past five years. He was told by a doctor that an operation would remedy the trouble. "Operate" said the preacher. And the child was brought here to a hospital and a few days ago he was sent back home by the churchman. "He carried his crutch on his shoulder," said the sky pilot with a big smile as he accompanied the boy to the union station and put him on a train. "Five years is a mighty long time for a twelve year old boy to use crutches" said the benefactor of the youngster. He would not allow his name to be used.—Montgomery Advertiser.

WHAT CHIROPRACTORS DO.

This is a mechanical science and not a system of medical or faith cure.

They repair the different organs of the human machine like a mechinist repairs the different organs of the Mechanical machine.

They do not do their work by guess, but like a trained machinist, they have to possess exact scientific knowledge of the work to be successful.

They learn the business of repairing the human machine at scientific Institutions thoroughly equiqqed to teach, and must be perfect in this intricate and exact science before they are given permission to go to work.

By repairing the worn or defective parts of the human machine they cause it to function properly, and when it does that disease can not exist and perfect health results.

They treat successfully, without knife or physic all such diseases as, app[illegible] paral[illegible] ssure. [illegible] affections, rheumatism, [illegible] asthma, tuburcular affe[illegible] and intestinal troubles, headache, all other abnormalties of the hum body.

DISCUSSING THE SOUTH

M[illegible] the south is to be de[rived] from the meeting of the southern Commercial Congress being held th[is] week in Chicago. The assemblage of representatives of many foreign nations to discuss with representatives of the south such broad questions as the [illegible] of immigration, trade relations [and] international friendships of itself is calculated to bring about good results. The south has four great staples which the world wants and takes in large quantities. They are cotton, the grains, lumber, and iron and steel products. As the world needs these products the south needs the world for their consumption and anything that brings the world and the south to a better understanding of each other will tend to promote that business.

The problem of transportation and the interest of agriculture will be discussed by men eminent in pulbic life and experience in the matters o fwhich they will speak. The congress will serve as an interchange of thought and of knowledge. The south especially needs the diffusion of exact knowledge of what others require and the manner in which their wants are to be met by her industries. One cannot see immediate results flowing from activities like that of the Southern Commercial Congress, but they will as surely follow as all honest effort at enlightenment attains results in the long run.

NOW FOR THE SHOALS PROJECT

Senator Capper, leader of the farm bloc, comes to Washington for the special session with the avowed purpose of uniting all possible forces to complete the lease of Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford. Failure of Congress to act on this proposition during the session just closed was one of its most serious sins of ommission. It is plain to everybody that chasing political will-othe-wisps was directly responsible for neglect of important questions of national concern. The elections are over and Congress should not be under any delusions as to its public duty on leading measures pending.

Development of Muscle Shoals is a project that appeals to almost the entire population. In its wider national aspect is has three-fold signifiances. In the first place, its success will pave the way for development of the nations water power everywhere. Its failure would give a setback to water power development from which it might take years to recover. In the second place, the government has already invested close to $100,000,000 of federal funds at Muscle Shoals. The Ford offer opens the way to a partial return of this capital directly and to a more than compensating return indirectly through the tax revenue to be derived from the wealth that the project will call into being. All this, of course, takes no account of the increased prosperity resulting from the development of the Muscle Shoals possibilities. In the third place, there is bright prospect of a great benefit to the farmers fertilizer needed by the nation's farms; but it will have effect upon all fertilizer prices if Ford succeeds in demonstrating that needed fertilizers can be produced at a lower figure than prevailing prices.

The local benefit to the state of Alabama and to the territory immediately surrounding Muscle Shoals can scarcely be estimated. All the southern states contiguous to Alabama can properly join in one united effort to bring about the immediate leasing of the shoals, for all of them will directly benefit. If these states and all the communities of Alabama present a united front on the proposition, it can be successfully brought about. Now is the time to present that front.—Age-Herald.

TWO "BEER" BONUS BILLS INTRODUCED

The long legislative fight to reward America's 4,000,000 world war veterans with a federal bonus was re-opened Monday when Congress convened in special session.

The opening shot in the new bonus battle was fired by congressional "wets" who linked the adjusted soldiers compensation with provisions raising revenue for its payment by the sale of beer and light wines. The plan while calling for certain modification of the Volstead act, its sponsors said, would meet the bonus objections raised by President Harding when he vetoed the bill passed by Congress in its last session.

The fight was launched in the House where two new bonus bills were sponsored by Representative Fred A. Britten, Republican of Illinois and John Philip Hill, Republican of Maryland, both leaders of the "wets." There was in fact a race between the two congressmen for the honor of introducing the first "bonus and beer" bill of the special session, each waiting for the stroke of noon to drop his measure into the House's legislative maw.

Hill's measure would pay for the bonus by the sale of 2.75 per cent beer, cider and "other fermentatives." Taxes levied upon these proposed sales, Hill estimated, would bring $500,000,000 into the federal treasurly annually.

The bill would prove an out and out cash bonus, being drafted in identical terms to those used in the cash proviso of the bonus measure, passed by the Sixty Seventh Congress. It would pay $1 a day for home service and$1.25 a day for foreign service in excess of the first 60 days under the colors. The cost of the cash bonus, Hill said, would be $1,500,000,000, giving as his authority Secretary of War Weeks. The bonuses would be paid in three equal annual installments, which the "beer revenue" would meet each year.

Hill declared he did not expect strong opposition to his measure. The bonus provision, he added, has already been approved by Congress, while "drys" cannot honestly oppose the 2.75 beer provision when Volstead himself has said 3 per cent cider is not intoxicating

Don't Let The Grouch Bug Bite You

Government statistics are available to show just what is possible from the building of dams and reservoirs on one of the Alabama river systems. In 1910 the government made a survey of the Alabama and Coosa rivers and their tributaries with a view of ascertaining the probable effect of the construction of storage reservoirs along the headwaters of the Coosa in Georgia. It was estimated that the reservoirs would impound 62,000,000 cubic feet and had these reservoirs been constructed at the time of the most disastrous flood on these streams in 1901, that the maximum flood tide at Montgomery on the Alabama would only have reached 33.4 feet, as against an actual maximum at that time of 46.1 feet.

Would Make Rivers Navigable.

Lessening the flood dangers is not the only great blessing that the building of dams would effect, however. It is estimated by government engineers that should the system of locks and dams proposed on the Coosa be completed that it would not alone make that stream navigable from Rome to its junction with the Alabama the year round, but that the impounded waters could be let out at such times of low water as to give a minimum of six feet of water in the Alabama river throughout the year and providing year-round navigation from Montgomery to Mobile.

The most recent illustration of the effects of flood control through the system of dam construction on the Coosa is found in the flood of the past January. At that time the great cofferdam initial to the construction of Mitchell dam was under way. There was an exceptional flood in the Coosa valley. Engineers of the Alabama Power Company, in charge of the construction of Mitchell dam, were being put to their wits to defeat the flood waters. They ordered the closing of the flood gates at Lock 12, a few miles above, and this action served to temporarily hold the flood waters and save thousands of dollars in construction work at Mitchell dam. As indication of what this means, it may be stated that Mitchell dam construction represents an expenditure of more than $8,000,000, and it will increase by 120,000 the horsepower of the Alabama Power Company.

GOING TO RETIRE

When the doors close Saturday night at the store of Mr. W. W. Fox he will have ended his career, for the present at least, as one of the livest wires in the mercantile business that ever hit this town.

He has sold out to Baker & Taylor and proposes to retire from active business and rest up and recuperate for a while. Baker and Taylor are expecting to continue the business at the same stand.

We are glad to state that Mr. Fox has no intention of leaving Clanton, for his activity and energy are needed here and he is too live to lay down and rust out. His energy will soon crap out somewhere else and when it does things will begin to happen in that quarter. Mr. Fox is known all over this country as the "man who either buys or sells anything."

MR. T. J. WILLIAMS DIES

Mr. T. J. Williams, for long years one of the most prominent citizens of the southern part of our county, died last week at his home in Verbena.

So far as the family know, he was in his usual health and had walked out in the yard, when suddenly he dorpped to the ground and was gone.

The deceased was 78 years old and leaves behind to mourn and miss him a wife and six children and 39 grand children.

All of his children lived near the home nest and were all present at the closing of his long and peaceful career.

The children are Messers. J. F. Williams, and Willis Williams, Also Miss Della Williams, who is a prominent Sunday School worker, and Mrs. Ellen White, all of whom live at a near distance of Verbena.

The remains were followed to the Verbena cemetery by one of the largest crowds that ever attended a funeral there, and were peacefully laid to rest in that silent city of the dead, to await the call when the just and perfect shall come forth and inherit a home with the blessed.

WANTS A LOCATION.

Mr. J. B. Turner, of Columbiana, who was the able Democratic Campaign manager in Shelby county during the recent campaign was in our own this week looking for a business location

We certainly hope he will be successful in finding what he wants and we can guarantee him a warm welcome into the business circles of Clanton. Our doors are wide open to all good citizens and we invite them to come.

OUR HAT IS OFF.

The News wishes to extend its thanks and also its sincere congratulations to the City Council for the two Ordinances just passed and printed this week.

A systematic fire fighting unit will result in a 100 per cent better fire and in the future will be noticed. Note especially the penalty for driving over the fire hose.

The parking and traffic ordinance is all right too, and if properly enforced, will result in the saving of many accidents and, possibly, lives in our town.

Let all good citizens now cooperate with the authorities that we may reap the large advantages made possible by these two laws.

MOVING AWAY,

Mr. G. O. McKee, for many years a successful market man in Clanton, has sold out his business to Mr. E. I. Motes, who will continue the general market and grocery business at the same stand.

Mr. McKee is going to engage in saw milling down near Grady, Alabama, where he will shortly move his family.

Clanton is sorry to loose such good citizens, but wishes for them unlimited success in their new home.

G. D. Retherford went up to Birmingham Tuesday to purchase more furniture for his growing exclusive furniture store.

Thanksgiving

The good old custom of thanksgiving, which originated in New England with the Pilgrim fathers, has become a universal custom and now, each year the President of our great country, as well as the Governors of the different states, issues a proclamation declaring the day to be set aside for prayer and thanksgiving.

When we look around us and begin to count our blessings, we have a great many things to be thankful for.

If you have opened an account at our bank and have a snug little sum to your credit you have a great deal to be thankful for, and if you haven't done so you can still be thankful that the opportunity is still open for you to do so, and that a good safe bank is ready to receive your deposits, and give you the very best service, coupled with courtesy and attention to the minutest detail, whether you account be large or small.

MRS. JULIA COX DIES.

This most estimable lady passed "from death unto life," Sunday, Nov 26.

Mrs. Cox was 72 years of age and was sick only a few days with pneumonia when the summons came and she was called up higher.

The remains were buried at Samaria Tuesday the 28, services being conducted by Rev. Albert Foshee.

She is survived by one brother, several children and a large number of grandchildren and other relations.

Undertaker Martin had charge of the funeral arrangements.

NEW M. E. PASTOR.

We notice in the printed reports of the appointments made by the South Alabama Conference, which convened last week in Montgomery that Rev. C. C. Wilkerson is sent to Clanton for the next year and that Rev. D. M. Pearson, who has been with us here for two years, goes to Selma.

We certainly regret to give up Bro. Pearson and our very best wishes will go with him to his new field.

COL. GRADY REYNOLDS TO BUILD

Material is being put on the ground and work is being started on what will be one of the prettiest bunaglow house in town.

Col Grady Reynolds is having this splendid house erected and Architect Ed Plier is the contractor.

A new fruit and vegetable business has recently been opened up in the Roper building just west of the railroad.

GONIG TO BUILD BACK

Mr. J. A. Nivens, who had the misfortune to loose his dwelling by fire last week, is going forward at once and build him a modern bungalow house on the same lot.

Plans are being drawn now by Architect Ed Plier and work on the new structure will begin as soon as the necessary material can be assembled.

SHRINERS RALLY

The Alabama Shriners have been "putting the big pot in the little one" at Montgomery this week and the following Clanton gentlemen were among those who attended from here.

Messers. H. T. Pipes, M. A. Gore, Dr. N. S. Johnson, L. H. Reynolds, Grady Reynolds, Omar Reynolds and F. J. Callen.

Messers D. M. Martin, A. D. Martin and Wm. Walker, of beat 3, were here last Monday.

COUNTY AGENTS AND FARM BUREAU

In this issue there is an article from the Union Farmer, published at Little Rock, with reference to the relations of county and government agricultural agents and the Farm Bureau

It seems to us that the writer has the question down just about right and that his statements are true. The United Farmers of America have met with very little opposition; but where there is opposition in has been by the Farm Bureau, helped out by the county agent.

The Farm Bureau has a perfect right to operate as a farm organization; but it has no right to operate a semi-government organization and take the time of government-paid agents to further its cause They may not say so, but there are many people led to believe that their organization has special government approval, because of the fact that county government agents work for the bureau.

The U. S. commisisoner of agriculture has expressly forbidden any county agent to engage in Farm Bureau work or any other similar work: and where the county agent does so he is violating government instructions and can easily be stopped by being reported to the department of agriculture.

The county agent is supposed to instruct and help the masses of people in their agricultural problem ,and not engage in the work of a semi-private political farm organization. When he does people in his county should report him at once to the department of agriculture.

As an organization the United Farmers of America has no fight to make on any organization or individual; neither does it ask the aid and assistance of government paid county agents to perfect our organization; but rather seeks to aid and cooperate with the county agent and help him in every way possible to reach the people in the county inwhich he labors.—United Farmer.

EDUCATIONAL WEEK

This is Educational week and we are delighted to learn that education in Clanton is not lagging behind in our town and county.

The high school here has an enrollment of 178 pupils. We now have seven teachers. The first month we notice that they had 46 on the honor roll, the second month 52 were on the honor roll thereby showing that the number is increasing.

The two Literary Societies, the Tutwiler and the Lanitrian, have recently raised $97.20 for the purpose of adding to the already good library at the High School. These societies are doing excellent work.

Mr. A. W. Hyatt, assistant High School Inspector, was at the Hight School last Wednesday. He reports that everything is progressing along nicely there.

Prof. S. E. Alverson the principal is a good school man and the school has made progress under his efficient management.

Hoyt Reynolds, who is a student of the University of Aalbama spent Sunday with home folks after taking in the Alabama and Georgia football game at Montgomery last Saturday.

ALABAMA -vs- TECK

The closing game of the foot ball season among the hight class teams will be played in Atlanta today between the Auburn team of Alabama and the Teck of Georgia.

Great interest is manifested in the game all over both states and an immense crowd will be present. The following gentlemen have gone from here. Dr. N. S. Johnson, Messser H. F. Downs, O. N. Jones, F. J. Callen M. Lande, and perhaps others.

One of the ways in which the world has advanced in morals and education is clearly shown by the fact that Mike Donahue, the Auburn foot ball coach, has an offer of $12,500 to coach a college team in foot ball next year The president of that same college only receives $5000 per year for his services. That's the kind of progress you are making.

EVERYBODY SATISFIED

[illegible] the election there has been [illegible] about a contest [illegible] have never known a question before upon which the people of Chilton county were so unanimously united as they are in their desire for the contest to be made.

Of course, the democrats wanted [illegible] not have put up the cash employed council and gone to all the trouble in tabulating evidence that they have.

Now, our neighbor, the Union-Baner which is the organ of one wing of the republican party in Chilton county, came out in a lengthy editorial last week which was a real rapturous, glee- [illegible] pect of a contest. Bro. Wyatt even grew almost sublime in his rapturous exultation over the prospect and [illegible] let it come."

From the latest information we can gather Bro. Wyatt's prayer has been [illegible] we can all rejoice together with the assurance that the contest is a fact and that it is going to be through and to a finish. Since both sides and all parties have expressed such an earnest desire to have the election con- [illegible] my bitterness and equally, of course both sides and all parties, to be consistent, will cooperate in making the [illegible] purging of the ballot box.

We would like to make just one [illegible] rather [illegible] Kilby prison. No reader of the News will [illegible] that statement for not even such an insinuation ever was printed in this paper.

[illegible] we thought all the convicts would be republicans.

[illegible] a thorough purging of the Chilton county ballot box and a final decision [illegible] our best to do the right thing.

WHAT ABOUT MORAL STANDARDS?

It is pleasant and satisfying reading to regale ourselves with lengthy [illegible] to prove that great [illegible] made in the world along the lines of moral and educational advancement. The public conscience is lulled into peaceful dreams and sentiment of satisfied moral obligations [illegible] the soul of the average citizen as he reflects on the sublime greatness of the era in which [illegible] arguments based on facts and are we really growing better as the years go by, or [illegible] are these interesting soothing statements born out by the absolute condi- [illegible] more moral, or has our statements of morals been broadened and amended to suit "progressive" conditions until [illegible] to do and, if he gets by with it, the moral statement has not been molested.

Is it not been that almost every day you see and hear of things being done with absolute immunity from either legal or moral censure, that a few years ago would have demanded, under the then existing moral code, proper restrictions and that at once?

Society a few years since would [illegible] person, of either sex, who had the hardihood and brazen affrontry to pull off some of the stunts that go un [illegible] fact?

Another thing. We read about the great moral and educational "uplift" [illegible] modern society and religion are making, and in every instance we find that the results are measured in dollars and cents. So many millions dollars have been contributed for this fad and that fad but never a word said [illegible] pers of the rich contributing in dollars to cover up a life, perhaps, as black as Stygian darkness.

[illegible] pessimistic in all things, but there is a point where optimism becomes dangerous in the per [illegible] moral class, and the first thing [illegible] his own moral life, because he realizes that he is leading even a chance [illegible]

Why be Profane?

The Good Book says: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain."

Even the devil does not offer a single inducement, either in wealth, happiness, power, influence nor pres [illegible] of the Most High.

You make no friends nor add any weight to your arguments by [illegible] witching your conversation wit oaths, but you do forfeit the respect of all decent people.

Still, men and women, both young and old, will defile their lips and scorch their souls with blasphemy and for what? It is the most absolutely foolish [illegible] could imagine when you come to think about it. Don't you think so?

A great many people are certain they are going to heaven when they die just because they didn't steal anything and get caught, paid all their debts they couldn't beat, didn't get drunk in public and lived reasonably decent.

One of the ways in which the world has advanced in morals and education is clearly shown by the fact that Mike Donahue, the Auburn foot ball coach, has an offer of $12,500 to coach a college team in foot ball next year. The president of that same college only receives $5000 per year for his services. That's the kind of progress you are making.

"IN MEMORY OF BIRDIE"

It was during the quietness and stillness of the early evening hour of November 21, 1922, that our Heavenly Father sent his death Angel to visit the home of Mr. J. C. Blackmon of Maplesville, and took away the sweet spirit of his daughter, Birdie, age 19 years, 1 month, 13 days.

She gave to her church a few years of loving and faithful service, even ready to give of her means and influence to whatever advanced the cause in which [illegible]

Our Heavenly Father [illegible] hand we must bow in humble submission to him knowing that heaven has gained another jewel. Therefore be it resolved.

First, that although we feel very deeply our loss we have the consolation of knowing that our Father doeth all things for the best

Second, that we extend to her relations and friends our [illegible] ours will bles and sanctify her memory and in the sweet by and by will [illegible] shall [illegible]

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the grief stricken family, a copy to the Chilton County News and that a copy be placed upon our permanent record books.

Alabama's penitentiary lacked eight prisoners of having 3,100 at the beginning of November. Records of the state convict department show that the total when books were closed October 31 stood at 3,092. During October 157 new prisoners were received, a decrease of 18 from the number received during October, 1921. In September 91 new convicts arrived at the prisons, compared with 114 in September, 1921.

After being at large for more than two years, Alfred M. Gilmore, white convict, is to be returned to the Alabama penitentiary to serve the remainder of a sentence imposed on him in the circuit court of Jefferson County in 1918. Gilmore was located in Kansas City, Mo., where he was taken into custody by detectives of that city.

All efforts to identify the body of a white man found floating in the Alabama river near Mount Vernon in the northern part of Mobile County, have proved futile. CHANCE TO FIND OUT

Just now a belated effort is under way to find out some of the facts about government business and government employment. The Bureau of the Budget has been organized and is in operation under the direction of Charles G. Dawes.

Both houses of congress are working on the problem of reclassification of government positions and salaries. The Veterans' bureau has been organized and has taken over the bureau of war risk insurance, that part of the public health service which had to do with veterans, and all of the work of the federal board for vocational education except that part which had to do with the treatment of injured in the industries.

[illegible] so the inquiry being made by the joint committee on the reorganization of the administrative branch of the government of the two [illegible] of congress, of which I have [illegible] Walter F. Brown of Ohio is chairman of this committee, representing President Harding. The members of the committee are, on the part of the senate, Senators Smoot of Utah, Harrison of Mississippi and Wadsworth of New York. The members on the part of the house are Representatives Reavis of Nebraska, Temple of Pennsylvania and Moore of Virginia [illegible] regarding their powers and duties, their distribution among the several executive departments, and the overlapping and duplication of authority."

In reporting the resolution from the [illegible] to the house th[illegible] [illegible] Hamilton, at [illegible] the result is that activities entirely out of harmony with the functions of depart[illegible] the passing year [illegible] the United States has become not only the biggest business in the world, but the world's worst managed business.

The purpose of the resolution is to ascertain so far as possible the extent of the overlapping and duplication of activities, with the view that numerous [illegible] may be elimi[illegible] [illegible] the facts that no more constructive legislation is possible under existing conditions than the legislation proposed by [illegible] resolution. With the present condition of the nation's finances and the burdens the people suffer because of excessive taxation, any legislative measure looking to real economy should commend itself to the sympathetic attention of the house, and we feel that the passage of [illegible] resolution and the work of the committee [illegible] it will be done under its authority [illegible] ult in the saving of millions annually."

It can be predicted with considerable assurance that nothing will come of this proposed voyage of discovery unless we, the shareholders in the enterprise, [illegible] tain an active, lively, sustained interest in it. One thing is always true of the house of representatives—it is representative. If we breathe warmly upon it, it glows. If we are indifferent it becomes cold.

This isn't the first time that a plan has been set in motion to find out something about how the government's [illegible]

The earliest inquiry into the administrative methods of the executive departments was made by the Cockrell [illegible] sion in 1887. Six years later, a joint commission, of which Representative Dockery was chairman, was appointed to examine the status of the laws organizing the departments. President Roosevelt in 1905 named an interdepartmental committee, of which C. H. Keep, assistant secretary of the treasury, was chairman, to consider department methods. President Taft in turn, in 1910, named a commission on economy and efficiency, of which Frederick Cleveland was chairman.

Broadly and generally speaking, nothing came of these enterprises. You and I—commonly and vaguely known as the public—were not interested, and neither was congress. That ended it.

[illegible] at this moment, we have the best chance we ever had to find out about our common business and how to improve it and lessen its cost to us. The burden of supporting it is heavier than ever before.

VOLUME 2 CLANTON, ALABAMA, DECEMBER 7, 1922. NUMBER 13

TO BOOST CHILTON COUNTY

TheChamber of Commerce is preparing to issue a booklet setting out the possibilities in Clanton and Chilton County which they want to make one of the most attractive things of it kind ever gotton out in the South.

Beginning the work at the time of year that it now is the only difficulty they anticipate is in securing photographs of farming scenes in growing and harvesting season. Therefore they are making an appeal to every person who has a kodak or big views or negatives of such scenes in the County kindly carry them to the office of Mr. V. J. Heard, the secretary of the association and help in making the work they are doing really represent the wonderful county in which we live.

This appeal is for now. Mr. Heard says that all photographs or negatives will be preserved and returned to the owners if they request them back.

A large and representative number of citizens have already put their names down as subscribers to and supporters of this publication and it is going to be a howling success and do a wonderful amount of good.

AT THE LAST MOMENT IT CAME.

Yesterday morning as we were tearing our hair in the attempt to be editor, manager, job printer and "devil" all at one and the same tiwe. Mr. . P. Parrish entered and delivered a bucket, sent by our good friend W. T Johnson.

We dived into it and behold, it was brimming full of good old time sugar cane juice. We visualized a thousand happy scenes of days gone by as we quaffed our fill of this nectar fit for the gods. We are so full of cane juice now, W. T., that everything else is crowded out, but will thank you some other time.

IT BEAT WILL TO IT.

The only thing we have heard of that could get too swift for Will Armstrong is a Hudson Super-Six.

He undertook to coax one into the Main Street Garage Sunday morning but for some reason, the Hudson balked on him. He goosed it in the short ribs like a fliver and before he could even apologize the Hudson herded all the little Fords in there ahead of it and smashed the whole outfit through the back door—and the door was shut too. Ask Will.

MR. JOHNSON SICK.

Mr. J. L. Johnson, our genial business manager, has been confined to his bed all this week with an acute attack of flue.

He seems to be safely on the mend now and we hope to have him out again in a day or so. Our column of "Personals" suffers when he is away.

NEW BUSINESS HOUSE

Material is being put on the vacant lot next to the Broadhead store for the early construction of a business house there.

Mr R. Q Wade, who recently bought that property, is having the work done and we have no doubt but what the new buiding is already leased.

Several other business houses are needed here and we rejoice to see even this one going up.

CAN YOU BEAT THIS ONE?

Last week Mr. J. B. Gardner, who lives down near Verbena, brought us what we consider a champion collard.

This giant piece of garden truck measured over four feet across the top and stood three and one half feet tall. It was so tender you could hardly handle it and the good little woman who lets us live with her, had to cut it up and cook it on the installment plan from day to day.

Many thanks, Mr. Gardner, and may your collards never grow less.

A FAULTY BRAKE.

One day last week as Mr. Tom Robinson and his family were motoring out on the Lock 12 road they started to decend the Cane Creek hill when the brake gave way and his Ford tried out its speed.

Before going far Mr. Robinson lost control of the car and went into a ditch, wounding Mrs. Robinson quite seriously and slightly hurting one or two others. All of them are reported to be recovering.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT VERBENA.

In responce to a feeling that promoted it a Thanksgiving service was held at the Methodist church here on Thanksgiving eve. There was not a large crowd in attendance, but it was a truly typical one of the Verbena community, and of the American nation that gathered there to observe the custom begun three hundred one years ago by the pilgrims on the lonely New England shores, and to there with humble hearts thank God for the continuance of his blessings on them individually and as a nation. The services were beautifully simple and informal, and fully in keeping with the spirit of the occossion. The following program was rendered:

1. Song, "America."
2. Scriptpre Reading, by Rev. C. E. Roberts.
3. Prayer, by P. F. Mitchell.
4. What the Pilgrim Fathers Had to be Thankful for, by J. C. Pattillo.
5. Chorus, "Crown Him."
6. What we have to be Thankful for Today, by Dr. H. T. Caffey.
7. Solo, Mrs. C. E. Gulledge.
8. Chorus, "All Hail Immanuel."
9. What We can do to Perpetuate Thanksgiving, by Samuel Scott.
10. Prayer, by Judson Strock.
11. Doxology, and benediction.

By request, the number by Dr. Caffee is presented for publication.

My only reason for appearing before you this evening, my friends, is that I'm not responsible for it. Some ladies called on me a few days ago and ordered it, and I dared not disobey. In the slang vernacular of the day, what the women say "goes." "Mrs. Jiggs" in rounding out my education some 40 or less years ago looked after this part of it. Then, too, my grand mother, bless her sainted soul, looked after my education in my kindergarden days just back in the sixties. Furthermore, I inherited from my great grand father, Adam, a disposition to obey the ladies. Anyhow, it's become a fixed habit, and I'm too far on the shady side of life now to disregard it even if I dared.

Thanksgiving is an annual religious festival in the U. S. * * * It originated in 1621, when Gov. Bradford of Plymoth colony appointed a day for public praise and prayer after the first harvest. The practice was observed by the other New England colonies, and during the revolution was introduced into the Middle States. Since then it has extended to all the States, and has been a national institution since 1863. What does thanksgiving mean to us today? Perhaps the most natural meaning to a certain class of people is turkey and cranberry sauce and fruit cake. But to the thoughtful and serious it means prayerful and heartfelt thanks to the Supreme Master of the universe for countless blessings-gifts from His own unstinting and bounteous hand.*  Leaving out of consideration the many spiritual blessings for which every decent, normal man or woman is duly thankful, I shall mention only a few temporal blessings for which we should be specially thankful. Our hearts should go out in gratitude to the Giver of all good, because we were born citizens of the greatest country on earth, Greatest, not because the richest: not of our boundless plains and fertile vallys, and magnificent cities, and inexhaustible resourses, or any of the other things which go to make up temporal prosperity. But great because, in spite of all its defeats of administration, its government is founded on the highest ideals of all the ages; great because of its noble men and virtuous women whose lives are set to high ideals and noble all the world-their noise is but a receding wave of civilization-and their ideals with them will soon be buried of all these things we still have the best government on earth with one single exception, and for this, we should be duly thankful. We should thank God for our girls and boys. They are the biggest asset of our nation today. We need no stronger argument to assure us of their importance than the fact that God has reserved for them the only love in the world that has no element of selfishness in it-parental love. Their importance is further attested by the fact that the State gives half of all the taxes levied and collected to their education. They are the pride and hope of our country. Let us therefore afford them every advantage that will develop in them, those qualities which make for better and higher citizenship. But above all these, I thank God for the beautiful women of our country. And when I say "beautiful", I have reference to that superficial quality which sometimes adorns our young women, but which perishes like a flower from the face of the earth; but to that deeper and more enduring beauty of the heart which blossoms and bears perennial fruit in all years to come. Some of these beautiful women are in the first flush of young womanhood with the blush of roses on their cheeks; some are middle aged; some are wrinkled with age and furrowed with many car some are becked with jewels and live in gilded palaces; some are in the congested centers of our great cities toiling day by day for dependence loved ones; and some are far back in the rural districts and in lonely mountain fastnesses. But wherever they are, they are gentle and kind and sweet and pure just like they came from the handsof God; and tho' some bear the scars of many battles, still they are beautiful and sweet and tower far toward the heavens and toward God, and are the acme of his creation. These are our wives and mothers and daughters and sisters. They are the balance wheel of our civilization, and those who will win out over the dynamic forces of evil which today threaten to engulf our civilization and submerge us in Stygian darkness. No thoughtful man or woman can doubt that the forces of darkness confronting us today are portentions of the direst evil; and every student of history knows that these same forces obtained and were largely responsible for the downfall of the Babylonian, the Assyrian, the Persian, the Grecian, the Roman, and all the great civilizations of the past. But our women are good and beautiful of heart will save us.

My friends, this is what thanksgiving means to us today; these are some of the things for which we should be prayerful and sincerely thankful.

"What Shall The Harvest Be?"

"For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."
Galatians 6-7.

This is an unchanging law, just as unchanging as the law

If we sow wheat we reap wheat, if we sow, or plant corn we reap corn. A handful of wheat would not feed a family, but if sown and fertilized would yield a sufficient amount to feed a large family several days.

The above is just as true with money as anything else. We all want to accumulate money and the best way to do it is to plant it by depositing it in a good safe, strong bank, like ours, where it will accumulate and grow.

Let us help you with your money crop.

ELECTION CONTEST

In recent issues of the Union-Banner in their comment on the contest of the recent election of Probate Judge, they have declared that they wanted to see the contest come that the Judge might be vindicated.

When the contest was filed there was presented to the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Mr. M. D Foshee a bond for costs with sureties thereon whose worth is a matter of common knowledge in Chilton county, exceeds a quarter of a million dollars. That this bond caused a terrible surprise at the Court House there is little doubt

It is freely talked on the streets of Clanton by the lesser henchmen of Louis Reynolds that Marion will keep the contest out of Courts by refusing to approve the bond and by other means and methods and that if it ever gets in court that they will keep it in Court indefinitely so that the Judge may serve right on. Isn't this a grafter startling change of front? After welcoming the contest we suddenly find that it is the thing least desired on the part of the Union-Banner, Louis' mouthpiece.

The Union-Banner for [illegible] reason best known to itself saw fit in its editorial of last week to call attention to the fact, that according to its best information that two of the council for C. D. Messer were attorneys who numbered among their many clients, the Alabama Power Company. We regard it as entirely unnecessary to answer any such absurd suggestion as made that on this account the Alabama Power Company is behind this contest, and just to clearly demonstrate how absurd and ridiculous this suggestion is, we will state that according to the best information we can obtain Louis Reynolds will be represented in Court by his son Grady Reynolds, who has been for [illegible] six years the foremost and almost exclusive [illegible] father's Court-The well known County [illegible] further by Messers Hill and Hill of Montgomery, who [illegible] the State over as probably the greatest firm of criminal lawyers of the present day in Alabama

How about it Mack—is there any significance?

It is plain to any thinking [illegible] that the sole and only purpose of the comments, bo[illegible] news items and editorials in last week's Union-Banner were published as an invitation to Boycott the signers of the Bond Already has Louis Reynolds and some of his chief lieutenants and also a lesser henchmen announced that the boycott is in effect. Now Mack we hope you can put it across—for mark our word if it ever comes the fight is won and the principles in issue in Chilton county will have triumphed. Remember this Mack you may want and then not want—we stand pat on that.

In conclusion we wish to state that it has been demonstrated time and again in the past that if Louis Reynolds does not own the Union-Banner body and soul that he might as well do so—so faithfully does it guard his interests and speak for him. It is more than passing strange that his official mouthpiece should want to try this contest in the newspapers and in Mass Meetings and on the stump. Doesn't he as the chief executive officer of Chilton county know where such matters should be tried? Shouldn't he of all men be willing to let this contest be tried by the orderly process of our courts.

We do not propose to try the contest in our paper and we say that whoever is entitled to win should win. We agreed with the former position of the Union-Banner most heartily. Come on back Mack and play the man.

JUST A LITTLE TOO CLOSE

Saturday afternoon out on the Maplesville pike the autos of Mr. Lem Williams and Mr. Tom Smitherman were in collision.

From the meager reports we have been able to gather, the car of Mr Williams nor its occupants were injured, but the other car was not so fortunate. It was pretty badly smashed up and Clifford Sewel and a little boy were both considerably cut and bruised.

—A failure to give each other passing room sufficient seems to have been the cause.

OUR THANKSGIVING

No fastidious thanksgiving Turkey gobbled at our house last Thursday but people, we had one of the most succulent counterfeits you ever saw. Believe us, that absent turkey was neither missed nor mourned.

That good little woman who presides over our destiny at home had secured for us the services of a fine, fat hen for that occassion and when we formed the pleasant acquaintance of that hen, robed as she was in all the fancy filiaments of her role as star entertainer, and garnished on the one side with a crimson dish of cranberry sauce and on the other with an artistic array of celery, we smole a smile of infinite pleasure and satisfaction and the fond memories of turkey dinners long since buried in the past floated away like a flimsy dream and we thought to ourself, "See, how the mighty have fallen and the scepter has pasesd forever from the presense of the gobbling turkey.

Fireworks are already begining to play quite a conspicuous part on the down town streets at night.

Were it not that "hope springs eternal in the human heart" some of us would hardly have the nerve to go any further.

Ford cars are getting so common now they raffle them off like Christmas turkeys—and at about the same price.

It don't make any difference how the world got here nor when it arrived, we'll all doubtless leave it here when we depart

Christmas will be here in a few days. We have four pennies saved up and we expect to give the wife and kids a grand old time.

There is a United States law that bears down mighty hard on boycotting. It might be well for some people to look it up.

Nobody can please all the people all the time, but public servants should at least be able to please some of the people some of the time.

Somebody took out somebody else and gave them a good flogging in Birmingham again the other night. Oh that awful KuKluxKlan!

It is a sad thought that the greed and ambition of a few politicians can cause whole communities of good people to fall out and abuse and try to injure each other.

Just our luck. Cane billings are al over with and we didn't get to go to a single one. Never mind though. we've started already making our plan for next season.

The soul of a person who attempts to mix his business, his religion and his politics together is so small that one hundred of them would get lost in a mustard seed.

People are gradually learning the new parking laws and obeying them The speed maniacs, of course, are not supposed to learn anything. They know it all already.

Go to Muscle Shoals and get your job. Your Uncle Sam is going to spend $7,500,000 there by the first of next July and you just as well have your share as anybody.

The Chamber of Commerce is after a cotton mill now. Here's hoping they catch a full grown one, bring it home, tame it and domesticate it right here in Clanton.

Herbert Hoover says Harding will be the nominee of the republican party for president next time. We hardly think so. Harding is not a hog he knows when he gets enough.

"The devil certainly cares for his own," if he didn't, some of the brainless bipeds who race their cars on the streets would be in hades before they could even shut off the gas.

One funny thing about living is that almost everybody has a knock to make on the kind of living they have to put up with, but mighty few are ready to change this old life for the next one.

There are people who contrive to violate all the laws of the decalogue most of the laws of public decency and many of the laws on the statute books and yet they get by. How they manage to do it is a mystery.

It is estimated by the engineers that it will take 340 bosses and 2,500 men, working 3 shifts per day, to spend the $7,500,000 appropriated for Muscle Shoals up to next June 30. If you want to be one of that gang now is the time to apply.

When the law fails to function and people are permitted to go on for years living bestial indecent lives, notoriously [illegible] insulting the decent men [illegible] of a community, then it is that pu[illegible] indignation takes a hand and some [illegible] Pharisee gets his deserts at the end of a buggy whip.

SAME OLD HOWL.

Periodically ever since we can remember, a certain half baked, hyphenated element, that always contrives to get a few republican seats in every Congress, tries to break into the good graces of the northern negro voter by raising a howl in regard to redistricting the South because we refuse to allow the negro to vote.

This old gag is so hoary with age that it is really an insult to antiquity to persist in dragging it forth from the tomb, but these monkey pated statesmen are so entirely saturated with their desire to please and placate "Cuffie" that they rehash this absurd blatherdash over and over.

The disgusting and assinine part of the whole game is that they always know before they drag the old skeleton out of the grave, that there is not the slightest possibility of their bill ever going through. They are perfectly aware of the fact that they are squandering the time and service of this great law making assembly delegated and paid by the people to attend to the real vital affairs of the country, but they care nothing for that. All they want is to play up to "Dinah" and "Cuffie" in such a manner that they can hold their votes safe for the next election.

This called session of Congress that has just expired wallowed around throwing oratorical gum drops to the northern negro until they failed to pass one single constructive bill.

They have made a record that is the most glaring farce that has ever been pulled off by any legislature body, great or small, of which history gives any account. They have not even attempted to conceal their motives either in the writing of this new tariff bill for the capitalists, as against the working class, or in their vindictive efforts to pass this infamous and palpably unconstitutional anti-lynching bill as an insult to the South and a sop to the northern negro voter.

That bunch of crooked politicians sold out to the "big interests," body and soul before the last election and are so degraded in their own estimation that they have even lost their sense of decency and they openly rob and insult the common people at the behest of their bosses and then try to play up to the negro element at the expense of their own color hoping to delude them on, from year to year, with the idea that in their friendship alone lies the safety of the colored race.

THE CONTEST

In answer to the question that is asked us some fifty times per day in regard to when the election contest is to come off, we desire to say, that our information is to the effect that the suit is already filed, and that the next move in the matter will come from the Circuit Judge when he sets the case for a hearing.

One thing we know for a fact and that is that six or seven lawyers have been employed to carry this matter through and it is reasonable to suppose that they are on to their job and are looking after all the details and taking care of the contest in its every phase.

In due time the actual contest will begin and we are assured that nothing will be omitted to make it thorough and to a finish. Let us all possess our souls in patience and be satisfied that in the end everybody will have a better understanding of the political situation here than ever before.

REV. D. M. PEARSON LEAVES

Rev. D. M. Pearson, who has for two years been pastor of the Methodist church here, leaves us this week to make his future home at Selma.

In the departure of Rev. Pearson Clanton is the loser, for he is one of the most lovable characters we ever knew and in every since a clean, honest gentlemen.

While we belonged to different churches, our association with him as a friend in whom there was no guile will always be a happy memory with us.

[illegible]

Editor Chilton County News,

We can not tell what a [illegible] bring forth. There is now, before the United States Senate, a Bill known as The Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, sectional in its nature, and designed only to the injury of the South. In short it is a Bill to bring the whites to equality with the negro, in the southern country, where there are many negroes, and where, up to this good hour that equality has not been effected. The South, alone of all other sections of the country, has maintained her racial purity, and miscegination is a crime here, whereas it is law in other sections. OH! that race which is neither black nor white, but a cross between the two races. But I must get back to this Bill. Where a negro is mobbed for some heinous crime and they are never mobbed here in the South for any thing less-this negro's family may sue the County in which that negro was mobbed for the [illegible] of $10,000.00. And this suit must take place in the Federal Courts. Negroes are mobbed here in the South for assault on white women, or where a negro kills a white man, or some kindred crime. If this Bill becomes a law more negroes will be mobbed than before. There are two reasons the writer has for this assertion, which he will not mention, now. Where a negro is not mobbed for some crime, and in a race riot, this law is not applicable. Twelve men might kill a negro because he is a negro, and go unpunished under this law. But where a negro has out-raged some of our fair young women, and a mob, consisting of friends and relatives of any given woman who has been outraged by a negro, under this law, are classed as outlaws.

The nature of a negro is beastly and not many of them ever attain a common education, altho some obtain a higher; they respect brute force, more than civility, yet there are some good negroes. There may be some rare cases where an innocent negro is put to death. This too, is terrible But when a good white woman is outraged, that particular event is sufficient to overbalance all good attained by the entire colored race. In saying this, the writer is imbued with no ill will to the negro, commonly, but erroniously called the Ethicopian. The African is not an Etheopian any more than a white man is red. Let the negro learn to respect the white man and the white woman, then there will be less negroes carried to the tr[illegible] burned at the stake, or riddled with bullets. Let the people up North stop agitating negro equality, and the negro down south will become more law abiding and useful. The negro who does his duty here in the South has nothing to fear, and as long as he does his duty here, this is the best place in the world for him, but there is not a "worser" place for him when he goes wrong. This Bill, if it becomes a law, will destroy the very purpose it seeks to effect. Then, there are those of us who remember, only a short time ago, at no greater distance from our doors than Randolph one of these black brutes assaulted and killed a young white girl only 14 years old; she was near her home; her mother, it is alleged, heard her screams—but not knowing that her daughter was at that time a victim of that outrageous beast—all happened here under the blue dome of Alabama skies, and that night, as on all other nights, darkness covered, and the stars shed their light on a form, once gentle and tender, now cold and still. We cannot tell what a single day may bring forth.

W. C. HUBBARD

THE ANTI-LYNCHING BILL

Every since Congress went back into this extra called sesison the Republican majority have been trying to put the Dyer Anti-Lynching bill through. They are exceremely anxious to hand this sop to the nothern negro voter before their majority dwindles down when the next Congress convenes, because they realize that when all those newly elected democrats take their seats the passage of such a nefarious act as that will be impossible.

The Democratic minority, under the guidance of Senator Underwood, have succeeded, so far, in keeping up an organized fillibuster that has prevented the Senate from getting that, or any other legislation to a vote, and the prospect looks bright now for the republican majority to be forced to call off their fight to pass the lynching bill if they expect to accomplish anything [illegible] during this session.

All fair minded people should keep in touch with this situation [illegible]. Every man and woman in the [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] hand of the South that has [illegible] since the days of [illegible]

Watch the developments [illegible] and see for yourself whether [illegible] protection from [illegible] to the republican or the democratic party. You have been told a great many things that were not true, [illegible]'s a case in point for you to study out for yourself.

The political motto for every honest [illegible] and woman in Chilton county should be: "Let the Blessed Sunshine in."

No one seems at all disturbed over the presence of diptheria, scarlet fever, and flue in our midst. Just a few years ago an announcement like that would have stopped all the schools, shows and church services and almost suspended business.

There was no attempt made by the [illegible] in the [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] most anything [illegible] ten. Let it be understood once for all that they had legal authority for all they did. They did not go into the registration business either in the dark nor blind. You can bet your money on that.

We have not carried a pistol in 25 years or more but when that idiot, [illegible] drunk thing attempted to run his car over us on the sidewalk [illegible] the railroad last Friday evening, we were made to regret the fact that we have ceased to go heeled. We would have given all of our earthly possessions for the use of a good 38 ten seconds.

A big fight is going to be made in Congress again to lease Henry Ford Muscle Shoals. If Henry would only eliminate the Gorgas plant from his bid, his chances of getting the Muscle Shoals plant would be greatly enhanced.

CONGRESSMAN JEFFERS WARNS DISABLED EX-SOLDIERS.

Those Suffering Vocational Handicap and Wishing to Apply for Vocational Training Must do so by Dec. 15th. 1922.

ngressman Lamar Jeffers has is- the following statement regard- the matter of disabled ex-service ple. who may be entitled to voca- al training making application for :

"All ex-service people who have son to believe that they are enti- to vocational training at the hands the government but who have not made application for such training ould make the application at once they expect to do so at all.

If the application it not in by Dec- ber 15th. 1922, it will be too late. he law says the application for onal training must be filed by t date. Since this provision is a t of the law, the Veterans Bureau st., of course, require that the ap- ation be in by that time.

Application can be made by simply iting a letter to Colonel Dallas B. ith, District Manager, U. S. Veter- Bureau, New Orleans, La. It is essary for the applicant to sign his e himself so that the Bureau may sider the application an being made the man himself.

In making application, the appli- nt should give his former rank and ganization and should give a brief ment of facts covering the origin, ture and extent of his disability, and laining how he considers that he is ffering a disability that could pro- ly be considered as being a voca- nal handicap. Applicant should sign name clearly and also give his rect address.

"I certainly hope and trust that ev disabled ex-service man whose ability constitutes a vocational ng handicap and who wishes to make plication for vocational training on ount of such disability will write t his application at once and send to Colonel Dallas B. Smith, District anager, U. S. Veterans Bureau. v Orleans, La. The last day of ace is December 15th., 1922. After t date it will be too late to apply."

A CRIME AND A BLUNDER

he execution of six members of the mer cabinet of Greece still further plicates the international relation European countries. This govern- ntal act especially complicates the turbed Near Eastern question.

For one thing, Great Britian served rning on the Grecian government t it would sever diplomatic relations the accused ministers were killed government orders. Great Britain s an ally of Greece in the war with rkey, and she is now at Lausanne h the purpose of doing what she n to further Greece's aspirations d to balk the purpose of Turkey.

The wanton act of the Greece gov- nment in killing the ministers of vernment under the old regime is xplicable. They were accused of menting a war in which the whole Greece participated and which could t have been conducted without the thusiastic support of the people of eece. The war was lost under hu- liating circumstances. To turn on ministers who were in power and ve them killed is a return to the utality which characterized primi- and bloody people.

Such an act will not contribute to pacification of the Balkans. It is ch more likely to throw Greece in- bloody division and to open the way a fresh war. It was a grave offense ainst modern ideas of fairness and tice and to bring trouble about the ads of the people of Greece who re counting on the Lausanne con- ence as an aid to them in their ur of trouble.—Advertiser.

ERMANY WANTS TO FIGHT FRANCE

lemenceau says Germany is pre- ng for war. The London Daily l prints sensational and plausible ails of warlike plans in Germany h include unity of action with Rus- when the time comes to attack nce.

It can be taken as matter of course t Germany will not always be weak: does the ascendancy of a democra- political regime in that country ify that the people have suddenly rcome their historic passion for r. We shouldn't forget that the r which Germany recently made as much the war of the German ople as of the German government. e war was tremendously popular in rmany until the tide turned against goose-stepping armies. When de- t was certain, the people suffered outward conviction of sin and af- d the manner of a truly conver- people. But they are not con- ted.

ermany hates France. Germany ays has disliked France, and has attacked her three times in a hundred years, twice in fifty years.

While Germany is in no economic condition to stand a war now on the scale to which she was accustomed in the last struggle, and while Germany is forbidden by the Allies to make war preparations, and while Germany has pretended to accept this clause of the peace treaty in good faith, the fact remains that Germany is very much dissatiffied with the outcome of that war.

And the other greater fact is that the Allies who whipped Germany are divided among themselves. This pleases Germany beyond measure, and encourages her in her subtle deviltry. Germany but wants an opportunity to fight France alone. If the German people can assure themselves that America and Great Britain will not fight with France against Germany, they will force another war upon the French people.

And standing alone, France might not be strong enough to save herself.

This, we believe, is a truth which the Alied and American world outside of France, is in danger of glossing over if not entirely forgetting.—Advertiser.

TREND OF TIMES

"It is easy to make the assertion that something is wrong with our educational institutions without offering any concrete [illegible] said S. O. Mc[illegible] al worker. 'But there is one situation that requires no proof to demonstrate the tendency of the times. I attended a college football game last year where the gate receipts showed an attendance of 34,000. At the same institution an intercollegiate debate drew an attendance of 475. This was not in my home state, but my home state is no exception to the general tendency. I am not a confirmed joy-killer, but it might be well to ask if such a situation is to be commended.

GRACIOUS GENEROSITY OF THORSBY PUBLIC SCHOOL

As has been the custom for the past several years, the Thorsby Public School sent a very generous collection of "good things to eat" to the Poor Farm on Thanksgiving day The pupils of this school always respond liberally when called upon to contribute to a worthy cause. Is it probable that some of us were not properly trained in the "spirit of giving? I fear that this essential characterestic of a good citizen is too often permited to develop by mere chance. Let us not forget to teach it and practice it as well.

PRIZE PAPERS.

The Study Club offered a prize book to the pupil in the fifth, sixth or seventh grade of the Clanton School who wrote the best paper on "The Book I Like Best and Why."

From each of these grades a choice was made of the best in that grade. Those three papers were given to the Study Club to grade and determine the best. The Club ranked the papers as follows: First choice, seventh grade; second choice, fifth grade; third choice, sixth grade. Each paper was judged by standards for that grade, so as to give each grade an equal chance. These papers are printed below.

The Book I Like Best and Why.

First Choice:

The book that I like best is entitled "Little Lord Fauntelory." It was written by Frances H. Burnett an American Authoress.

It began telling about "Little Lord Fauntelory" in the very beginning of the book. He was a very poor little boy and lived with his mother in the poorer sections of New York. His father was Captain Errol, and he came to America and married a beautiful American girl. His father, who was the Earl of Dorincourt, disinherited him from all of his vast fortune of land and money, for this. Before the Little Lord Fauntelory received his title his name was Sedric Errol. Sedric had many friends, but the two most important one were Mr. Hobbs, the corner grocer, and Dick, a bootblack.

Sedric's father had two other brothers, both older than himself. The older whose name was Bevis, was to inherit the fortune, but he was thrown off a horse and killed instantly. The next died in a hospital, and as Sedric's father was dead, it was his lot to be the future Earl of Dorincourt and the present Lord Fauntelroy.

The Earl of Dorincourt's lawyer came to America to find the future earl and when he saw the little boy he was pleased with him. After a sad farewell to Dick and Mr. Hobbs, his mother, the lawyer and himself left for England. This earl, who detested Americans, had provided a home near his for Sedric's mother to live in.

The earl did not want to meet Sedric because he thought that would be awkward and backward. Instead he met a fearless lad, and also one that was not afraid of anything. The earl grew very fond of Sedric because he was the only person who had ever made him laugh.

Everything was going along fine when one day a woman and her child came to the earl's lawyer and said that her child was the real Lord Fauntleroy and that she had married Bevis before he had been killed. When the earl heard of this he did not like it and said that he would fight to the end for Sedric.

Of course this scandal was talked about a whole lot and it was even printed in the American newspapers, showing the future Lord Fauntelroy and his mother. Dick at once recognized this woman picture as his former sister-in-law. He at once went to see Mr. Hobbs, for he and Mr Hobbs had grown to be very intimate friends. They consulted a lawyer and Dick's brother was summoned from Texas. As soon as he arrived they left for England where they went to see the earl's lawyer. They then went to see the woman and she confessed that she had wanted her son to be rich and this was the way she went to it. Dick's brother took his son back to Texas.

The earl went to see Sedric's mother and on the following day he brought the little lord to see his mother and he asked him to ask his mother to come and live with them and he consented.

The reasons why I like this book are:

1. It is a good, sensible and interesting book.
2. It has a good moral. It being kindness above everything.
3. It is in large print, which never tires the eyes such as small print does.
4. It has interesting pictures throughout the book.

Age 12, 7th grade.

Second Choice:

The Book I Like Best and Why

The book I like best is the Bible. It is a book that is a great help to mankind. It teaches us the right way to live. It tells us of prophets who trusted in the Lord and were always repaid by going to heaven at their death.

The Bible tells us of the creation of earth. How Adam and Eve sinned against the Lord. How God let Methuselah live a time him [illegible] sixty nine years. How God destroyed the earth with water. How Abraham served the Lord. How Jacob's people went to Egypt and were slaves one hundred years. How Moses served God and led the Israelites out of Egypt. Of Samuel, Saul, David, Esther, Daniel, Isaiah the prophet, and long years after David's death Jesus was of David's line. How he died to save us all. How he gave us "The Lord's Prayer" and the Beatitiudes. How he gave us the parables. It tells us of the Psalms of David. It tells us of the resurrection day and how Jesus ascended into heaven.

Third Choice:

"Rip Van Winkle"

This wonderful story has been the best one I have ever read, not only I but others. It has been long remembered from generation to generation. This story is not all history but is very interesting.

Once upon a time there lived a very unhappy family named the Winkle's. The unhappeness of this family was caused by a bad mother. All of us know that the wife of the house is boss. Mrs. Winkles was not only boss, but was mean to her husband.

It came to pass that Rip Van Winkle got very tired of his home, and exceedingly tired of his wife. He left his home pretending that he was going hunting. Rip had a very faithful old dog.

Rip started on his journey early in the morning. He had not gone far until he became very tired. He climbed his last peak for that dog. When he got to the top of the peak, he lay down and fell fast asleep. After an hour of sleep he fell into a great vision which lasted him twenty five years when Rip awoke he had hardly enough strength to rise. He finally, arose and streched himself. He looked for his gun and he only found the iron parts of it. He then whistled for his dog. He found a skeleton of an animal. He knew that this was his dog. He then looked over the mountain and saw a moving object. He waited a while until the object got closer to him. He saw what it was. It was a tiney man. The little man had a barrel tied to his back, and the barrel was full of whiskey. The man walked on by Rip. But before he got very far away, Rip began to follow him. They both walked and walked until Rip was wise enough to see where he was going. He was going to be lead to a house of theives, who were very bad to men.

After Rip had found out where he was going he turned and went the opposite way. He went towards home. In Rip Van Winkle's journey he found out what many nomads of the United States should find out. "That there is no place like home."

When Rip entered his home town he didn't know anyone, nor did anyone know him. After searching about six hours he found a friend. The friend took Rip home with care and looked after him until his death. I will now end my story in saying in my own words:

That God may take care of those who can not take care of themselves.

JAMES WADE,
Age 12, 6th grade.

In 1886 they called it the epizootic. In 1900 they called it Lagrippe. In 1910 they called it plain grip. In 1[illegible] they called it the flue. In 1922 they call it the Dengue fever. So if you don't want to be out of date and living in the past you beter fall in line and know exactly how to tell everybody what ails you.

BE IN TIME.

The post Office Department urges every one to mail out their Christmas presents early if you want to insure their delivery.

The congestion is always so great with the holliday mail that it is impossible to handle it either with promptness or accuracy.

Mail yours out early, get good service and prompt delivery and help the Department out in the heavy work of the Christmas season.

SCRIBE.

PATE'S CHAPEL.

Only those who were present will ever know what a fine singing we had at Pates Chapel Sunday evening. We can tell you of it but still you cannot appreciate the m[illegible]

The opening song was sung by J. F. Robinson then the following people sang from one to three songs; Chester Maddox. Harrison Hayes. Eula Caton, Myrtle Robinson, Ollie Pate, Hazel Maddox, Miss Nettie Hodgens We had a quartette sung by Monroe Franklin, Chester Maddox, Harrison Hayes, and Issac Waldrop. Organist for the evening were Miss Nora Franklin, Miss Mae Maddox.

We were glad to see so many of the homefolks out and were especially glad to see so many visitors from Pleasant Grove. Come back next fourth Sunday evening and listen to our Christmas songs sung by a Choir of little girls. Don't stand back on account of the weather if it is cold. We will make the room comfortable for you and we are sure you will go away with gladdened hearts.

CLAUD L. BRANCH IS DEAD.

One of the peculiarly sad and inscrutable dispensation of Providence that occur now and then to mortal beings, was the sad and deplorable death of our long time close friend, Claud L. Branch. Violently snatched from time to eternity by a crude accident while engaged in his capacity as saw filer at a Power Company mill in Coosa county, we, who are left, can hardly realize that he is gone and that never again, on this side of life's turbid tide, will we be permitted to meet him in friendly converse laugh with him at his quaint originalities.

Mr. Branch was born at Gunzales Texas, about 62 years ago and lived there until young manhood. Being at that period a cattle country, he grew up as a "cow boy".

While living there he met and married Miss Minnie Roberts, who is today the sad an dbroken hearted widow who mourns the loss of her first love and live long mate on the rigged highway of life.

Some thirty years ago he bade the "Lone Star State" good bye and brought his young bride along with her father mother and their other children back to Alabama, their former home Her father was Mr. Henry C. Roberts, who died here four years ago and her mother still lives here. She was a sister to Mr. J. H. Roberts, who also died about four years ago and who will be remembered as a prominent citizen of Clanton and prosperous wholesale lumber dealer here.

The immediate family of Mr. Branch consists of his wife, three daughters, namely Mrs. Cora Maddox and Misses Ruby and Dewey Branch, and one son, Mr. Hugh Branch, all of whom are grown up. His brother, Mr. F. T. Branch, of Montana, who was striken with paralysis some years ago, also made his home with Claude.

This is the home circle who are left in deepest sorrow to mourn in silence and miss each hour the familiar voice and footstepts of the husband, father and brother, who at the very instant of his last conscious hour was lovingly devoting himself to the task of providing for them and shielding them to his utmost ability from the hard ships and buffets of a cruel world.

For some two or three years Mr. Branch had been connected with the police department here as Chief, but two weeks ago he served his connection with the city department and accepted a position as saw filer at some small mills operated by the Alabama Power Company in Coosa county. He went to work over there on last Monday morning one week ago, and on the following Saturday morning, at 7 o'clock he was struck by a slab at the foot of the slab run, his skull fractured, one leg broken and other body bruises inflicited on him. When reached by those who went to his assistance, he was totally unconscious and remained in that condition to the hour of his death, on last Monday afternoon at 4:30 when he ceased to breathe.

He was brought to the Hospital here at 11:00 a. m. Saturday and transfered from here to St. Vincent, in Birmingham, Sunday afternoon. Was operated on there Snuday night but without benefit. He remained in a comatose condition on until the hour of death.

The remains were brought back to his home Tuesday morning and buried from there at 3:00 p. m. the same day in the city cemetery. A large concourse of friends followed him to his final plan of repose. The religious services were held at the house and were conducted by Rev. C. C. Wilkerson, the new Methodist minister here.

Claude was like all the rest of us, he had his faults, but within his bussom beat as, tender, and sympathetic a heart as ever pulsated on earth. He loved his friends and was true to them to the last drop of bolod that [illegible] rest in everlasting peace.

GOVERNOR BRANDON SPEAKS

Our Eloquent Governor Electrifies Eastern Hearers on Alabama Resources and Alabama laws.

Gov. elect W. W. Brandon spoke to an Eastern audience the past week and did there as he has so often done here, electrified his hearers by his wonderful eloquence, his heartfelt enthusiasm and boundless partiatism.

Alarmists may possess their souls in peace, so far as any act of Governor Brandon will go to nullify legal contracts, to conficate individual or corperate possessions. He is a DEMOCRAT, not a Socialist, nor an Anarchist.

Without authority to speak of the policy of the coming administration it is safe to asy, it will be just and fair to all individuals, firms or cooperations, and being such, it will be dependable to assist to develop the wonderful resources of the remarkable State

The record of Judge Brandon as an administrator of public business is writ in the record of the sucess of Tuscaloosa County, of which he was long Probate Judge. That record is constructive, not destructive.—Alabama Traveler.

County Supt. Education

Do you "love your neighbor as yourself"? Do you do unto others as you would have them do unto you?" you know you don't. Then what you going to say when you have to give an account of the "deeds done in the body?" Better be fixing up your answer now.

From the most reliable data we have at hand there has been one or two contested elections before this one in Chilton county. So far as we can remember, very few of the parties interested belonged to the multi-millionaire class and still, they all got by with it.

MORE ABOUT CONTEST

Editor Chilton County News –

As the pending contest of the election of Probate Judge has consumed a large amount of printers ink in the sheet labelled Union-Banner, I as a citizen and a voter, take this occassion to venture a few observations through the columns of your worthy news paper pertaining to the subject. When rumors of the contest first begun to be heard soon after the election, the erudite (?) editor of the above refered to Union-Banner, in a "ringing editorial" jumped up and hollered out "Let 'er Come"—"It is just what the people want"—We welcome such a contest" etc. But were others of his political ilk and kind who took a rather pessimistic view of the matter and publicity declared that "they won't dare to do it for if they do they might put a lot of Democrats in jail for illegal voting." There were still others of like faith and order who took altogehter a different view. These were they who were on the inside and knew the facts so they silently "called upon the mountains and rooks to hide them." They prayed that "thisbitter cup might pass" and are still thus praying. Was this precocious (?) editor really honest and sincere when he declared his welcome of the contest? Be it remembered that he is the "mouth piece" of that element of voters in Chilton county, who admire and trust the present Judge of Probate and the "Man Friday" of the Court House Tricumvirate.

What happened when the contest was filed? One of the Triumvirate, M. D. Foshee for many years but soon to be no longer the Clerk of the Circuit Court, refused to approve the security for costs which was presented to him as the law requires and when asked why he so refused, compacently replied-"I dont have to give any reason." "Ye Gods, upon what meat does this our Ceasar feed, that he has grown so great?" This pitibale egotist has actually brought himself to believe (or has permitted another to persuade him) that no citizen of Chilton county ma yearry his case throught the portals of the Temple of Justice except by sufference of the Clerk of the Circuit court. How does this conduct on the part of M. D. Foshee, Clerk of the Circuit Court, who is under oath, solemnly taken and filed, to "support the constitution and Laws of Alabama and to faithfully perform all the duties imposed upon him by law as such clerk," comport with "Let 'er Come"? The Law requires him to approv this security, enter the case upon the docket as a prefered case, issue proper notice to the advrse party—infact emphatically directs him as to every step he i sto take in order that a speedy, econnomical and fair trial of the contest may be had. Has this Clerk obeded the laws of his country in these matters? Has he observed the oath of his office? Don't ask him but go into his office and dmand inspection of the record, which are public property to which any citizen [illegible] the right of inspection at all reasonable hours.

However, this contest is already on trial—that is to say, one side of it being tired and tired in that faustastic forum in which the sagacious (?) editor of the Union-Banner sits as Judge, Jury and Attorney for Contestee. His (Court) was duly and Constitutionally (?) opened by a "Voluntary" entitled, "Swan Song" by "the Judge," in which all the horrors of such a contest were vividly portrayed. He sang of a certain contest of like character to that which he is undertaking to try, which w[illegible] in some other county several years ago, in which the costs amounted to Twenty Five Thousand Dollars and all the sureties for costs were made paupers etc. In crescendo he sang also that it "took three years to decide it," then in pianissimo, he sang that "Judge Reynolds was going to have 1810 democrats all summoned and the acid test put to them by the Judge as to their right to vote in Chilton county." He ends this pathetic number by admitting that the amount of time and costs of this contest was beyond his power of computation. The whole performance having [illegible] but one purpose [illegible] sible in the way of a fair and impartial trial of a cause, in a legally constituted Court of Justice, wherein the guaranteed rights of every citizen are to be protected. They propose to close the doors of the Courts against every citizen who dares to oppose them in the further enjoyment of comfortable quarters, swivel chairs, free fire, light and water, coupled with fat fees for themselves and members of their families. They don't give a darn how they acquired these comforts whether lawfully or unlawfully and woe unto him who would set about to find out how they acquired them. To prevent this contest they have turned to their usual weapons, to wit: lying, deceit, intimidation and direct appeals to the ignorant and servile. Let these truths soak into cerebrums of the Triumvirate before mentioned and into the craniums of their Sattelites that in this contest they are dealing with a type of men altogether different from that with which they dealt in their recent political campaign. The men in Chilton county who are behind this contest are men in whose veins there runs the blood of free white men, whose forebears bared their breasts to the poisoned arrows of the savage, who heard the whine of yankee bullets without flinching, who were side by side of the immortal Robert E. Lee at Appomatox, instead of in hiding among the hills and ravines in Coosa and Chilton counties, when the old flag was furled for its first and last time. These, our fathers, [illegible] home in bare feet to build again their pillaged and [illegible] homes upon the ashes left by the invader. They established again a white mans government at the point of Rpublican bayonets; they bequeathed it to us, their sons and daughters, and in Constitutional Convention assembled in 1901, we preserved it by forever eliminating the black man from participation in that government. By the way, get the Code of Alabama, examaine the list of names of those illustrious patriots of Alabama who signed this Constitution which disfranchised Cuffy and Dinah and see if the present Probate Judge's name appear among those singnatures. He was also a member of that Convention. What part did he play in preserving a white man's goverment in Alabama? The government of Alabama, founded by our fathers and preserved by their sons, still functions. It is a government of laws and not a government of men. The intergrity of our courts must and shall be maintained. Our laws must and shall be respected. Our civil and political rights can not be and shall not be taken away from us. We are not afraid. If it is true, and we believe it to be true, that in the recent campaign and election, certain individuals permitted neither the laws of God nor man to stand in their way of vote getting and we propose to lok into it in the manner and form by law made and provided and in the Forum created by law for this purpose. Because on account of threats of boycott etc. one poor little garage man in Clanton went crawling to you, begging for mercy and that asking his name be taken off the list of securities, don't dream that the rest of us are going to show you our heels. Come on with your bull dozing, come on with your craftiness, come on with your boycotting, come on with your defiance of your sworn duties under the law. This is going to indeed be "a fight to a fare-you-well. This contest will be fought out to a finish. It will not be three years in the fighting and we are not concerned about the costs. So then "Lay on McDuff,

And damed by he who first cries hold enough."

CITIZEN AND VOTER.

Mr. Latham, now of Dothan, but who lived here six or seven years ago, was in town this week and said he never saw such a wonderful improvement in a town in his life as had been made here during his absense. Just like we told you a few weeks ago, some of us who have been here all the time can't see and realize the fact that Clanton is now a city.

We are missing a weekly report from the Publicity man of the Bible class at the Baptist Sunday school What's the matter? Come on across. J. Mell.

Our money has stamped upon it: "In God we trust," but when a row is impending with some other country about all you hear is "Our Army and Navy."

News Gathered During the Week

Breezy Items That Are of General Interest

THREE MILL TAXES

At the close of the last school year nine districts had levied a three mill tax. Those districts were Clanton, Thorsby, Maplesville, Verbena, Isabella, Enterprise, Popwell, Union Point and Pinedale. Maplesville held another election during the year and enlarged her territory.

Jemison, Maples Springs, Oak Grove and Shiloh have voted a three mill district tax this year Minooka, Stanton and Bethsalem held an election but failed to get a majority vote. So there are now thirteen districts levying and collecting a district tax.

As all of the consolidated districts are levying this tax, and as these districts are the heaviest tax payers, more than half of the taxable property of the county is now paying a district tax.

The Editor of the News has been confined to his room with an attack of the flue. Last week the business manager had his day and this week the Editor is having his time.

The Christmas days will soon be here and the young people who are away in schools and colleges will soon be at home for a few days. But oh my' vacation days are like the morning shower, they are soon over and the work time comes again.

Entered in the Postoffice at Clanton, Alabama, as Second Class Mail Matter Under Act of Congress.

We are sory to see that the Birmingham News differ so radically with Gov-elect Brandon already. As we see the matter the News erected a straw man to chunk at. Mr. Brandon is much too well known in Alabama for any one to create the impression that he is not progressive or is socialistic in his views. The farmers, the laborer and the capitalist will all be absolutely safe under the manegement of "Plain Bill," always provided they are trying to deal fair and honest.

The Union-Banner man has become suspiciously solicitous all at once in behalf of the Chilton County Democrats. He takes lots of pains in trying to show them how awfully expensive a contest it. Well, if they want to spend their millions that way its all right. The money wont go out of circulation at least.

A few garbage cans along on second avenue is needed worse than we ever saw in any town in our life. A great deal of fruit and sugarcane is being sold and consumed along there and the street and sidewalks are not only an awful mess, banana peelings on the sidewalks are an awful menance to life and limb.

The Union-Banner tries to create the ludicrous impression that the Alabama Power Co. is a party to this election contest. From the affectionate manner in which it mustled up to the Power Company during the Ford bid excitement they should be better [illegible] that.

Even the weather has become modernized and the weather man is a back number. He don't know any more about what it is going to do these days than we know about how a rich man feels.

WHAT OF THESE OLD MEN?

Congress enacted a law in 1890 requiring all heads of departments and independent establishments in the federal service to report each year to the secretary of the treasury the number of employees under them who were below a fair standard of efficiency. Every year this is done and the letters to the secretary of the treasury from the various departments and bureaus are printed in the book of estimates of appropriations compiled for use by congress in making up the annual supply bills. Congress never pays the slightest heed to these reports. They are made up year after year, but the inefficient are never fired.

For example, last year the chief clerk of the treasury reported 170 employees of the Treasury department as below a fair standard of efficiency. But nothing will be done about it. The Interior department reported 139 inefficients, and will probably go on reporting them till they die of old age. There are employees of the government in Washington who are totally blind and who are led from their homes to their offices each day and back home again in the afternoon.

I knew in 1920 one gentleman of ninety-two years who had been in the government service for seventy-two years. He was being paid at that time $900 a year. His maximum pay during his long service was $1800 a year. James K. Polk was President when this old gentleman came into the service. He was born on January 10, 1828. His father was a captain of the regular army in the war of 1812. After that service he led an active life in other occupations until 1848, when he died, leaving a dependent family of nine persons, three of them boys. It fell to the lot of one of them to be the chief support of the family.

It came to pass, then, that at the age of twenty he received through the influence of navy friends of his father a small clerkship at the naval observatory, then under the superintendence of that accomplished officer, Matthew Fontaine Maury, whom he served as amanuensis for ten years, accounting it a great privilege and pleasure to have heard Maury's voice dictating the words of sense and wisdom which make up the sailing directions, the wind and current charts and other publications issued from the observatory for the benefit of the world.

From a copyist at first, November 9, 1848, at $3 a day, the young man was advanced as follows:

July 1, 1858, clerk at $1,200 a year; July 1, 1854, clerk at $1,500 a year; July 1, 1870, principal clerk at $1,800 a year; December 6, 1911, clerk at $1,400 a year; May 1, 1918, stenographer and typewriter at $900 a year.

It will be seen that he was demoted in December, 1911, and again in May, 1918, to lower positions, involving less work and responsibility. These demotions were at his own request. In October, 1917, he received from the assistant secretary of the navy, Mr. Roosevelt, the following letter:

"I have to inform you that you have been granted leave without pay for six months beginning October 13, 1917.

"As you have been in the employ of the government now nearly sixty-nine years, and during all that time your record has been excellent, I regret that there is no way in which the department could continue you on the rolls with compensation.

"I desire at this time to express the appreciation of the department for your long and satisfactory service, and the hope that you will be so benefited by this leave that you can return and resume your duties at its expiration."

I talked with one of the cabinet officers about the old and feeble employees.

He said: "I don't know what congress intends to do about them, but I know what I intend to do with those in my department. I intend to leave them alone. They can stay here as long as they like, until some provision is made for them. When I was new in the department I dismissed two of these old people and demoted another, on the ground that they were superannuated and inefficient and were a hindrance to the work.

"All three of them wrote me sad letters and promptly committed suicide. That was enough and more than enough for me. Never again will I disturb one of them. I do not choose to have it on my conscience that I pronounced sentence of death on an old man or an old woman in the service of the government. They can all stay on here as long as they like. I found them here and some of them will be here when I leave. If congress chooses to provide for them that is its obligation. But I will never sentence another one of them to self-destruction no matter what the cost to the taxpayer and the government."

Uncle Eben.

"De troublemaker," said Uncle Eben, "is one kind of manufacturer dat ought to be taxed extra."

LAW ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE NEEDED IN CLANTON

[illegible] the twig is bent the tree's inclined.' 'Childhood shows the man as morning shows the day." Those maxims ought to come home with full force of meaning to the parents of Clanton. There is none so blind as the man who will not see. I am not a pessimist or a gloom-hunter, but when I see the outcroppings of certain forces that are leavening the lamp of young manhood. I feel as hundreds of others feel that it is hight time the good people awoke from the lethargy into which they have fallen and demand a more rigid enforcement of a few laws.

There are more good citizens than bad ones in this town and the might of the good citizenship aligned with the town authorities will convince the undesirable that certain practices are not to be tolerated. If a band of twenty-five or thirty would go to the mayor and tell him to go to the limit in curbing a few nuisances, there is no doubt but that he would do one or two things. Just so long as those who are looked upon as the better class of citizens continue to wink at the flagrant violations of the law, just so long will the same conditions continue. It takes "backbone" to do it, but I believe there are good men in Clanton, who stand for the right, that have it.

The example set before the boys of the school age is absolutely demoralizing and debauching. Lawlessness is being inculcated from their youth up and how can we expect to make good citizens of them.

Where there is an abundance of smoke ther must be a little fire.

Coming events are said to cast their shadows before them. Judging from certain signs on Sunday morning we would say past events have left a "trace" behind them.

The pessimist always finds plenty to be gloomy about, but we hardly see how he can be gloomy surrounded by so much "Christmas Cheer."

The waiting cohorts of defeated candidates say there is none so unkind as the man who won't "fee".

Senator Underwood may drive a limosnie, but he's still some "filly" buster.

We laugh at the little story of "The Spider and the Fly," yet there are people just as foolish as the snared fly. A little flattery, a few skillful touches of "soft soap" and the victim slips right into the waiting net.

In methods of attainment we are opposed to the Ku Klux Klan, but it would be interesting to see them deal with Viscount Halifax, who urges Anylicane churches to unite with Roman Catholicism.

The Literary Digest is becoming saturated too frequently with Romanism.

Did you ever put your finger in a vessel of water and then look for the hole it left in the water when you removed it? Well, we all leave just about that much impression on the world when we pass away. What do you want to be so chesty for?

BOUNTIFUL BLUNT

Blount County is in that section of the State where the rivers run across the valleys instead of on along the valleys. It is the place where the seams of coal have to stop to give place for the veins of iron ore. It is the place where sandstone and limestone are found in the same mountains. It is the place where the mountain scenery surpasses that of California. It is the place where the man who wants to work will find the best opportunities. It is the place where the man can find the most pleasure if he is looking for pleasure, and can get the greatest satisfaction if he is looking for trouble. It is a good place to live if you are prepared to die, and a good place to die if you are prepared to live.—Southern Democrat, Oneonta.

That is the sentiment expressed over and over again, in many ways about many things that present wonderful opportunities of a town, a city, a county, a State or Country. That is the way to attract attention of desirable people who are looking for something they have not found, who are ready to go where the best can be found. Everlastingly, eternally stand by the superiority of your home. And when you cannot, then, change your home. Alabama Traveler.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 2 CLANTON, ALABAMA, DECEMBER 21, 1922. NUMBER 15

GREATER AUBURN

[illegible] or not to move, that's [illegible]. Much has been said [illegible] question. To the [illegible] of moving Au[illegible] unthinkable. It has been [illegible] long that I doubt if half the [illegible] State know it has any [illegible] name than "Auburn". The question is not whether or not the alumni would hate to see it moved, or that Lee county would suffer an irrepairable loss, or that Montgomery would be greatly benefitted; or that it should be located in Montgomery at all, but it is a question as to whether a change [illegible] location of this grand old school would result in the greatest good for [illegible] institution and thereby to the State of Alabama.

To a large number of the alumni any change of the A. P. I. would be like [illegible] position to k[illegible] when Southern University was moved to Birmingham and combined with Birmingham College, many of the traditions of B. C. were discarded [illegible] new day dawned. The Authorities of Southern University were in power to compensate them for giving up S. U. and coming to Birmingham. The change was so radical that the alumni of both the original institutions were at first dissatisfied. The [illegible] of terms with the incoming administration and for a time it looked [illegible] general dissatisfaction would result. Patiences on the part of the authorities smoothed out the wrinkles [illegible] today the wisdom and fore-sight [illegible] moving Southern University is being recognized by even the most obstreperous opponents. I was one of the first graduates of the combined institution and know the perilous times through which the administration passed. To the Auburn alumni who are opposed to the change of location I [illegible] would say that time will change your point of view if the change is made. I [illegible] not saying the change will be [illegible]. The idea of "Auburn sentiment" [illegible] too small a thing to advance as a reason for holding back the development of that great technical school, if it can be shown that a change would bring about such [illegible].

The idea that the boys would be [illegible] by the gay life of the city is a [illegible] which will burst of itself when the heat of the discussion comes in the Legislature. The boys who can be lured by the city will fall by the way side of life even if they were to go to the A. P. I. at Auburn. That class of boys are the ones who hunt the gay life or else if repressed too long they go to the extremes when they have a casual chance at the city, going to and from college in the fall or at Christmas time or when the teams go to play some game in the city.

If a change should be made, I do not profess to be able to express an opinion on that point. I think the city of Montgomery is the most appropriate location. The Capital city has been very much wrought up over the subject. The papers have been diligent to keep out of print some of the things [illegible] have been said. So far as I have been able to see, there has been no business guarantee of the things that Montgomery promises to do. Although the buildings at Auburn are valued at only three quarters of a million dollars, yet to erect as commodious buildings at Montgomery would cost in my opinion not less than $2,000,00. [illegible] people of that city have "said [illegible]ough, it seems time to put up or [illegible]

Our Greeting

In the Spirit of Christmas

CHRISTMAS DAY brings us the consciou[illegible] whatever our personal animosities may [illegible] ever the strife between nations — men[illegible] borhood quarrels greatly magnified — there i[illegible] lime occasion devoted to peace and good will [illegible] is the lamp which lights to higher life; its influen[illegible] supports civilization and prevents a lapse into [illegible].

Christmas spirit means Christian spirit. In [illegible] effect, one has only to reflect upon the [illegible] races, the most advanced being those of Ch[illegible] China, the oldest entity among peoples, has [illegible] rable occasion upon which the citizens strive t[illegible] all their debts. It is a national pay-up day, an[illegible] somewhat resembles our Christmas. In J[illegible] have an annual event somewhat like our N[illegible] celebration, during which the people go abou[illegible] ing good will and promoting good cheer. But [illegible] mas has a more elevating effect than either, [illegible] not only typifies peace and good will, but [illegible] essence of unselfishness and pure love, the [illegible] mon expression being the bestowal of gifts. [illegible] Christmas influence gains to the point th[illegible] shall permeate the affairs of every day in th[illegible] millennium will have arrived.

We have this day, and if we mar not its ideal its [illegible] will produce other days of the kind. In the [illegible] of a newspaper we have an opportunity [illegible] many forces operating upon the character of [illegible] We see the good and bad, the sincere and [illegible] the selfish and unselfish. We believe the [illegible] good is more active than that of the oppo[illegible] we have been able to assist the right, much [illegible] due to your co-operation and we earnestly solicit a [illegible] tinuation of the same. Our Christmas greeti[illegible] is one of optimism, good cheer and hearty good wishes.

UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA TO HAVE SCHOOL DAY

Perhaps the biggest need of the country to-day is education. To this, farmers, business and professional men all agree. The wisest man of the world said: "Get knowledge." We may or we may not agree that this applies to every individual, rather than some particular individual or class. Some men seem to take pride in being ignorant of certain rules, laws or principles. Never-the-less, that does not lessen the force of Solomans language "Get knowledge." Some men shut their eyes to keep from seeing the facts. We believe in better schools, better churches better roads, better farmers, and better citizens in general. In order to bring this about the individual must be reached. One must be educated to do his or her part-bear his or her portion of the load. When something is to be done we are too prone to want the other fellow to do it. Many a farmer would like to live on a well improved farm instead of the "old-run-down" place on which he now lives. Why not improve this place and make it what you want it to be? "Oh, I'm going to let the other fellow do that." Did you ever hear a statement like that? Is the farmer the only guilty party of a thing like that? No! Many a good little town has been spoiled by its citizens depending upon the other fellow to make it a "big" town. Some of these towns have had a whirl wind boom but when the wind ceased the boom ceased and the last stage was worse than the first.

We believe that the south is suffering from the fact that s[illegible] is [illegible] ing too much of her money out [illegible] the country, and pledge ourselves to co-operate with all commercial organizations in helping secure more and better factories, and such other institutions necessary to the full development of the south's trade and commerce. How can we secure these factories and institutions? By ed[illegible]cation, organization and co-operation. Other countries have made a suc[illegible] in this way. They made it with much less capital and natural advantages to start with than we have. Now they are rich while we are poor. Can we not profit by their experience? Can we not learn the lesson from four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wise. The ants are a people not strong yet they prepare their meet in the summer. The conie are but a feeble folk yet they make their houses [illegible] rocks. The locusts have no king yet go they forth all of them by bands. The spider taketh hold with her hands and is in king's palaces. Bible

The ant says: Make the preparation. The conie says: Make a sure foundation. The locust says: stay together. And the spider says: If you want a palace—a good home—a good town and a good country take hold with your own hands and be a builder.

The Lord smiles upon our dear southland in more ways than he does upon any other country in the world.

With these lessons before us, if every individual will catch the building spirit, get into the harness and give a lift and pull we will go forward.

In order that we may know each other better; and what is best for the organization and the country ev[illegible]

CHRISTMAS

"At Christmas play make good cheer, [illegible]"

The origin of Christmas is quite remote-dating from 192 A. D. its celebration by the early christians was attended with frequent persecutions [illegible] occassion Diocletius. Emperor of Ru[illegible] ed a building in which many were [illegible] tered in celebration of the [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] question the 25th day of December as being the date of the birth of Christ but for centuries the day has been set apart by christians which they celebrate [illegible] ative of that [illegible] It is by far the most popular and inspiring of all festival days. To the child [illegible] The day of all days to which he looks forward from the one present to the coming of the next and the days that intervene are filled with jdyous anticipation. Santa Claus, with his smiling face, his budget of toys candies and fruits and the reindeer with their tinkling bells are to him as much of a glorious reality as the well filled stocking which greets his eyes as he peeps out from his cover on Christmas morning To the grown up, it is an occossion of sacred memories. It carries him back to his childhood days; to the happy circle-long since broken-[illegible] old home fireside where were gathered there, father. mother, sister, brother he sees again their smiling faces and hears again the voices sweet. [illegible] lowed memories these, though oftimes sad yet, always sweet. His prayer Backward, flow backward, O tide of the years. "Iam so weary of toil and of tears—Toil without recompense tears all in vain!

Take them, and give me my childhood again." has been answered. [illegible] new inspiration fills him, new resolves are formed and he again takes up life's burdens and renews life's jerney with a firmer tread. The note of the new gospel which soft[illegible] good will to men' have a new meaning to him and he has [illegible] in the preface embodies upon analysis, philosophy as well as poetry

Another beautiful characteristic of Christmas is its spirit of Giving.

"That man may last, but never lives
Who much receives, but nothing gives,
Creations blot, creations blank."

Let this spirit of giving become enthroned in all hearts; not alone to the giving of tinsel and toys but to gifts of good will and kindness to our fellow man. A friendly greeting a warm handshake, a smile, a word of confidence and encouragement to the faltering, a word of sympathy to the saddened; such as these are gifts of real value after all. "Rich gifts wax poor when givers prove unkind.

BULLY FOR OSCAR

By Savoryard

Washington, Dec. 19.—The G. O. P. has just executed its grand periodic redundant, and cumulative hypocrisy touching the "nigger question" that, with more or less hiatus, has pestered American politics since the Wilmot Proviso was a paramount. Oscar Underwood is entitled to the national gratitude he earned when he conducted that sucessful filibuster that laid the "anti-lynching bill" on the cooling board. And do not forget it that a big majority of the Republican side of the United States Senate, in their hearts are as grateful to Oscar because of the exploit as any Southern Democrat now living, myself not excepted.

This episode is cumlative evidence that the Republican Party is grossly ignorant of the nature of the American negro, notwithstanding the fact that had there been no American negro there would havebeen no Republican Party, an evil we may lay to African slavery in glorious Union far more pernicious than any Wendell Phillips ever charged slavery with. The Republican Party emancipated the negro when physically the negro was a slave; but for more than half a century the negro has been an abject slave politically. In the section we call the North there are 1,000,000 negro voters, ninety nine per cent of whom are in a hapless state of political thraldom, politically, to the "Party of Great Moral Ideas," is that a healthy civic condition? Warren G. Harding says it is not and in a public address he besought the negro to add a degree of versatility to his politics. He might as well have urged the engro to add a cubit to his stature. It is not gratitude that makes the negro a Republican: It is superstitution, that superstition that has fanaticism for a child. That is a stubborn fact that made the fifteenth constitutional amendment a folly and a crime.

Professional negroes at the North constantly intimidate the G. O. P. when they threaten to turn Democratic unless the Republicans enact force bills to coerce some of the Southern States into submission to negro rule such as maintained at the South the decade 1865-75. There is no coward quite so miserable, as abject, so contemptiable, as your political coward who writes the negro planks in Republican national platforms and introduces force bills in the American Congress. How miserable these cowards are is apparent to the Southerner who knows all about the negro and knows furthermore that the negro no more intends to vote the Democratic ticket than he contemplates the exterpation of the quadruped known as the "possum or making it a felony feast on that delicious fruit, the watermellon. But your cowardly Republican tremble in his boots, summons a mountain of hypocricy and pretends to champion force bills to placate the professional negroes at the North, Not all Republicans are such cowards, however. There is Henry Cabot Lodge whose heart is full of the gloom that makes life miserable because Mississippi does not send negroes to the American Senate to help him in his arduous and tremendous labors to subject all mankind to the dictitation of his fanaticism.

This anti-lynching bill that Oscar Underwood smote till it whithered and died was calculated to aye, dsigned to abolish state lines, to lodge all governmental power in the keeping of the federal establishment at Washington. Its title is a monstrous lie in that instead of abolishing lynching it would increase lynching. It is grossly sectional in that it leaves to the state the punishment of lynching at the North, whereas at the South, lynchings are put under federal jurisdiction.

There was never any intention to pass the bill. A majority of the Republican members of each branch of Congress were opposed to the measure, and their pretended championship of it was nothing in the world but an evidence of their miserable cowardice. The thing was dumped on Congress for a democratic filibuster to kill in the Senate, in order that Republican statesmen might make the excuse to Northern professional negroes that the wicked Democrats would not allow them to enact it. It is impossible to devise any scheme that would work to drive the Northern professional negro out of the Republican party. He may have to be hired with campaign boodle to vote the Repubilcan but your professional negro cannot be hired to vote the Democratic ticket. "The pary of great moral ideas" is never lacking for boodle, and thus it is stupendious folly for it to threaten the peace of the Union by the discussion of force bills in Congress.

How silly it all is! it was Benjamin Disraeli who said this:

"The assault of brutaily you may combat, the cunning of duplicity you may contravene, the wiles of diplomacy you may defeat: but there is one force which no human ingenuity can cope with-the unconcious machinations of stupidity "

That wonderful Jew must have had in mind a Republican force bill in the American Congress.—Birmingham News.

ALABAMA FARM NOTES.

By F. W. Gist.

With the 1922 crop season nearing its close, and most things harvested, there is little to say of the present or the future, says F. W. Gist, federal and state statistician for agriculture. Final estimates of farm crop production are due in about two weeks, which preliminary conclusions have indicated as highly gratifying to the producer as well as the consumer.

Business is good right now as a result of the increased purchasing power of the Alabama farmer. The exercise of his debt-paying power has filled the banks with cash, until they are for once seeking borrowers and offering inducements therefor in the form of 5 per cent money.

As a result of the shortage of corn, oats are going in for feed next spring and for grazing this winter. In the northern counties the one-row oat drill has been operated in many cotton and corn fields, and the grain is coming up. It is still time to sow in the south, and doubtless next spring in February and March more acreage will go in. This acreage is going to save the purchase of corn on many farms, which with the present high price of corn looks like many dollars would be saved.

The price of peanuts has again gone beyond the hog or oil stage, and we may look for the sale of a considerable volume of harvested nuts which a short time since was not intended for market. A recent inquiry brought expressions of opinion that only one-half the harvested crop would be offered for sale. Hogs certainly do afford a safety valve for peanuts. If the price goes too low to sell the grower feeds to hogs; if the volume fed to hogs makes serious inroads on the commercial the nuts. This sort of a safety supply the price comes up to get valve might be applied to some other crops with profit.

Definite plans for the transformation of the 19,533-acre tract of land embraced within the boundary of Camp McClellan into a national forest reserve are contained in a recommendation made by E. B. Fletcher, national forest expert, who visited Camp McClellan last summer, copies of which have been furnished Anniston people by Congressman Lamar Jeffers.

WHAT ALABAMA NEEDS

What Alabama Needs—
Is not a new birth of freedom but the old fashioned Two Dollar lower berth.
What Alabama Needs—
Is not a job for every man but a re man for every job.
What Alabama Needs—
Is not to get more taxes from the ple, but for the people to get from the taxes.
What Alabama Needs—
Is not more miles of territory but m. to the gallon.
What Alabama Needs—
Is more tractors and fewer detractors. Is not more young men making speed (by automobile) but more young men planting seed.
What Alabama Needs—
Is more paint on the old home place and less paint on the young face.
What Alabama Needs—
Is not a lower rate of interest on money but higher interest in work.
What Alabama Needs—
Is for the young men to follow the footsteps of the fathers instead of the footsteps of the dancing masters.

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD

There are hermit souls that live withdranw in the place of their self content;
There are souls like stars that dwell apart in a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze a path where highways never ran.
Let me live'n a house by the side of the road And be a friend to man.
Let me live 'n a house by the side of the road where the race of man go by
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish: so am I.
Then why should I sit on the scorner's seat or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me liven' a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man.

CHRISTMAS GIFT!

Everyone has heard that joyful exclamation. This is a season of joyful helpfulness, a kind, loving, forgiving time. Many personal gifts will be exchanged. How about a public gift? For some time the Clanton School has needed a roof. All last winter we had to be constantly shifting about in two rooms on rainy days to escape the water. Then the summer storm blew the old roof away. It was necessary to put some kind of a roof back to pro[illegible] the plastering. A very cheap [illegible]of was put on at that time for we did not have time to wait for the tin to come. On Friday morning of last week we found one room practically flooded with water. Tin has arrived and by the time this is printed we hope to have a new roof.

The cost will be EXACTLY $391.00. The Michael Supply Company of Talladega has been contracted with to do the work. This company has covered several buildings in Clanton and the quality of their work is well known.

The School Board is doing everything possible to give a nine months term under as sanitary conditions as possible, but I cannot refrain from telling you that this same Board had to sign a note for $1200.00 last May to finish paying the teachers. The [illegible] of revenue has not changed, so [illegible] $391.00

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 2 CLANTON, ALABAMA, DECEMBER 28, 1922. NUMBER 16

SOME PLAIN-TALK TO EDITOR WYATT

The Editor of the sheet labeled-[illegible]ion-Banner- essayed to project his [illegible] into the task of attacking an article which appeared in last weeks issue of the News, over the signature "Citizen and Voter."

Among the least of this editors infirmities is the fact that he is a bad [illegible]. The writer of the article referred to and which gave this editor Saint Vitus Dance is not "an idle lawyer, neither is he ashamed of his article nor is the absence of his signature thereto due to any fear of the editor of the Union-Banner.

According to the operation of the mental machinery of this wobbly minded editor, Shakespeares Plays are spurious, Pauls letter to Timothy is a blasphemy and the entire Holy Scriptures "are not very weighly" because the man who did the writing "did not have man enough in him to sign his name to them or he was ashame of himself or his writing." True to his training this editor is not at all concerned in what is said but who said it, this is the sole question with this sycophant. It is really mirth provoking to observe how this editor draws his Pharisaical garments about him and proclaims himself opposed to "political strife." Hear him when he heralds forth that such "is detrimental to our social, business, civic and religious interests." Since when was he stricken down on his way to Damascus? (Apology to Paul.) Through the weary years that this editor has subverted the Tripod, if he ever allowed an opportunity to slip by him to malign and insult decent white men in Chilton county, it was when he was in a deep sleep. It is entirely apropos for this editor, at all times, to speak in terms of scorn and contempt concerning certain democrats in particular and all democrats in [illegible]. It is altogether proper for him [illegible] feed a certain element of our population [illegible] week in and [illegible] out with [illegible] that democrat is [illegible] society that he is a thief, that [illegible] not be trusted in the management of public affairs, that he has no rights as a citizen which any man need respect. But [illegible] the editor [illegible] the editor and his propaganda is fired upon from the [illegible] grounds and in the open, he immediately scampers to the rear and whines that "such is not best for our social [illegible] civic and religious interest." He is very much opposed to a contest founded upon prejudice. The contest of the Probate Judge's election now pending in the Courts is founded upon the civil law of the land. The only prejudice that has appeared in this contest was when the Republican Clerk of the Circuit court refused to file the declaration of contest, refuse to approve a good and sufficient bond for the costs, to place the case on the docket for trial and to issue notice to the contestee, until he was compelled to do so by decree of the Judge of the Circuit Court. (An appeal had been taken to the Supreme Court from this decree ("My Kingdom for one more hour of time") Was it "caution" or prejudice that provoked this Clerk to refuse to approve a bond for cost that represented a financial responsibility of more than Two Hundred Thousand Dollars. Just five of the dozen of sureties upon that bond, were proven in open court, in the presence of this Clerk and his lawyers, in the proceeding held on last Saturday, to be worth over [illegible]. The editor of the Union-Banner calls this caution. The Judge of the Circuit Court called it partisanship and a gross disregard of plain official duty. It was political prejudice and buffoonery. The editor of the Union Banner confesses ignorance of the reason why five of the men who signed this solemn contract, attempted to repudiate it in a few days afterwards. The democrats of the county know why.

There are yet men above the soil who "bend the pregnant hinges of the knee, that thrift might follow fawning." Some there be who view life and all its relations and obligations over the rim of a dollar. One there was who betrayed the Holy Savior for "three pieces of silver." Since when did so many democrats in the county, take the editor of the Union-Banner into [illegible] confidence and make him happy [illegible] assuring him that they were opposed to "such political strife"? A published list of their names would be interesting reading. Who are the democratic Bell- Weathers this editor charges with having fomented this contest as a scheme to annoy and harrass the present Probate Judge and who are the lawers seeking the fat fee who are aiding in this scheme? Behold the amount of man which is wrapped up in the hide of this editor if he fails to publicly disclose the names of the men whom he thus libels. His charge is a lie and he knew it to be such when he set the type that printed it. The citizens of Chilton county who are behind this contest are DEMOCRATS "the latchet of whose shoes, this editor is unworthy to unloose." We would rejoice to know the name of even one of those "many honest democrats" that have caught the same vision that this editor has caught, in beholding the "iniquity" of this contest.

"Citizen and Voter."

HELP THOSE WHO ARE TRYING TO HELP YOU

1. As an advocate of anything that will benefit Clanton and the whole of Chilton County, this paper wishes to get a message of utmost importance to all of its readers, and also to those who may not at present be so honoring us.

2. The Clanton Chamber of Commerce has under way a campaign for effectively and intelligently placing before the balance of this country facts that we already know, but others do not—that we have unusual inducements to offer outside capital and industries to have them locate here and help us grow. We have the resources for both industrial and agricultural development and expansion and [illegible] to utilize them and so capitalize them that they will bring a larger and steadier income in the form of payrolls, consumption of home products and increase valuation of our lands and other resources.

3. The Chamber of Commerce expresses its appreciation of the cooperation given by those who have already subscribed, but states that some people have not shown the interest they should, nor given support that was, and still is expected of them. This is we are sure not due to a lack of interest or a desire and intent to co-operate, but is rather to be attributed to the fact they do not thoroughly understand yet what it means to them.

4. It must be understood that this is a movement that will greatly benefit every mother's son of us, and that it behooves all of us without exception to do his or her bit toward making this campaign the unqualified success which it must be. Some are more blessed with this worlds goods than others, and they will, of course, do their part handsomely, as many of them have already done. But no matter how little some of us may feel able to give, all of us can subscribe something, so that with all hands on the line, we can pull Chilton County to the top and make it the best county in the whole glorious South.

5. This is no time for personal animosity, for squabble of any kind, political, religious, or otherwise, but it is the time for each and every one of us to link our efforts and ambitions together, and all pull as one man for good old Chilton County. Here's success to the Clanton Chamber of Commerce and its good work.

ON EDUCATION

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"The United States faces the need of a drastic and through going reform of its whole scheme of education that our children and our youth may be more effectively trained and that time may be saved in the process."

This is the declaration of Dr. Samuel P. Capen chancellor of the University of Buffalo and formerly director of the American Council of Education.

Dr. Capen is considered one of the nation's foremost educators. In addition to directing the education council he has been specialist in higher education in the U. S. Bureau of Education and during the war assisted the National Defense Council and the war department's committee on special training.

Dr. Capen suggests a process by which the student will be suitably fitted for the job he is to undertake on his graduation by "job analysis." This he says will set children on the right road to their chosen trades of profession even before they enter college.

Faults of Modern Education

Some of the [illegible] cation today Dr. Capen lists as follows:

"1. The period devoted to elementary subjects is too long. Efficiency is offest by new subjects. Nor is there proof that such change has increased pupils intellectual power.

"2. Secondary education [illegible] late and ends too soon. It is too diffuse and therefore superficial for the preperation of those who straightway must earn a livelihood.

"3. Fifty per cent of the work done in colleges of arts and sciences rightly belongs in the secondary schools. Thus it becomes necessary [illegible] methods and discipline [illegible] for immature boys and [illegible] than men and women seriously entering upon perparation for their life work. There is a great wase of time in college.

Ignoring for the moment [illegible] did achievements of the professional schools the first thing demanding correction is the fact that Americans enter upon professional careers at least two year later than citizens of other countries. This delay constantly is being increased by professional interests themselves. These interests seem to extend the time devoted to training at [illegible] higher requirements without [illegible] to their effect on the educational scheme as a whole.

As improvements of our educational system, Dr Capen suggests:

"Admission to college and continuance there should depend on a process of selection far more searching than any that now prevails.

"As early as possible in the college course there should be provision of opportunities for independent [illegible] the definite mastery of some field of knowledge.

"College should adopt all means possible to place secondary education where it properly belongs, and enter into cooperation with the school systems from which the majority of its students come.

The above is the young men and ladies, from Chilton County together with Prof. S. E. Alverson who was one of the teachers in the Jacksonville Normal, who were students in that leading Educational Institution during the 12 weks course given there last summer.

We know that if you want to become an efficient teacher or a well educated person along any other line, you will indeed make a wise selection if you will become a student of the Jacksonville State Normal located at Jacksonville, Ala.

Under the wise and efficient management of Dr. C. W. Daugette the Jacksonville Normal has grown from a small Normal to one of the largest and best Educational Institutions in the state.

You can enter the Jacksonville Normal after Xmas and get credit for the work you do during the remainder of the school year. The spring term opens March 11th. You can enter then, or [illegible] and get credit for the work done [illegible] that session.

Section 4. Be it further ordained that the adoption of this schedule of license shall not abridge the right of the Town Council of the town of Clanton to change, alter, increase, decrease or revoke any of the above licenses at any time. And when any increase is made, unless the same is paid in thirty days, the license shall be revoked, and no further business carried on thereunder; [illegible] abridge the right of the Town Council of the town of Clanton, [illegible] to require a license for any business, occupation calling or profession not included in the above schedule, and when such license is required, then the same shall be paid for the full year from January first 1923, if before July, but only half of the year if after July first.

Section 5. The no license issued under the above schedule shall be transferred except by the consent of the Mayor and Council of the town of Clanton, and no transfer shall be valid until same has been indorsed on the license receipt by the Clerk of said town and no license shall be transferred more than once, and never from one business to another.

Section 6. Any person desiring to engage in any trade, business, profession, occupation or calling for which a license or privilege tax is required by this ordinance, within the town of Clanton Alabama, shall when applying for said license designate the place at which the business trade, occupation or profession is to be carried on, and the license to be issued hereunder shall designate and state such place, and the license shall authorize the carrying on of such trade, business, occupation, profession or calling only at the place designated, unless permission shall be granted by the Mayor and Council to change the location, which permission shall be indorsed on same by the Town Clerk.

Section 7. The license herein required shall be issued by the Clerk of the Town of Clanton, Alabama and shall be signed and dated on the day when issued by him and for his services rendered in issueing said license he is authorized to charge the sum of fifty cents and persons taking out license shall pay said charges before the license is issued.

Section 8. That any person, firm or corporation dealing in two or more of the articles or engaging in two or more of the businesses, vocations, callings or professions enumerated in this Ordinance, and for which a license is required of each, such person shall pay for and take out a license for each line of Business, vocation, calling or profession, unless otherwise provided by his ordinance.

Section 9. That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to engage in any of the above and businesses or vocations in the Town of Clanton during the year of 1923 without first having procured a license therefor, and each day during which said business oroccupation is so engaged in shall constitute a seperate offence.

Section 10. Any person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this Ordinance shall, upon conviction, be punished within the limits of and as provided by Section 1216 of the Code of Alabama, 1907.

Section 11. The taking out of any of the licenses above enumerated shall not authorize the party obtaining same to engage in any business, occupation, profession or calling on the streets and side walks or either of the town of Clanton Alabama, and it chall be unlawful for any person, company, association or its agents or servants to use the streets, alleys or avenues to engage in, carry on or operate any business profession or calling on same, provided however, the Mayor and council may from time to time grant permits for the use of same, provided said permits shall be uniform and apply to all persons, compaines or corporations alike, and provided futher that the business sought to be so carried on shall notinterfere with or in any wise prevent the free use of the streets and side walks by pedestrians or vehicles and provided futher that the business so carried on shall not be engaged in at any other place than that specified in the permit.

Section 12. Should any section or provision of this ordinance be for any reason held void or invalid, it shall not affect the validity of any other section or provision hereof which is not it self void or invalid.

Read, adopted and approved this the 22nd day of December 1922.

NOTICE OF SALE

Under and by virture of an order of sale made on the 23rd. day of December, 1922, by the Hon. B. K. McMorris, Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama In Equity-I, W. D. Spigener, Register of said Circuit Court, will sell at public outcry, for cash, to the highest bidder, within the legal hours of sale, in front of the Court house door in Clanton, Alabama, on Friday the 5th day of January 1923, the following described personal property, to wit:

One Bristoe Automobile or car numbered 42045, motor number47235. Said sale being for the purpose of satisfying a certain lien upon said automobile mentioned in said decree, cost of suit etc.

Dated and posted on this the 23rd. day of December, 1922.

W. D. Spigener.

Register as aforesaid:

Clyde Williams and wife, of B'ham, visited friends and relatives in Clanton this week.

Bill Higgins and H. G. Heflin, two of Clanton's promising young men, visited friends and relatives at Deatsville last Saturday and Sunday.

Our good friend J. H. Jackson, of Lomax, has been in B'ham for some time working on the model of the engine that he has invented several years since. From the information we have he has an invention that in all probability will net him a neat sum, some day.

W. O. Rich, untill recently a citizen of Clanton, but now residing in the Magic City, was here Sunday and Monday.
